OTTAWA, Ont., March 28 (Canadian Press).— Canadian business has entered the spring season on a high level. Out of nine indicators of conditions which are reported by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics all show that Canadian trade and manufacturing are on a higher level than they were a year ago. In the table which follows the state of the index for the corresponding month last year is taken as one hundred and the latest index for the present year is given as a percentage on that base. The results are:

Employment	105
Pig-iron	127
Steel	177
Bank debits	135
Bank clearings	132
Car loadings	109
Building permits	133
Exports	113

The employment figure is that reported to the Bureau for the first of March. Car loadings are for the mid-week of March. All the other figures reflect conditions during the month of February.

PEER BRINGS PEACE MESSAGE FROM IL DUCE

Lord Rothermere Prints Interview With Mussolini in Daily Mail.

ON FOREIGN COMPLICATIONS

Italy Has Hard Struggle of Economic Development Still Ahead of Her.

LONDON, March 28 (Associated Press).—Peace and no foreign complications is the message which Lord Rothermere brings back from Italy after an interview with Premier Mussolini, and prints in his newspaper, the Daily Mail:

"I need peace," Mussolini told Rothermere. "Italy has a hard struggle of economic development still ahead of her. Foreign complications are the last thing I could afford."

Lord Rothermere's article appears under the heading, "Mussolini today." The writer, who has championed Mussolini ever since the Fascist legions marched into Rome, declares that Mussolini is still much misunderstood abroad. "The war that he seeks to win," says Lord Rothermere, "is not a military one, but economic and industrial." He quotes the Premier as saying that Fascist regime is "unshakeable."

Mussolini informed the London editor that accusations brought abroad of the forcible Italianization in South Tyrol are "totally unfounded." "No distinction whatever," Mussolini is quoted as saying, "is made against the people. They are subject to the same laws as the whole Italian nation. Brenner Pass is a natural geographic frontier, and as such is a guarantee of international peace. The fact that 200,000 Austrians live on the Italian side of this boundary cannot be allowed to impair the security and geographic unity of a nation of over 40,000,000."

"The population problem is still uppermost in Mussolini's mind," continues the article. "So much of Italy's surface is mountainous that the average density of the population is as great as England's, and in alluding to this, Mussolini said: "We are carrying out a formidable scheme of colonization in our North African colonies, involving costly public works, roads, railways and artesian wells. Our ultimate aim is to restore to the North African coast the fertility which made it in the Roman times one of the granaries of the world."

GOOD AYRSHIRE SALES.

J. Gordon Mann and son have made some very successful sales of their Ayrshires during the past few weeks, having sold one bull calf, fifteen months old to William Cahill, Low Station, Quebec, and one eleven months old to C. G. Morrison, of Maxville, Ontario. The mother of this calf was the first prize milk cow at Peterborough Exhibition for two years, and the father is Robin Hood, theri noted show ring and production sire.

Mr. Mann and son have also sold four registeerd cows to a new breeder at Kingston, who has started with a very fine herd.

Are you all run down?

Most bodily breakdowns come from carelessness in eating and drinking, lack of exercise, failure to rest occasionally. Stomach, liver and bowels simply can't keep up their work well. Blood becomes weakened. Illness gets a foothold.

It is good common sense to keep your stomach, liver and bowels in the best shape possible. And Gallagher's Blood Purifier is a great help, you'll find. Prepared entirely from herbs, healthful and healing, it gives just the right kind of assistance to organs. They get back on the job 100% and you feel fit again.

The same tried and true formula which James Gallagher himself worked out, half a century back, is the basis of Gallagher's Blood Purifier. It could not be bettered—at least those who have used it think so. Many people have put their praise on paper. Mrs. A. Trumbull, of Minden, Ont., used the Blood Purifier and the Kidney Remedy together, as is often the case. She writes:

"I had suffered from stomach trouble and bloating for years and got no relief until I used your Blood Purifier and Kidney Remedy. I can't speak too highly of them."

Gallagher's Blood Purifier is a safe and sure remedy for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Stomach Acidity, Loss of Appetite, Liver Trouble, Nervous Prostration, Headache, Pains in the Limbs, General Debility, Costiveness, Rash, Pimples, Boils, Eczema, Coughs or Colds. Just try it. Now sold at drug stores for the first time. Gallagher Remedies, Limited, Peterborough, Ont.

'WHERE IS HEAVEN?' SUBJECT OF TOPIC

Young People of Bethel Church Hear Explanation By Miss Gardiner.

EAST EMILY, March 28.—Miss Eva Gardiner gave the topic of the meeting of the young people of Bethel Church, which was opened by the Rev. Mr. Rowland in the absence of the president, Eugene Switzer read the scriptural reading.

Miss Gardiner took for her topic "What and where is Heaven", telling her audience that Heaven is not reached by a single bound. The punishment and rewards of the future life will be wholly in line with what our character fits us for. A variety of questions are asked about Heaven, Where is it? What do people do there? and do they know each other there? The questions are natural and proper, and yet many indicate a misconception inasmuch as they interpret Heaven in material terms, where Jesus made it supremely spiritual—a part of our character. Not merely a place to go but something to be, a condition of the inner life and that condition is personal. The central part of Heaven is the person and the presence of Jesus. Where He is, there is Heaven.

No doubt it is the prospect of reunion that gives us our deepest interest in Heaven. But does the happiness of Heaven depend on such a re-union? If the fellowship we value so highly here cannot be resumed there, will that detract from the joy of Heaven for us? One can hardly believe that a deserving soul will be deprived of Heaven's full measure of happiness on account of the folly of an undeserving one.

TROUT CREEK IS SUBSIDING

River Still High, With All Dams Wide Open—Roads Washed Out.

FLOOD DAMAGE HEAVY.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 28.—With the water in Trout Creek lowering as the temperature falls, the residents of the flooded areas are able to estimate to some extent the amount of damage their property has suffered. From early yesterday morning the flood has gradually subsided till now the submerged area is only about one quarter the size of that of Monday night. All along the Trent River, the crews on the dams have been busy pulling out stop logs in an effort to keep the water level as near normal as possible.

At the dam on the southern edge of the town, there are fifteen spillways. Three of these are operated by automatic valves and the other twelve by stop logs. Only two stop logs remain in each of eleven of these spillways and in the twelfth, practically all the logs are in. One of the automatic valves is passing a large volume of water and the other two are being held in reserve. The sudden drop in the temperature to well below freezing is welcomed by the canal men, since it will tend to held back some of the water till an appreciable amount of that already in the lakes and streams has had a chance to be drained off.

In the section flooded by Trout Creek, the damage has been considerable to both municipal property and private possessions. The intersection of Inkerman and Palliser streets has been partially carried away by the water. The first fifty feet of Inkerman street east of Palliser has been washed away to the depth of about one foot, beginning with a sudden drop from the concrete crossing from the sidewalk to the bridge and gradually decreasing to normal as the high-water mark is reached. Simpson street between Sebastapol and Jenkins' wood yard has been relieved of most of the road surface. This is a comparatively new street and one much used by vehicular traffic to and from the Canadian National station. A quantity of wood once piled in order on the Jankins' property is now strewn along the edge of the road at the high-water mark and some of it was carried out into the river and lost. Along Inkerman street, west of Palliser, the cement sidewalk is slimy with sediment deposited as the flood water receded and the verandahs and telephone poles along the street are coated with ice left by the high water. Late this afternoon, the water was as low as the floors of the bridges and slowly reverting to normal.

Travellers arriving in town report the railway submerged in some of the low stretches. This report was confirmed later in the day, but it was stated that the water had been lowered. Between Campbellford and Godolphin, the water was well over the rails in places. This was caused by an ice jam in Trout Creeks which was given the prompt attention of the section men. The train service has not been interrupted, but the 9.46 a.m. train eastbound was about twenty minutes late. This was only partially due to the condition of the roadbed after the flood.

The Brighton stage was unable to make its scheduled trip this morning due to the high water in Salt Creek and other streams along the way. Several culverts have been washed out and it is impossible for vehicular traffic to get through to Brighton along the highway. Two men in a sedan were from seven in the evening till two in the morning making the trip Monday night when the water was rising.

Various stories have been going the rounds as to the extent of the damage to this road, and the stage driver has been credited with the statement that Salt Creek Bridge has been washed out. Interviewed last night, Mr. Williams emphatically denied ever having made such a statement and wonders that anyone familiar with this particular structure would give such a remark a second thought. It is of steel and concrete and stands well above the water level. Many years ago, the old wooden structure was washed out when a dam gave way further up the stream, but the present structure still remains intact.

If the weather remains cold for several days, it is the opinion of many of the old timers that there will be absolutely no danger from high water. The present situation was directly due to the heavy rain and extremely mild weather for the few days immediately preceding it. They are of the opinion that once the surface water from the immediate vicinity of the river has been drained off, there will be no trouble taking care of the water from further North.

BLUETT REINSTATED BY LONDON BOARD

E. O. Liebner, Other Teacher Suspended, Will Issue Public Statement To-day.

LONDON, Ont., Mar. 28 (Canadian Press).—E. O. Liebner, local Central Collegiate Institute teacher, on whose behalf the students of that school threatened to strike, stated last night that he will issue a public statement to-day at noon. Yesterday the Board of Education reinstated C. H. Bluett, fellow teacher of Liebner's, on behalf of whom the students had also presented a petition and talked strike, but took no action in the Liebner case.

The report that Principal E. A. Miller, Central Collegiate head and senior Collegiate principal of London, would be asked for his resignation on the grounds that he had favored the students in the recent difference with the Board, was given absolute denial last night by Dr. Bowman, chairman of the Board of Education. "No such thing was ever discussed or contemplated. You may deny the report in its entirety as being untrue," stated the Board of Education head.

RE: GRIFFITH VS. BRECKENBRIDGE.

The Evening Examiner, Peterboro'.

Dear Sirs:

It has just been drawn to my attention, the statement of Mr. F. D. Kerr, K.C., to the press, concerning the outcome of this slander action, and as it is so one-sided, it is only fair to Mr. W. E. Griffith, of Havelock, to correct the omissions so skilfully made by Mr. Kerr.

Supplementing what he said, it might be said, Mr. J. F. Breckenbridge of Belmont, was proceeded against by Mr. Griffith, for stating that he, Mr. Griffith, had in effect stolen a $100.00 check, which was paid by F. F. Fry for the sale of a stone-crusher by the Township of Belmont to him.

Mr. Breckenbridge declined to say in open Court, that he was satisfied that the money for the stonecrusher had reached the Township of Belmont, but after twisting and squirming, he was forced to state under oath, that he was satisfied that the money for this stonecrusher had reached the Township of Belmont, and that he knew it, when he dramatically asked, at a Township nomination meeting, what had become of the Fry check—it does not appear in the statement of receipts of the Township?"

Mr. W. E. Griffith, who is employed by the C.P.R., felt, that he could not permit, whether he won or lost, the innuendos, that he had been guilty of stealing $100.00 from the Township of Belmont, and no matter what the result was, he was forced to obtain the admission from Mr. Breckenbridge, who would not make it, without tacking on to it a string of inferences and innuendos, that Mr. Breckenbridge knew, that there was no truth in such statements.

Mr. Griffith decided, that the reflection upon his reputation should be cured, and whether he won his law-suit or not, the public should know exactly the true facts of the case, and get rid of the suspicion that was created by the insinuation, creating this suspicion.

In addition to that, it was claimed, that Mr. Kerr had charged that Mr. F. Fry and Mr. Griffith were in conspiracy, and that Mr. Fry was the real cause of all the trouble.

The Court of Appeal decided, that there was some ground for this appeal, and Mr. Breckenbridge and his counsel were punished for his conduct in the matter, by being deprived of his costs of appeal. In other words, the Court of Appeal decided, that there was sufficient ground for taking the very unusual course of depriving the successful party of his costs, and compelling him to pay them.

Yours truly,
G. N. GORDON.

OBITUARY

SAMUEL GEORGE WAY

At Toronto General Hospital on March 16 there passed away one who has long been associated with the life of Tweed and the surrounding country in the person of Samuel George Way, owner of the Dominion Foundries and owner of The Tweed Advocate.

The news of his death came as a great shock not only to his immediate friends but to the community at large, for to the casual observer he appeared to be one who had scarcely reached the meridian of life; and in the matter of physical strength was surpassed by very few.

For some time he had felt that his vitality was ebbing but did not admit it to anyone outside his home. Last December, while finishing up his work with his agents for the year, he was taken very ill, but apparently had become quite well again. On March 10 he was taken ill again and his condition became so serious that he was rushed to Toronto General Hospital and operated on immediately. Although peritonitis had set in, strong hopes were held out for his recovery by reason of his strong constitution.

"Sam" as he was known by everyone, was born fifty-one years ago last April 3 in the Potter Settlement and was the second eldest son of the late Edward and Mary Way. When he was very young he moved to Tweed and became apprenticed as a moulder in the foundry of the late William Garret and Sons. In September, 1915, he purchased this foundry and by his untiring efforts made the business prosper. While manufacturing castings his aim was to produce plough points not excelled by those of any other firm ,and he succeeded so well that he has established about three hundred agencies throughout Ontario and Quebec, where Tweed ploughs and plough points can be bought. Five years ago he bought the Tweed Advocate.

He was a member of the Tweed United church and deeply interested in local affairs. He was a great temperance worker and took a great interest in the Horticultural Society and skating rink of the town.

He is survived by his sorrowing wife, who was with him to the end, and a nephew, Harold, who has been to him as a son, for a number of years. He is also survived by five brothers: Louis, of Kingsville; Thomas of Welland; John of Arlington; Joseph of Wooler and Charles of Shawnavon, and three sisters: Mrs. William Jones of Tweed, Mrs. Geo. Penn, Jeresy City and Mrs. E. Wahl of Providence.

The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon, from his late home to the United Church, which was filled with friends. An impressive sermon was preached by his pastor, Rev. W. P. Rogers, taking at his text: "If a man die shall he live again?" from Job xiv:14. He was assisted by Rev. William Johnston. During the service Mrs. Harry Grier sang a solo: "Will there be any stars in my crown?"

In commerce it is the practical test that tells. When stainless steel first appeared on the market the trade was sceptical. One of the big men who were pushing the new product prepared an answer for the doubters. He kept a glass of water and lemon juice on his desk, with a stainless steel and an ordinary knife standing in it. He showed the two knives to visitors, and let the condition of the blades tell the story.

Mine Stocks Ease Down Slightly This Morning

TORONTO, Mar. 28.— (Canadian Press.)—A somewhat easier tendency was shown on the standard mining exchange this morning, though a large proportion of the issues showed little change from yesterday. The weak spots included Vipond, easing back to 80, McIntyre, losing 40 at 26.75, and Laval Quebec, selling down more than three points at 15. Small losses occurred in Teck Hughes at 8.40, Hudson Bay at 16.80, Amulet at 3.55, and Hollinger at 16.95. Pend Creille firmed 20 at 21.70 with Sherritt Gordon improving a point at 725. Malartic was heavily dealt in, reaching a high of 143, but easing back to 138 for a small net gain. Barry Hollinger at 117 and Kirkland Lake Gold at 207 were also slightly higher at the noon close.

Brompton Is Leader On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Mar. 28.— (Canadian Press.)— Uncertainty marked price movements in to-day's session of the Toronto stock exchange, with Brompton the most interesting feature. Brompton climbed past 70 and despite a late recession which took it to 67 at noon, was still five points higher than yesterday. Brazilian firmed more than two at 220 and Massey Harris sold fractionally higher at 41 3-8. International Nickel weakened to 92¼, down 1¾. Most other regulars were steady. In the unlisted section Canada Dredge sold off two at 37 and Walkers eased to 62¼. British Amecrican Oil was steady at 37½, Imperial steady at 62 and International Petroleum only slightly lower at 38 7-8. Carlings and Malting tended easier.

Wheat Prices Touch Record Prices For Year

CHICAGO, March 28. Canadian Press. — Wheat prices jumped more than two cents a bushel to-day in the case of March delivery with July touching a new high price record for the season. Traders who needed wheat to fill contracts expiring with the end of the current month were urgent buyers. Opening 1-8 to 2 1-8c up, wheat later held within the initial range. Corn, oats and provisions were also firmer, corn starting unchanged to 3-8c higher and subsequently advancing all around.

Opening prices were: Wheat, Mar. 142 3-8; May 139 7-8; corn, March 98, May 100; oats, March, 57 5-8; May 57

New York Market Resumes Upswing

NEW YORK, March28 (Canadian Press).—With the technical position of the market obviously improved by yesterday's swift and sweeping reaction, the stock market resumed its upward movement to-day in a much more orderly fashion. The marking up of the call money rate to five per cent, following the renewal rate of 4¾, caused a flurry of selling which carried several of the leaders down two to seven points, but the general list pushed forward with early gains running from two to nearly eleven points.

Total sales had crossed 2,500,000 share mark before one p.m., and the ticker was 24 minutes behind the mark at that time.

Stiffer money rates, coinciding with the calling of about $20,000,000 in bank loans, reflected the heavy demand for funds in connection with quarterly settlements. The weekly steel trade reviewers reported that the heavy steel output was being maintained, but that the trend of prices was no longer upward. Rails assumed increasing prominence in the upswing. Texas and Pacific soared 10¼ points to new high record, at 134¾, and New York Central crossed 180, for the first time in its history. St. Paul Common and Preferred, Rock Island, Reading, and Northern Pacific also reached new high ground.

DISTRICT CHURCHES.

ALL SAINTS', ANGLICAN.

Archdeacon Davidson delivered his lecture, "Our Church Through Eye and Ear," at All Saints' church, on Sunday evening, at the end of a shortened service. "Our Church" was explained and illustrated by a large chart to be the whole Church of Jesus Christ called in the creed "the Holy Catholic Church," in which all expressed their belief in spite of its sorrowful divisions. The lecturer dealt accordingly with "Canadian Christianity" generally. It was an effort to show the differences which had arisen historically, resulting in the lack of outward communion so that the present position and the difficulties might be understood and efforts directed towards rectification.

Meanwhile outward divisions were being bridged by the rapidly increasing spirit of fellowship and brotherhood, and a greater realization of their unity as fellow members of the great family of God in Jesus Christ. The cause of church unity in Canada has received a set back through the difficulties which arose in connection with the recent great movement for Union.

They did not aim at worshipping in exactly the same fashion but it was intolerable that the church of the loving Saviour should continue to divide instead of uniting His followers in some real way.

Different characterizations marked the different communions. The speaker noted some of the outstanding qualities of other communions. He then rapidly enumerated great principles which had been developed in their branch of the Church—the Church of England. It aimed to stand for the doing of one's duty, independent of feeling or religious position. It emphasized reverence, inwardly and outwardly; outward postures expressing and reacting on inward spirit. It stood for a rich liturgical God-centred service of worship, elevating in its nature and truly scientific in the expression of different elements of worship. While God-directed it was a means of learning through and doing, like the kindergarten system.

The Church of England stands also for a broad liberty in spirit like the liberty of British citizenship. It aims to instruct and train the consciences of her people and leave men free to act, trusted by their clergy. It seems to them a glad, praising, wholesome kind of religion but unfortunately it is not fully understood or carried out. They had no reflections of any kind on others but aimed to make a distinctive continuation to the formation of Canadian character. It was an increasing desire also to combine a loyalty to the Church and her teachings, with broad Christian charity of fellowship with other Christians. If the latter part had not been emphasized enough in the past it was for them to put more efforts into stressing it in the future. Some day the "Canadian Church' must be an inspiring reality.

This is Parker Pressureless Touch

This pen's feather-light weight alone is sufficient to start and keep it writing. Scarcely any pressure from your fingers is required—no effort, no fatigue. You simply guide this pen. Until you've written with it, you don't know what a fountain pen can do.

Doubly remarkable because the new Duofold is 28% lighter than when made with rubber, due to Permanite, a new material which is also 100 times as strong as rubber—in fact, Non-Breakable.

But Pressureless Touch is most important because of its effect of taking all the effort out of writing. It clears the track for THINKING as no other feature in a fountain pen has ever done before. In this way it is almost like a new writing invention. Try it at your nearest dealer's before you buy a pen of any other kind.

Five smart colors—Lacquer-red, Lapis Lazuli Blue, Green Jade, Imperial Mandarin Yellow (new) and flashing Black and Gold—all black-tipped. Duofold Pencils to match, $3, $3.50 and $4.

Three sizes—Over-size, the Junior and slender Lady Duofold, each offering six styles of pen points tempered to yield to any hand but proof against distortion from the shape you like.

PETERBOROUGH'S NEWEST INDUSTRY.

It is a matter for local satisfaction that Peterborough has been selected by the Johnson Outboard Motor Company as the site for its Canadian branch.

The coming of this firm, while its operations for the first year will be confined to the establishment of an assembly plant here, gives Peterborough another industry that promises to develop as rapidly as local branches of other United States industries have done.

The Johnson company occupies an enviable position in the field of outboard motor manufacturing, and as there is every reason to feel that this field will rapidly expand, in view of the vogue enjoyed by these motors, the Peterborough plant, which it is expected will eventually manufacture all the machines designed for Canadian sale and for export, should have a rapid and substantial growth.

Peterborough's latest industry adds another to the long list of local manufacturers whose products are nationally advertised, and is doubly welcome on that account, inasmuch as the steadily growing list of American firms which have their Canadian home in Peterborough cannot fail to impress upon other manufacturers about to locate branches in this country that Peterborough is the logical site.

MISS MacPHAIL'S PLAN.

When Premier King, in discussing Miss MacPhail's motion that a Federal department of peace should be named, remarked that instead of one department of the Government being established for that purpose every Government department should have the promotion of peace and international good-will as its aim, Canada's Prime Minister hit the nail squarely on the head.

Miss MacPhail's plan does not commend itself as likely to be of the slightest value in bringing about what she desires.

Entrusting to one department of the Government what should be the aim of all departments, as the Premier pointed out, would be at best a limited and restricted method of seeking international good-will.

There is no more need for a department of peace than there is for Miss MacPhail's fear that war memorials, war pictures, Boy Scouts and cadet training will make a militaristic race out of the Canadian people.

With only an apology for a navy and an army that Hon. Dr. Ralston fittingly described as not much bigger than a decent police force, Canada does not loom up on the map of the world as a fire-eating country with sinister designs upon the world's peace, and cannot get along very well without a peace department.

At that there must be many a stalwart friend of the Government who can see in Miss McPhail's proposal the opportunity for an easy berth.

"LINDY" RETIRES.

"Lindy" is likely to find it more difficult to carry out this program than it was for him to fly the Atlantic.

In less than a year he has become the best known young man in the world, and wherever he goes or whatever he does he will find the hero worshipper on his trail.

If under such circumstances he can dodge the newspaper reporters and evade the attentions of the curious, he will have set up a new claim to fame.

Apparently the famous aviator has no intention of giving up flying; he loves the thrill of the game and will probably continue to use his beloved "Spirit of St Louis."

Countless admirers all over the world would be glad to learn that he had decided to remain on terra firma and thus escape the working out of the law of averages.

Lindbergh is independently wealthy as a result of his air exploits, and there seems to be a general desire to see him avoid risks and enjoy some of the benefits of the riches he has so quickly acquired.

But it is a safe wager that "Lindy" will refuse to follow any such course; he loves flying too well to pay much attention to "safety first" signs.

TOWNSHIP SCHOOL BOARDS.

Mr. Ferguson's township school boards bill has not yet succeeded in securing the popular verdict of public opinion, according to protests from Opposition members when the measure was introduced in the Legislature for second reading.

The Prime Minister has been urging this change in educational government for some years, but has withdrawn his bill in previous sessions, believing that eventually the views of rural Ontario would swing round in support of his plan.

This change of opinion has not yet taken place, in spite of the fact that school inspectors and other leading educationists have unqualifiedly approved of the system as likely to bring about a decided improvement in rural education.

Most of the Opposition members who opposed the passing of the bill were able to find many merits in the proposal, but felt that public opinion was not ready for the change, and there is little doubt that they are right so far as most rural sections of Ontario are concerned.

Despite the weaknesses that exist in the present system, the large number of schools with only a few pupils, the obvious difference between what is offered by rural schools as compared with the advantages available to urban pupils, the waste and inefficiency that are entailed under the plan now followed, the majority of rural residents are still strongly opposed to a change in the system.

THE CANADIAN WINTER.

"Walking along the street one winter morning—freshly-fallen snow crunching under foot—heavenly blue sky smiling above, tangy air nipping tip of nose and tops of cheeks—on the way to our daily work, we wondered what there was in life to grouse about. Happy? Aye, very. Life may hold knocks a-plenty, but it can't take from us the exuberance of a healthy being's enjoyment in a brisk tramp on a beautiful Canadian winter day!"

So exults F. E., a writer in The Canadian Red Cross, and there must be many Canadians who have experienced the same feeling during the altogether delightful winter that this country is now passing through. Life has not been so unpleasant this winter as those who annually migrate to Florida, California, the West Indies or the Riviera to escape its rigors would have the world believe. There has been a noticeable absence of extremes in temperature and, in general, the weather has been such as to fill every Canadian with the joy of living and to cause him to rejoice in the up-and-doing climate that has been given to this country.

There may be some reason for those who are aged and infirm, who are susceptible to chill and rheum, to flee from the Canadian winter as it were a pestilence; but why any red-blooded young Canadian, full of life and spirits, should consider it necessary to follow suit upon the pretence that the winter climate is too much for him is almost beyond comprehension.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

CONDITIONS IN CANADA.

(Bank of Montreal Monthly Bulletin.)

The business situation in Canada is affected in more or less important degree by activities concerned with works of national development, and therefore a review of conditions at the opening of spring may well include a survey of what in the aggregate is an impressive programme of construction in the fields of public utility and industry.

Most significant in this programme is undoubtedly the development of water powers. Undertakings are now well advanced by which an additional 378,000 h.p. will be ready for operation during the first six or seven months of the present year. It is officially reported by the Department of the Interior that water-power development in the initial stages of construction, or about to be commenced, will result in an addition to the Dominion total of more than 2,000,000 h.p., much of which will be in place before the end of 1930, while the capital required for this new work will involve the direct investment of at least $200,000,000, and many times this amount in the application of power to industry and domestic and public use.

Important additions to the port facilities of Montreal, Vancouver, Victoria and Quebec, as well as Halifax and Saint John, are in the making. One million dollars is to be spent in constructing submerged dams below Montreal to increase the depth of the St. Lawrence waterway, and a new elevator will be brought into operation in the port of Montreal during the season, increasing the elevator capacity from 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 bushels.

At Vancouver, port facilities are being brought up to 9,600,000 bushels. At Victoria, a million bushel elevator is to be constructed this year by a terminal company, and at New Westminster a $700,000 Harbour Board elevator and a $2,000,000 cold storage plant are to be erected.

Other works of major importance include continuation of the construction of a new high level vehicular bridge across the St. Lawrence River at Montreal; initial work on extensive new freight and passenger terminals for the Canadian National Railway System in Montreal; initial work on the establishment of a new lake terminal at the foot of Lake Ontario in preparation for the pending completion of the Welland Canal, on which latter there will be an estimated expenditure this year of some $13,750,000; the completion of the Hudson Bay Railway and the equipment of Fort Churchill, on Hudson Bay, as an ocean port; the building of a railway into the Flin Flon mining region of Manitoba; the building of railway hotels in Toronto and Vancouver at a cost of $9,000,000 and, say, $7,500,000 respectively; the continuance of construction of the Toronto Waterfront Viaduct, begun in 1925, which, when completed next year, will have cost approximately $28,500,000; and the building at Hamilton of a $1,000,000 railway station.

In Ontario, the Provincial Government plans to spend $3,300,000 on the construction of new highways; the Quebec Government's estimates include $3,000,000 for expenditure on roads, and each of the other Provinces proposes to improve roads for local use and for the attraction of tourist traffic, now an industry of high importance in the Dominion.

The approach of spring finds business generally in fairly satisfactory condition, both wholesale and retail, and with confidence still prevailing that the immediate future will not be marked by any recession. Price variations continue within narrow limits, and this in itself is helpful to business. There is still a large store of wheat to come forward from the Western Provinces at the opening of navigation, giving a favourable outlook for lake shipping. Car-loadings for the week ending March 10th were slightly less than in the corresponding period a year ago, but the cumulative total this year is still in advance of the movement for similar periods in 1927 and 1926, the gain being due in substantial measure to a larger grain movement since January 1st. The lumber trade cannot be said to have improved in volume. Miscellaneous merchandise has moved in larger quantity.

There were somewhat notable extensions in foreign trade during February, imports rising $11,200,000 and exports $10,000,000, these figures indicating the general satisfactory condition of domestic trade, on the one hand, and the large reserve of deferred shipments of grain, on the other. In the eleven months ending February 28th the total trade of Canada was $43,000,000 greater in value than in the corresponding period of the previous year; it is to be noted, however, that this increase occurred entirely in imports, which rose $68,000,000, while exports fell off $25,000,000. There remains, however, a substantial favourable balance of trade.

The latest return of the Canadian banks indicates no special change in the business situation. Note circulation, which had run up considerably in December, due partly to the activity of the holiday business and partly to the forward movement of grain, was diminished, but at the end of the month was still $1,600,000 more than the year before. Notice deposits continue to increase and were at the end of January $85,000,000 higher than in the corresponding period of 1927, while current loans, known as trade discounts, rose $7,300,000 in a month.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Names of Canadian runners in the cross-continent derby suggest that the melting pot has already been busy in this country.

Anyway the ballot inquiry should serve to cause the removal of obvious flaws in the Election Act.

Two million people are out of work in the United States. Gun men, however, are still busy in Chicago.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, March 28. — From a feeling of comparative certainty that the market for cattle had made a definite upward turn, the trade suddenly makes a slump, and yesterday trading was almost at a standstill. And this, with about 1,200 cattle, left over from Monday's market, in addition to about 800 fresh receipts in yesterday's deliveries. Bidding was anywhere from 25 cents to 50 cents lower, and a feeling abroad that anything might happen, either higher or lower.

While there was so much uncertainty as to what cattle might do, the smaller meats were more steady, Monday's prices being practically unchanged in all classes.

Cattle transactions up to the noon hour were almost nil.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, March 28 (Canadian Press). — There was no improvement in the demand from foreign buyers for Canadian grain here yesterday, and the volume of business accomplished in all lines was small.

The inquiry for cash grain in the domestic market was limited, but the undertone was firm.

The export trade in spring wheat flour was fair and a steady business was done for May-June shipment, but the local demand was quiet. Prices were firm. The movement of winter wheat flour continued small, but values were unchanged.

A firm feeling prevailed in the market for all lines of millfeed owing to the fact that available supplies are still somewhat limited for which there was an active demand. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was moderate and prices were unchanged.

A fairly active business was transacted in fresh eggs and the undertone was firm. The receipts were 4,875 cases.

Owing to an improved demand from local and outside buyers for potatoes a steadier feeling prevailed in the market.

The market for imported beals displayed strength and prices scored an advance of fifteen cents per bushel. This was attributed to the continued good demand and the somewhat limited supplies coming forward. Sales of car lots of choice white handpicked to arrive were made at $3.65 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities at $3.75 per bushel, ex-store.

The butter trade was moderately active, and prices were firmly maintained. The receipts were 247 packages.

The demand for cheese was confined to small lots, but the undertone to the market was steady. The receipts were 536 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 28 (Canadian Press).—Assertions forthcoming that private estimates will show winter wheat to be at a relatively low condition led to a late rally in wheat prices yesterday. Corn also regained most of an early decline, helped by better demand for corn available to be delivered at once.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular ⅝c net lower to ½c advance, with corn ½c to ⅝c off, oats a shade to ½c down, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 12 cents.

Monthly unofficial crop reports due early next week received the bulk of attention from wheat traders yesterday during the late dealings. It was current gossip that these reports would have a bullish aspect, and there was considerable buying based on this circumstance. Largely as a result, the market finished higher for all deliveries except May. Earlier, however, prices most of the time were lower, influenced by weakness of the Liverpool quotations and by slackness of export demand for wheat from North America, as well as by a forecast of showers over domestic winter wheat territory.

March delivery of wheat displayed comparative strength throughout the day. This was ascribed to efforts to even up accounts on the part of the traders who were short of wheat to fill contracts that expire before April 1. Meanwhile receipts of 147 carloads of wheat in Chicago yesterday were generally regarded as evidence that grain from other markets are being brough here for delivery prior to the month end. There was some talk, too, of possibility that the United States wheat visible supply total on Monday would show an increase. On the other hand, a decrease of 2,442,000 bushels in the world's available stock was announced.

Better weather for the movement of corn had a decided bearish effect on the corn market early, but was partly counterbalanced later by wheat strength. North American available supplies of corn decreased 1,398,000 bushels for the week, and are 47,173,000 bushels against 51,213,000 bushels a year ago. Oats prices followed mainly the action of corn.

TRENT RIVER, March 28.—The snow is nearly gone, the rain on Sunday clearing up the ice on the roads. The road to Havelock is not in shape for automobiles, some cutters and buggies were seen making the trip on Sunday, although water covers the road in many places, the pond in the park having overflowed.

Trappers are busy placing the traps, there is still a thick ice at the shores.

GOD'S MINUTE

Let those that seek Thee rejoice and be glad in Thee.—Ps. 70: 4.

Our Father in Heaven: We come to Thee with our deepest gratitude and love. Thou hast been a kind Father and a faithful Friend. We thank Thee for daily provision, for care and guidance and help in business affairs and in our home, for those "common mercies" which come to us so regularly that we get to receiving them thoughtlessly and we forget who gives them to us. Most of all, we thank Thee that Thou dost love us, that Thy pity and compassion are never withheld from us, that this day and every day Thy "goodness flows around our incompleteness, round our restlessness Thy rest." In Thy mercy forgive us. We are so weak and sin so easily that we must daily cast ourselves upon Thy strength and daily renew our prayer for pardon. Make us strong to resist sin and to overcome every temptation. All through this day may we be true to all that is pure and holy and Christ-like. May Thy Kingdom come! Cheer our hearts with new displays of Thy saving power, with signs and wonders as of old time, with new miracles of conversion and sanctification. We long to see Christ recognized and honored by men and by society. Heal our friends who are sick. Comfort all who are in sorrow. Where heavy burdens are to be borne, give the courage and strength to bear them. And keep us all in the love of Jesus, and in conscious fellowship with Thee. Through Christ, our Lord. Amen.

NURSING CLASS IS SUCCESSFUL

SOCIAL MARKS CLOSE.

The Seymour West Woman's Institute held a cource in home nursing and first aid from March 12 to 23, at the home of the president, Mrs. Thomas Dunham. The course was under the leadership of Mrs. Lowe of the Department of Agriculture. The average attendance was 34.

Mrs. Lowe took a very keen interest in every member and was especially interested in the babies. She had made a special study of the care of mother and child and the feeding of children. Many young mothers took advantage of the great opportunity of hearing her and the results cannot be estimated.

Mrs. Lowe has had a wide experience in nursing and was very enthusiastic about her work. The members of the class felt that it was a privilege to be able to attend. Her work will continue to bear fruit in the home life of this community.

The class held a social afternoon on Friday and a dainty lunch was served. Mrs. Dunham was presented with a wicker jardeniere stand in recognition of her kindness in loaning her home. Mr. Dunham, who had made a very attentive host, was given a pair of gloves. Miss Dunham, who was untiring as a nurse for the younger children, was given a pair of slippers. Mrs. Robert McCulloch's services as president during 1926-27, was remembered by the gift of a handsome linen tablecloth.. As a slight recognition of the deep interest Mrs Lowe took in the work the class presented her with a box of linen stationery.

Mrs. Lowe in reply, said that she was thankful for the gift but the keen interest taken in the class and the large attendance were the highest compliments that could have been paid her.

Mrs. Charles Macoun, secretary-treasurer of the Women's Institutes for Ontario, spoke for a few moments and attributed the success of the course not to the subject matter but to the personality of the teacher, Mrs. Lowe. She is hoping that the Institute may have a more advanced course in nursing later on, and have Mrs. Lowe again present.

Mrs. Macoun was the first president of Seymour West Women's Institute, which was founded about 20 years ago and has been doing excellent work ever since.

SMITH FAMILY RECEIVES GIFTS

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Steinkrauss and Daughter Are Moving Into Peterborough.

DEPARTURE REGRETTED.

About eighty friends of Mr. and Mrs. William Steinkrauss gathered last night to bid them farewell before they left to take up their new residence in Peterborough. Having lived in the community for twenty-two years, they made many friends who will feel keenly the loss in the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Steinkrauss from their midst. Their sterling qualities and hospitable nature endeared them to everyone with whom they came in contact. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Steinkrauss and daughter Violet were presented with a console table, a piano lamp and a fernery. Mrs. T. McIvor and Miss Edith Tully made the presentation, while the following address was read by J. A. Middleton, after which everyone joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. Steinkrauss and Violet:

"The ever changing tide of time is about to remove from our immediate neighborhood, you have been for many years our cherished friends and kind neighbors.

"During the many years you have spent in our midst, you have by your unselfish interest in everyone and everything, endeared yourself to each one of us.

"To the people of the community your home has ever been a safe harbor where they are confident they would receive a cheerful word and a helping hand to assist them to weather the storms of life.

"It was with feelings of deep grief that we learned of your intention to leave this section, but we rjoice to know that you are not going very far, and that we may still have the opportunity of continuing our friendship.

"We regret, however, that you are moving even as far as Peterborough. As a slight token of esteem in which you are so warmly held, we ask you to accept these gifts.

"May they ever remind you of our deep regard for you and may they help for many years to bring pleasure and happiness in your new home.

"Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors."

Mr. Steinkrauss, on behalf of his wife and daughter, replied, expressing his appreciation for the gifts and for kindness shown them during their residence in Smith. J. H. Fowler and C. J. Hancock also spoke of the high regard in which Mr. and Mrs. Steinkrauss and family were held and expressing regret at their departure.

The remainder of the evening was spent in cards and dancing, after which refreshments were served.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 28 (Canadian Press). — The police revealed yesterday that a Canadian, William Lindgren, of Admiral, Sask., handicapped by an artificial leg, on Sunday night gave two attempted hold-up men a trimming and saved several hundred dollars which he was carrying to pay for a long vacation in Southern California.

Dunning, Minister of Railsays, said the Canadian National Railway management was doing all it could to provide work for Nova Scotia miners. Nova Scotia coal was now being used as far west as Cochrane, Ontario. The Minister of Mines he said, was now working on plans for test movements of Nova Scotia coal to Central Canada.

IN POLICE COURT

CAMPBELLFORD, March 28. — Magistrate Payne fined a young lady one dollar, and costs, for assaulting her aunt. The offence took place about two weeks ago and was placed before the local magistrate for settlement in the Police Court yesterday. After hearing the evidence of the plaintiff and the defendant and two witnesses for the defence, Magistrate Payne fined the defendant one dollar, and costs. Rather than give the affair the publicity which it would receive in a higher court of appeal, the defence elected to pay the fine and consider the matter closed. D. J. Lynch appeared for the defence. The plaintiff elected to plead her own case.

Revisions Involve Considerable Changes

LONDON, March 28 (Canadian Press Cable).—Replying to a question in the House of Commons yesterday as to how far revisions of the tariff now before the Canadian House of Commons are likely to benefit British trade, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, president of the Board of Trade, said that the revisions involved considerable changes in classification and so it was difficult to give an exact comparison with the former tariff. There were certain reductions in duty, he said, and a maintenance, and in some cases an increase, of the British preference.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, March 28. — Dr. and Mrs. H. O. Richardson left yesterday to attend the funeral of Dr. Richardson's brother, George Edward, to be held in the United Church, Queensville, Ont., on Wednesday afternoon. The late Mr. Richardson was in his fifty-seventh year.

The fire alarm which was turned in about one-thirty yesterday afternoon was the result of a chimney fire at the corner of Market and Ranney Streets, Ward One.

As far as can be learned, the only damage done by the lightning on Monday night was to put a transformer on the Grand Road temporarily out of commission.

The employees of the former J. C. Turnbull Company's store presented Mr. H. E. Hodgens, recent manager of the store, with a handsome gold watch and chain, accompanied by an address signed by every member of the staff, and reading as follows: "Our Esteemed Chief: It is with extreme regret to your former staff that our years of pleasant association have been severed, and every employee who for a long or short time was subject to your kindly instructions will treasure the time as a pleasant recollection through life. Your patience with our shortcomings, moderation in what you expected or us, and unchangeable kindness, endeared you to every member of the establishment—a relationship that absence will never erase. We cannot allow you to break your connection with us without some slight acknowledgment in the form of a keepsake which we hope you will accept as simply a reminder of the old days together, rather than a thing of special value. We ask you to accept this small gift as a bearer of our parting goodwill, and sincere wishes for prosperity in whatever undertaking you decide to engage."

MAGISTRATE SEVERE WITH BOOKMAKERS

Sharp Exchange With Lawyer Results in Hamilton Court.

HAMILTON, Mar. 28.— In police court yesterday Magistrate Jeffs intimated that it was his intention to deal severely at all times with persons found guilty of bookmaking. This declaration came during a rather sharp exchange between the Magistrate and Orville Walsh, defence counsel in the case of Jay Lehman, charged with operating a handbook. Lehman was sentenced to four months in jail and fined $200 or an additional two months.

"Is not your Worship rather severe in this case?" Mr. Walsh asked when bail had been refused pending an appeal.

"I am going to be severe with these bookmakers," the Magistrate replied. "Thy have been the ruination of many families. The evidence against this man is so clear that I am surprised that you defend him."

His Worship declared that if he were practicing law he would not defend bookmakers, especially if he thought they were guilty. Mr. Walsh retorted that lawyers were appointed Judges to defend murderers even when they pleaded guilty, and reminded the court of the lawyer's oath.

"Perhaps that is because they have so little faith in juries," said the Magistrate.

"Thank Heaven we have juries," retorted Mr. Walsh, rather heatedly, as he gathered up his papers and left the court.

ARMY OF WORKLESS EXERCISES SENATE

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 28.— A sharp debate arose in the Senate yesterday over the unemployment situation. Some heroic remedies were suggested, including a temporary embargo upon imports and the construction by the Government of a second inter-oceanic canal.

The debate was precipitated by Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, who quoted the recent report of the United States Labor Department in support of his statement that only 1,800,000 were out of employment. Some of this unemployment was voluntary and part of it seasonal, and the balance was due to ever-increasing use of labor-saving devices. The dial, he said, had been so perfected that 20,000 telephone girls would be out of jobs in New York City alone. He had recently seen a newly installed machine which could be operated by two women, and it supplanted a machine that a year ago had required twelve men to operate. This economic evolution, he said, could not be checked by legislation, but other industries would rise to give employment.

Figures Challenged.

Senator Wagner (Democrat, New York), who recently declared that 4,000,000 people were out of work, challenged the accuracy of the Labor Department's report and insisted that 4,000,000 was a conservative estimate. He was supported by Senator Simmons (Democrat, North Carolina), who said 75,000 people were unemployed in his State. If the same proportion of unemployment prevailed throughout the country it would bring the total above 4,000,000. Senator Walsh (Democrat, Massachusetts) observed that any Senator could easily learn the true situation by consulting the retail merchants of his home town.

Ship Canal Urged.

Senator Shortridge (Republican, California) suggested that there would be more employment for American labor if a temporary embargo were placed against the importation of all goods from foreign countries that could be manufactured in the United States. Senator McKellar (Democrat, Tennessee) urged the speedy construction through Nicaragua of the ship canal already authorized by treaty, which would connect the Caribbean Sea with the Pacific Ocean. He introduced a bill authorizing a bond issue of $200,000,000 to be expended by the President in constructing the canal.

"Just the thing", said Doctor

THIS baby is being brought up on a plain, sensible kind of rule.

"Go ahead and use Nujol", said the doctor. "It's just the thing for the baby. Harmless. Safe. Contains no drugs or medicine. It's the most natural way in the world to keep everything normal. For Nujol not only prevents any excess of body poisons (we all have them) from forming, but also aids in their removal".

Why don't you try Nujol in your household? Nujol can't do anyone — baby or grown-up — the least bit of harm. And so many people have found it beneficial. Be sure you get the genuine.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE BIRDS OF LIFE

If not a sparrow perish
But He cares,
Then how men ought to cherish
Birds of theirs!
I do not mean the swallow
Or the wren,
But all the joys that follow
After men.

There is the bird of laughter,
Bird of love,
The birds that follow after Birds above,
There is the robin singing
In the tree,
There is the song upspringing
In you and me.

If it is wrong to sadden
Birdies that sing,
What of the thoughts that gladden
Everything?
Who meets a smile with sneering,
Love with hate,
Some day shall stand with fearing
At God's gate.

The system adopted is by means of stamps which are attached to cards until the equivalent of $5 is reached, the cards then being exchanged for savings certificates.

DRESS
By MARY MARSHALL

We usually take it for granted that a ribbon shall be of silk. And when you hear the word "ribbon" you doubtless bring to mind a more or less narrow strip of satin, taffeta or grosgrain ribbon. You may possibly think of velvet ribbon or even of chiffon. But the chances are that you do not think of cotton or of woolen. The ribbon-like length of cotton you would be inclined to call tape, and the same sort of thing in woolen material you would perhaps call wide braid.

But now there really are woolen ribbons made usually in two tones with simple design. They are designed to be used as trimming with sports frocks. Sometimes silk ribbons are also used on sports frocks. The sketch shows such an arrangement of brown grosgrain ribbon on beige wool jersey. The first casual impression is that the trimming is heavy silk embroidery.

Interesting handbags may be made from short lengths of wide ribbon such as may often be bought as remnants. These ribbons may be fitted into metal or celluloid bag tops or may be finished with slot hem and draw strings.

There is quite a fad now for neckties made from heavy ribbons, and these are worn not only by women but by men as well. Within a week or so we shall have ready for you a diagram pattern for these neckties. It's really lots of fun to make them and the cost of the ribbon needed is considerably less than the price of a necktie of the same quality.

And speaking of lingerie—I never knew a time when washable crepe de chine was so widely used for all sorts of underthings as it is at present. Ninon and georgette for step-ins is not so popular as it was once, because it cannot possibly wear so well as the more substantial crepe de chine.

Crepe de chine nightgowns though they do seem a bit extravagant wear so well and are so easily laundered that the additional cost for the material does not seem so great. It is often possible to buy washable crepe de chine at a special price. Flesh color and light pink is still the prime favorite, though green is becoming extremely popular for all sorts of lingerie, and light blue is used by some of the exclusive lingerie makers.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

THURSDAY, MARCH 29, 1928.

Astrologers read this as an uncertain day in which there is a suggestion of the dominance of thwarting or disappointing aspects.

There is a sign of fair promise for those who start ocean voyages and again the seers predict an amazing volume of travel in Europe.

Oil continues to be a topic of discussion all through the summer, for there is a sign indicating hidden motives and submerged policies that are of wide interest.

All speculation will be hazardous to a high degree while this rule of the stars prevails.

The seers declare that democratic principles must decline everywhere under the effects of the conjunctions and eclipses of 1928.

It is prophesied that a sense of the value of force will be strong and that dictators will increase in number.

New leaders are to rise everywhere and they will arouse the people of the world to sensational efforts, astrologers foretell.

There is a forbidding rule for the signing of leases or contracts. Those who write letters should be cautious.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be particularly careful about lending money in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will be high-strung and sensitive. The subjects of this sign make talented actors or orators.

MAROONS AND RANGERS WIN FIRST GAMES

MAROONS WIN BY ONE GOAL

AT OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 28. — Ottawa Senators face a one-goal deficit for the return game against the Maroons in Montreal. In a typical Ottawa-Maroon game last night the plugging team from the metropolis secured the only goal of the contest in the second period of the game off the stick of the lightly regarded Joe Lamb, who swiped the puck into the net from a scramble in front of the twine.

Maroons were in arrears in manpower at the time as Munro had been given a ticket for boarding Nighbor. Philips rushed and his shot came from the backboards and Lamb, who was cruising about, managed to get his stick on it and his back-hander went into the net.

Usually one goal is sufficient when these two teams meet, and it was enough on this occasion. More than eight thousand fans pleaded and exhorted the Senators to break through the double-decked Maroon defence, but though Ottawa tried valiantly and showed variety and resource to their attack, they could not pierce the Maroon cordon. They threatened at times with turbulent rushes; they heaved long, accurate drives goalward and they barged through relentlessly, but always Maroons managed to stave off a sustained attack, and when Senators did break through Benedict proved invulnerable.

One Alex. Smith whirled through in the second period and shot a hard drive to the backboards. His rebound came back for a perfect carom and he shot it low, but Benedict went down and saved the day. Neither side had many chances to convert breaks to account. Connell thwarted Ward on a similar play after the latter had beaten the defence and only had to lift the puck into the net.

RANGERS EARN FOUR GOAL LEAD

BADLY OUTPLAYED.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, March 28.—The New York Rangers virtually qualified to meet the Boston Bruins in the final of the American group of the National Hockey League here last night, when they routed the Pittsburgh Pirates by the score of 4 goals to 0. The second game of the series, which will be decided by total goals, will be played here on Thursday night, but on last night's play, the Pirates are not conceded much chance of overcoming the Rangers' lead.

The Pirates met the Rangers last night when the local sextette was playing at the peak of its form. Both the regular and substitute forward lines kept up a constant bombardment on Roy Worters, who justified his choice as all-star goalie by giving a spectacular display behind a defence which offered slight resistance to the Rangers' speedy attacks. The Rangers' defence, too, was at its best and the Pirates, giving a listless performance in contrast to their usual fast and well combined assaults, seldom threatened.

Frank Boucher opened the scoring. Bunny Cook netted a pass from his brother Bill for the second, and Alex. Gray pushed in a pass from Murray Murdock before the first period ended. Ching Johnson ended the scoring early in the second period when he drove Boucher's pass from right wing past Worters.

Boucher was the outstanding player on the Ranger team. The Ranger centre was the spearhead of most of the three-man rushes, and on the defence he poke-checked numerous Pirate rushes back behind their own blue line.

Most of the Pirate assaults which carried any punch at all were made by Pirate defence men, Martin Burke, Jack McKinnon and Roger Smith, making frequent solo dashes which troubled Lorne Chabot, the Ranger goalie.

DEMPSEY EAGER TO MEET GENE

Ex-Cham Insists on Share Equal to Incumbent's Guarantee.

HALF OF NET.

NEW YORK, March 28.—This bureau's scandal department was on the telephone. The poor fellow was breathless with excitement.

"I've dug up something real good," he gasped. "There's nothing the matter with Dempsey's eyes!"

"Yeah?"

"'Sfact. It's his ears!"

"Well, go on."

"'Sfact. Rickard offered him a guarantee of $250,000 to fight Tunney and Jack couldn't hear him. That's what all the trouble's about."

Furthermore, he went on to say, Dempsey notified Rickard that he wanted the same amount of money that Tunney gets, and not a cent less. Tunney refused to take a cut, and Rickard cannot afford to give 100 per cent. for the match. Rickard wants Dempsey, but Tunney wants his fifty per cent.

Talks to Syndicate.

No sooner had he switched off than our political observer came on the wire. He was loaded up with another angle on Dempsey.

It appears that Dempsey is a newspaper author, among other things, and his clients are beginning to fidget. They want to know about this retirement thing. They feel they have a right to know, and they are growing insistent.

Finally, they asked him to say yes or no. The great man was told he would have to tell them the truth, one way or the other.

That's the same Dempsey who says in public print that he is sick and tired of fighting, that he has bad eyes, and that he has all the money he needs.

Problem is one of Money.

He doesn't sound so emphatic behind the scenes does he?

Anyway you can take a ticket that our Scandal Department has sized up the situation quite shrewdly. The big trouble between Dempsey and the boxing business is the money. He feels he was robbed of a knockout last year and it's like rubbing salt on a raw wound to offer him less than Tunney.

Rickard sympathizes with Dempsey but Tex is helpless. Tunney is envious of Dempsey's popularity and is determined to keep Jack in his place. Dempsey is the last man to whom Gene would make concessions. Gene would rather lose money than be placed in the position of publicly recognizing Dempsey as a necessary part of a title match.

Order due this Week.

Some order may come out of the chaos this week. Pressure is being applied to force a match between Tom Heeney and Johnny Risko. The Clevelander has accepted, but Heeney's advisors are holding out for a Tunney match or nothing.

They may get nothing, as Rickard and Jess McMahon are stanchly supporting Risko. They may wind up by throwing Paulino against Risko, with the winner to get Tunney.

Dempsey has promised to start for New York on Thursday. Suppose he walks in and announces that he is willing to fight Heeney or Risko or some other promoter? How much would a Tunney fight be worth if it had to compete with a Dempsey fight?

"After all it looks as if Tunney must have Dempsey, while Dempsey's opponent is a matter of no great consequence. All Jack needs is an arena with a million dollar capacity.

Teams Representing Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. Face Heavy Going Against Invaders.

The stage is all set for the Peterborough "Y" vs. Lindsay Monarch club basketball games, to be played here to-night on the Y.M.C.A. floor. It promises to be one of the best bills presented locally for some time past and interest in it has grown accordingly.

The first game between the Monarch club girls and a team representing the local Y.W.C.A. will get under way at 7.45 sharp with Scotty McLeish on the whistle—which insures plenty of basketball with no time lost. When the same teams met in Lindsay a week or so ago the Petes came out on top because their opponents were playing boys' rules for the first time but since that, the Lindsay girls have been practicing faithfully and promise to put up a much better argument to-night.

As for the boys' game, there is every indication that the stiff tussle in Scugog town will be duplicated. A nine-point margin—slim enough—gave the Petes their victory up there but it was not until the final ten minutes that they showed much superiority so that the result of to-night's clash is far from being predetermined. Don't forget—7.45 p.m.

Star Centre Player of Canadiens Wins Hart Trophy For Valuable Play

MONTREAL, Que., March 28.—Howie Morenz, centre player of the Canadiens, will hold the Hart Trophy for the next twelve months. He was voted the most valuable player to a team in the National Hockey league by a committee of hockey writers representing each city on the major professional circuit. Out of a possible 140 votes, Morenz received 123.

Thus the Hart trophy, donated by the late Dr. David A. Hart, father of the manager of the Canadiens, will remain with the club for the second consecutive year, the trophy having been won last season by Herb. Gardiner, defenceman of the local team.

Second to Morenz came Captain Roy Worters, goalkeeper of the Pittsburgh Pirates, with 82 votes. Eddie Shore, Boston defenceman, was credited with 76 votes. Others were: George Hay, Detroit, 73; Ching Johnson, N.Y. Rangers, 31, and Frank Nighbor, Ottawa, 28.

It was also announced from the National Hockey League headquarters that Frank Boucher of the New York Rangers had been voted the Lady Byng trophy, donated by Lady Byng four years ago to be awarded to the N.H.L. player who best combined effectiveness with sportsmanship. The vote for the Lady Byng trophy was closer than that for the Hart trophy. Boucher polled: 98 votes. George Hay of Detroit, was second with 81. Other totals were: Frank Nighbor, Ottawa, a former holder of the trophy, 61; "Speedy" Oliver, Boston, 59; Normie Himes, New York Americans, 57; and Herb Gardiner, Canadiens, 50.

TEX REJECTS OVERTURES.

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, March 28. — Although designed to force an early choice of Gene Tunney's next challenger, the New York State Athletic Commission yesterday delivered an ultimatum to the heavyweight champion and Tex Rickard that apparently scrambles the fistic situation more thoroughly than the promoter's elimination tournaments ever did.

The fistic fathers after solemn deliberation, announced that Tunney must accept the defis of Jack Sharkey, Tom Heeney and Johnny Risko singly or in toto, by next Tuesday, or suffer the equivalent of indefinite suspension in this state.

Instead of accomplishing its conciliatory aim, the commission's action aroused Tex Rickard, in Miami Beach, to bristling response and apparently paved the way for another war of words. The promoter lost no time in rejecting the commission's overtures and emphasized the contention that it was for him—not Tunney or the commission—to decide the champions next foe.

The commission's move followed Tunney's failure to definitely name an opponent when requested by the board at the expiration of the six months' rest allowed a champion between title defences.

Adding to the mounting troubles of Rickard and Tunney who have been suspected of delaying the game in the hope that Jack Dempsey would make his anual comeback, the commission waived the old Manassa Mauler right out of possible consideration.

Although strenuous efforts are under way to bring together Tom Heeney and Johnny Risko, elimination finalists, in a June match to determine a challenger the bout is being held up by the New Zealander's demand that he receive a written guarantee of a Tunney match in the event that he wins. This has not been forthcoming and adds weight to the opinion that Rickard still has hopes of a second Dempsey comeback. The word is out that the only thing wrong with the former champion's eyes is his inability to "see" the figures in the offer Rickard has made him.

In the consensus of the experts the stand of the commission may force the annual heavyweight classic from New York for the third straight year.

GENE TUNNEY WOULD LIKE TO FIGHT HEENEY

Champion's Choice as Opponent For Titular Scrap in July.

ELIMINATIONS NOT OVER.

Heeney Must Perform One More Feat Before Match Given Him.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Tom Heeney is Gene Tunney's choice as an opponent for the titular scrap in July. Tex Rickard, being the payoff man, has something to say about the matter, and if one is to judge by the activity of Jess McMahon, who is listed as the matchmaker of Rickard's swat emporium, Heeney must perform one more feat before the match is tendered to him.

McMahon is working on Heeney's manager, Charley Harvey. Prior to the signing of the Heeney-Delaney and Sharkey-Risko bout, it was understood the winners would come together in a 15-round scrap. This would definitely establish Tunney's next opponent without any more ado.

Heeney, or his manager, balks at the idea of further eleminations. Pointing to a win over Johnny Risko in Detroit Harvey says this is convincing proof that his man is the logical contender. But this does not work in with the popular conception of the fans who after all must be satisfied.

Heeney has a loss against Paolino and a draw with the same Basque in a subsequent bout. Although the writer thinks that Heeney won both the scraps it must be admitted that Risko made a far better showing against the Spanish woodchopper than did Heeney. This sort of gives the edge to Risko, more so since Cleveland John trounced Jack Sharkey and the New Zealander could do no better than hold Sharkey even.

Rickard could put an end to all this talk by announcing his choice of either man. But Tex wants another heavyweight contest, especially in the open air. One billed as the final elimination with the winner definitely chosen to meet the champion, would fill any ball park. This in a measure would guarantee Rickard against a loss should the heavyweight muss fail to draw up to expectations.

Risko is ready to fight any one. That is his business and so far he has done everything asked of him. Why Heeney should balk with so much at stake is annoying to Rickard and his matchmaker.

AT THE REGENT.

"THE ROUGH RIDERS" ONE OF THE SCREEN'S FINEST

In the years that have followed the charge of Roosevelt's Rough Riders under a withering fire up San Juan Hill the valor of that broken line of men has been precious to the hearts of all men, women and children. Every one should see "The Rough Riders" at the Regent Theatre for the glory of this one scene alone which Paramount has reproduced so vividly.

On an elevation is a red-tiled ranch-house, now known as Kettle Hill, and from it comes blast after blast of iron death. A simple thing, after all, to the decisive mind of T.R. His men are maligned in a jungle area. Before them is an open basin and up on the crest a hut with a straight trench in front of it.

Roosevelt swings his hat and gives the order to charge. His pony, Texas, leaps forward. Behind him comes a cheering line of steel-jawed fighters, their faces streaked with dirt. He waves his sword and the flash is a beacon of courage. Mauser bullets whine through the tall grass, stinging like deadly darts.

"Come on, boys!" says Roosevelt and his men charge across a wide valley to the farther hill of San Juan. Bullets sing around them, over them—often, through them. On they go, on to another row of hills overlooking Santiago, unheeding the enemy's merciless fire. It takes a severe order to stop them from following the foe clear into the fortified city.

A wave of adulation for Roosevelt sweeps over the United States the next day when press and public herald his victorious feat.

B. P. Schulberg, associate Paramount producer, supervised this production. The original story was written by Hermann Hagerdorn, Roosevelt's biographer and secretary of the Roosevelt Memorial Association.

"THE LAST COMMAND"

Emil Jannings, the Screen Newest Sensation, Will Be the Feature Attraction at the Capitol, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, in His Latest Production, "The Last Command."

Emil Jannings' latest American-made picture, "The Last Command," comes to the Capitol, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with the great European actor surrounded by most imposing supporting cast assembled for any of this season's pictures.

Evelyn Brent, the heroine of "Underworld," Paramount melodrama sensation, is cast as Jannings' leading woman, while William Powell, arch-villain of the screen is seen as a scheming and sinister revolutionist in a role that gives him unusual scope for his admitted ability.

The picture is said to be distinguished by not only the remarkable performance of Jannings, as a Russian general who is caught in the vortex of revolution and swept to oblivion ,but by the outstanding story and directorial treatment of Josef von Sternberg, the young director whose dramatic touches and camera effects in "Underworld" established him as one of the screen's elect.

Playing the role of Jannings' adjutant is Nicholas Soussanin, the Russian actor, who leaped into front-rank popularity by his performance as "the waiter who wept," in the Adolphe Menjou picture "Service For Ladies." The cast also includes Michael Visaroff, another ex-actor of the imperial theatres of Russia, who plays Jannings' valet, and Fritz Feld, one time director for Max Reinhardt in Berlin, who came to America in the cast of "The Miracle."

PORTEAU HOSPITAL GIFT OF GRATITUDE

Visitor Left Behind All Winter Enjoyed Hospitality of People.

The first $1,000, given toward Porteau Cottage hospital was donated by an American, over twenty years ago, who had spent the summer exploring in that country and got left behind when the last steamer sailed. In recognition of the hospitality and great kindness received during that winter with the fisherfolk, the gift was made. It has proved an important link in Grenfell activities. For about fifteen years Sister Florence Bailey, an English nuurse, was in charge. During her long term the building was enlarged, a sun-porch added, also many improvements. At present two Canadians are there, Nurse Ferris and Mrs. F. V. Wedderburn, both from Saint John, N.B. Nurse Ferris is a good sport and can make long dog-team trips with the best of them. Porteau is situated at the bottom of a bay five miles deep, which gets the tidal rush of waters through the Sts. The big Dominion light-house and fog horn, in charge of Mr. Jeff Wyatt, from Montreal, is situated on Pt. d'Amour, just five miles from Porteau Cottage, considered he most wicked point on the entire North Shore, in fact before the light was placed there it was known at Pt. au Mort, or death point.

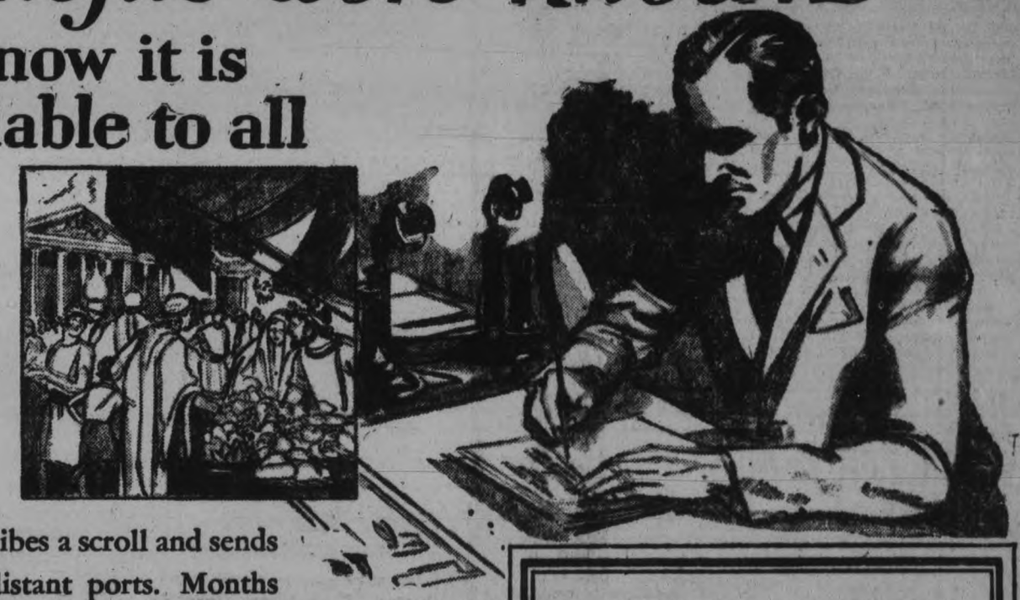
QUEEN IN GREECE.

ATHENS, March 28 (Canadian Press). — Queen Marie of Rumania and Princess Ileana arrived at the Piraeus to-day en route to Cyprus.

Down through the ages its benefits were known ... and now it is available to all



GREECE — Alexander the Great sweeping the world with his mighty armies . . .

A merchant sits in his stall . . . leisurely he inscribes a scroll and sends it by sailing vessel to distant ports. Months later . . . a lazy, gossipy reply. Things moved slowly in those days . . . food was well-digested during siesta . . . restfulness in the air . . . everywhere. Constipation was seldom his portion . . . and if it did come, already wise physicians who had studied under Hippocrates knew the corrective values of Yeast.

Today . . . the busy merchant . . . typewriters clicking, letters that fly by train . . . telegraphs that tick replies . . . long distance telephones. Answers in minutes and hours that formerly took weeks and months . . . brains speeding like lightning, nerves taut as wires . . . hastily chosen foods, as hastily swallowed . . . minds and bodies paying a terrific price for terrific pace. . . .

No wonder people are tired . . . the strain . . . never perfectly well because life has become so hurried. Nervousness . . . neglect . . . constipation become chronic, bringing fag . . . dejection.

The permanent natural relief must come through diet. Health can be safeguarded by adding to our diet a food which corrects the ill effects of modern habits of living and eating. Such a food is Fleischmann's Yeast.

Once the tonic of a few, Yeast has become the health food of hundreds of thousands of bright, alert Canadians.

They have recognized that modern times tax energies to the breaking point . . . that the need of more vitality is an everyday occurrence.

And they have found in their daily diet of Fleischmann's Yeast a food that means just that to them . . . more vitality, better health . . . and greater enjoyment of life itself.

Dietitians recommend this health food for folks below normal. For Yeast corrects chronic constipation—source of most of our common ailments, with its attendant evils, indigestion, skin disorders, and run-down conditions.

Regular diet of Yeast "trains" the muscles of elimination by giving them regular, natural exercise. Impurities are gotten rid of; digestion toned; blood purified.

Health is restored to men and women long suffering. Vigor blooms again; bodies gain strength. Eyes sparkle with joy of living.

No medicine or tonic can tone the system as perfectly as this food can. It is Nature's way.

More than 150,000 letters from grateful users tell of what Yeast has done for them.

Just ask yourself:

Do I feel "a burden" dragging me down as I go at my day's work?

Does my face show blotchy complexion? Pimples? Boils?

Do I suffer stomach trouble? Heartburn? Lack of appetite? Unpleasant breath?

Do my eyes look dull? My limbs hang loosely? My feet drag? My shoulders bend over?

If you feel this way, you—like thousands of others—suffer the commonest malady of the Twentieth Century; chronic constipation. Your vitality is ebbing!

Because these "symptoms" tell the tale of impurities in the system, of poisons pervading the intestinal tract. They need your attention!

Relief will not come in a day—remember, food doesn't act that way. Your intestinal muscles need exercise. It takes time—usually a week or two to show positive benefit and ninety days, or more, to bring you the full benefits. Like any other exercise.

The experience of hundreds of thousands of men and women in Canada who eat Yeast thrice daily is convincing proof of its efficiency to restore vigor, to bring vitality.

No single food has captured the imagination of Canadian families so forcibly as Yeast in the last four years. It is talked of everywhere. In homes that serve it, Yeast has become the THIRD daily health habit—as regular for health as morning tub or tooth brush. It's a permanent family custom, and wisely so!

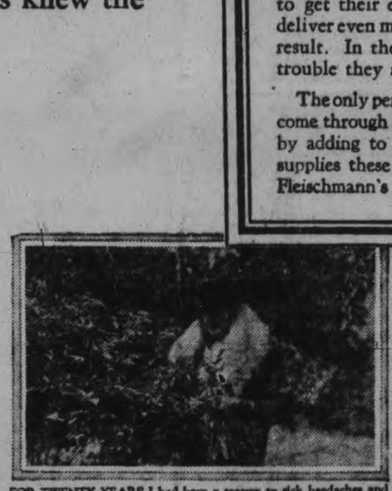
You—who need energy to face the tasks of modern-day existence—owe it to yourselves to try this vital diet. No food will brace you for your daily work like Yeast does: try it, be convinced!

Order your grocer to send a regular three-times-a-week supply of Fleischmann's Yeast, pure and fres t in silver foil wrappers. Start the ninety-day test. Learn what health is! You'll enjoy it!

What do the doctors say?

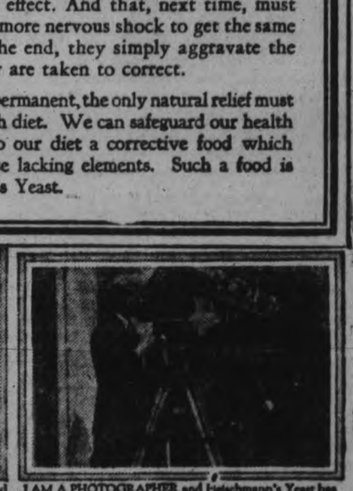
That the greatest modern ailment is incomplete elimination. That its effects are many, and often apparently remote from the cause. That most people, even when they have identified the cause, don't know what to do about it except to take medicines. Medicines which strike a blow to the system, upset normal functioning in order to get their effect. And that, next time, must deliver even more nervous shock to get the same result. In the end, they simply aggravate the trouble they are taken to correct.

The only permanent, the only natural relief must come through diet. We can safeguard our health by adding to our diet a corrective food which supplies these lacking elements. Such a food is Fleischmann's Yeast.



FOR TWENTY YEARS I had been a martyr to sick headaches and constipation. I tried different doctors and all kinds of medicines but got very little relief. One day a friend suggested Fleischmann's Yeast cakes—I readily accepted it as a possible means of escape. The effect seems miraculous at the end of three months, taking two yeast cakes a day. I have had only one bad headache and the constipation is a thing of the past. I am still taking one cake a day and shall continue to do so. All my friends are remarking how well I am looking. My complexion is clearer and I feel and look ten years younger. I give all credit to the little yeast cake, which in my estimation cannot be praised too highly.

Mrs. F. W. Tatton, Halifax, N. S.



I AM A PHOTOGRAPHER and Fleischmann's Yeast has been a wonderful thing for me during the past year. I was suffering from a very bad case of boils and general run-down condition. A friend of mine recommended Fleischmann's Yeast and I have taken it three times a day for the past five months and as a result my complexion has cleared up and I have not been troubled with boils since. I send you this letter because I want to pass on the good suggestion to all who may be afflicted with boils.

H. C. Irvine, Montreal, P. Q.

I WISH TO ADVISE YOU that for the past five years I have been doing office work, and during this time my system became run down from the need of exercise and also for lack of a good appetite. I was advised to take yeast cakes, and after I had taken three a day for about two weeks I found my condition was certainly improved, and now I would not pass a day without at least one cake. I wish to thank The Fleischmann Company for helping me to regain my health and vigor and I also recommend yeast for anyone who is troubled with indigestion after meals.

William Mackay, Montreal, Canada

Radio Brings Son To Dying Mother

WARSAW, Mar. 27.—The radio served to bring a son of Mrs. David Little from Saskatoon to his mother's beside before her death. Mrs. Little was very ill and it was thought advisable to call the family together. As the address of her eldest son was unknown recourse was had to the radio. Mr. Little, sitting in his home, heard the call and responded at once.

What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

IX—Wisdom vs. Pleasure.

LET us glance at another prosperous period and another king. He identifies himself as the "son of David, king in Jerusalem," and his book describes his efforts to find happiness and contentment in life. He began by studying all the books and seeking wisdom from every source. He thought this would give him peace, but he found that when he had "gotten more wisdom than all they that have been in Jerusalem" he was less happy than before.

"For in much wisdom is much grief; and he that increaseth knowledge increaseth sorrow."

He set forth then on another tack. He would seek pleasure; life was a joke without meaning. All right, let us laugh and forget.

"I said in mine heart, Go to now, I will prove thee with mirth, therefore, enjoy pleasure.

"I sought in mine heart to give myself unto wine, yet acquainting mine heart with wisdom; and to lay hold on folly, till I might see what was that good for the sons of men, which they should do under the heaven all the days of their life."

But there was no comfort at the end of this path either. So he threw himself into industry. He did great works; he built houses; he planted vineyards; he had servants and many possessions.

"I gathered me also silver and gold," and the peculiar treasure of kings and of the provinces: I gat me men singers and women singers, and the delights of the sons of men, as musical instruments, and that of all sorts.

"So I was great, and increased more than all that were before me in Jerusalem: also my wisdom remained with me.

"And whatsoever mine eyes desired I kept not from them, I withheld not my heart from any joy."

Like Alexander he had youth, wealth, fame, health, physical and mental delights. But, says he:

"I looked on all the works that my hands had wrought, and on the labor that I had labored to do; and, behold, all was vanity, and vexation of spirit, and there was no profit under the sun."

A discouraging confession from one who had all the things that the rest of us are trying so hard to obtain. Is this what waits at the top of the ladder? Is this to be the last chapter in human life when every want is satisfied: tears and drunkenness because there are no more worlds to conquer; vanity of vanities, vexation of the spirit?

"A time of great advance in power, of . . wealth and prosperity," said Seelye, "is commonly a time of decline in religious feeling."

We are on the threshold of such a time, a period when more people will have larger prosperity than ever before. It is conceivable, even, that all of us might get everything we want.

As Alexander did . . . and this other, older king.

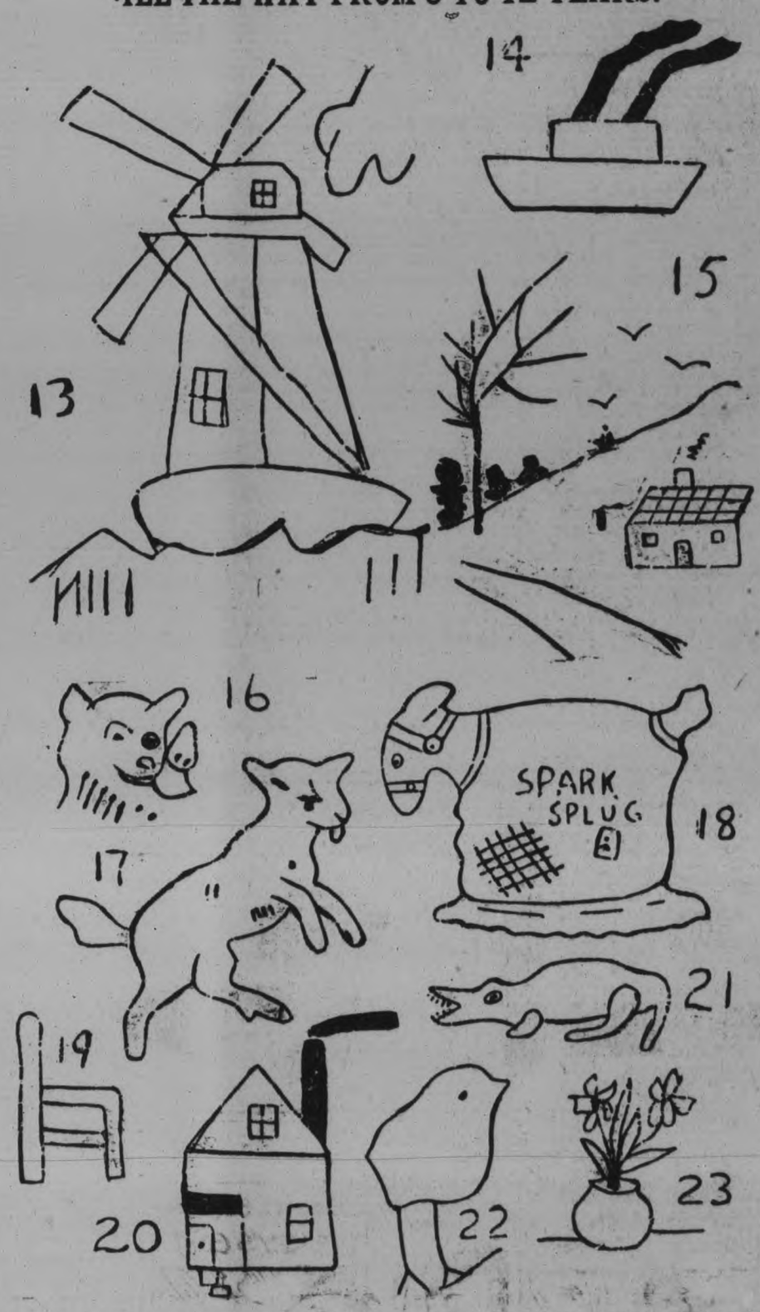
Used Furniture READ WANT ADS

ALL THE WAY FROM 3 TO 12 YEARS!



What do you boys and girls think of these pictures? Pretty good, aren't they? We have received about two hundred up to-day, and every mail is bringing more, so to-day we rushed off an order for more equipment, so that we can put more in the paper every day.

Isn't that a pretty nice flower that Katherine Joyes drew? And the little chick that Laura Lee sent in is just in time for Easter. Isn't it pretty good for a three-year-old girl? The fierce-looking crocodile that Malcolm Pakenham drew is going to get a mouthful of the smoke from Elmer Hall's house, and Helen Bateson's frisky lamb looks as if it might sit down on Jean Trotter's chair, doesn't it? We don't know whether Ida Sage intended to call the horse Spark Splug (correct), but that is what she printed on the blanket. Anyhow, Sparky seems to be making eyes at the lamb, while the cat that Harry Vass drew is winking at the whole lot. What do you think of the windmill that Claude Shewen drew? It fits nicely into the pretty scene drawn by Helen McGee. And Harold Brumwell's boat is certainly steaming along at a great rate.

Some of you boys and girls are not reading all the rules. There are about a dozen pictures too big for The Examiner to print, because they will not go on the plates we have. Please keep the size small, but not TOO small!—and draw only outlines on Saturday, which you will fill in, saying whose drawing you think was best during the week.

4. Only those who sent in drawings may vote.

5. Coupons voting for the winner must be sent to The Examiner office not later than Tuesday.

6. Any boy or girl in Peterborough city or district may enter, and there is no fee of any kind. Just send in your drawing. Don't forget to put on it your name, age, and address. If you can't write VERY clearly, ask some older person to do this for you. So long as you draw the picture, anyone else may write your name.

7. Please don't send in more than one drawing a week. There are so many boys and girls sending in drawings that it would not be fair to print two of yours in one week, would it?

8. Address your drawings to "The Drawing Editor, The Examiner, Peterborough."

13. Claude M. Shewen, (6 years), R.R. No. 9, Peterborough; 14. Harold A. Brumwell, (6 years), 201 Rubidge street; 15, Helen McGee, (8 years), 542 Bethune street; 16. Harry Vass, (9 years), 146 London street; 17. Helen Bateson (11 years), Campbellford; 18, Ida Sage, (11 years), 433 Chambers street; 19. Jean Trotter, (5 years), 211 Rubidge street; 20, Elmer Hall (7 years), 471 Bolivar street; 21. Malcolm Pakenham, (7 years), 737 Water street; 22. Laura Lee, (3 years), Crawford's Grove P.O.; 23. Katherine Joyes, (11 years), 247 Burnham street.

As we explained last Friday, the process we have will only reproduce simple pictures, and we cannot show shading. Ask your father or mother to explain to you. Some boys and girls are tracing pictures. That's not fair to others who drew them, and of course we cannot enter them in the contest. Some others are copying the pictures which have already appeared in The Examiner. Try to think of somethin g new to draw.

And, last but not least, don't forget to save the pictures all week so that you can vote for the winner on Saturday.

Re the Rules Again!

1. Age limit, 12 years.

2. Drawings may be in pencil or ink, but they must be clear and SIMPLE. This process will not print drawings with a great deal of detail. Make your drawings about 2 inches square, and please draw on paper, not on cardboard.

3. A voting coupon will be printed

Wife Substitutes For Husband In Jail

BEAVER, Pa., March 28.— So that her husband might work and support their six children, Mrs. Victoria Pierce ,aged 37, of New Brighton, has gone to jail in his place—and the court approves of the substitution. Julius Pierce, the husband, pleaded guilty to making and keeping moonshine and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment. Pierce asked for mercy because of the sufferings that his incarceration in jail wold cause his family.

"If your wife comes in and pleads I'll release you," Judge Frank E. Reader told the father of the six children.

HOTEL THIEVES CAUGHT IN DIEPPE

Two of Gang Wanted For Robbing Travellers Held By Police.

PARIS, Mar .28.—The police believe they have caught two members of the most successful gang of international hotel and steamer thieves now operating. They were arrested when they stepped off a boat at Dieppe while escaping from England.

The two are Edward Haughton, an Australian, and Mrs. MacLeish, the American wife of a Scotchman. MacLeish is believed to be on the Berengaria bound for New York, and is wanted. He is charged with negotiating at Havre travelers' cheques which another member of the gang "Swift" Harry Wilson stole on a steamer.

It is charged that the gang robbed an American, Mrs. Goetz,of 500,000 francs worth of jewels at Boulogne three years ago. They are also suspected of many robberies from the biggest liners and best hotels. Travelers' cheques, jewels and furs were the usual loot.

The police believe an elaborate organization was directed from Brussels. Whenever any of the stolen goods were traced, they were found far from the place where the robbery occurred, causing the belief that Brussels was the centre of a rapid exchange. Hotel robberies have been unusualy frequent this season, the latest being the theft of 1,500,000 francs in diamonds from the Countess De Bettencourt's trunk in a Monte Carlo hotel.

FIVE FISHERMEN MAROONED ON TUG

Port Dover Men's Craft Caught in Huge Ice Floe on Lake Erie.

PORT DOVER, March 28.—Five local fishermen, on board the tug Altawandron, spent a night of danger trapped in the ice floes of Lake Erie, which are moving slowly towards the Niagara.

Following a terrific gale that commenced Monday night and continued through yesterday, the immense ice fields of Lake Erie were started on their outward journey, and with them carried the Altawandron, with Captain John Matthews, Daniel McLeod, Leslie Murphy, Harry Phillips, and a Swedish fishermen, all local men, on board.

The keeper of the lighthouse at the east end of Long Point reported yesterday afternoon, about two o'clock, that the tug, which had been fast in the ice off the upper end of the Point since Friday, was approaching the end of the Point, and that distress signals were being displayed by the crew of five on board. The report was transmitted to the local lifesaving station and the tug Margaret L. was dispatched at once to render assistance.

The Margaret L., with Captain John A. McCaulay, and a small crew, battled the elements and the ice fields all afternoon, but were forced to give up at sundown, within one mile of the goal. Captain McCaulay, who has many daring rescues to his credit, would not have given up his heroic task then without the firm conviction that the trapped tug and crew would be in comparatively little danger overnight.

Captain McCauley reports the craft as being in an immense ice field, six miles southwest of the end of Long Point, and that it was impossible, as darkness closed ,to force his tug any nearer than a mile to the imperilled men, who were steadily waving distress signals.

The men have a small cabin, and if they have matches can keep a fire going. The food supplies are also said the be fairly wood, although it is known that the supplies on board are not large.

Captain McCaulay expressed the opinion that there was no danger of the craft being capsized, as it was fast imbedded in the ice field, and that this floe was moving in a solid mass and not given to breaking up.

Copper and Gold Visions at Dundas

HAMILTON, March 28. — Samples of ore-bearing rock found on the side of the Dundas Mountain have been sent to the department at Toronto to be assayed and the result is awaited with interest in the valley town. Fred Bickford, who makes annual prospecting trips to Northern Ontario, has declared the content to be copper pyrite and the residents have visions of a thriving mining camp being established. Gold is generally located near where copper pyrite is found, but in Dundas district the depth would make mining operations abortive . Silver deposits were found in the quarry of the Canada Crushed Stone Company some years ago, but in almost negligible quantities.

is the largest gland in your body. It aids in the digestion of food by secreting bile. It also serves to separate waste materials from the blood stream so that these wastes can be eliminated from the body. The energy which enables the liver to function emanates from the brain and is carried to the liver through the spinal cord and nerves.

If certain spinal nerves are constricted as they leave the spinal canal the liver will not receive sufficient energy to enable it to function normally. ABNORMAL ACTIVITY OF THIS IMPORTANT GLAND MAY RESULT IN JAUNDICE, INDIGESTION, CONSTIPATION, BILIOUSNESS, HEADACHES AND VARIOUS OTHER COMMON BUT DISTRESSING AILMENTS.

If you have reason to suspect that your liver is not working properly, lose no time in getting a spinal examination. If the liver nerves are found to be constricted, get Chiropractic Spinal Adjustments, because your liver cannot function rightly finless it receives a normal supply of nerve force.

GERMAN FLIERS PREPARE FOR FLIGHT OVER ATLANTIC

Oil Wings of Monoplane To Prevent Formation of Ice.

MAY TAKE-OFF TO-DAY.

Koehl Plans Direct Route To New York—May Miss Newfoundland.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, March 29 (A.P.). — Unfavorable weather held the German trans-Atlantic fliers at Baldonnel Airdrome, Dublin, this morning.

It was considered unlikely that the Bremen would start to-day.

LASHED TO GROUND.

DUBLIN, March 29 (Canadian Press). — The German plane Bremen was lashed to the ground to-day as an Irish gale swept the aerodrome here. The flight will commence to-morrow morning, at the earliest.

BALDONNEL AIRDROME, Irish Free State, March 29.— (Associated Press.)— A long wooden runway stretching in the direction of Galway and America was completed last night to aid the Junkers airplane Bremen in taking off at dawn to-day if weather reports from the United States justify the three Germans, who are out for the honor of the Fatherland, in following the westward trail of death and glory across the North Atlantic.

Baron von Huenefeld yesterday paid an Irish farmer £70 for tearing down a stone wall at the far end of the Baldonnel Field so that the plane will have a mile and a quarter straightaway for lifting its big weight of three men and 2,500 litres of fuel into the air.

Wings Oiled.

The monoplane had its wings oiled, to prevent the formation of ice when the machine gets into the area of fogs and mists.

The motor has been tuned to perfection and every navigation instrument has been put to the test. The plane remained all day in the hangar under guard of Junkers mechanics and Irish Free State air force men.

Pacing nervously back and forth between the hangar and a lane of green Irish turf, where the runway was being built, was the young German nobleman with a monocle screwed in his right eye, wearing a German student's cap, and his slim figure covered by a navy blue yachting suit. This, he said, he does not intend to take off until he reaches Mitchel Field, Long Island.

Carries Good Luck Pieces.

Von Huenefeld is as superstitious as the ordinary sailor who sails the seas in ships. His pockets are filled with trinkets, omens of good luck and pieces of all kind. Yesterday afternoon he fled like a scared rabbit from a photographer who attempted to take movies of him.

Contrasted with the monocled nobleman, the chunky, quiet, steady Koehl, chief pilot, watched the preparations for the Bremen's getaway almost disinterestedly. To him, flying the Atlantic isn't luck, but science and nerve. He has a copy of Lindbergh's book, and from it he says he has learned the lesson that ice and sleet on the wings of the plane are likely to be his greatest enemy.

To avoid this, he plans to shoot direct for New York, if necessary turning south whenever he encounters cold winds and rain. Thus he may miss Newfoundland altogether —the first time any such trans-Atlantic flight has been so attempted.

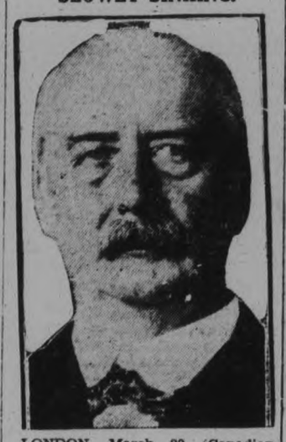
Baron von Huenefeld says he has the best pilot in the world in the sturdy, broad-shouldered little man who is the most famous night flier in Germany. Captain Koehl, likewise, expresses the greatest confidence in Spindler, who will spell him at the controls in three hour shifts.

Would Start at Dawn.

Koehl wants to start at dawn, so as to pick up points in America in daylight, but if he is assured of a starlight night on arriving on the American coast, he is willing to start from here at night.

Both von Huenefeld and Koehl say their plans in America are uncertain, but that they will surely come back to Ireland to express their thanks to the Free State government for making their flight possible by affording them the courtesies of Baldonnel Field. Here the Germans eat and sleep and spend all their time almost like prisoners behind barbed wire entanglements, which the British built to keep Irish Republicans from this air station during Ireland's time of trouble.

SLOWLY SINKING.



LONDON, March 29 (Canadian Press). — Lord Cave, who recently underwent a serious operation and since resigned as Lord Chancellor, was unconscious and slowly sinking to-day. He is 72 years old and has been Lord Chancellor since 1924.

HOPE TO END G.M.C. STRIKE

Government Mediator Finds Both Parties Open to Conciliation, He Says.

STARTED ON MONDAY.

OSHAWA, March 29 (Canadian Press).—Through the mediation of a representative of the Canadian Department of Labor, it is believed there is a possibility that the strike of upwards of 2,000 employees of the General Motors of Canada will be ended tonight. M. S. Campbell, chief conciliation officer of the department, spent some time in conference with the men's strike committee to-day and later interviewed H. A. Brown, general manager of the plant. Both parties were agreeable to measure of conciliation, it was reported. Mr. Campbell is expected to issue a statement late this afternoon on the results of his efforts.

The strike started last Monday in protest against cuts in the rates of pay for trimmers.

CLUES DESTROYED BY FIRE AND WATER

Police Believe Triple Slaying Done By Someone Outside Family.

NEWARK, N.J., March 29 (Canadian Press). — Although most of the clues in the triple slaying yesterday of the family of Frank Warren, businessman, have been destroyed by fire, water, and constant handling of the weapon used to shoot Warren, his wife, and son, the authorities maintained to-day that it was a case of murder by some person or persons outside the slain family.

South-End Man Swims In Cellar

It is rather early for swimming, but a Princess street man named Fowler found his skill in the art useful during the recent floods. A friend of his has a drain in his cellar but had placed a sack in it to prevent potatoes from rolling down the pipe. The other day when he started to go down he found about five feet of water there. He got a stick with a nail in the end and tried to get the sack out, but could not. He then called on his friend, who dived down among the floating bottles of fruit and pulled out the cloth.

THE WEATHER

The temperature at night still continues low. At six o'clock it was 12 degrees above zero; during the night it had been down two degrees lower. The sun now rises before six o'clock, and came up this morning a brilliant red, with a well defined "sun dog" both north and south. I particularize thusly because many people seldom see a sunrise; probably some never do. Highest temperature yesterday 47 degrees.—W.P.

1924 Leap Year Baby Receives Silver Cup

Little Hilda Pearson, of 315 Maitland avenue, the only baby born in Peterborough on February 29, 1924, whose picture appeared in The Examiner of one month ago to-day, received further greetings on Wednesday in the form of a gold-lined silver cup accompanied by greeting card from the Toronto Mail and Empire. Her name had been sent in on request of that Toronto paper for names of all 1924 "Leap Year" babies.

TUGS HIDDEN BY HEAVY FOG ON LAKE ERIE

Explosions Heard From Where Boats Are Trying To Break Floes.

VISIBILITY BAD.

Plane Being Sent With Food and Fuel For Marooned Men.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Mar. 29. — (Canadian Press.) — At nine-forty this morning the fate of the Altawandron was still in doubt when a representative of the Canadian Press, speaking over the long distance telephone to the lighthouse at Long Point, was informed that visibility was so poor there owing to a heavy haze that it was impossible to see any sign of the tug. Word had been received, however, that another boat had put out of Port Dover in an effort to reach the stranded fishermen, and Long Point reported sounds of heavy explosions, as though an attempt was being made to dynamite a way through.

Second Tug Caught.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Mar. 29 (Canadian Press).—The fate of the Altawandron is still in doubt, although reports at noon indicated that there was some possibility of new rescue attempts succeeding in breaking through the heavy ice floes that have held the fishing tug fast since last Thursday, marooning the crew and defeating all efforts to take the men off. Not only is the Altawandron still stuck in the ice, but the rescue tug Jean F. is now in a similar predicament, having broken down last night in a futile attempt to plow a way through the ice. This craft is now frozen in and its crew unable to reach safety.

Feared Two Men Lost.

TORONTO, Mar. 29 (Canadian Press).—Fears were expressed to-day that two members of the crew of the tug Altawandron, ice-locked in Lake Erie, were ill or had been lost overboard, says a special despatch to the Toronto Star. Rescuers attempting to break through the ice barrier report that at no time have more than three men been seen on the decks of the trapped vessel, though the tug has a crew of five. Capt. Mathews and Harry Phillips crossed the ice to Port Rowan to telephone for aid last Saturday when the way was still passable, and they set out again for the Altawandron, loaded up with provisions. It is not known whether they successfully negotiated the treacherous passage and some doubt of their safety is held.

Plane Being Sent.

OTTAWA, Ont., Mar. 29 (Canadian Press).—The Royal Air Force will send an airplane immediately from Camp Borden with food and fuel for the tug Altawandron, ice-locked in Lake Erie, it was announced from the Department of National Defence at one o'clock to-day. A request was received from the Ontario Government that a plane be sent and one will be on its way as soon as possible. A land plane will be used as there is ice on all sides of the tug, and if it is found inadvisable to land on the ice, the supplies will be dropped near the steamer.

EXAMINER REPORT OF TRIAL OF SLANDER APPEAL CORRECT OFFICIAL DOCUMENTS SHOW

Appeal of W. E. Griffith Was Dismissed Without Costs.

LOCAL DECISION UPHELD.

Defendant Awarded Costs in County Court But Not in Appeal Hearing.

In order to clear up a misunderstanding caused by a letter from Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., in last night's Examiner, the official documents in the Griffith-Breckenridge case were obtained and copies are reproduced herewith.

These documents show that the report of the appeal covered by an Examiner staff reporter in Toronto, was accurate.

Judgment of County Court.

His Honor E. C. S. Huycke, Judge.

Saturday, the 17th day of December, 1927—

Between William E. Griffith, Plaintiff, and J. Franklin Breckenridge, Defendant:

1. This action having come on for trial on the 15th, 16th and 17th days of December, 1927, before this court with a jury of the County of Peterborough at the sittings holden at the City of Peterborough for the trial of actions, in presence of counsel for both parties, and the jury having found a verdict for the Defendant.

2. This Court doth order and adjudge that this action be and the same is hereby dismissed with costs to be paid by the Plaintiff to the Defendant forthwith after taxation thereof.

George J. Sherry, Clerk.

Court of Appeal.

The following is the Certificate of Dismissal of Appeal by Appellate Court:

In the Supreme Court of Ontario.

The Right Honorable, the Chief Justice of Ontario,

The Honorable Mr. Justice Magee,

The Honorable Mr. Justice Ferguson,

The Honorable Mr. Justice Hodgins,

The Honorable Mr. Justice Grant,

Wednesday, the 14th day of March, A.D., 1928:

In the matter of an action pending in the County Court of the County of Peterborough.

This is to certify that upon a motion made unto this Court on the 13th and 14th days of March, 1928, by Counsel for the Plaintiff by way of appeal from the judgment pronounced by His Honour E. C. S. Huycke, Judge of the County Court of the County of Peterborough, on the 17th day of December, 1927, herein, in the presence of Counsel for the Defendant, and upon hearing read the pleadings, the evidence adduced at the trial, and the judgment aforesaid certified to this Court, and upon hearing what was alleged by Counsel aforesaid,

1. THIS COURT DID ORDER that the said appeal should be, and the same was dismissed.

2. AND THIS COURT did not see fit to make any order as to the costs of the said appeal.

E. Harley, Senior Registrar.

The above, taken from the official records of the Court means that in the result Mr. Griffith, who was represented by Mr Gordon, pays all the costs of both sides of the case so far as the trial is concerned, and that in the Court of Appeal each side pays its own costs in the appeal proceedings.

The Examiner desires to make clear that the newspaper account in The Examiner complained of by Mr. Gordon, was written by an Examiner reporter who attended the hearing in the Court of Appeal and The Examiner is solely responsible for this report. Mr. Gordon is mistaken in his letter when he states that the account was received from F. D. Kerr, K.C., as Mr. Kerr had no connection with the appearance of the article, and in fact did not know that it had appeared until after his return from Toronto.

Urges Need For Caution In Matter Of Developing St. Lawrence Waterway

OTTAWA, Ont., March 29 (Canadian Press).—The need for caution in the matter of developing the St. Lawrence waterway was urged in the Senate yesterday by Senator Lynch Staunton. While there was no reason to suppose that in any convention that might be entered into between Canada and the United States, the latter country would not deal honorably with the Dominion, the Canadian people should nevertheless keep in mind the circumstances surrounding the Chicago water diversion. This was an instance in which the spirit of international law had not been observed, inasmuch as the diversion had worked harm to Canadians.

Senator Lynch Staunton urged that if Parliament introduced a bill covering the St. Lawrence development, the government should not make it a party issue. Every member should be free to vote on such a measure according to the dictates of his own private opinion. In doing so, the government would have a correct expression of the real sentiments of the people, while at the same time its own position would not be endangered.

Senator Lynch Staunton took issue with the statement previously made by Senator Beique that Canada could not divert water from the St. Lawrence for canal purposes without the consent of the United States. Under any present conventions and agreements no such consent was necessary, contended the Senator.

Injured In Fight With House Burglar

SOUTH VANCOUVER, March (Canadian Press). — Steve Pelech, a garage man, was clubbed by a burglar with the butt end of a revolver and badly mauled, his dog, whose attack on the intruder probably saved his life, was shot dead, and Pelech's house was set afire by the overturning of an incubator during the struggle.

The fight took place in the basement of Pelech's home on Knight Road early yesterday. Hearing a noise in the basement, Pelech went to investigate. Immediately he was attacked, and in the struggle the incubator was overturned. The dog came to his master's rescue; the burglar fired, but missed, and beat a hasty retreat, followed by the dog. Outside, the intruder fired again, and the dog dropped dead.

Meantime, Pelech got his family out of the house, and with the arrival of the fire brigade, the blaze in the basement was quickly subdued without heavy damage.

SCOTCH CONCERT

A very enjoyable and well attended Scottish concert was given in Victoria Hall last evening by the Caledonian Choir, under the auspices of the Young Men's Bible Class of Mark Street United Church, in aid of the building fund. Tom Hendry, teacher, acted as chairman, and made a few remarks, expressing his pleasure at the large attendance. The program was exceedingly good. It opened with a song by the choir, "Scots Wha Hae." A piano solo by Miss Mildred Hetherington followed. This talented young musician received splendid applause. Mrs. R. French's sweet soprano was heard to good advantage in "My Ain Wee Hoose." Solo, "When I Meet McKay," Bob Hendry. A reading, "Levinsky at a Wedding," by Max Peters, brought down the house. He generously responded to an encore. Excerpt from "Maritana" was next: "In Happy Moments," by the choir. Solo, "Mary of Argyle," Mrs. Jackson. Solo, "There Is a Flower That Bloometh," W. Grieves. Solo, "Alas, Those Chimes," Mrs. B. Hemphill. "The Angelus," by the choir. These numbers were exceedingly well rendered and the audience showed their appreciation by loud applause. Highland dances, S. Thompson (Piper, Alex. Milne). A solo, "The Battle of Stirling Bridge," by Jack Smith, was a particularly good number. Mr. Smith responded to an encore by singing "Leezie Lindsay." A trio then sang "O Willie Brewed a Peck o' Maut," "Ye Banks and Braes," and "Stars of Summer." The singers were Messrs Grieves, Hyslop, and Clark. Solo, "She's the Lass for Me," Bob Hendry. This proved very popular. Mr. Hendry was in his usual good voice.

Rev. A. E. Thornley, of Mark Street United Church, gave a short humorous speech, and thanked the entertainers and congratulated the class on the result of their efforts.

The concluding number was a part song, "Scotland Yet," by the choir, in which their voices blended beautifully. Miss Mary Hemmpbill acted as accompanist, and great credit is due to the choir conductor, A. D. Clark, for his careful and efficient training. Mrs. Jackson's numbers are worthy of special mention and merited the applause she received.

Prepare For Flight Over Polar Seas

SEWARD, Alaska, March 29 (Canadian Press). — A terse radio message, "All fine, Barrow; heard Seward Corps OK," was picked up by the Government radio station here on Tuesday night, indicating that Captain George Wilkins, Australian explorer, and Captain Carl Eielsen, his Alaskan airplane pilot, were making progress in their preparations for flights over the Polar seas. Wilkins and his pilot are awaiting favorable weather for aerial exploration. If conditions are satisfactory they planned a flight to Spitzbergen over the Arctic "blind spot" about the middle of April.

HEAVY LOSSES ARE INCURRED IN BASEMENT

Cellar of Ackerman Plant is Now Cleared of Water.

ORDER BEING RESTORED.

Walls Still Coated With Grease —Water Burst in Through Door in North Side.

A visit to the plant of the Ackerman plant, corner of George and Dalhousie Streets, to-day gave The Examiner representative a first hand view, coupled with an authentic explanation of the damage done and attempts made to recover for use, machinery, stock, and indeed the cellar itself, since it has been drained of flood water six feet deep. The story is one of heavy losses incurred through no fault of the company officials.

Accompanied by W. C. Ackerman, The Examiner first visited the shoe fining department at the east end, where a stock of fine leathers and other goods had been restored to some semblance of order, while long shelves supported boxes of rivets, etc., used in the work. A confusion of boxes and desk equipment lay upon the floor, and the top of one desk, which had been floated from across the room, was as it had been left, without even an inkwell overturned.

Throughout the entire cellar the walls and cement flooring is coated with oil and grease which had escaped from several barrels and carried on the water, only to settle as the water fell. It made the walking just a little uncertain. The main part of the cellar, that is, beneath the centre of the building, the collar department, where twenty-five men had been employed (the employees are now busy cleaning up their respective departments), and a large storage room where most of the sixty or seventy thousand dollars worth of stock had been stored, were each visited in turn and in the last named as well as in a storage room Mr. Ackerman pointed out where the flood water had broken in.

Prepared For Flood.

A thirty-inch foundation supports the building. Late in the afternoon of Monday, expecting trouble, since the water was rising rapidly in the creek, the management had placed men at various points throughout the cellar to do what they could. Contrary to yesterday's report, the drains in the cellar floor were not closed, and ordinarily would have taken care of the fifteen or sixteen inches of water that would have come in had not the large yard on the north side flooded.

Had Narrow Escape.

Mr. Ackerman and a helper had made their way round to the door near the garage on this north side and were attempting to pack it when the bolting gave way and they were thrown into the cellar, with the flood of water at their backs. Trapped, and with the water rising rapidly, they finally had forced open a fireproof door leading into a more northerly stock-room and thus escaped.

Mr. Ackerman told of the complete flooding of the cellar and at the same time gave credit to Fire Chief Gimblett, through whom the pumper had been placed in operation, and to Superintendent Killaly, of the Trent Canal, who not only gave valuable advice from his experience in handling water, but also made it possible for two divers to enter the work of blocking the flood.

Their work was highly praised by the firm official. He told of how they had placed boards across the cellar windows and had built a strong dam of sandbags at the door which had opened the flood.

Mr. Ackerman pointed out how fortunate it was that the sprinkler system did not freeze and break, and that the turning on of electric current to run the motors and machinery in the cellar must not be allowed until the switch boxes are thoroughly dry, owing to danger from short circuits and fires.

A barrel of leather paint was floated half way up a flight of stairs and remained upright.

The furnaces have been relighted and the upper floors made more comfortable thereby, but the work of cleaning up the cellar must go on.

No Estimate of Damage.

Beyond saying that the stock in the flooded parts had been valued at between fifty and sixty thousand dollars, and that much of it had been completely destroyed, while a large portion must be disposed of at prices far below its actual value, Mr. Ackerman did not volunteer any estimate of the firm's loss. Not until the work of salvaging is completed can he give an accurate statement in this regard.

Mill Cellar Drained.

By bringing the steam pumper into action for several hours on Wednesday, Fire Chef Gimblett was able to clear the Maple Leaf Milling Company's cellar of most of the eighteen inches of water which remained in it. The service is greatly appreciated by the firm.

PLAN SETTLEMENT OF DISPUTE BETWEEN WESTERN FARMERS

Minnesotans and Canadians in Controversy Over Flood Waters of Roseau River.

CONFERENCE HELD.

Would Present Facts To International Joint Commission—Establish Expense Fund.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 29 (Canadian Press). — The basis of a plan for settlement of the controversy that has existed between Minnesotans and Canadian farmers since 1912 over the flood waters of the Roseau River was laid at a conference yesterday between representatives of state and federal government at the Department of the Interior.

Representative Selvig of Minnesota and E. V. Willard of St. Paul, commissioner of drainage for Minnesota, presented the problem of preventing disastrous floods in Roseau County to N. C. Grover, chief hydraulic engineer of the geological survey, and J. A. Metzyer, assistant solicitor of the state department.

The plan is to present the facts to the international joint commission. Grover has been designated to act for the federal government, and the conference, called by engineers, will be called primarily to determine to what extent he would participate. Selvig and Willard advanced the proposal that Grover obtain engineering data on the stream which would be submitted to the secretary of state for transmission to the Canadian minister in order to get the matter before the international joint commission.

Fund Set Aside

It is understood that $75,000 has been set aside for this and similar projects.

Residents of Northern Minnesota fear that levees being constructed on the Roseau River to prevent overflowing in Canada will force the water over a large area of fertile soil in Roseau County.

The stream originates partly in Canada and partly in Minnesota, branches forming the main stream in Roseau County. The main stream, which swerves northward into Canada, traverses large areas of land in Roseau County, 200 acres of which were flooded in 1919.

Reclaim Swamp Lands

Along with the proposal to prevent floods is one to reclaim swamp lands near the course of the river.

Canadians also have suffered from floods on the Roseau, which empties into the Red River. Willard said Minnesota hopes to reach a settlement that will be satisfactory both to his state and to Canada.

When the proposal was made a year ago to submit the controversy to the international joint committee, interested parties in Manitoba requested the Canadian government to have linked up with the Roseau inquiry the general question of flood control in the Red River basin.

Floods in the vicinity of Winnipeg did considerable damage last Spring and residents of the district asked that the whole question of drainage in the Red River basin in Minnesota and control of tributaries of the Red River be taken up by the international joint committee.

MANY ENTRIES IN HOBBY SHOW

OPENS APRIL 12.

Entries for the Boys' Hobby Show are now pouring in, and indications point to each department being crowded to capacity. In the dog show which is scheduled for the Saturday morning, it is doubtful if the tennis courts of the Y.M.C.A., where the show was held last year, will be large enough to acommodate the spaniels, Bostons, etc., for which entries have been made.

Dr. J. J. Craig, the Honorary President, will officially open the show on the evening of Thursday, April 12. The directors of the Hobby Show extend an invitation to all interested in boys and boys' work to be present at the opening ceremony. The Hobby Show orchestra will render a programme at that time, and during the rest of the evening. The Hobby Show is placing a particular emphasis this year upon the honor which is due to the boy who excels in each phase of youthful interests. With this end in view the actual presentation of awards will not be made until a later date when all prize winners will be invited to a special gathering where a formal presentation will be made. Mr. Mounstephen, of The Examiner staff, has designed a handsome diploma, which will be presented to those in first, second and third places. In addition to these diplomas bronze medals will be presented the champions in each department and a silver cup, suitably engraved, will be presented the grand champion of the show.

Any boy in the city who has not received a copy of the Hobby Show Exhibit list, can obtain one by calling at the Y.M.C.A. The entry form is in this list, or extra forms may be obtained for the asking.

WATER FLOODS MANY CELLARS

BRIDGE DAMAGED.

MILLBROOK, March 29 — The flood which reached fairly large proportions and did some damage on Saturday afternoon, was repeated on Monday night, the heavy rains and melting snows on the hills surrounding the village being responsible for the creeks overflowing, the centre of King street and lower part of Tupper street being practically a lake between ten and twelve o'clock that evening.

All the stop logs in the dam of Attwooll and Sheppard's pond were lifted and the water still rose; a cake of ice swept away the centre support under the bridge on Distillery street, and the same thing occurred to the centre support of the foot bridge leading to the school hill. The old McIvor pond, which is now practically filled with weeds except for a small stream in the centre, was again filled with water, and the creek leading from it ran so high the former bowling green was a lake, and backyards and gardens along its route were completely submerged.

Cellars were filled and some householders found fruit and vegetables floating round in muddy water, with considerable damage as the result. Stores in the downtown section have no use of their cellars for storage purpose during most of the year owing to the main drain being ineffective in carrying off surplus water. It is hoped when the new drain is put in this spring, preparatory to paving King street, this inconvenience will be done away with for good, and permanently dry cellarage will be an accomplished fact.

ROADS IMPASSABLE AT MOUNT PLEASANT

Water High in Swamp South of Village—Service Called Off.

MOUNT PLEASANT, March 29.—A great many of the villagers found it necessary to get out on Saturday and make channels for the water to get away from around their homes, a number of cellars and woodsheds being flooded. It rained steadily for several hours on Sunday making the roads impassable, as a number of places on the road are bare, while other parts have snow three and four feet deep, which is very soft. The swamps are all flooded, the water over the road in the swamp south of the village is very deep for a stretch of about one mile.

No service was held in St. John's Anglican Church on Sunday owing to the condition of the roads.

One of the animals then came out of the woods, and was shot through the backbone by Millar, but it started to run, dragging its hind parts. It was shot twice again before it dropped.

These wolves are very large; the one shot measuring five feet nine inches. The hunt for the other animals will be continued as soon as possible.

SAMUEL BRUCE DIES AGED 101

Aged Resident of Fraserville Retained Faculties To End.

NATIVE OF IRELAND.

Samuel Bruce, who was one hundred and one years old last June, died of old age, without any disease and retaining his faculties practically until the end, at the home of his nephew, Robert Holden of Fraserville, Monday, March 26. Mr. Bruce was a remarkable old man. He came as an infant to Canada from Ireland with his parents, who settled near Kingston, where he lived for many years and raised his family, some of whom have long pre-deceased him. He was a boyhood friend of Sir John A. MacDonald.

Soon after the Northwest Territories were taken over from the Hudson Bay Company by the Dominion Government, Mr. Bruce was sent by the government to advise and assist the Indian of the plain in agriculture. Remaining in the territories and British Columbia for several years, he returned to Ontario to spend his old age with his daughter, Mrs. William Guthrie, at Perth road, near Kingston, until her death. He has found in recent years a peaceful home with the family of his nephew, Robert Holden, where he died.

He was buried on March 28, in the cemetery at Fraserville. The service was conducted by the Rev. H. W. Foley, assisted by the Rev. A. H. McConnachie, representing the Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Bruce was a lifelong member. He was a man of sterling, sturdy character and of great faith in his God. He read his Bible through many times. He never used strong drink nor tobacco.

Mr. Bruce took a keen and intelligent interest in public affairs, reading his papers regularly until his hundredth birthday. He was a veteran of the Fenian Raid, and had his medal. A remarkable loyal Canadian has been called to his last rest. Two children survive him, Harvey Bruce of Alberta, and Miss L. J. Bruce of Utica, N.Y. Among those who attended the funeral were William Guthrie, son-in-law; Dr. and Mrs. Cronk, Belleville; Samuel Holden Bracebridge and Wm. Holden, North Bay.

MILLBROOK LADY IS 91 YEARS OLD

Miss Elizabeth O'Brian Has Seen Many Changes in Village.

MILLBROOK, Mar. 29. — Miss Elizabeth O'Brian, the second oldest citizen of the community, quietly celebrated her ninety-first birthday on Tuesday, March 27, the inclement weather preventing the one or two intimate friends, also well advanced in years, who were to have spent the day with her, from being present.

Miss O'Brian, who has good health and a fair enjoyment of her faculties considering her advanced years, has witnessed many changes during her long residence in this community. Looking backward, the days are recalled when Millbrook had a population of 1,500, several industries, including saw mills, woollen and carding mills, foundries, large flour mills, etc., to say nothing of three breweries and six or seven hotels; now when the young people are ready to make their own way in the world they must go elsewhere for occupation, and there is a declining population, the last census giving a little over 760 as the official figures.

Mrs Thomas Gillott, the oldest resident of the village, reaches her ninety-third birthday on April 17.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

BROKERS OFFICE MAY BE OPENED

Many Campbelford Men Interested in Having Branch in Town.

EXPENSE IS BARRIER.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 29. — Considerable interest is being taken by those interested in stocks in the possibility of there being a broker's office opened in the business section of the town. There has been much discussion on the subject by several business men but as far as can be learned there has been no definite arrangement made up to the present time. To some people the idea appears more or less absurd, but one of the interested parties, when interviewed last night, stated that his brokerage charges for 1927 were in excess of $1500. This indicates the extent to which some of the local speculators are involved in the game. The chief objection to the establishing of an office and installing a private wire here has been the expense involved. Until this objection has been overruled it is not likely that it will be established. Efforts are being made to have the wire and operator installed and business being done before the summer season arrives.

POLICE FIRE UPON BANDIT

Wounded Man Assisted in Escape After Attempted Hold-up of Post Office.

THIRTY SHOTS EXCHANGED.

BUFFALO, March 29.—One bandit was wounded in a gun fight yesterday after a patrolman surprised three men who were attempting to rob a sub-postal station in the Elmwood Avenue section. The wounded man was placed in an automobile by his companions and the trio escaped, but only after at least 30 shots had been fired.

Patrolman James Hourigan was told by a motorist that three men were in the postal station shortly after four o'clock yesterday morning. He investigated and discovered the men about to rob the office.

An exchange of shots followed, during which one of the bandits was struck. He fell, but was aided by his companions to an automobile which had been parked nearby, and escaped.

ROADS BLOCKED NEAR BETHANY

Mail Courier Unable To Get To Station On Several Occasions.

MILL POND DRAINED.

BETHANY, March 29.—The roads have been so bad lately owing to the thaw, that it has been impossible for Murray Spiers, the mailman from Franklin, to reach Cavan Station, to receive the mail. The village would be cut off entirely from the mail, if it were not for the C.P.R. mixed train from Peterborough to Toronto, which passes through about eight o'clock. Mr. Driver, the rural route courier, has been unable to make the trip for several days, while the Rev. Mr. Poulter was unable to reach his outside appointments Sunday. Some parts of the roads are bare, other parts have deep snow banks, while again, in places the road is under water.

Mr. McKinnon let the water out of his mill pond as he feared the safety of the new cement dam which he erected last spring.

A heavy storm of lightning and rain lasting for several hours, passed over the village on Monday evening.

MONTREAL, Mar. 29. — The Prince of Wales is undeniably the most popular figure linked with the mayoralty election fight here. Mention by Mayor Martin of H. R. CROMWELL SKELETONS FOUND

Four skeletons, believed to be those of Cromwell's soldiers killed in battle, have been unearthed in Edlington Hall Wood near Horncastle, England. One skeleton is of a fine specimen of manhood of exceptional stature and with perfect teeth. Embedded in the chest and ribs of another were a number of small holes, as though the body had been pelted. Near the skeletons were found several ornamental stones weighing about 300 pounds.

WORK-WORN WOMEN.

Care of Home and Children Often Causes a Breakdown.

The woman at home, deep in household duties and the cares of motherhood, needs occasional help to keep her in good health. The demands upon a mother's health are many and severe. Her own health trials and her children's welfare exact heavy tolls, while hurried meals, broken rest and much indoor living tend to weaken her. No wonder the woman at home is often indisposed through weakness, headaches, backaches and nervousness. Too many women accept these visitations as a part of the lot of motherhood. But many and varied as her health troubles are, the cause is simple and relief at hand. When well, it is the woman's good blood that keeps her well; when ill she must make her blood rich, to renew her health. The nursing mother more than any other woman needs rich blood and plenty of it. There is one way to get this good blood so necessary to health, and that is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These enrich the blood, and through their use many weak, ailing wives and moters have been benefitted. If you are ailing, easily tired or depressed, it is a duty you owe yourself and your family to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

YOUTHS EXPLORE RIVER

Two youths, Max Gray and Arthur Lee Hunt, of Goulburn, Australia, have just completed a 150 miles canoe voyage down the previously unexplored parts of Shoalhaven River of that country. Many earlier attempts to make the trip had failed. The voyage required 26 days, the way being so rough and rocky that on some days only three miles were covered. Near Terriga, a beautiful waterfall, 300 feet high, was discovered. The river teemed with fish, and traces of gold were found in the gulches.

St. Lawrence Development

An Interview by the Honorable C. N. Gordon, P.C., K.C., Formerly Minister of Immigration in the King Government.

Popular attention is attracted to the St. Lawrence development scheme to-day far more than at any time heretofore. The gigantic proportions of such an undertaking and the tremendous expenditures involved, at once strike one's imagination. Commensurate with its size and expense, are the benefits which will ultimately accrue by reason of the construction of this development. That this vast enterprise some day must be undertaken, no one denies, but the manner of consruction, the means of financing, the distribution of power, etc., are matters for the study of the most serious minded of Canadians.

Senator McDougald, the chairman of the Montreal Harbor Board, and a noted authority upon shipping, recently made a speech in the Canadian Senate which was remarkable for its carefully reasoned figures, and sensational in its effects.

He declared that 400,000 potential horse power of electric energy running to waste, existed upon the Canadian side of the St. Lawrence, while upon the United States' shore, there was 1,000,000 horse power.

In view of the fact, that Senator McDougald is a member of the St. Lawrence Development Advisory committee, appointed by the Federal Government, and the other important positions which he occupies, his views carry the greatest authority and undoubtedly command a great deal of respect.

He gave as his considered opinion, that the deepening of the St. Lawrence waterways would not injuriously affect the movement of shipping at the port of Montreal, but on the contrary would steadily increase the volume of shipping reaching that port.

However, a careful study of Senator McDougald's speech does not disclose the fact, that he urges the immediate deepening nor does he suggest that the Canadian Government should now enter into an agreement with the United States Government to jointly develop this stupendous undertaking.

The Government of the Province of Ontario and Quebec through their respective Prime Ministers, at the Inter-Provincial conference held at Ottawa last summer(asserted very emphatically their claims to the ownership of the power generated from the flowing waters within the confines of their respective provinces.

The Dominion Government through the Honorable Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, discussed the matter, but he did not admit provincial ownership of these waters. Prime Minister Taschereau and Prime Minister Ferguson clearly indicated that they were united in their claims of provincial ownership and intended to contest any claim that the Canadian Government might make to the ownership of the potential power.

As a consequence the two Prime Ministers obtained the legal opinions of two eminent counsel, Aime Geoffrion, Esq., K.C., and W. N. Tilley, Esq., K.C., who stated, in effect, their opinion that the provinces did own the power generated from the waters, providing that the development of such power did not interfere with the right of navigation upon the waters.

The Dominion Government then submitted to the Supreme Court of Canada a series of questions, the answer to which will disclose the extent of Dominion and Provincial rights to the power generated from the St. Lawrence river, lying wholly upon Canadian territory.

I think it may be assumed, that generally speaking, the opinion of such out-standing counsel as Messrs. Geoffrion and Tilley, might be accepted as being of much weight. From my study of authorities, I feel that their opinions are sound.

If they are, then only one result follows, the provinces have the right to develop their own power, if provision is made that no interference with navigation takes place.

The Beauharnois Power Company's bill which recently passed the Legislative Assembly of Quebec indicates that Prime Minister Taschereau has no doubts, for this company was given additional authority to its franchise to develop power in the Cedar Rapids area, subject to the control of the Quebec Government. In return the company will construct and turn over to the Crown a section of canal, to connect Lake St. Francis and Lake St. Louis, which could be used as part of the St. Lawrence Deep Waterways project.

One cannot avoid the conclusion that this or a similar plan may meet the objections of those who fear an agreement with the United States may lead to our losing much of our surplus power, to the advantage of United States' industrial and commercial interests.

Building the canal in sections in Canada and developing the power as needed would remove, too, the objection that the spending of approximately five hundred million dollars upon the whole work and awaiting a power market, would run up costs to such a figure as to make the cost of power prohibitive. By this method the Canadian sections would cost the public treasury nothing at all.

Undoubtedly the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, with its enormous power developments, could, likewise, in Eastern Ontario, develop its works, as power requirements developed, without any agreement with the United States, and at the same time the Dominion Government could share in the outlay to the extent of providing for the deepening of the canal, used for power, to a depth required for navigation.

The insistence of the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec upon their right to develop power within their own boundaries seems to have changed public opinion, which appeared to have assumed that the Federal Government alone had jurisdiction over the waters of the St. Lawrence, in Canada, and now, instead of the St. Lawrence Deep Waterway, being considered entirely a Federal responsibility, it would appear as if each province will likely proceed to develop power; Quebec under competitive private ownership subject to Government control and Ontario under its favored public ownership policy.

NO MORE PILES

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store, and druggists anywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

THE PEDDLER NUISANCE.

The bill to license hawkers and peddlers, over which there has been much discussion during the present session of the Legislature and which has been responsible for the appearance of numerous deputations at Queen's Park, was decisively defeated in the Municipal Law Committee yesterday, and will not be reported to the Legislature.

Obviously, it is difficult to devise legislation along this line that will obviate some of the evils of promiscuous peddling and still not injure legitimate business enterprises.

But the housewife would be glad to know that some measure had been drawn up that would relieve her of the nuisance created by persistent wandering hawkers of everything from shoe-laces to lipsticks.

Such gentry are numerous, not always polite, and inevitably difficult to get rid of, and after the lady of the house has had her morning work interrupted three or four times by peddlers who refuse to accept "no" for an answer, she is in a frame of mind to throw both hands up for legislation that would jail all such wandering salesmen on sight.

At least, she is inclined to think that this particular pest should not be protected by the game laws.

A SENSIBLE CHANGE.

The Federal Government in removing some of the restrictions covering personal effects brought into Canada by tourists, is showing a common-sense attitude.

It is good business to make it easy for the right kind of people to come into this country.

In the first place, frequent visits lead to a better understanding and the development of more friendly relations—something decidedly well worth striving for.

And from a dollar and cents viewpoint, anything that stimulates tourist traffic is merely ensuring larger dividends for the Canadian people, inasmuch as the tourist business has grown to be one of the Dominion's greatest industries.

The changes now announced will allow visitors to bring in such articles as fishing tackle, golf clubs, cameras and tennis racquets without depositing a certain sum with the customs officials at the border, and the removal of this restriction, which always caused a certain amount of confusion, will be appreciated by the army of tourists that soon will be streaming across the international line.

It is a neighborly gesture that will be well received by our friends from the Republic.

THE MALE VOICE CHOIR.

The Peterborough Male Voice Choir, under the direction of Martin R. Chenhall, is to give its eighth annual concert in St. Paul's Church tomorrow evening, and the event should attract a very large representation of Peterborough's music-lovers.

The Male Voice Choir, an undenominational musical organization, made possible because of the love of its members for choral work and of their willingness to give freely of their time to the preparation necessary for the presentation of such programs as is to be given tomorrow evening, have earned general support.

In the first place, Peterborough has the choir to thank for some splendid programs and the appearance here of outstanding musicians.

And secondly, the enthusiasm with which members of the organization threw themselves into the Diamond Jubilee preparations last year and helped to organize the jubilee chorus, which played such a notable part in the program, should not be forgotten.

Real community spirit was shown on that occasion by the choir, and the community has a chance now to show its gratitude by making the eighth annual concert the most successful on record from the viewpoint of patronage as it promises to be artistically.

CO-OPERATION

You have probably heard it said that local manufacturers were not anxious to see more industries established in Peterborough.

There never was the slightest reason for any such charge, and the fine teamwork shown in bringing to Peterborough the Johnson Outboard Motor Company shows indeed that far from throwing any obstacles in the way of other industries locating here, the city's manufacturers are keen to do everything in their power to widen Peterborough's industrial field.

When representatives of the Johnson company came here to "spy out the land" the executives of Peterborough's factories, particularly of the local branches of American firms, were on hand to testify to their experience here and to impress upon the visitors the many advantages offered the manufacturer who located in this city.

And as Mayor Denne pointed out yesterday, it was the splendid spirit of co-operation shown by the Canadian Raybestos Company in offering favorable terms for the Henry Hope building that clinched Peterborough's newest industry and assured the location here of an enterprise that gives every promise of developing rapidly.

There was a healthy community spirit about the whole proposition that offers good reason to feel that the Johnson Outboard Motor Company is not the only new industry that will choose Peterborough as its home in the near future.

CANADA AND THE WATERWAY.

(From The Milwaukee Journal)

Canada suggests that she is ready to discuss the St. Lawrence waterway, but wants the United States also to discuss a reduction of tariff, waive claims to the exportation of electric power, and settle the Chicago water diversion question. The Canadian requests are reasonable. That we should have reciprocity in trade with Canada has long been recognized by economists. Questions regarding the division and distribution of power generated will naturally have to be ironed out. As for the Chicago diversion of water, Canada but voices what our own lake States feel.

Unless Chicago's unwarranted drain upon the lakes is stopped, there seems little hope for much progress with a St. Lawrence waterway. Canada and the United States cannot be expected to invest millions in channels and harbors only to have them at the mercy of a single city. Chicago already has lowered lake levels by at least six inches and might readily continue her diversions until they injure the whole St. Lawrence basin.

The United States is right when it replies to the Canadian suggestions that these matters can be discussed and should not stand in the way of immediate negotiations. The negotiations should proceed, for the sake of the waterway and for the very reason that the tariff, water power rights and Chicago's diversion are proper subjects for discussion and settlement. And they should begin with the determination to force Chicago to stop draining away water for electrical current and obsolete sewerage disposal purposes. If government will not do anything for the lake States, it at least cannot afford to let one city block the development and prosperity of our great interior farming community.

AMERICANS: MASTERS OF PUBLICITY.

Commenting the other day upon the fact that American newspaper despatches from Geneva last July led most of the world and much of the British Empire to believe that Britain was responsible for the breakdown of the disarmament conference, The Journal said:

"The lesson for Britain should be that in their dealings with their own press, and with the press of the rest of the world, British statesmen should be just a little less aloof. The British have a traditional dislike of advertising or publicity. That may have been all well and good in the days of the old diplomacy; but in these more modern times, when public opinion is to a large extent influenced by newspaper despatches, and by advertising and publicity, and when other nations like the United States realize this, a little more of disposition to advertise would be a valuable thing, even upon questions of world policy."

We have since received a letter from a Canadian newspaperman with wide experience in reporting international gatherings which strongly supports our view. Writing of his own experiences with American, as contrasted with other, officials, he says:

"Since the Geneva conference began I have worked in Washington, Chicago and Havana on assignments which involved a study of the United States point of view. . . . They have brought the newspaper liaison to a fine art. Capable men, usually with newspaper experience, are invariably sent from Washington with any United States delegation to an international conference. They have capable assistants and useful filing cabinets. They know just what newspapermen want and they are willing to postpone their dinner to supply it. . . . When you have wasted leather for a couple of hours trying to find out what the delegate from such-and-such a nation said at a sub-committee meeting you are quite likely to find that the information was available at the United States headquarters about two hours ago. . . . They never let you down."

British statesmen—and the same thing applies in a degree to Canadian statesmen—have not learned this art. They carry their personal and private reticences into public affairs; they stand aloof from and are suspicious of the press; and, what is far worse, too many of them are imbued with the old ideas of diplomacy—a belief that the people cannot be trusted with knowledge of their own affairs. Any Canadian newspaperman who has had experience in covering even an Imperial Conference knows this to be true.

Our correspondent, who has knowledge of Ottawa, goes on to say:

"I am convinced that if an international conference of political significance was held in Ottawa, all the newspapermen would find themselves, after the third day, visiting the United States headquarters as often as they went to the East Block. . . . The United States, given a fair start, will get the best of publicity in any international conference."

In the old days, when international affairs were the concern of a few, and when the chancelleries of the world did pretty much as they pleased without many caring, publicity, of course, was not wanted. Today it is different. This is the age when conferences have taken the place of subterranean gatherings of spurred and booted diplomatists, the day when the ear of the world is the vital consideration. Because that is so, and because it will become increasingly so as time goes on, it behooves Governments of the British Empire to awaken to the needs of publicity. They may always have the best case in the world, but if they are unable to get it before the world, then the world, which reads newspaper despatches and throws blue books and white papers away, will listen to and be influenced by the nation who can put its bad case well. That is what happened about Geneva.—Ottawa Journal.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, March 29.—Yesterday's exceptionally light receipts for the mid-week market showed that shippers were well advised to hold back their cattle, and acting on that advice Tuesday's sharp declines of from 50c to 75c on most grades of cattle was warning enough that the pre-Easter market was in no receptive mood. With the light run yesterday, the cattle were moving out more freely, at the decline, but in a steadying market. At noon yesterday prospects were looking well for a good clean-up. Anything of fancy quality in the butcher class sold a shade firmer than Tuesday.

Calves were firmer at $14.50 tops.

Lambs steady with a light run.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, March 29 (Canadian Press). — The export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was again extremely dull, there being no improvement in the demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent.

The domestic cash grain market was without any new feature to note, business in all directions being of a very limited character and prices were unchanged.

Outside of a moderate amount of business passing over the cable with the United Kingdom and the Continent in spring wheat grades of flour, there was nothing new to note in the local flour situation. The trade in winter wheat flour was also dull, but values were steady.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were firmly maintained owing to the fact that the demand continued to be in excess of the supply. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was firm with a moderate trade passing.

The inquiry for fresh eggs continued good and an active trade was done at unchanged prices. The receipts were 2,758 cases.

An easier feeling developed in the market for Quebec potatoes and the prices were reduced five cents per bag. Other grades were unchanged.

The undertone to the market for imported beans was firm under a moderate demand. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked were made at $3.65 per bushel, ex-track, and broken lots at $3.75 per bushel, ex-store.

The demand for butter continued of a very disappointing character and the feeling was unsettled. The receipts were 153 packages.

The cheese trade continued quiet, but prices ruled steady. The receipts were 43 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 29 (Canadian Press). — Authoritative reports that acreage abandonment in Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio may be double the total heretofore predicted brought about sharply higher prices yesterday for wheat. Buying toward the last was the most active seen in weeks, with July delivery of wheat touching a new high price record for the season.

Wheat closed strong at 2 cents to 2⅞ cents net advance, with corn ¼ cent to ¾ cent up, oats showing ⅛ cent to ¾ cent gain, and provisions at a rise of 5 to 20 cents.

Commission house buying of future deliveries of wheat expanded promptly after this news was out, and the market finished at about the day's top level.

Urgent bidding for wheat to fill March delivery contracts here was a feature of the earlier trading, and with offerings scarce did much to give strength to the market as a whole.

In this connection, talk was current that there has been practical exhaustion of red winter wheat supplies, and that this circumstance is forcing millers to accept substitutes. It was also current trade gossip that flour demand has enlarged and that apparently distributors and consumers have allowed their stocks of flour to become depleted.

Corn and oats borrowed strength from wheat. Bids for corn to be shipped to the seaboard for export were closed to a working basis. Weather conditions for oats seeding was unfavorable.

Provisions reflected upturns in the values of hogs.

GOD'S MINUTE

Whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions.—1 John 5:15.

Sheltered as we are in the peace of our own home, we pray to-day for the homeless and the lonely. The wayward souls who have broken away and are wandering restless and unsatisfied, may their hearts be turned again towards their father's house. The children, orphaned and dependent, who miss a mother's comforting touch and her good-night kiss, may they have a compensation in tender friendliness. The men and women in great cities, workers with hand or brain, separated by distance from their families; may they escape or overcome the temptations that surround them. The selfish and the cruel who have wrecked their own and others' happiness; may they be changed to a better mind. For all to whom home is only a dream, or a regret, or to whom it means remorse; we pray, O Thou God of infinite compassion, that to each may a message from Thy love that shall be an impulse to a new and higher life. It is Thy will that we be carriers of such messages! Then fit us for this service by a broader sympathy and a readier helpfulness.

This we ask in the Name of Christ. Amen.

"It will pay you to know these inside facts about a tire"

DOMINION TIRES, as constructed today, will give unusual mileage—provided you treat them right. Here are a few of the causes of premature tire failure — and the remedy for each.

Under-inflation. Tests have proven that every 10% drop from the correct inflation causes a 20% decrease from the maximum mileage. If you do not know the correct pressures for your tires, we will tell you. Then let us check the pressures weekly.

Misalignment or wobble. A wheel that is out of alignment only half an inch literally drags the tire sideways many hundreds of feet in a few hundred miles. Let us check your wheels for toe-in, toe-out, camber and wobble — and suggest a remedy.

Neglected Tread Cuts. Moisture and dirt work into them and in time separate the tread from the fabric. A weekly tire examination by an expert, and a few minutes repair work, will add hundreds of miles to the life of your tires.

Improper adjustment of brakes. Braking pressure should at all times be equalized on all wheels. Otherwise, one tire will wear down more rapidly than the others. Have brakes checked regularly.

Cracks in the cord fabric. Caused by bumping into the curb or driving over stones or ruts, at high speed. Though not apparent on the outside, they result inevitably in blow-outs if neglected. Let an expert examine your tires inside and out once a month.

Drop in once a week at a Dominion Tire Depot and have your tires examined for injuries from these and other causes. It's not much trouble to you, but it will mean dollars off your tire bills.

You are never far away from a

Toronto Shares Erratic; Brazilian Issues Strong

TORONTO, Mar. 29. — (Canadian Press.) — Erratic price movements marked this morning's session of the Toronto stock exchange. Brazilian was an outstandingly strong feature, the ordinary stock climbing to 226½ and the rights and new issues appreciating accordingly. On the strong side also was British Columbia Fishing, the common firming to 12½ and the preferred gaining six at 73. Gypsum at 61, Nickel at 94½, assey Harris at 443½, and Seagram Certificates at 19 were all active and substantially higher. British American Oil was steady at 37½, Imperial steady at 62, and McColl slightly higher at 34¾. Walkers softened to 62½, the easier issues also including Zimmerknit at 27, Brompton at 65, and Christie Brown at 119.

New York Rise Continues Though Less Definite

NEW YORK, Mar. 29 (Canadian Press).—Confused price movements characterized to-day's stock market, but the advantage rested on the side of those working for higher prices. Stiffening money rates and the prospect of a large increase in Federal reserve brokers' loans after the close of the market led to extensive profit-taking and bear selling in some of the recent favorites, but new leaders were brought forward in the electric, public utility, tobacco, and copper groups. Trading showed a further slowing up in volume.

There was little in the day's news to influence the price movement. Operators for the rise found encouragement in Secretary Mellon's statement that the gold export movement was not likely to disturb conditions. Time money was advanced to a flat 4¾ per cent. basis to-day instead of 4 5-8 to 4¾ in reflection of a heavy month-end demand for funds.

Western Issues Strong On Standard Exchange

TORONTO, March 29 (Canadian Press)—Strong upward movements in Western issues featured this morning's session of the Standard Mining Exchange. Hudson Bay at noon showed a net gain of eighty points at 17.45, Pend Oreille was up seventy at 22.50, and Sheritt Gordon sold forty higher at 750. The list elsewhere was uncertain and inclined to sag a little. Noranda softened 30 at 17.50, and Wright Hargreaves sold down 25 at 4.55. Teck Hughes eased to 8.44, Lake Shore to 23.50, and Hollinger to 16.50, while McIntyre lost a quarter dollar at 26.50. Slight losses were scattered elsewhere, Bidgood selling down more than three points at 97½. The occasional gains were not large outside of the leaders.

Highest Prices For Crop Reached By Wheat To-day

CHICAGO, March 29. Canadian Press. — Highest prices on the crop were reached in some cases to-day by wheat, with September delivery in the lead and being purchased by foreigners. The chief bullish factor was the crop outlook in central sections of the domestic winter wheat territory and a reported deficiency of sub-soil moisture in the southwest. Opening unchanged to 1 5-8c up, wheat later held near to the initial limits; corn oats and provisions were also firmer, corn starting unchanged to 3-8c higher, and subsequently showing a slight general advance.

Opening prices were: Wheat, Mar. 142¾; May 142; corn, March 98½; May, 100½; oats, March 58¼; May, 57¾.

HELEN MARTIN HID AT CHURCH

TAKEN TO TORONTO.

Helen Martin, the domestic servant who disappeared from the home of Dr. A. W. McPherson on Sunday night, March 18, and was found last Saturday night when she went to the home of Henry Doleman, Smith Township, and asked for something to eat and a night's lodging, was taken to the Barnardo Home in Toronto yesterday afternoon by an official of that organization.

The girl spent the six days in this city without food and in hiding and when she did go out to beg she was refused. Her story is that of a runaway girl who went on the spur of the moment, without thinking, and then feared to return.

Leaving Dr. McPherson's on Sunday night to go to church she failed to return and the next day the police were notified. The officers conducted a thorough search of the city, and the girl in her story tells of several times she escaped them by a hair's breath. The radio stations were called into service and broadcast her disappearance. Postcards describing her and giving her photo were sent all over the province.

Sunday night after church she entered the Sunday School Hall of St. Andrew's United Church and there remained all night. All day Monday she kept in hiding and on Monday night she returned to the little room in the upper part of the hall. Tuesday and Wednesday she stayed in the same place and late Wednesday night she left the hall by one door when the detectives entered by another. To confirm her story, she told the police of the meetings that were held in the hall during the first three days of the week she was hiding in a little secluded corner in the upper hall. When she ran from the hall on Wednesday night she went down to some lumber piles near the William Hamilton foundry and here found a hole under one of the piles where she remained until Friday, when she crept out and begged at several of the nearby houses for money and something to eat. On Thursday, while lying in this hole, which was none too dry, she watched the police search through the lumber piles. She could see the men at work in the yard. Nobody knows the misery the girl went through during the long hours of the night. Friday night she crawled back into the hole and there remained until she left on Saturday afternoon to wander into the country, not knowing where she was going.

Saturday afternoon from her hiding she watched the city workmen blast the ice in the Downie street creek, and when the place where she hid was searched by the officers, they found one of her neck scarfs. As a result of the cold on the nights that she slept in the open, her two feet were frost-bitten, her clothing was dirty, and the girl was more like a waif than the domestic who had run away from home less than one week before.

Police officers investigated her story on Tuesday and Wednesday. She was able to take them to the very places where she had hidden. Her barrette was found in St. Andrew's Sunday School Hall; her neck scarf was in the hole under the lumber pile, and the housewives where she asked for money and food said that she had appeared at their doors on Friday night and, although so much publicity had been given to her disappearance both over the radio and through the newspaper, not one of them suspected that she might be the missing girl, or went to the trouble to inform the police, so that her case might be investigated.

Last night, over CKGW and CFCA it was broadcast that the missing girl had been found.

When the girl was brought to the police station by Sergeant Wigg, the police matron found that the girl's feet were frost-bitten and in a very bad condition. She gave them immediate attention so that the girl was able to leave yesterday.

No reason can be given for the girl leaving the home of Dr. McPherson. She, in her own story, says she was contented and was used well, and especially liked Dr. McPherson, and as far as Mrs. McPherson was concerned she always gave her the best care and consideration.

The Examiner asked Dr. McPherson if he could give any reason for her running away, and the only answer he could give was, "She was absolutely contented here."

IN POLICE COURT

A young married couple, both in their teens, appeared in police court this morning, in what is perhaps the most unfortunate case of the year. She was charging her husband with non-support, and he claimed he could not support her, as he had been unable to get a job. The magistrate's verdict was against the husband, and although His Worship would under normal circumstances have sent him to jail, he gave him two weeks to find work so that he might support his wife.

The centre of this tragedy was Grace Monaghan, aged 17, mother of a three months old baby, who claimed when put in the witness box that she has not received any money from her husband since the baby was born. The mother hesitated when asked if she were going on with the trial. She said all she was asking was justice, and she feared sending him to jail might make him angry. For several weeks the case has come up and every time the husband was told to go and find a job, so that he could support his wife and family, but each time he came back with the same story.

From the wife's story she was married to James Monaghan on Jan. 19, 1927, and for a time things went well and she lived at the home of her husband's father. After several months the two started to quarrel, and the upshot was that they went to live at her mother's home. Later in the year, although she was expecting a baby, her husband left her and went to his father's home to live. Occasionally he sent her over a few groceries and after the baby was born on January 5 he sent her a bed spread. Since March 1 he has given her $10.

Jimmy Monaghan in his evidence, claimed that he had been out of work, and although he had tried all over the city he was unable to find a job. In cross examination by Chief Newhall he owned up to going out with other girls, and that it was as a result of this that the two started to quarrel in the first place.

His Worship, in delivering judgment, said: "In my opinion a young man in this country, which is full of opportunities, who cannot support his wife or secure a job, is a burden on the land. You have reached your limit with me, and although I hate to be the one to start you off in jail, unless you secure work in the next two weeks, I will have to give you a jail term."

L. M. Atwell Retires As Exchange President

MONTREAL, Mar. 29.—At a meeting held here on March 26, Louis M. Atwell was forced to retire as president of the Montreal Mining Exchange owing to the heavy pressure of his many outside interests.

Mr. Atwell, in declining the presidency for another term, however, accepted the nomination of vice-president, and nominated J. A. McCausland of Toronto, to replace him. Mr. McCausland accepted the nomination and was thereon elected.

B. H. Beauvais was elected secretary-treasurer, and Rene Mount and George Williams additional members of the committee.

In accepting Mr. Atwell's resignation the members paid him high tribute for his many accomplishments during his term of office.

That this praise is well warranted is proved by the growth of the Exchange, which, when formed in November of last year, consisted of only eighteen members, and seats were available at the modest figure of $500. The Exchange now has thirty-eight members and many applications pending, with seats bid at $5,500, and none offered under $10,000.

HOME TEAMS BEAT LINDSAY

Peterborough Girls Win Out 22-2 While Boys Win 31-24.

EXCITING BASKETBALL.

Peterborough Y basketball teams added two more victories to their total last night, when, before the largest gallery of the season, Y.W.C.A. team took on the Lindsay Monarch Club girls and administered a 22-2 defeat to the visitors, while a Y.M.C.A. team, the same outfit that made the trip to Lindsay a week or so ago, pulled out from under an eleven point lead piled up in the first ten minutes, to take the long end of a 31-24 count from the Monarch boys. Though not of championship calibre, the brand of the cage game dished up was 100 per cent. exciting and the fans had plenty to yell for—and against.

The visitors were late in arriving owing to poor train connections, so that the first game, between the two girls' teams, did not start at 7.45, but half an hour later. Incidentally, the boys' game was also delayed somewhat, but the fans were patient.

Petes, 22; Lindsay, 2.

Showing a much better notion of how to play under boys' rules, the local girls were not long in piling up a substantial lead in their set-to which Referee Scotty McLeish put under way as early as possible. Truly, they gained but three points in the first of the three ten-minute periods, when the visitors were at their best, but with the start of the middle chucker, they began to sink 'em despite the best efforts of the opposition. At that the visiting girls deserve credit for a plucky, if hopeless, stand, for they never stopped trying. Inability to locate the hoops rather than any lack of whole-hearted check ing held their count down. Their lone tally, representing two points, came during the final stanza.

The teams:

Lindsay—R. Robinson, B. Smith, L. Parkin, G. Clark, G. Saunders, D. Babcock, D. Kennedy, M. Gillies, E. Gillies.

Peterborough 31, Lindsay 24.

On their play in the first ten minutes the Petes had every right to take home the light side of the tally sheet for the Runners climbed in and outplayed them to the tune of 11-0, while the best the homesters could do was look cheerful. They were up against a greatly improved aggregation over that which they trimmed in Lindsay in the first game and into the bargain Ecobichon was the only Pete who seemed to have much idea of the whereabouts of the rings. He was the big scorer for his team and started them out of their slump by capitalizing on several penalty shots. A shake-up or two in the homesters' line-up put them on more even footing and before the twenty minute session had ended they were within striking distance, the visitors having counted thirteen and the locals nine.

Fouls, some intentional, but mostly otherwise, did not go unheeded by Referee McLeish, who had a busy evening on the whistle. The penalties he imposed ranged from the innocent accident to a check on those who voiced their opinions at the wrong time but he kept the game well in hand.

The second and final period started out fast, but close checking kept either outfit from getting away very consisently. The number of shots was divided fairly evenly, but some nice combination work by Sturgeon and Ecobichon went down on the books while the Monarchs were not so accurate. Taken all round, the Petes were lucky to win by the seven point margin and the fans went home satisfied that they had seen a close and exciting, if not classical exhibition of the cage game. The teams:

Lindsay— Spratt, Lyons, Forbert, McKammon, Peel, Brandon, Begley, Brien.

Peterborough— Hardell, Crawford, Ecobichon, Ellis, McLeod, Sturgeon, Menzies.

Following the games, the four teams enjoyed supper in the 'Y' dining hall, Mrs. Loomis being hostess for the occasion. Music and impromptu selections filled a happy hour following supper and the Lindsayites returned home this morning, not victors, but quite as happy.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AT THE NORTH POLE

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

The airship in which Uncle Wiggily, Baby Bunty and Vallie had started to fly home from Italy, slowly settled down toward the side of a big hill. From the top of the hill smoke puffed out of a hole just as smoke puffed out of the chimney on Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow in Woodland. Gently the toy balloon airship reached the sloping side of the hill on which grew nothing green.

"What place did you say this was?" asked Baby Bunty as she climbed out of the clothes basket. For a big clothes basket, to which were fastened many toy balloons, was the airship in which the rabbits were traveling.

"This is a smoking mountain or volcano," explained Mr. Longears to the little rabbit children. "It is called Vesuvius and it is very old. It has been smoking and spouting out fire, lava and ashes for many years in Italy."

"If it spurts out fire," said Baby Bunty, "I should think it would burn people," and she looked up the steep hill at the top of which could be seen the black smoke of Vesuvius.

"Many people were burned," said Uncle Wiggily. "You will read about it in history books when you go back to the Hollow Stump School and the Lady Mouse Teacher."

"Oh, it doesn't seem as if we would ever go back there," said Bunty, twisting her ears backward and frontward. "It seems as if we had been gone for years and years, seeing things in Holland and Italy."

"It is only a few days, really," said Uncle Wiggily. "Things have happened fast since we were blown away on the runaway kite."

He hopped a little way up the steep side of the smoking volcano mountain, which waa so covered with dried mud, ashes, cinders and bits of stone from the lava, or melted rock, that not a tree, bush or even a weed could grow. Vesuvius was a gloomy place, though farther down the mountain were towns and villages and, here and there, Italians had planted their vineyards where grew the purple grapes.

Uncle Wiggily told Bunty and Vallie how, from time to time, the volcano spouted out smoke, fire, hot mud and red hot melted rock that flowed like molasses.

"What makes it so hot?" asked Bunty.

"A volcano is one of the chimneys of the earth we live on," said Uncle Wiggily. "Away down deep inside our earth is a mass of fire, so hot that it melts stones. At times this fire pot boils over and spouts smoke, ashes and

And just then the volcano seemed getting ready to do some "spouting," as Mr. Longears called it. Suddenly the air grew very warm as on the hottest summer day. There was a bigger cloud of black smoke from the volcano chimney and red fire was seen.

"We had better hurry away from here," said Uncle Wiggily. "I think there is going to be an eruption of Vesuvius!"

Quickly the bunnies jumped into their airship and the toy balloons that had become soft and flabby because some of the gas in them had leaked out, now swelled up fat and plump again and began to lift the clothes basket. For the heat made the gas in the balloons puff out new and fresh.

"Here we go!" cried Uncle Wiggily, helping Bunty and Vallie into the basket. Up it shot into the air. At the same time the wind began to blow from the south. Looking down, the bunny girls saw a great mass of lava, or red hot melted rock pouring out of Vesuvius and sliding down the side of the big hill like spreading molasses.

"We got away just in time!" said Uncle Wiggily.

"But where are we going now?" asked Vallie, as she held fast to the edge of the clothes basket for the wind was blowing harder than before. Uncle Wiggily looked around him. They were flying over many countries and bodies of water. It began to grow colder.

Suddenly Bunty looked down and shouted:

"Oh, look at the ice! See the white bears. They are real, live bears, too, not like the white marble one we found in the burrow!"

"I think," said Uncle Wiggily, looking over the edge and twinkling his pink nose to make certain, "I think we are at the North Pole."

"Oh, goodie!" exclaimed Bunty. "Maybe we'll see Eski, the Eskimo rabbit. I'm so glad we're at the North Pole!"

Once more the airship settled down. There was no doubt of it. The travelers had reached the North Pole where all was snow and ice on even the hottest summer day.

Tanlac Stopped Weakening Indigestion

A man whose pay envelope is regulated by the number of hours he works, cannot afford to be sick very much. It becomes a very serious matter indeed when he is so sick and miserable that he does not feel like working at all. This was the condition of Mr. Henri Brunelle, a well known painter for the Canadian Pacific Railway, who resides at 868 Cartier Street, Montreal.

"Nervous Indigestion had pulled me down from 190 pounds to 156 pounds", he writes, "and my strength and energy went down in proportion. Eating caused cramps and gas. I could not sleep at night and was always tired and worn-out. I tried many medicines without results; but Tanlac was different and seemed to suit my case exactly. The best of health and a gain of 38 pounds in weight, is what Tanlac brought me. I eat and sleep and work fine, and I tell the world, Tanlac is great."

Could you ask for a stronger endorsement for any Medicine? When thousands of other men and women in all parts of Canada praise Tanlac as Mr. Brunelle does, surely it deserves a trial from you! Get a bottle at your druggist's today and see what Tanlac will do for you. It costs less than 2c a dose—and your money will be refunded if you are not perfectly satisfied.

'DRUNK' DEFINED IN LONDON COURT

Means So Disturbed As To Lose Mental Balance, Says Lawyer.

LONDON, Eng., March 29—Canadian Press—Sir Robert Wallace, K. C., chairman of the London Sessions, gave his views on drunkenness in summing up a case in which Frederick William Gatting, a taxicab driver, was charged with having been drunk in charge of his cab. The defendant pleaded "Not Guilty" and stated that his condition on the night he was arrested was due to war injuries and not to two glasses of beer he had had. The police surgeon who examined Gatting described the tests applied to him and the symptoms which he found, and said that the defendant was under the influence of drink and was therefore drunk.

Lawrence Vine, counsel for the accused, argued that "under the influence" of drink was not "drunk," and pointed to the fact that a committee of the British Medical Association had not been able to decide when a man was drunk.

Summing up, Sir Robert Wallace said the only question the jury had to determine was whether Gatting was drunk. There had not yet been any actual definition of drunkenness by the Court of Criminal Appeal; it had been disposed of by saying that 'drunk is drunk." There were all stages of drunkenness and those on the border line. "Under the influence of drink" would not come under the definition of drunkenness by the Court of Criminal Appeal; it had been disposed of by saying that 'drunk is drunk.' There were all stages of drunkenness; there were extreme stages and those on the border line. "Under the influence of drink" would not come under the definition of "drunk."

Sir Robert read the section of the Act which applied to the case, and explained that what it meant was that anyone who took intoxicating liquors so as to disturb his mental balance and rendered himself unsafe to be in charge of a motor-car was drunk within the meaning of the section.

The jury found Gatting not guilty and he was discharged.

YORKSHIRE MAN SAYS MIGRANTS CAN MAKE GOOD

TWO CLASSES SUCCEED.

Those With Farm Experience Willing To Rough It and Those With Capital.

LEEDS, Eng.—(Canadian Press).—In a letter to the Yorkshire Post on Canadian farming experiences Jackson Newsham, of Wyresdale Farm, Innisfail, Alberta, a former Yorkshire man, tells how he himself has succeeded as a farmer in the Province of Alberta. His letter was prompted by an article in the Yorkshire Post, who stated that "there are two classes who can expect to do well in the Canadian West, men of sound health and farming experience, who are willing to go on the land, work hard and rough it, and men with capital who can buy farms."

Mr. Newsham in his letter amplifies Mr. Grime's statement in a manner to encourage British migration to the Dominion. He says the Canadian West is filled with examples of men like himself who have succeeded on the land though they had little or no previous knowledge of agriculture. "Certain qualities of character," he says, "are vitally essential: industry, perseverance, initiative, resourcefulness, adaptability, the power to stick, and the will to do." He describes Central Alberta, in which his home is, as "a goodly and a fertile land, with a deep rich soil and a climate kindly in summer and not too cruelly cold in winter."

Relating his experience Mr. Newsham says he was postal and telegraph clerk in Manchester when he decided to strike for Canada, at the age of 25 years. He went direct to Central Alberta to become a farmer, "with precious little money and less experience." He made his first homestead entry in 1902. He possessed six cows, two horses, a wagon, a few crude implements, a sound physique, abundant optimism, unbounded ambition, but only a modicum of farming knowledge.

"The conditions surrounding the poineer of that day were a complete negation of all the conditions met with by the settlers of today," Mr. Newsham says. "There were no cleared land, no fences, no roads, no bridges, no telephones, no banks, no credit, no helpful Land Settlement Boards."

Mr. Newsham goes on to tell of how he was sufficiently ripe in farming experience by 1912 to expand, and he proceeded to do so with marked success. He points out that he never received any monetary help from either friend or government. Now he possesses 1,200 acres of rich land, of which 700 is under cultivation. His live stock is "very near the three figure mark." He has a small fortune invested in machinery, motor trucks and automobiles. In the past three years his grain crops have aggregated 40,000 bushels.

I have a modern farm house of 11 rooms, with full concrete basement, all furnace - heated and electrically lighted by my own plant, Mr. Newsham continues. He says he was the sole architect and to a large extent the builder of his home. His boys are taking educational courses such as he in his youth could never have hoped to obtain, and one of his sons has a diploma in agriculture from the Alberta University. He himself has held various public offices in his district.

Mr. Newsham intimates that success in such case is largely dependent upon the farmer's wife. If she is reluctant to live in a quiet place or cherish and care for the dumb creatures that are a large part of the farm organization, then count such attitude a bar to any chance of success.'"

In a footnote in the Post to the Alberta farmer's letter Mr. Grime says: "I would remind Mr. Newsham that he started with some capital, as well as with Yorkshire grit, and that in writing about Canada I had to be careful not to encourage would-be emigrants who have neither. Too many men and women have gone out unfitted mentally and physically to carve their own way in a new country. I met some of them in Canada, and I do not wish though it might be to the advantage of the old country, to add to their number." He concludes with the statement that there is not "any real deterrent for the young man of skill and spirit who is disposed to chance his luck in the Dominion.

Victor Company Establishes Manufacturing Plant in Japan

Canadians Take Important Part In Organization and Management of New Far Eastern Venture of "His Master's Voice" Interests.

Another indication that Canadians are taking a leading part in commercial enterprises all over the world, comes from the news, just released that Mr. B. Gardner, former Treasurer and Director of the Victor Talking Machine Company of Canada Limited, has been appointed Managing Director of the Victor Talking Machine Company of Japan and has established offices, a manufacturing plant and a sales organization for distribution of "His Master's Voice" products in that country. The new organization is known in Japan as Nihon Victor Chikuonki K.K.

Another Canadian, Mr. Harry G. Stemshorn, of Montreal, recently Assistant Superintendent of the Victor Talking Machine Company of Canada Limited has become superintendent of the Japanese factory. Mr. Hamilton Staats, Head of the Matrix Department and assistant superintendent of the new factory in Japan, hails from the Victor Talking Machine Company, Camden, N. J.

Mr. Gardner's many years as Treasurer of the Victor Company of Canada placed him in close and intimate contact with the administrative and manufacturing divisions of the Victor business in Canada. Besides this, the new head of the Japanese Company, well-known in manufacturing circles, possesses a background consisting of lifetime of merchandising and manufacturing experience.

Mr. Stemshorn's connection with the Victor Company covers a period of years of research and practical work on talking machines. He became connected with the Canadian Company in 1920.

The newly formed Japanese Company is establishing branches throughout the principal cities of Japan. Among these are Tokyo, Yokohama, Kobe, Osaka.

It is the announced intention of the Company to go thoroughly into the matter of recording Japanese music and Japanese drama which takes on national forms of an individuality and beauty unsuspected in the Western world. Besides love for their own music, Japanese have a keen appreciation for the music of the western peoples, showing great interest in the works of the modern European composers as well as of the classic composers, and showing enthusiasm over artists like Galli-Curci, Heifetz, Elman, and others of like high calibre. The latter two, during their tours of Japan, played to crowded houses throughout these little islands of the great far East Empire.

Prominent Japanese were quick to recognize the influence which the new Company would exercise upon the musical world of Japan, as well as upon the population in general. A few days after the factory began to press records, His Imperial Highness, Prince Asaka, accompanied by his Master of Ceremonies, Viscount Soma, visited the plant and made a record. Following this, Premier Tanaka made a record stating his reasons for the dissolution of the Japanese diet, which was circulated throughout the entire country and which was played before the Cabinet to the great delight of the Ministers.

That so much has been accomplished in so short a time, that the new Japanese Company has already become a figure in the national life of Japan, and this mainly under the direction of enterprising Canadians, is a matter for congratulation by all of their fellow countrymen. It is a sign of the new spirit of commercial progress which is in the air, and which increasingly animates those who dwell beneath the emblem of the Maple Leaf, not to forget the busy beaver.

ENGLISH OPERA HISTORY TRACED

Began When Actors Starting Singing Play Because Theatres Were Closed.

LONDON, Eng., March 29 (Canadian Press).—Interesting references to the question of opera in England were made by H. C. Colles, B. Mus., musical critic of The Times, at the Royal Institution, in a lecture on "Musical London from the Restoration to Handel." He pointed out that, while Pepys and others like-minded were singing "Ayres and Dialoguos" to their viols, and while the regular theatres were still closed by order of the Government, that enterprising actor-manager, William Davonant, was getting round the law by giving theatrical entertainments, which, being sung, did not technically come under the ban of the law. He began with "The Siege of Rhodes," which Henry Purcell, at a later date, called "the first opera we ever had in England, and is, indeed, a perfect opera."

There was another entertainment of this time which was not called an opera, but which practically was one the music of which, by Christopher Gibbons and Matthew Locke, has survived in the latter's MS., and has been reproduced on the modern stage. This was "Cupid and Death," which Locke calls a moral representation," but which we should describe as a comic opera, with some spoken dialogue, musical movements, and dances.

It was the haphazard course down which the purveyors of theatrical entertainment drifted, when the theatres were re-opened at the Restoration, which led to the fickleness and inconstancy of the public, so vigorously deplored by Arbuthnot. Nobody seems to have thought out the problem of opera from the beginning, or to have realized that the first principal of opera, of whatever kind was to take a story of some real and human interest, clothe it in intelligible language, and bring the arts of the musician to bear, to express the situation and the words in musical terms. It is said the lecturer, on that principle that all the great operas of the world have been made, from Monte Verde to Wagner.

TWO CHARGES MADE AGAINST NAVY OFFICERS

Mystery Shrouds Nature of Accusations Brought Against Dewar and Daniel.

ROYAL OAK MUTINY.

Dismissal From Service With Disgrace Penalty Attached To Conviction.

GIBRALTAR, Mar. 29.—(Associated Press.) — Mystery which has shrouded the nature of the accusations against Captain Kenneth G. B. Dewar and Commander H. M. Daniel, in connection with the so-called "Royal Oak mutiny" was only partly cleared last night with the news that the charges against them are made under a blanket provision of the naval discipline act.

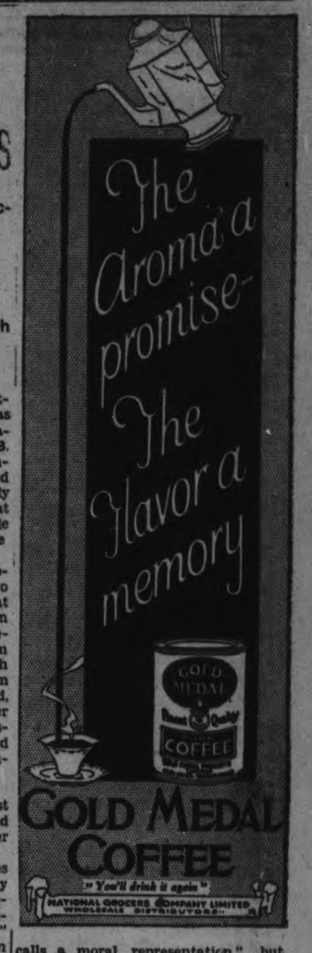
The detailed charges, when stripped of their verbiage, show two counts against Daniel, the first that when ordered by Dewar to report on certain events connected with the departure of Rear Admiral Collard from the Royal Oak on the night of March 5, he sent his captain a letter in terms subversiveto discipline and, second, that he sent Dewar a letter contrary to naval regulations, inasmuch as it contained remarks and criticisms on the conduct of his superior officer, Collard.

Two Charges.

There are two charges also against Dewar, first, that he accepted and second, forwarded the Daniel letter to Vice Admiral J. D. Kelly.

The section cited in the charges deals with any person guilty of any act or disorder or neglect to the prejudice of good order, and naval discipline "not hereinbefore specified." The penalty attached to conviction is dismissal from the service with disgrace or other punishment.

The two accused officers received copies of the charges against them to-day and immediately went into conference with their legal advisers.



$1,200,000 FACTORY to make a CORD!

AT St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, is one of Canada's largest cord mills. Day and night 20,000 spindles hum making cords for Goodyear tires. And all because Goodyear demands an unprecedented quality in SUPERTWIST Cords.

Goodyear created SUPERTWIST Cords. Created them because Goodyear scientists discovered that greater stretch, greater elasticity in the cords would give greater life to tires.

Then, Goodyear acquired a mill to make SUPERTWIST Cords—so that the Goodyear standard would be absolutely maintained—a mill devoted entirely to Goodyear's requirements.

Study the chart which shows why SUPERTWIST Cords do not break so easily under road shocks. All Goodyear Tires are made with SUPERTWIST Cords. Only Goodyear Tires are made with SUPERTWIST Cords.

CREWE CLOSES LONG CAREER IN DIPLOMACY

British Ambassador To France Intends To Retire In July.

42 YEARS IN PUBLIC LIFE.

First Post That of Assistant Secretary To Foreign Secretary.

LONDON, March 29 (Canadian Press).—The Marquis of Crewe, who will in July relinquish the position of His Majesty's Ambassador at Paris, a position which he held since 1922, has certainly added distinction to an office which is one of the highest and most responsible in the Diplomatic Service of the Empire. Lord Crewe, who is in his 70th year, has had an intimate and first-hand knowledge of the conduct of foreign affairs since his early manhood. He is the only son of the first Lord Houghton, the noted poet and politician who sat for many years in the House of Commons as member for Yorkshire borough of Pontefract. Lord Crewe succeeded to his father's title in 1885. Nine years later he inherited the estates of the Crewe family on the death of his maternal uncle, the third Lord Crewe, whose title then became extinct. Six months later, however, the title then became extinct. Six months later, however, the title was revived when Lord Houghton was granted an earldom as Earl of Crewe. In 1911 Lord Crewe was created a marquis.

Lord Crewe gained his earliest intimate knowledge of diplomacy as assistant secretary to Earl Granville, then Foreign Secretary, and on the formation of Mr. Gladstone's Government in 1886 became a Lord in Waiting to Queen Victoria. His first great post in the state proved a hard trail, for it was that of Viceroy of Ireland, to which he was appointed upon the return to power of the Liberals in 1892 when the Home Rule agitiation was at its height. In 1895 the thankless task was terminated by the fall of the Earl of Rosebery's Government, and the Marquis of Crewe, returning to the Opposition benches in the House of Lords, steadily improved his position as a serious politician. After the flood of Radicalism which spread over the country in the election at the end of 1905 he was again summoned to the Cabinet as Lord President of the Council, but in 1908 his growing claims were admitted by his appointment as Secretary of State for the Colonies.

Two years later the burden of the India Office was found to be too great for the advancing years of Viscount Morley, who became Lord President of the Council, and the Marquis of Crewe was transferred to the vacant office, which with that of Lord Privy Seal he held till the formation of Mr. Asquith's Coalition Ministry, in which he was given the portfolio of Lord President of the Council.

Other offices which have been held by Lord Crewe are those of Lord Lieutenant of the County of London, an Elder Brother of Trinity House, Chancellor of Sheffield University. He was Chairman of the London County Council in 1917.

His second marriage, in 1899, to Lady Peggy Primrose, younger daughter of Lord Rosebery, created as much general and pleasurable interest as any royal wedding. The Marchioness was, in December, 1919, the first woman to be made magistrate. Their only son, the Earl of Madeley, who was born in 1911, died at 11 years of age.

Apart from his purely diplomatic work, Lord Crewe, ably seconded by Lady Crewe, has played a large part in the social world of Paris and has made of the Embassy and the Faubourg Saint Honore one of the centres of Paris society. By keen interest which he has taken in the foundation of the British Institute he has furthered one a great deal towards bringing closer the intellectual life of France and England, and it is thus with very genuine regret, alike in French and British circles, that his departure is contemplated.

TIMBER POLICY IS CONDEMNED

Liberal Leader Assails Method of Handling Province's Reserves.

MINISTER REPLIES.

TORONTO, March 28. — Censure by William E. N. Sinclair, Liberal Leader, of actions of the Department of Lands and Forests with regard to the sale of pulp and timber limits and the handling of contracts, and defence of the policy of Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of the Department, engaged the attention of the Legislature for two hours yesterday afternoon.

Sinclair Motion.

The discussion was occasioned by Mr. Sinclair's motion that "This House disapproves of the policy of the Government in relation to the forest wealth of the Province, particularly its failure either to compel performance of the terms of the existing contracts with the Crown under which large areas have been sold and are being held undeveloped and in reserve, or on the other hand, to cancel such agreements for non-performance of the terms of the same, and also its action in selling additional areas from time to time on short and inadequate notice, notwithstanding the non-development of large areas already sold."

The Liberal Leader, speaking at length, cited deals and works of the department in 1927, and in January of this year to illustrate his contentions. Mr. Finlayson, explaining every case referred to, maintained that Mr. Sinclair had chiefly objected to the time elapsing between the calling for tenders and the closing date, whereas "time is no longer the essence of the contract."

"The matter of extreme importance is the upset price," the Minister emphasized, and declaring that Mr. Sinclair had not suggested that any one was shown favor or given advantage, and that prices in every instance were the most favorable that the Province could receive urged the Liberal Leader to withdraw his motion.

"Confirmed Facts."

Mr. Sinclair finally acceded, but only after pointing out that "though the Minister tried to minimize the effect of my argument, he confirmed the facts that I gave the House."

"He tried," said he, "to interpret the facts in a different light from the way I interpret them. But that is a matter for the people to judge upon. Having had the satisfaction of bringing this before the House, having had the satisfaction of the Minister confirming my facts and figures, though he doesn't agree with my deductions, and knowing that if I did press this to a division the motion would be defeated, I gracefully withdraw the motion."

MUCH DEPENDS UPON FORESTS

Varnishes, Sausage Casings, Dress Goods, and Films Among Products.

FIRE GREATEST ENEMY.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 29.—Such diverse articles as varnishes and sausage casings, dress goods and motion picture films are products of the forest, and its conservation is everyone's concern, said R. M. Watt, of the Dominion Forest Service, in a recent address here. Among the nationally important developments dependent on the forests, he enumerated water power, irrigation farming, fur trade and tourist traffic. The greatest present enemy of the forests, he said, was fire, and the entire community, especially the school children, should be educated to prevent this destruction of the nation's forest wealth.

ETON SCHOLARS ARE HANDY MEN

Trained To Consruct Things As Well As To Construe.

BENCH WORK POPULAR.

ETON, England, March 29—(Canadian Press).—"An Eton boy must be a handy sort of thing to have about the house, not only can he decline "mensa-a-table", but on the principal evolved by Whacford Squeers, he can make one," says a writer in the Daily News and Westminister Gazette. "I have just seen a fifth form boy, minus topper and wide collar, with shirt sleeves rolled up, busy on the construction of a model railway. He is respresentative of the new spirit in the education of Duke's son as well as Cook's son, which believes that a boy should be able to construct as well as construe.

"There are boys here who can build a motor-car, make a wireless set, mend the electric bell, hammer out a spare part of machinery on the anvil, turn a chair or a pair of fancy candelabra on the lathe, or fashion a canoe or punt for use on the river. Waterloo may have been won on the playing fields of Eton, but it looks as though the industrial wars of the future may be won in the college workshops, work at the bench is now as popular with the boys as games. A boy who has taken the constructional course, which is voluntary, leaves school with a knowledge of craftmanship which would qualify him for a job in any factory, foundry or workshop.

"Two of the boys are at present building a hydroplane, in which they hope, at some unspecified date, to race from England to Ireland. If they get no farther than the Thames it won't be the fault of the hydroplane. It is no toy, but a workmanlike craft, slim shapley, light as a feather, swift as a porpoise. Every part of it has been made and assembled by the boys in the college workshop, except the engine, which is not yet installed. But the Eton boys know all about engines. Before the war two of them made a motor-car in which they set out adventuring as far as Scotland. There was another trip to Land's End, and as late as three years ago that car was still in commission, though nobody knows what happened to it now. One of its builders was killed in France. Emulation has moved another boy to follow his example. He has only got as far as the bonnet, but if the other parts are as good that car should also make history.

"The constructional course is a great asset to the boys when they go out into the world," I was told. "Many a boy finds himself a young officer in Africa or some other part of the Empire where a particular bit of constructional work has to be done under difficulties, bridge building, or the like, and his knowledge of how to tackle the job frequently solves the problem. Other boys may go into business where their skill as craftsmen allied to their educational assets proves of great value. Nothing comes amiss to such a boy, and his knowledge of how to do the job himself gains him added respect from the workmen over whom he may ultimately be in authority."

"So the expert highly-paid craftsman or mechanic of the future may find sufficient indication of his qualifications in the term, "trained at Eton".

BENEFIT SCHEME MUCH APPRECIATED

Bell Employees Draw Large Amounts From This Fund.

Sickness, accident, pension and death beenfits paid out of the fund provided by the Bell Telephone Company for the protection of its 14,900 employees and their dependants, amounted in 1927 to $296,941. Perhaps the best evidence of employee appreciation of the Company's Benefit Plan is to be found in the record of continuous service amongst Bell workers. There is perhaps no company in the Dominion with an equal record for long term service among is employees. 1d-76-863

RUSSIAN GOLD IS IN DISPUTE

Soviet Protests Attempt To Seize $5,000,000 Shipped To United States.

FOREIGN NATIONS HOSTILE.

MOSCOW, March 29. — Foreign Minister Georges Chicherin has sent a note to Franch protesting against the French Embassy's attempt in Washington to seize the recent $25,000,000 Soviet gold shipment to the United States.

Chicherin, in the note, said the action—the French filed suit in the United States attaching the gold, asserting it actually was French gold seized during the Bolshevik revolution — violates the Franco-Sovet treaty and interferes with the debt negotiations between the two countries.

Assails Nations.

Valerian Ossinski, prominent Soviet leader, writing in the Pravda, said the Soviet Union is adhering to its promises, but the "capitalist nations are violating them."

Thus, he said, the United States, while verbally encouraging trade, actually is permitting legal complications to interfere with its development.

He said the Soviet Government expects an unequivocal answer whether the American assurance of safety is sincere. The Soviets cannot risk seizures of gold in the United States, Ossinski added.

STAMPS USED AGAIN.

British Authorities Investigating Series of Frauds.

LONDON, March 29.—(Canadian Press).—Post Office detectives are investigating alleged stamp frauds, said to be similar to Somerset House cases, where cancelled stamps were used again. The investigations concern the alleged removal of used stamps from foreign cheques which have passed through the clearing house, and from bills and other documents. The traffic is said to have been extensive and drastic action may be taken if, when the inquiries are completed, there is found to be any truth in the allegations.

dustry in my own city, and I shall therefore endeavor to point out what is the matter with it. We discussed this question pretty fully last evening, particularly the hon. member for South Wellington (Mr. Guthrie), whose city is also affected by this change in the tariff. The change, as I understand it, is this, that worsted yarn, which previously had a reasonable protection of 12½ per cent against the British manufacturer, is now put on the free list. That leaves the manufacturer of worsted yarn without any protection at all against his English competitor. Under the protection that has been accorded this industry for several years, a good many of the factories engaged in woollen productions have built up a business, and they manufacture the yarn for their own industry. It is not the raw material, as was pointed out by the Minister of Finance the other day; it is the material which is partly manufactured and represents about one-third of the labour in producing the finished commodity. In my city we have two industries engaged in woollen production, both under one management. They have been manufacturing their own yarn. The persons employed in the manufacture of a portion of the production number 189, and the annual payroll is $141,704.

Now, I understand that the manufacturers have waited upon the Minister of Finance and presented their views. It is my purpose now to say a word or two on behalf of the men employed in the industry, for if these tariff changes become operative they are likely to lose their occupation, which to them would be a very serious matter. As we all know, the woollen industry has not been on a very good footing for some years, and many of the men engaged in these factories have had to be content with part time employment. The proposed changes will enable British manufacturers, employing labour at a much lower scale of wages than obtains in Canada, to compete with our own manufacturers, and it is extremely likely that that portion of the mill in Peterborough in which the yarn is produced will be forced to close down, thus throwing the men out of work. This condition will not be confined to Peterborough, it will exist in industries located in other towns which will be similarly affected, as was so ably pointed out last night by the hon. member for South Wellington. This being so, between seven and eight hundred men employed in the manufacture of Canadian yarn are very likely to lose their employment. I would ask the minister to lay this matter over for another year, so that in the meantime the facts may be presented to him in a clearer fashion than is possible at the present time. What is gained by passing this item? What will be the resultant benefit to the consumer? Very few people are much interested in whether they pay a few cents more or less for an article; but it is a very serious matter to those Canadian workmen who will have to face the prospect of unemployment. Again I ask the minister to let this subject stand for a year at any rate, in order that he may give it more careful consideration.

Mr. Edwards (Waterloo): Mr. Chairman, I feel I cannot allow this item to pass without a word of protest. I should very much like to find myself sharing the belief of the hon. member for Bow River (Mr. Garland) that this is an increase. But fine yarns—40's and finer—came in under the old tariff at 12½ per cent. and that is the only portion I am interested in. Practically all those yarns came from Great Britain. If there was any quid pro quo, so to speak, for the consuming public there might be some justification for this change in the tariff. The case has been so well presented by my hon. leader (Mr. Bennet), by my hon. friend from South Wellington (Mr. Guthrie) and by my hon. friend from Peterborough (Mr. Peck) that I do not feel it necessary again to go over the ground that they have so ably covered. Let me take as an example of what would happen under this item to the selling price of an ordinary suit of clothes, valued at about $40. The actual cloth from the mill entering into that suit would be 3½ yards at about $2.25 per yard, or somewhere in the neighborhood of $8. In other words, only 20 per cent of the cost of the suit is in the cloth. To manufacture that cloth—known as 14, 15 or 16 fine worsted, meaning 14 ounces, 15 ounces or 16 ounces to the yard—approximately a pound and an eighth or a pound and a quarter of yarn per yard is used. This shrinkage from a pound and a quarter of yarn to a pound per yard of cloth is due to the fact that the natural oil of the wool and the lubricating oil that becomes impregnated in the yarn during the process of spinning are taken out in the scouring. If that 4½ pounds of fine worsted yarn were purchased in the old country at today's price and the current rate of exchange it would cost $1.28 per pound. The previous duty on worsted yarn was 12½ per cent. According to my figuring, this would amount to 72 cents; the hon. member for South Wellington placed the duty at 60 cents. What would be the saving to the consumer, the man who buys the suit of clothes? If you could say to him "You will save anywhere from two to five dollars on a suit of clothes", then there would be some justification for this change in the tariff. But there is a saving of only 72 cents, and to effect this saving you are taking from the mills that spin their yarn to manufacture their woollen cloth practically 40 per cent. of their business and putting it on a free trade basis. Up to the point where the wool is changed into fine yarn the work is done by the heads of families, the cleaning, scouring, carding and spinning involving heavy coarse labour. After the yarn has gone through those processes it is put into the looms and handled by female help. So the damage that is being done to 40 per cent of the workers in these mills affects the heads of the families, and consequently presents a very serious situation. To bring its gravity home to the minister I need only cite two cases. In one town of 3,500 people we have a mill employing a thousand hands, and in another town of about 5,000 people, a mill employing 228 hands. Those mills are typical of the industry. We have several of them in the constituency of South Waterloo. This part of the tariff schedule dealing with fine worsted yarns should be reconsidered, for the proposed change will give nobody any particular benefit, and it is fraught with serious consequences to many of our Canadian working people.

Mr. Garland (Bow River): The light has failed.

Mr. Edwards (Waterloo): My hon. friends to my left are always talking about the manufacturer being benefited by these tariff changes. Let me say that no manufacturer of yarn is being benefited by this item; and there is no doubt that the 72 cents or the 60 cents, as the case may be, that is being saved under the tariff will not be passed on to the consumer. It will slightly reduce the cost of yarn, but it will put out of business a large part of the manufacturers' equipment. In the large mill I spoke of—it is located in Hespeler—the housing and spinning equipment represent an investment of practically one million dollars. In the other mill—located in Preston—the investment is between $400,000 and $500,000. I am not going to say that the employees in that mill will be thrown out of work entirely—

The Chairman: I do not want to interrupt the hon. gentleman, but the electric light having failed the reporter may have difficulty in following his notes, and I would suggest that we call it six o'clock.

At six o'clock the Speaker resumed the chair, and the House took recess.

Mr. Edwards (Waterloo): At six o'clock I was discussing the serious damage which will undoubtedly be done to the workers in textile mills through this change in the tariff. I was about to say that I was not sure that they would be thrown out of employment entirely, but I believe that these mills will try to change their equipment so as to spin coarser yarns. This will result in throwing on the market the coarser yarns which are now used in the knitted goods trade, to the general disturbance of the whole textile business. I have nothing to add on this subject. I felt that I should protest once more against this change, but the ground having been so well covered and the case so clearly put by the hon. member for South Wellington, I may well leave it where it stands. I want to second what the hon. member for West Peterborough (Mr. Peck) has said: I think it would be wise to leave this item in abeyance until some further investigation is made by the department.

Mr. Robb: I am afraid I cannot accede to that request; I think we had better put the legislation through as it is. I would remind my hon. friend that parliament will meet again in another year, and there is no desire to do injustice to any industry. I am advised that this will work out to the general advantage of the industry in Canada.

HOW TO FIGHT EXCESS FAT

There are hard ways, like starvation, but fewer and fewer employ them. There is a pleasant way, modern and scientific, which combats the cause. A vast number of people now use it. And the slender figures now seen everywhere are largely due to that.

That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. And everybody, in almost every circle, sees the change. New beauty, new health, new vitality.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So users have no fear of harm. Learn the facts about Marmola, because of the good it has done. Ask your druggist—now—for a $1 box with the book. Then decide.

LOCAL MEMBER TALKS ON TARIFF

Takes Part in Discussion On Yarns Used For Weaving.

Customs tariff—551b. Yarns and warps composed wholly or in part of wool, the hair of the camel, alpaca, goat or other like animal, imported by manufacturers for use exclusively in their own factories, in the weaving of woollen or worsted fabrics (but not including carpets nor floor rugs): British preferential tariff, free; intermediate tariff, 10 per cent; general tariff, 12½ per cent.

Mr. Chaplin: What is the number of the old item?

Mr. Robb: The old item numbers were 558, 559 and 560, and the duties respectively were 12½, 17½ and 20 per cent; free, free, free; free; free; free. The total imports of yarn for the year ending March 31, 1927, under 558, were $3,614,888.

Mr. Fraser: That is the same figure the minister gave a moment ago.

Mr. Robb: I suppose they have divided it up: It is estimated that of this total, yarn valued at $1,000,000 is used by manufacturers of worsted fabrics, and the saving in taxation on that score alone will be $125,000. This concession will help mainly the worsted manufacturers, as the manufacturers of woollens usually find it necessary to spin their own yarns in order to secure the pattern and type of cloth required. In regard to items 559 and 560, importations for weaving purposes will under the new item enter free under the British preference, as formerly.

Mr. Garland (Bow River): This is another item that looks to me very much like an increase, in spite of what the minister has said. He gave the importations under time 558, which was formerly dutiable, but he did not say anything about the imports under time 559, which was free. Has the minister the total value of the imports under item 559? This was free before; it is now dutiable. There is another item, 560, not included under this, which also was free. I think on the whole this is an increase in the duty, and if you study the trade returns I think you will find that the increase will damage the hat and cap industry seriously, as it will increase the cost of manufacturing braids and things of that kind used in hat and cap manufacturing.

Mr. Robb: If my hon. friend is right, then my hon. friends opposite have been wrong in delaying this item.

Mr. Garland (Bow River): The minister should not waste his time and mind worrying about who is right and who is wrong. It is his business to tell the committee what is the matter with the item under consideration.

Mr. Robb: I submit that there is nothing the matter with it. This is a concession to the trade, and as a result we shall have cheaper cloth.

Mr. Peck: This item affects an in-

Carbon is the heat element in fuel. It is the substance which burns—giving heat to warm your home.

The quantity of carbon concentrated in one ton of fuel determines the amount of heat you can obtain from the fuel, the greater the carbon content—the greater the heat.

"oTo" Coke is made from a mixture of purified coals scientifically blended to produce the greatest concentration of carbon. "oTo" Coke is the heaviest domestic coke made—it has more "body" than other cokes. Because of its density and great weight of concentrated carbon it holds the fire better and lasts longer.

DUCE REPLIES TO CRITICISM OF THE PONTIFF

FUNDAMENTAL DUTY.

L'Impero Comments on Pope's Address and Reply of Board.

ROME, March 29 (A.P.).—Before his council of ministers yesterday, Premier Mussolini emphasized the importance of the induction into the regular Fascist party of 80,000 youths belonging to the balilla and avanguardista organizations on Sunday. He declared it was a most important moment in the system of universal integral education and preparation for Italian manhood. He considered that this was one of the fundamental duties of the state, and the Fascist papers accept the premier's words as meaning that he is determined on the Fascistization of Italian youth, with the state controlling education.

Mussolini's remarks are taken by the press generally as constituting a reply to the criticism voiced by Pope Pius on the Fascist education of the youth of Italy.

The extreme Fascist paper L'Impero comments in plain-spoken language on the Pope's now famous address to the Roman diocesan board and the National Catholic Centre party's rejoinder.

"Let us venerate religion and incline before the Pontiff," says L'Impero, "but our sole discipline is that of Italians of the Fascistera, at Mussolini's order. Reading the Pope's speech seemed like a dream, as if turned back thirty or forty years, when Pontiffs poured out to their faithful all the bitterness of an insupportable situation, aggravated by the permancy of the Left (Liberal) parties at the convention of the Italian state.

"No Pontifical document ever contained acrimony towards the Liberal anti-religious Masonic state such as is used to-day against the Fascist state."

What Is Beneath It?

The newspaper continues: "From what is such verbal violence derived? What is beneath it? Who inspires the manoeuvre? From what strange secret deliberation did the attack emanate?" L'Impero maintains that it does not wish to engage in polemics against the Pope, saying: "Our reverence as Catholics prohibits us from pronouncing those strong words which our fervor as Italians suggests. We confine ourselves to one observation—that this inopportune and unprofitable speech not only brusquely breaks up progress toward reconciliation, but annuls and destroys those well-meaning forces which from both sides were destined to reach an accord.

"We return to the status quo ante with this admonition for the Vatican that the Italian Catholic masses, 90 per cent of the population, are so well oriented with faith and sympathy toward the Fascist state after the innumerable proofs given of their desire to impose respect for religion and the prestige of the Church that whenever they would be called upon to take sides in a hypothetical dispute, doubtless their hearts and devotion would be for the Italy of Mussolini, where has been and is being pursued the most courageous religious policy of our times."

The paper concludes that since the outward marks of this policy "are living and speaking everywhere in the churches, schools and homes and in the streets," it will be impossible to arouse Italian Catholics against the regime.

"The manoeuvre, therefore," it adds, "is destined to fail miserably, remaining, however, as a bad page on the debit side of the books of the party against us. It is also an admonishment, especially for those who, like us, have naively believed in the imminent possibility of conciliation."

cording to D. McArthur, professor of Colonial and Canadian History at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., who addressed the convention of the Urban School Trustees' Association here recently. Prof. McArthur said Canadian history was more cordially disliked by students who graduated from the high schools and collegiate institutes than any other subject taught in these institutions of learning. This abuse of the text-book stifled interest, he said, and he characterized the teaching of a subject with a view to the examinations thereon as a vicious system.

One remedy suggested by Prof. McArthur was that less attention should be paid to the history of constitutional development and the growth of government. In this way, he believed, the subject of Canadian history would lose a good deal of its present dullness. He urged the rewriting of many of the text-books and the discarding of others. He advocated the use of the kind of books that gave contemporary descriptions of Canadian life, such as might be found in the narratives of the early explorers and in the descriptive works of travel in the early part of the last century.

Prof. McArthur said he would change examination papers so that a large number of option questions should be incorporated in them and the teachers should be allowed a wider scope to enlarge upon special phases of Canadian development. This would lead to greater interest on the part of the pupils, he said. He declared that only those who had specialized in history should be permitted to teach it.

PICTURE STOLEN FROM PRINCESS

Taken From Walls of Art Gallery With Companion Work.

LONDON, March 29.—Some person stole a tiny oil painting which Princess Mary bought at the exhibition of the Society of Women Artists held in the Royal Institute of Painters Gallery, Piccadilly. The picture was missed with a companion flower study from the walls following a dance at the Institute the previous night.

Both pictures were four inches by six inches. The painter is Miss Mabel Marston. Princess Mary's choice was a composition of blue delphiniums and pink peonies, and near it was a representation of a mixed bunch of flowers.

DRESS

Poppies made of isinglass to adorn the shoulder are shown above at the right. Above at the left, a cluster of rhinestone petals trail at one side and form the collar of an evening gown which is cut low at the back. In the center at the left is shown a sport frock with appliqued lily design. The figure at the right shows Cheruit's mousseline frock trimmed with large petals of silver and mousseline. Below at the left an ornament of feather and flowers which were worn at the left shoulder and the right hip of a new evening frock.

Don't let any one persuade you that artificial flowers are any less fashionable as dress "garnishes" than they ever have been. Just because there is a growing tendency to use jeweled shoulder pins instead of shoulder flowers does not mean that fashionable women have tired of floral decorations.

The important thing is that artificial flowers must now be worn with distinction. You must not content yourself merely with pinning a large artificial red chrysanthemum on the shoulder of your black evening tunic or a silver rose on the shoulder of your pink and silver gown. To be really distinctive you should not put your flower on your shoulder at all, or at least in precisely the same way that you have been doing.

Sometimes the large artificial flower is placed at the back of the left shoulder—just in the region of the shoulder blade. Or it may be placed well back on the left hip—like a tiny bustle slightly gone astray. Or you may arrange three or four soft, drooping chiffon flowers down the back of the left shoulder strap on a low cut evening gown, or both shoulder straps may be completely covered with small roses. Sometimes the decolletage is outlined with a number of small roses of graduated sizes, the larger ones at the front and quite tiny ones at the top of the shoulders and around the back.

With the V-front decolletage a single large artificial flower is sometimes placed right at the crutch of the V in front. This was a fad launched last year which has been gaining favor with smart women here and in France.

The fashion for flower ornaments is still going bravely forward and the only time one wearies of it is when one sees women wearing flowers that are crushed and frazzled—or actually soiled. If you cannot afford a fairly fresh looking posy for your frock then you had better wear none at all. But it is often possible to buy extremely attractive flowers at a very small price and it is a simple trick, as you doubtless know, to make them yourself.

That's what the girls say about you fellows that need a few more pounds or good solid flesh and have never tried McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE GRASSHOPPER

Somebody sent to me from the South
A little package of southern bloom.
When Boreas blows with his wintry mouth,
With thoughts of summer it fills my room.
But when the package I had untied,
What else do you think I found inside?
A grasshopper just crawled out somehow
And blinked in wonder, "Where am I now?"

For what does a grasshopper know of snow?
With never a sunlit field to go,
To nibble the grass and gather the gold?
Of course, there was only one thing to do,
So I wrapped him up with a leaf or two,
And I mailed him back to the South, you see,
The place where a grasshopper ought to be.

I had a letter—it came today—
It was not from him, but a friend of mine—
And it said the grasshopper hopped away
With a happy leap in the bright sunshine.
And there, no doubt, he will sit tonight
And tell the rest of a land of white,
His folks quite proud of their travelled sire,
While the others say, "What an awful liar!"

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

FRIDAY, MARCH 30, 1928.

Benefic aspects dominate today, according to astrology which finds that the good influences are slightly counterbalanced by menacing signs.

Under this rule the brain should be alert and the judgment keen. Lawyers should benefit.

The legal profession is to be much discussed and it is to be extraordinarily prosperous in the coming months.

Judges are to gain fame and to receive high honors from the people. One will succeed in the diplomatic service as a result of the national campaign.

This is read as not a lucky sway for real estate operations. Buyers are likely to change their mind after they have wasted such time.

The seers foretell a time not far off when homes will be conducted as if they were highly specialized business houses. Hotel methods will be applied in the simplest menage and housekeeping will become recognized as a fine art, astrologers prophesy.

An invention of supreme interest to wearers of artificial teeth is prophesied by the seers who prognosticate dental improvements that completely change accepted methods of today.

Changes in fashions will be apparent as indicating other reactionary tendencies. A period of modest and picturesque attire for women is indicated.

Astrologers declare that women will be influenced toward true art that will be expressed in their costumes in which the symbolism of color will be recognized.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of much that is new and interesting in their lives this year.

Children born on this day probably will have first rate executive ability. The subjects of this sign generally are good organizers.

PRAISE LETTERS STOPPED

Indiscriminate giving of letters of recommendation to representatives of foreign magazines, newspaper directories and the like who visit the city in quest of business, has been discontinued by the Camara Nacional de Comercio, the chamber of commerce of Tampico, Mexico. The announcement of the stand, recently made, declares that such letters have been given so freely that they have lost their value and many were issued merely to accommodate friends or to avoid molestaton.

MEN MAKE GIANT SNOWMAN

During a snowstorm in Barmen, Germany, two men conceived the idea of making a giant snowman in one of the public squares. After six hours work the two, one being an artist, completed the modeling of the head and bust of a typical German father. The figure was nearly 10 feet high, and was decorated with hat, necktie and cane, while a tiny tot in snow stood beside it. It was a work of art and sightseers from many parts of Germany journeyed to see it. In spite of rain it lasted three weeks.

MANITOBA TEAM TRIUMPHS IN FINAL ALLAN CUP GAME

McKENZIE SCORES.

Students Assume the Offensive From the Initial Face-off—Incessant Bombardment.

OTTAWA, March 29. — The West climaxed its challenge for supremacy of the Dominion's amateur hockey circles when Manitoba University trimmed Montreal Victorias 1-0 here last night to lift the Allan Cup and carry it Westward, to keep the Abbott and Memorial Cups, emblematic of the junior hockey title, company in their new home. Regina Monarchs won the Memorial Cup on Monday, when they beat back the Ottawa Gunners, and last night's victory for the Western six made a clean sweep of the titular boards. The Allan Cup carries with it the all-Canada senior championship.

Gordon McKenzie, who had just recovered from a back strain suffered in the first contest against the Victorias on Saturday, returned to the game last night to tally the lone goal that brought his university victory in the sixty exciting minutes of hockey which the tussle produced.

McKenzie Scores Only Goal.

Checking the disc away from a Montreal rusher, who was menacing the West citadel, the youthful McKenzie breezed the full length of the right boards and let a blistering shot fly from just inside the Victoria blue line. The margin of victory was just about the margin of the night's play. It was a thrilling contest throughout, that kept the crowd in constant suspense; but in the final minutes, when the Easterners tossed a steady stream of four-man rushes into the students' territory, it was nerve-wracking in the extreme.

At the final bell, which sounded the death-knell to the Montrealers' quest for the silverware, the U. of M. crew went wild, clinging around each other's necks and shouting themselves hoarse with their college battle yell.

The opening and second periods of the play saw the tides of battle changing quickly from one team to the other.

Students Assume Offensive.

From the initial face-off the students drove with brilliant offensives on the East's goal, and Cockburn had to call on all his netcraft to stem the incessant bombardment of rubber. Ward McVey was a spearhead in the West's rushes, and many of his shots seemed certain to dent the twine.

But then, in the latter part of the opening session, the U. of M. crew drew two penalties, and, while thus weakened, the Vics were quick to take advantage, and their stream of pucks on Puttee was at times withering.

In the second period play was very much in favor of the Easterners for the first ten minutes, but the heavy Manitoba backs rode them out of the danger zone successfully. Near the end of the session the Westerners again had their rushes working perfectly, and on one of them McKenzie's lone effort, he tricked Goalkeeper Cockburn for the victory-bearing counter.

Manitoba — Goal, Puttee; defence, McVey, Williamson; centre, Blair; wings, St. John, Watson; subs., Collins, McKenzie.

FIRST OF FINALS RESULTS IN TIE

EACH SCORE ONE.

KITCHENER, March 29 — Stratford and Kitchener played a 1-1 tie in the first of the Canadian Professional Hockey League finals played at the Auditorium here last night. There was little to choose between the two teams on the night play, though taken on the whole the home sters had a slight superiority. They won the first two periods but Stratford had the better of the third by a fair margin. It was a gruelling game with the checking exceedingly close, and as a result there was little combination, a two-man attack being the best at any time and most of the sorties were individual. There was plenty of speed in the contest, and in this the homesters had the better of it.

Both Goals Surprise.

Both goals were surprises. Doraty got the first one with six minutes gone of the second period on a pass from Dunning. He let drive through the defense and hit the corner of the goal. Stratford protested that it was not in the cage, and the referees did not see it, for they allowed the play to continue, but the neutral goal judge was emphatic and kept blinking the red light until the officials' attention was drawn to it. Frew, on a lone rush outside the defense four minutes later, knotted it up, the rubber going over Fisher's shoulder into the goal.

Hicks, Horne and Holway were the pick of the visitors, while Doraty, Dunning and Rice were the best for Kitchener. Gorman had his foot cut in the first period and did not play afterwards.

Kitchener: Goal, Fisher; defence, Gorman and Young; centre, Ripley; wings, Doraty, Clarke; subs, Rice, Hiller, Dunning Cameron, McFarlane, Kentner.

Referees: M. Rodden and J. Laflamme.

Princess Mary, who has not enjoyed a holiday abroad since her honeymoon in Italy, has included in her outfit a sun-helmet, several light linen frocks in her favorite shade of blue, and a camera. Her children will remain at Goldsborough Hall, Knaresborough.

NATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE STATISTICS.

MONTREAL, Que., March 29 (Canadian Press).—Final scoring and penalty statistics for the National Hockey League scheduled season have been announced from President Frank Calder's office. The list shows Howie Morenz, of the Canadiens, maintained his long lead in the scoring list, ending the season with the record total of 51 points, made up of 33 goals scored, which equals the individual mark of Bill Cook, of the Rangers, and 18 assists.

Second to Morenz, finished his teammate, Auriel Joliat, with 39 points, through 28 goals and 11 assists, while in third place stands Nelson Stewart, of the Maroons, with 27 goals and 7 assists for 34 points.

A feature of the figures this season has been the broken records in goal scoring, set chiefly by Canadiens, and the depreciation in the totals of penalties. Eddie Shore, of Boston, led the offenders for a total of 165 minutes in the box, practically all penalties being minors. Ching Johnson, of the Rangers, served 146 minutes; Clarence Bowcher, of the New York Americans, 129 minutes; Siebert, of the Maroons, 109 minutes; Joliat, of Canadiens, 105, and Stewart, of Maroons, 109 minutes. These were the only players to top 100 minutes.

OUTLAWS WIN LEAGUE TITLE

Defeat Hydro 5-1 in Third Game of Campbellford Play-off Series.

PENALTIES NUMEROUS.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 29. — Outlaws won out 5-1 last night when, for the third time this season, the Hydro and Outlaw hockey teams met in an attempt to decide town league honors. The first game resulted in a tie score. The second was no better as far as a decision is concerned, for after ninety minutes' play, the score still stood one all. Then the soft weather set in and every indication pointed to the end of the hockey season where natural ice was being used.

The Hydro Athletic Club has held the championship for the past two years and was making a desperate bid for the honors for a third team, but the Outlaws won out in the fixture, which marks the end of the season. After their few days' rest, the players were inclined to crave more action than the ordinary game afforded, and their sticks came frequently in contact with other objects than the puck. On one occasion, the Hydro goaltender resorted to his fists to uphold his rights, and just a minute or two before the end of the game, a scrap among the players was well under way. The penalties came more often than in previous games, with the Hydro getting the major portion. Clifford Weston, referee, on one occasion had the Hydro team playing with three men and a defence player in goal, but the Outlaws failed to score against them. Of the six goals scored, Cowell scored the lone counter for the Hydro, Lambert got three of the Outlaw's five, and McArthur and Blue each got one.

In the first period, Blue scored on a bounding shot in which luck figured prominently and the battle was on from that moment. But the period ended with no other score being made, and when Cowell scored for the Hydro at the first of the second period, things began to look like a repetition of former games. After a couple of penalties for slugging had been handed out, one to each team, Lambert scored for the Outlaws on a lone rush. A few minutes later he counted again on a corner shot, making the score 3-1 for the Outlaws. Saunders, Hydro goalie, and McArthur, Outlaw centre, disagreed about something and used their fists to aid the argument, but the other players got them separated and the game proceeded, with both of them in the penalty box. This left the Hydro with only four men on the ice and their gaol tender off, but the Outlaws couldn't score.

In the final period, Lambert scored on a pass from Blue about five minutes after the play started. Johnson drew a penalty for using his stick on Lambert and a minute later, Lambert followed him for tripping. There was a scramble in the Outlaw goal and the puck landed in the net. There was a hot argument and an animated disagreement was just getting nicely started when the referee ruled that the goal did not count. It appeared that, in the scuffle, Badgley had thrown the puck into the net behind Fox, who was on his knees in front of the goal. With less than one minute to go "Huck" McArthur scored the fifth goal for the Outlaws on a beautiful solo rush, and the bell rang before the play was resumed.

Now that the ice has been brought back to playing condition again, the fans are crying for more hockey. Arrangements are being made to have a game here between the High School Grads and Hastings seniors on Friday night if the ice is in condition. This will depend on whether or not the present cold spell continues till at least late Thursday night.

OUTSIDER WINS FIRST BIG EVENT

Dark Warrior Pays 28 To 1 in the Lincolnshire Handicap.

LINCOLN, England, March 29. — English racing followers, expectantly debating the chances of favorites for the year's great classic—the Grand National at Liverpool on Friday—were given something else to talk about yesterday when the Lincolnshire Handicap was won by Dark Warrior, a dark horse.

The winner of the first big event of the flat season, with Bobby Jones up, paid the fancy price of 28 to 1, and finished two lengths ahead of Philammon quoted at 100 to 7.

The result of the handicap was another evidence of the keen rivalry between the Joels, two sportsmen brothers. Between them they have captured almost all the great English turf trophies.

Sol was not present to see his entry home first. Dark Warrior was his stable's second choice until Fohanaun was withdrawn a fortnight ago.

Yesterday's event, while joyfully hailed as the flat season's inaugural was but an appetizer for the greatest race of them all, the Grand National.

Disappointment is felt because the king and queen cannot attend as planned, but society will find consolation in the presence of the king and queen of Aghanistan.

BACKFIRE CAUSES BLAZE ON STREET

Car Somewhat Damaged By Flames Following Explosion.

If the motor of a car owned by W. Howe had not back-fired through its carburetor, resulting in a fire which endangered the entire car, the firemen would not have been forced to "climb out" shortly after one o'clock this morning to make a run to the corner of Simcoe and Stewart Streets, where the threatened vehicle was standing. On arriving, they found that the blaze had died down considerably without doing serious damage, though there was little sign of any oil or grease which might have been on the outside of the motor before the stray explosion.

This was the second call within nine hours, as at about 4.25 on Wednesday afternoon the brigade had been called to 500 Park Street North, where chemicals were required to extinguish a chimney fire.

Leverett D Holder., who is now in his 85th year, has held the position of city clerk of Malden, Mass., ever since that city was incorporated nearly fifty years ago.

WILL WELCOME YACHT RACERS

TO LAVISH HOSPITALITY.

SANTANDER, Spain, March 29.—A rousing welcome, with everything arranged for giving the visiting Americans a luxuriously good time while in Spain, is already in preparation at Santander for the climax of the New York to Santander ocean yacht race this year.

The King and all of Spain's sports men and yachtsmen are showing a vital interest in making the event one of the greatest in Spanish sporting history and the government is cooperating in every way with the yachtsmen toward this end.

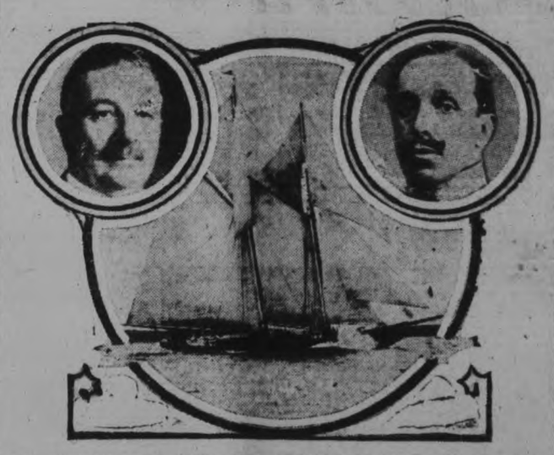
The government has donated a large building facing the main pier which is now being transformed into a sumptuous clubhouse for the reception of the American yachtsmen with comfortable suites of living quarters, lounges, clubrooms, dining rooms and bar salons. The Americans will live in this club building during their stay with the best of accommodation. The club will also provide headquarters for the events of the big regatta scheduled after the arrival of the transatlantic racers.

Other events on the program which was endorsed by the Reception Committee at its first meeting held yesterday in Madrid include varied entertainments, such as bull fights, horse races and local fetes to be organized in different towns along the coast from Balboa to San Sebastian, in honor of the American visitors. The King and Queen will give a dinner for the sportsmen with the winners to be seated at their right hand.

All participants in the race to reach Santander will receive trophies and in addition a great number of gifts of products of Spanish factories, which will be presented as souvenirs of Spain. The King, yacht clubs and various sporting associations are all offering mangnificent prizes.

The presidents of all the Spanish yacht clubs are cooperatng in efforts to give the Americans an agreeable impression of Spanish hospitality and the population of the Santander district is enthusiastic over the race. Besides the Minister of Marine, Admiral Cornejo, the King and Queen will come to Santander to receive the yachtsmen.

CANADA'S ENTRY



The Bluenose, pride of the Nova Scotia fishing fleet, is Canada's entry in the international transatlantic schooner race being arranged with the Zodiac as the champion of the Gloucester fishing craft. Inset are the King of Spain, who is sponsoring the unique event, and Wm. Duff, M.P., who is boosting the plan. The eastbound race is expected to take about 12 days and westbound 20 days.

NO CENTRE AREA IN CANADIAN HOCKEY

Suggested That Two Defense Lines Be Eliminated—Only Radical Change.

OTTAWA, March 29.—Select committees of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and the National Hockey League had a four hour session here discussing the unification of hockey rules for Canada. No definite decisions were reached, however, as the committeemen of the National League were armed with authority to take final action on the matters at hand. Proposals formulated out of the discussions will be taken under further advisement by President Frank Calder and other members of the National circuit committee, and will come up for approval or otherwise at the next meeting of the league heads.

It is understood that the most radical change in the rules debated would eliminate the two defence lines, which are now part of the playing code. It was proposed that in their place a single line be adopted, to cut the playing surface at centre ice and thus form two areas. Under this proposed rule teams would be allowed to use the forward pass in their own area, but once across the centre line an attacking team would be compelled to observe rigid playing rules in the goal area, in which at present forward passing is allowed, would be banished completely, if the suggestion were adopted.

A pact is being sought by the C.A.H.A. that the N.H.L. will not sign players under the age of 21. This rule might be adopted if the N.H.L. are granted the concession of trying out likely material prior to the submission of contracts. As matters now stand, amateur players graduating into hockey's moneyed ranks as a rule have their names affixed to their contracts before undergoing a trial with the professional teams.

RICKARD PLANS ON FIGHTS IN NEW YORK

Has Leased Two Main Ball Parks—Paolino After Open Air Matches.

NEW YORK, March 29.—The campaign to make New York safe from the devastating influence of a heavyweight championship fight seems likely to be successful again.

The struggle between the boxing commission, on the one hand, and Tex Rickard and the heavyweight champion, on the other hand, faces a new deadlock, seemingly designed to force the promoter to other fields. The only difference this year is that the 1928 heavyweight follies are being staged earlier than usual.

The probability is that Rickard, although ostensibly planning to hold the big title fight or fights in New York this year by leasing the two main ball parks, all along has had an eye peeled to windward.

Chicago and Philadelphia, as well as Baltimore and Windsor, Ont., have made overtures for a championship fight, but New Jersey, site of Rickard's first "Battle of the Century", in 1921, looms as the likely battleground if Tunney is to defend his crown anywhere outside of Gotham.

Jersey boxing laws have been changed this year to provide for 15 round bouts to a decision, the same as in New York. Boyle's thirty acres, the once historic wooden saucer across the river, is no more, but Rickard is understood to have discussed plans for erecting a big concrete arena in Jersey. Thus, he figures, a threat of taking his "big money shots" outside New York might help produce a more compromising attitude by the metropolitan boxing authorities. So far, however, such threats haven't made much headway against the three moguls who sit in state in the Flatiron Building.

After Open Air Matches.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Paolino and his flock of managers are back in town ready for the outdoor season. Anyone and everyone connected with the open air parks are receiving due consideration for proposed matches. The Basque is fortunate in having more than one man doing his business, in that he can hold several conferences at one time.

Paolino did not have to hurry back from the coast. According to the comment following his shoving against George Godfrey in Los Angeles, the woodchopper had his choice of several matches at juicy terms. Coast promoters realize the Spaniard has a lot of color and is a box office asset.

The real reason hastening Paolino's return to the east is the muddled state of affairs existing at present. The heavyweights emerging with the least plastering from Tex Rickard's elimination tournament are scrapping among themselves. Paolino thinks he has a chance to settle the arguments by taking Risko and Heeney, one after the other, and then qualifying for the chance at Tunney. Or, reasons Paolino, he could be drafted to fill in against Tunney with further quibbling and settle the whole business.

Paolino has refused to tie up with any one promoter. Witness his defection from the Fugazy and Rickard standard. The Spaniard does not have to consult his board of managers when a good offer comes along. He promptly tells them to accept, and they do. No matter what anyone says, Paolino is the boss.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

EMIL JANNINGS, THE MIGHTY, THE INCOMPARABLE, THE WORLD'S FOREMOST DRAMATIC STAR, WILL BE SEEN IN "THE LAST COMMAND" AT THE CAPITOL TO-NIGHT, AND FOR THE BALANCE OF THE WEEK.

The combined acting skill of Emil Jannings and the directing of Josef von Sternberg, stamp "The Last Command" which appears at the Capitol to-night and for the balance of the week, as one of the outstanding pictures of the year.

Janning, whose unusual characterizations in such Paramount productions as "The Way of All Flesh" and "Variety" and others, who has brought the unanimous acclaim of critics as the greatest living character actor on stage or screen, plays the role of a Russian general in this new picture. He has created a distinctive type of man in this role, bringing out the military characteristics of an army commander, and at the same time making him a genial and beloved figure.

Von Sternberg, as a revolutionary director, is a lover of the "different" in motion pictures. His "Sensation Hunters", his first picture, which was followed by "Underworld", stamped him among the elite of Hollywood's best directors.

AT THE REGENT.

"The Masked Menace," the Patheserial adaptation of Clarence Budington Kelland's Saturday Evening Post Story, "Still Face," reaches its fourth chapter at the Regent Theatre to-day to Saturday, with Larry Kent and Jean Arthur starred. It is called "A Half-Wit's Fury" and shows up Job, the, the voodoo worshipping servant of the mysterious Still Face, as a deadly menace. Meanwhile the Maxwell Mill continues to make war on Keats and Grandma Newton, hoping to discourage them in the re-opening of the Newton mill.

"THE ROUGH RIDERS" CAST CAREFULLY CHOSEN.

Beery Bancroft, Farrell, Mack, Hopper and Mary Astor are Featured.

In the modern photoplay in which the bigness of the theme is of an importance equal to if not transcending that of the story thread, the casting of players to suit the roles is becoming more and more vital to the ultimate success of the screen drama," says Victor Fleming, who directed Paramount's epic production "The Rough Riders" on the site of that historic fighting body's original training camp near San Antonio, Texas.

In the hands of Hopper and Lindsay, the historic characters are portrayed with a vividness and realism that has drawn warm praise from those veteran Rough Riders, who came from all quarters to revive those stirring days.

With equal care have the "story interest" principals been selected in the persons of Mary Astor, Charles Emmett Mack, Charles Farrell, Noah Beery, George Bancroft and Fred Kohler, each of whom fits into his part with a naturalness that makes for vivid realism. Charles Emmett Mack and Charles Farrell, one representative of the East, the other of the West, constitute with Mary Astor the triangle which now finds its solution in the picture's closing scenes.

Fred Kohler as Sergeant Stanton is typically the hard-boiled army sergeant trying to whip a bunch of raw recruits into shape, who while capable of hard riding and hard shooting, as became the men of the old west, knew nothing of military conduct—and cared less.

APPLICATIONS MADE FOR INSPECTION

Indian River Man Wants Certificate For Export of Milk.

Dr. Thomas Johnston, who was last year appointed Government Inspector to implement in this district the regulations attached to the Federal Import and Milk Act, reports that the first application for such inspection has been made by W. F. Meyers of Indian River, who came from Cornwall last fall and bought out the cheese factory at Indian River, formerly operated by James Juby.

The Federal Import and Milk Act is an agreement between the United States and Canada, whereby the former country is protected against danger of disease from milk exported from the Dominion. The United States' government is not content with pasteurization of milk nor with certificates attaching to tuberculin-free herds. It wishes guarantee that all premises are clean and sanitary in every respect. Dr. Johnston received last year the commission from the government to make a physical examination of cows and a careful examination and scoring of farm premises, every factor in connection with milking instruments and housing of the animals being considered in the final verdict. The fee for this is set by the government and paid by the farmers.

Mr. Meyers, who has one hundred patrons at Indian River, and has facilities for shipping his milk to Buffalo markets with a small margin of time, has made the first application for this examination, and it will be carried out when the roads open up sufficiently.

Dr. Johnston is of the opinion that the new regulations will work greatly to the advantage of the farmers shipping milk and has decided, if possible, to secure the services of a Government expert who will hold a public meeting somewhere in the district and explain the system and its aims and objects.

Prince Thrown But Wins Race

FRENSHAM, Eng., Mar. 29. — (Canadian Press).—Despite being thrown by his favorite hunter, Miss Muffett Second, during the Highland Brigade Steeplechase meeting at Stockington to-day the Prince of Wales remounted and won the race.

The Prince, riding in the race for officers, competed as Colonel-in-Chief of the Seaforth Highlanders. Weather conditions for racing were atrocious, with heavy wind and pouring rain. Making the pace practically throughout, however, the Prince won handily.

SPORTSMEN around the globe will be amazed and delighted at the news that, at last, a waterproof shot shell has been perfected. This phenomenal achievement — said in gunning circles to be the greatest improvement since the development of smokeless powder—is the work of The Dominion Cartridge Company. This Company, through its association with Canadian Industries Limited, ranks with the largest producers of ammunition in the world.

Think what a real waterproof shell means! Before, duck shooters were forced to guard shells from wetting as carefully as their grandfathers guarded loose powder. Today, they may lay their shells in the bottom of the boat or down among the reeds without care or caution. Duco Finished Imperial Long Range Shells may be subjected to moisture for hours and will then work smoothly in any gun. Atmospheric changes will not affect them.

The vast resources of Canadian Industries Limited, in grasp of world markets and buying power, and the technical knowledge gained through its affiliation with Imperial Chemical Industries Limited, Great Britain, and E. I. DuPont de Nemours & Company, of the United States, are at the disposal of the Dominion Cartridge Company.

Therefore, sportsmen using Dominion Ammunition are getting highest quality with the latest improvements known to the chemical engineer.

MAPLE SUGAR SALE BEING PROMOTED

Agricultural Expert Urges Women To Use It In Large Quantities.

MONTREAL, Que., Mar. 299 (Canadian Press).—"Use maple sugar in the home; encourage children to eat it as candy, and send it abroad in the form of gifts to friends, to stimulate markets in other countries.

So the Women's Club of this city was urged by an agriculturist expert the other day to revive an old industry. He instanced the good work of Mrs. Mary McMillan, Montreal, who had developed a high standard in marketing her products.

The Hon. Mr. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, has become so interested in the matter through representations made by Mrs. McMillan, that he has promised to see that the maple products industry receives a larger share of attention in his department than formerly, and has already started several moves to that end. One result of the minister's active co-operation for standardizing Canadian maple products. Meanwhile the Department of Health continues its surveillance as regards deleterious ingredients in maple compounds.

Miss Agnes Macphail, M.P., is active in the same cause, to a considerable extent as a co-worker with the Minister of Agriculture. The value of the work done by her will become more apparent in the near future.

At present artificial feeding is practised in two ways: Injections into the blood and injections into the digestive tract. What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

X—Has the Church Done More Good Than Harm?

LET us present the facts against the church in the strongest possible terms. History furnishes plenty of material.

The scene is the desert, the home of camels and sheiks, of green oases and brown veiled women; the birthplace of more than one religion.

The Korashites and the Ghatafanantl have joined in an expedition to finish off Mohammed. On their way to Medina, where the prophet is entrenched behind a ditch and moat (novelties in desert warfare), they induce a Jewish tribe, the Beni Koraida, to enlist.

The prophet of Allah has enemies inside the ditch as well as out: the Jews of Medina are related to the Beni Koraida and are likely to attack him in the rear. Panic-stricken, he suggests to his captains that they bribe the Ghatafanantl to separate peace by offering them a third of the date harvest of Medina.

Allah's Command?

The suggestion is hardly made before a chief of tremendous fatness struggles to his feet. It is Sa'd b. Mu'adh, leader of the Awsites.

"Do you propose this by the command of Allah, or is it an idea of your own?" he demands.

The prophet is never off his guard.

"If it had been a command of Allah I should never have asked your advice." he replies. "I see you pressed by your enemies on every side, and I seek to break their confederacy."

"O prophet of God!" rejoins Sa'd, "when we were fellow-idolaters with these people of Ghatafan they got none of our dates without paying for them; and shall we give them up gratuitously now that we are of the true faith and led by thee? No, by Allah! if they want our dates they must win them by their swords!"

Heartened by this stout speech, the followers of the prophet prepare to stand firm, while he himself sends spies to sow dissension in the ranks of his enemies, a form of diplomacy at which he excels.

Wrath of Mohammed

So successful is the effort that the allied tribes are shortly quarreling vigorously and when, a day or two later, a storm comes to blow down their tents, put out their fires and drench them to the skin, a rumor spreads that Mohammed has raised the storm by enchantment. This is too much. Grumbling and cursing, the foes break their camp and hurry back to their homes.

Within the walls of Medina is great rejoicing. The prophet is tempted to be satisfied with his victory, but the angel of Allah upbraids him. He must not rest until vengeance has been visited upon the Beni Koraida. So the faithful surround this Jewish tribe in its fortified city and presently compel a surrender.

The Beni Koraida implore the intercession of their ancient friends the Awsites, and the prophet agrees to leave their fate to the decision of the chief of the Awsites, our fat friend Sa'd. Joyously the Beni Koraida come forth, sure that the judgment will be merciful. But Sa'd is hot and sweaty and suffering from a spear thrust in his side.

"Will ye then," he inquires of his tribesmen, "bind yourselves by the covenant of God that whatsoever I decide ye will accept?"

They agree.

"Then this is my judgment," he shouts. "The men shall be put to death, the women and children sold into slavery, and the spoils divided among the faithful."

Protest Futile

"Truly the judgment of Sa'd is the judgment of God," he cries.

That night trenches are dug, and the next morning six or seven hundred men march out, seat themselves on the edge, and are beheaded and tumbled, one after another, into the long deep grave. The victors look on with gibes and sneers, the Prophet of God in the front rank.

After a time he tires of the spectacle and goes back to his harem which the expedition has enriched by a beautiful young Jewess. A few days later he emerges to pronounce a final benediction over the body of the fat Saad whose wound, reopened in the excitement of his judgment, bled him to death.

"O Lord, verily Sa'd hath labored in thy service," the prophet prays. "He hath believed in thy Prophet, and hath fulfilled his covenant. Wherefore do thou, O Lord, receive his spirit with the best reception wherewith thou receivest a departing soul!"

Undoubtedly, the priests of the Beni Koraida, waiting at the edge of the ditch for the sword to reach them, had uttered similar prayers. Their souls were wafted up to Heaven only a few days before the soul of Sa'd.

Tomorrow—Slaughter of Christians.

Fifth Peterborough Troop.

On Tuesday night the weekly meeting of the Fifth Peterborough Troop opened promptly at 7.15. At flag break the troop stood in horseshoe formation. The troop repeated the second verse of the "Children's Song," which was followed by "Scouts' Silence." Remarks concerning the troop were asked for and the patrols broke away for instruction.

Following patrol instruction came inspection of the troop. A very instructive game was played. This took in ambulance work and much was learned under the instruction of P. L. Garry Johnson. While this was going on the Beavers were preparing camp fire.

The troop was entertained by two Blackbirds, alias Roy Hope and Bill Barry and many witty sayings were heard. The camp fire closed with the Scout promise and court of honour followed.

The troop was honored by the presence of two scouts from the second troop.

The Fifth Troop wish to again remind every one about their Parents' Night. Everyone is welcome. Watch for the date.

Mr. Paddon, who has been conducting a Scout course in the city, had charge of a Scout meeting which was held recently in St. Luke's Sunday School. Before opening the meeting, he explained some of the Scout signals, after which he opened the meeting by calling "tuf" and waving his hands across his body, which meant that the Scouts should fall in semi-circular formation. Next came the "alert" signal.

A talk on Scout Laws proved to be the next item, after which he taught some new games. A sing-song was enjoyed and a number of old favorites in Scouting were sung. The meeting closed with the Scout Silence.

The boys wer asked not to forget the meeting next Friday, to come ready for inspection, and to bring their fees.

MUTTON BAY WORK STARTED LAST YEAR

Good Results Already Seen in Hospital at This Point.

Mutton Bay is one of the largest English-speaking villages on the Canadian Labrador, the headquarters for St. Clements' Anglican Mission being located there. In recognition of the preventive and constructive value of this hospital centre The Church Helpers' Association of Quebec, are making a grant of $500, annually toward upkeep of that Station. The Cottage is just completed, equipped and staffed a year. Nurse Agnes Murray of New Brunswick, is in charge, with Miss Janet Stewart, from Ottawa, as companion V.A.B. Nurse Murray has been with the Grenfell Mission now for some years (at Harrington Hospital) knows the coast and conditions well and is a great favourite. The cottage has a three-bed ward and has already demonstrated, in cases of severe illness, its value as a life-saving station. Mutton Bay is thirty-five miles east of Harrington and about one hundred and twenty-five miles from Forteau.

In addition to cottage Nursing Stations this Mission has Nutrition Units travelling the coast during the summer time. These are graduate volunteers and a unit consists of a doctor, dentist, graduate nurse, and social service worker. Taking the stretch of Coast allocated, they make a health survey of all the families in that section, keep records for the information of the permanent staff, and remedy all the ills they can as they make their rounds. The nutrition work is financed by the sale of Christmas cards each season, for the outlay is very considerable, even when no salaries are paid.

Bicycle Licenses To Check Up Thefts

A bill empowering cities and towns to require the licensing of all bicycles, the fee to be one dollar, was approved by the Municipal Law Committee of the Legislature yesterday.

F. B. McBrien (Conservative, Toronto-Brockton), introducing the bill, explained that it was not aimed at the raising of revenue, but was a move to provide a check up on stolen "bikes."

The committee also passed an amendment to the Municipal Act whereby dealers in coke and coal may be licensed and regulated, and providing for the cancellation of licenses in the case of convictions. This applies to cities of a population of one hundred thousand or over. The maximum fee to be charged was set at $5, instead of $25, as first proposed.

IN MEMORIAM

BLODGETT.—In memory of Leonard Joseph Blodgett, who died on March 29th, 1927.
One year ago to-day
Since our loved one passed away.
We miss his kind and smiling face;
There's no one on earth can take his place.
All was done that could be done
By human hands his life to save.
But God had different plans.
We know God's ways are for the best;
He took him home with him to rest.
And, now since he has gone to rest
And left a world of sorrow.
We'll say farewell and do our best
And hope to meet him soon.
—Sadly missed by his sorrowing parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Blodgett.

SAYS HIS AUNT KIDNAPPED HIM

Brothers Deny Story of Man Recently Returned to St. Catharines.

NOW 61 YEARS OLD.

ST. CATHARINES, March 29—Kidnapped or taken to be raised by an aunt who was lonely, is the mystery surrounding Duncan Herald, of Kansas City, Kansas, who has just terminated successfully in this section, a search for his three sisters and three brothers, whom he had never seen. Herald states that he was kidnapped when only 14 months old, and that it was not until he was 20 years of age that he became aware of his family history, and of the fact that he had brothers and sisters living in the Niagara Peninsula.

Then for some unstated reason he allowed another 41 years to pass before coming east in search of his relatives. His own story is a tale of the west, where he was reared among pleasant surroundings. He has a firm conviction that he was stolen from his parents in St. Catharines and taken out West.

But his brother, Charles Herald, of Vineland, related another story last night. This brother stated emphatically that there was no kidnapping. An aunt took the baby, Duncan Herald, home with her to the West, and failed to return her charge, rearing him as her own. There is not a great deal of difference in the stories of the two brothers. The one of being kidnapped, the other of an aunt who failed to return a baby boy, whom she had taken to her home on a visit.

The version by Charles is corroborated by the sisters of the long-missing man. It is apparent that the aunt kept her nephew in darkness as to his identity until he reached manhood's estate.

Duncan Herald's visit to the district will be a short one. He reached St. Catharines on Sunday, and is returning to Kansas City this week-end. His relatives, whom he saw while he was here, are Mrs. James Crosby, Mrs., John Bordick and Miss Herald, all of St. Catharines; and Charles Herald, of Vineland; and Alexander Herald, of Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Charles Herald also stated that Duncan is the eldest of the family, but the fact that he was with his aunt was family knowledge. One of the sisters of the absentee, stated yesterday that her brother was quite in error in his story of his mysterious life.

Duncan Herald is said to have left his story in the office of a local newspaper, in an envelope addressed to the editor.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

I have explained the cause and cure of acute nephritis and explained that a rapid recovery may be expected in this disorder if simple eliminative measures are used to aid the overworked kidneys in recovering their normal functions. The cure of chronic nephritis, however, offers many difficulties.

In the chronic form most of the symptoms are present which are seen in acute nephritis. There will be dropsy, and albumin and casts in the urine. Sometimes, due to the persistent injury of the kidneys by toxins, these organs will enlarge, but in certain types of nephritis the opposite occurs and the kidneys become small and hard. In the most serious form of chronic nephritis there will be a persistent high blood pressure, often reaching as high as 250 to 300 millimeters.

Where the acute form of nephritis disappears quickly under proper treatment, the chronic form is a very serious disorder and requires prolonged treatment with diet and other hygienic measures for correcting the faulty metabolism and toxic poisoning which is present. As in the acute form, the kidneys retain that which should be thrown out, and throw out what the blood should retain.

The treatment with fasting and diet is much the same in acute and chronic nephritis, except that in a chronic form it is generally necessary to give the patient a reasonable amount of protein in his diet in order to make up for the loss of albumin which is thrown out in the urine. The fast should be followed with a non-starchy and non-protein diet for three or four weeks, and then protein added in the form of eggs and the more easily digestible meats, using perhaps one egg daily and about four ounces of meat protein.

It is important to keep up good skin elimination to relieve the kidneys of some of their burden. Several sponge or shower baths should be taken each day to keep the pores of the skin cleansed. Cold showers should be used if the skin will re-act with a warm glow afterwards. It is best to use at least one enema daily as long as there is any albumin showing in the urine, or as long as any other symptoms of nephritis persist. Deep breathing exercises should be taken each day, for the lungs can assist a great deal in eliminating poisonous gases.

The kidneys must be furnished a plentiful supply of water, and large amounts should be taken frequently during the day, and even at night if the patient is awake. In all, one or two gallons of water should be used daily.

A milk diet will often prove beneficial in the treatment of nephritis or any other kidney disease. Only two or three quarts of milk daily should be taken. It is best to use a glass of milk every hour, preceded by a few drops of lemon juice which help in the stimulation of gastric secretions. This milk diet must be continued for several weeks in order to produce the desired results.

Strenuous work must be avoided, but a certain amount of physical exercise should be taken in the form of calisthenic exercises and walking. Alcohol, tobacco, condiments, and all highly seasoned foods should be avoided, and the salt intake should be small.

Patients who are only partially cured may live for from ten to twenty years after the disease is discovered, but a complete cure is possible if the patient is willing to live an abstemious life, with a diet carefully regulated and all habits of life properly balanced.

It is better to live in a warm climate, where the skin activity will be greater. The essential thing to remember is to keep all the eliminative channels freely open, and to avoid any habits which may induce a general toxemia.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Edward writes: "My age is twenty. How can I strengthen my heart?"

Answer: The heart may be strengthened through systematic physical culture and by living on a careful diet. Only a small amount of the right kind of food should be used, and care must be observed in avoiding all inharmonious mixtures of food which produce excessive stomach or intestinal gas.

Question: M. A. S. writes: "I read with much interest your daily articles, and would like to know if grapejuice is harmful to people having high blood pressure. I am very fond of it, but having high blood pressure, would like to be sure whether or not I should drink it."

Answer: Grapejuice is an excellent food drink and when used should be taken in place of a meal or between meals, but not in addition to an ordinary meal. Those with a tendency to high blood pressure should use the grapejuice to which no sugar has been added.

Question: Mae F. writes: "I have an infected finger under and behind the nail. How can I kill the infection?"

Answer: You are probably over the infection now, before you read this answer. It is unwise for any of my correspondents to wait for an answer in this column in order to find out how to treat an acute trouble. A safe treatment for an infected finger is to soak the entire hand in water as hot as can be borne, using this treatment for as long as thirty minutes at a time and repeating it several times daily. In between times a mild antiseptic should be applied to the affected parts.

BELMONT CIRCLE REPORTS SUCCESS

Past Year's Business Good, Members Hear at Annual Meeting.

Notwithstanding the almost impassable condition of the country roads, one of the most enthusiastic meetings of the Belmont Egg Circle was held in Mr. Squire's office on Wednesday afternoon, March 28. After the regular routine business had been gone through the manager gave an account of his stewardship of the past year. There were various outstanding features in connection with this report which was given as follows:

Numbers of members, 79; number of dozens, 18,433; gross value, $5,622.72; cash advanced $5,006.40; gross profit, $616.32; manager's commission $184.32; dividends paid, $432.00; average selling price, 30½c; average net price to members, 29½c.

This report shows an increase of over 4,000 dozen in volume, representing over $2,000 increased turnover. The average selling price being 1c per dozen over the previous year, which the manager explained was principally due to the improved quality.

Another outstanding feature is that the members are not required to make any capital investment and receive for their produce the local market value at time of delivery, which is represented in the report as "Cash Advanced."

They also receive the benefit of efficient salesmanship through the employment of a manager with a great many years' experience coupled with an earnest desire to make the poultry industry prosper in this locality. The success attained so far, is due in no small degree to his untiring efforts and marketing ability. As evidence of these facts, a glance at the above report will show the small remuneration received by the manager is out of all proportion to the amount of work involved.

Several new policies were discussed for the coming year, and it is proposed to take advantage of the offer made by J. B. Nelson, agricultural representative for Peterborough County, whereby every flock could be culled during the present year. The circle under its present operation offers to producers the highest returns insofar as marketing is concerned, bringing it to a position that warrants the application of the same aggressive policy in connection with flock management, with a view of bringing to the producer returns, placing the poultry business second to none other of the farm activities.

The members have pledged themselves to give this phase of the work the same hearty support as has been given to the marketing end of the work during the past. The keynote of the meeting seemed to indicate that the poultry industry was one of Canada's great national assets and that they as individual members would during this present year take a more active part in supporting this worthy enterprise. This increased interest and added encouragement will be reflected in larger volume and higher profits.

A resolution was passed at the meeting protesting against the proposed increase being asked by the express companies for the transportation of eggs, a copy of which is to be forwarded to the Board of Railway Commissioners at Ottawa.

F. H. Buker, district poultry promoter for Eastern Ontario, congratulated the circle on the progress attained during the past year. He pointed out that an egg circle should be something more than just a scheme for marketing eggs. Being familiar with conditions he dealt at considerable length with the broadening out of circle activities. He pointed out that the departmental officers were ready at all times to co-operate in every way with the producers, but that it was impossible for them to go onto their farms and do the work in spite of them. The address was well received and supplied food for considerable thought as was evidenced by the action of the meeting.

In Mr. Nelson's address he briefly pointed out that it took some time to get a grasp of the situation as he had been in the county but a short time, but would be pleased to receive requests from the producers for assistance at any time.

The election of officers resulted in the reappointment of the former board with the addition of two new members in the persons of Mrs. Frank Toms and Mrs. Fred Toms, who in the matter of production ranked among the highest and received very handsome dividends.

BAD WEATHER CAUSES DELAY OF OCEAN HOP

German Fliers Held Up in Contemplated East-to-West Atlantic Crossing.

TEST CONTROLS.

Irish Officials Not Confident For Success of Bremen Expedition.

BALDONNEL, Irish Free State, Mar 30. —(Associated Press.)— The favorable weather last night caused further postponement of the contemplated East-to-West Atlantic crossing of the German plane Bremen. This decision was reached at midnight.

BALDONNEL, Irish Free State, Mar. 30.—(Associtaed Press.)— The Junkers monoplane Bremen is still ready for the start for America if the weather conditions are favorable.

She has been tugging at her anchor ropes on the Baldonnel field, eight miles west of Dublin, with restless impatience while Baron von Huenefedl, sponsor of the flight, and one of the crew, is anxiously awaiting every message or telephone call which would be likely to bring news of improvement in the atmospheric conditions over the proposed route.

Gale Subsides.

The gale and downpour of the morning subsided to a steady fifteen to twenty mile westerly wind, into which Captain Koehl would have headed the Bremen if the Atlantic weather reports had justified it, at any hour. Mechanics worked most of the day grooming the machine, recoating its silvered duralumin all body with a secret anti-freeze preparation, which Koehl hopes will prevent the sleet from forming and weighting the machine down.

Captan Koehl and Arthur Spindler, co-pilot and mechanic, tested the controls yesterday and von Huenefeld restocked the fuselage with hard-boiled eggs, bananas, a few ham sandwiches and a dozen freshly-filled thermos bottles containing beef broth, which is the only drink aboard. The German nobleman also went to Dublin and bought himself a fresh collar, saying that he had not expected to stay in the neighborhood so long. His clothes were beginning to need a tailors' attention, but he felt he must make every effort to reach America spick and span in fresh linen.

At intervals, about every hour, after the downpour ceased, von Huenefeld or one of his party tramped the mile and a quarter runway to see how the wind was drying it.

Level Runway.

The steam roller was again in use in an effort to pack the soggy turf so that the Bremen might make a safe and sure getaway.

Captain Koehl has greatly impressed the Irish air force as a pilot who will succeed if it is humanly possible. The German is as calm as if he was engaged in nothing more serious than one of his night trips between Berlin and Warnemude for Luft Hansa.

The Bremen expedition, however, has not aroused confidence in all the Irish offcials. A member of the Free State Cabinet told the Associated Press correspondent yesterday that he feared the men were doomed. He took his small son to see them so that he could offer prayers in their behalf.

The minister explained the secrecy and careful guard at the aerodrome, which Baron von Huenefeld had requested and which the Free State authorities granted, as a desire to meet the wishes of men who might be plunging to their death, particularly if they insisted on flying on such weather reports as are reaching Baldonnel and Dublin at present.

Baron von Huenefeld's superstition has been increased by an incident connected with the tearing down of the stone wall at the end of the field to permit a longer runway. He fears any hitch in his plans, and when he found that the farmer-owner of the stone wall would not permit its demolition to begin until every cent of the £70, the estimated damage, was paid over, Baron turned out his pockets and discovered that he did not have £70. Rather than let the slightest delay occur, he took up a collection at the aerodrome, mainly from the German consul-general and other friends, and paid the farmer immediately.

Herr Klose, who is von Huenefeld's agent, offered to erect a complete new wire fence of the latest design to replace the demolished wall, but the farmer insisted that the wall be rebuilt exactly as it was. Last year the farmer received compensation when the wall was demolished for the Fitzmaurice flight.

BOY BADLY HURT WHEN RUN DOWN

Hugh Immings, Eight, Knocked Down By Horse and Buggy.

CONDITION SERIOUS.

Hugh Immings, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Immings of 5 Cricket Place, was knocked down by a horse and buggy last night and badly bruised. The boy was in a very serious condition during the night, but to-day he is reported as being a little better. Accordng to witnesses, the little chap was standing on the side of the street on Armour road early in the evening when a horse and buggy came down the street on the wrong side and ran over the little fellow. Two men were in the buggy at the time of the accident. William Godfrey was driving the horse, and J. Astels was sitting in the seat beside him.

Husband Wounded In Marital Quarrel

NEW YORK, Mar. 30 (Associated Press).—Mrs. Esther Wilson, big game hunter and sportswoman, yesterday shot and seriously wounded her husband, Dallet Wilson, an attorney, in the Fifth Avenue offices of a corporation with which he was connected.

Mrs. Wilson told the police she had come from Washington where she has lived for some time, to seek a reconciliation with her husband. She said she insisted, however, that he stop "running around with other women."

Wilson, son of John S. Wilson, a vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was taken to a hospital, where it was said one bullet had lodged in his back and another in his upper left arm.

SECOND READING GIVEN WOMENS' VOTE MEASURE

Baldwin Invites House To Fall in Line With Other English Speaking Countries.

OPPOSE AMENDMENT.

Passing of Bill Would Mark the Final Stage in Regeneration Movement.

LONDON, Mar. 30. — (Associated Press.) — Premier Stanley Baldwin yesterday invited the House of Commons to fall in line with Canada and Australia and the United States, "to mention only the English speaking countries in which men and women are enfranchised on equal terms." The passage of the bill before the House, which would give votes to women over twenty-one years of age, would, he said, mark the final stage in the union of men and women working for the regeneration of their country and the regeneration of the world.

"And it might well be," the prime minister declared, "that by this common work together, they would provide such an environment that each immortal soul, as it is born on this earth, might have a fairer chance and a fairer vote than ever has been vouchsafed to past generations."

The debate on the second reading was lengthy and dull. At the outset of the session, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, secretary of state for home affairs, explained that the bill would place between 26,000,000 and 26,500,000 names on the voting registers at the May 1 listings and that women voters would be in a majority by about two million.

Protest Plural Voters.

Excited opposition protests concerning plural voters brought from the home secretary the explanation that out of 26,000,000 electors, only about 450,000 would be entitled to exercise the plural vote.

Characterizing a proposed amendment to the bill as a "swan song," Lady Nancy Astor said:

"The die-hards may be singing like swans, but they are thinking like geese."

Lady Astor spoke in opposition to Brigadier-General Sir George Cockerill. He had moved an amendment, declining it on second reading. He argued that the measure would add 5,000,000 voters to the electorate and give women permanent majorities in most of the constituencies. Sir George said the bill failed to follow the constitutional practice of accompanying an extension of the franchise with a measure for redistribution of representation. He concluded: "They propose to give not sex equality, but sex preference to women."

There was mingled cheering and laughter when the vote was taken and the division showed only ten members supporting General Cockerill's proposal. The official ballot was 387 to 10, and the bill therefore was passed on second reading.

O.M.L. OFFICIALS WILL VISIT CITY

President and Secretary Will Attend Automobile Association Banquet.

W. G. Robertson, Secretary of the Ontario Motor League, expects to accompany Mr. Stapells, President, to Peterborough on Tuesday next, and it is hoped that Mr. Robertson will also have something to say to the local motorists re highway matters and motor legislation generally, according to the secretary of the Peterborough Automobile Club, Frank G. Stinson.

The annual general meeting and banquet, as arrangements are now practically completed, will be a happy event. The Regent Theatre Orchestra will play from 6.30 until 7.45 p.m. Miss Daisy Murray, always an attraction and a delight to hear, has promised to sing, and John Crane will act as song leader. Many new and novel parodies will be introduced all having humorous reference to problems of the motorist.

Murrell On Way Back to Canada

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 30 (Canadian Press).—William George Murrell, 32, left here last night in charge of Inspectors John Miller and W. H. Stringer, of the Ontario Provincial Police. Murrell is wanted in connection with the killing of Russell Campbell, bank employee, of Melbourne, Ont., who was shot to death in the Home Bank holdup at Melbourne on April 11, 1921, and for whose murder Murrell's brother and one other have been hanged.

Murrell escaped jail after the holdup, and was arrested here in January of this year on another charge. Subsequently, his identity was established, and he was held for extradition at the request of Canadian authorities. When arrested here, he had not heard of his brother's fate.

Famous 1925 Election of Athabaska Again Before the House of Commons

OTTAWA, Ont., March 30 (Canadian Press).—Once more, the famous 1925 election of Athabaska (Alberta) goes to the committee on privileges and elections. It is now two years since this election first came before the House. Then a petition was presented alleging corrupt practices. Mr. Justice Clark of Alberta was appointed commissioner. His report, presented last year, revealed the existence of corrupt practices.

The House referred the report to the committee on privileges and elections. But although the committee was called time after time, it was unable to secure a quorum. Yesterday, Mr. Justice Clark's report was again referred to the committee.

Yesterday's discussion brought charges from Conservatives that political corruption had not been confined to Athabasca. H. C. Cahan declared that in his constituency in Montreal two thousand fictitious names had been placed on the election lists in the last contest. Hundreds of men had to be employed to investigate alleged voters, with the result that no man of moderate means could run and pay his own expenses. And George Black of the Yukon entertained the House with some stirring stories of early days in his constituency. Conditions were bad. Returning officers declined to furnish voters' lists to the opposition candidate. Until one day a clergyman—member of a citizens' committee—threatened to bring his Winchester along if the lists were not produced. Then the lists appeared.

Premier King agreed that there was room for improvement of the Elections Act. He suggested this might be considered next session. In the interval, members might submit any ideas for improvement.

KIWANIANS SEE 'PHONE MOVIES

Are Entertained With Views of Apparatus Used in Atlantic System.

W. BEAMER IS SPEAKER.

Peterborough Kiwanians were "at the movies" to-day. Two reels of pictures, cleverly introduced by William Beamer, manager of the local Telephone branch, carried on for him the story of the trans-Atlantic telephone, as well as outlining the course of the every-day 'phone conversation. In all, it was the most unusual and at the same time interesting forms of entertainment that the club has enjoyed for some time and at its conclusion, J. J. Turner's vote of thanks not only included the speaker and his assistant, J. F. Holland, but also the entire staff of the Peterborough exchange.

The meeting to-day was well attended and therefore, quite as enthusiastic as usual. President Joe John vacated his chair in favor of Harry Huffman, who proved an efficient master of ceremonies. Previous to the main address, he allotted time to Art. Moffatt, who announced that bowling for the Kiwanians would be continued each Monday night; to the secretary, who made an announcement relative to the Kiwanis show which is to be held on April 19 and 20, and to other members who introduced their guests, among the visitors being W. W. McBain, prominent Edmontonian; J. Coke, of Guelph, and J. E. Whyte of Windsor. Wilbert Friel, formerly of the Cornwall club, was welcomed to Peterborough as a new resident, by Carl Browne.

William Beamer

Introduced by John I. Allin, the speaker of the day expressed the hope that his talk and movies might, while proving interesting, also give to the members, a better conception of the trans-Atlantic telephoning. Through this, he believed that the highly personalized business of telephoning might run more smoothly with the operators and subscribers playing their respective parts capably.

Mr. Beamer spoke first of the complicated process of forming connections between the subscriber in Canada and the subscriber in England—complicated to the staff of operators who do the work, yet quite a simple thing to the man who, wishing to speak, merely lifted his receiver to call "central."

In answering the question, "How did it come about?" the speaker mentioned the first telephone conversations several years ago, and how, through research, it had come about that the business man in New York might call a city in England. Within the last few months this service has been extended to the resident in any of seven Canadian cities, including Toronto and Montreal. From this juncture the motion pictures took up the story.

The first reel pictured the subscriber asking to speak to a business man in Plymouth, England. Through a series of switchboards and stations, the call number was carried, its quality remaining the same while the volume was increased. Finally it left the final station at New York to be picked up and carried over a similar course of wires to the man sitting in his office at Plymouth. His part of the conversation ,travelling back over a different route was also traced and while one might have gained the impression that much time must elapse for such a conversation to take place, the speaker explained that once connections were made, the men could speak to each other with the same ease as when calling a neighbor in the same block.

The second reel was a laugh-provoker, but it was also an education, for while the audience might laugh at the antics of a figure representing current, it also followed, with profit, his travellings from the party calling to central, thence to the party being called, and finally back and forth between the two as many times as the conversation changed sides.

In conclusion, Mr. Beamer extended a hearty invitation to Kiwanians to visit the local exchange where they may gain a first-hand view of the system of telephoning.

Patrick Earl Collins 1924 Leap Year Baby

Another 1924 Leap Year baby, though not present in person, was introduced to The Examiner this morning by its father, William A. Collins, who resides at 508 Elm Street. Mr. Collins, who was out of the city about February 29 of this year, had not known that this paper was taking any interest in Leap Year babies until he noticed an article in Thursday's paper.

Accordingly he presented a certificate showing that his young son, Patrick Earl Collins, was born here on February 29, 1924, and that the youngster was the first baby born here on February's extra day that year. Patrick Earl came into the world at approximately 12.45 a.m.

He now shares the Leap Year baby honors with Miss Hilda Pearson of Maitland Avenue.

Yvonne Reeds, of 330 Sherbrooke street, is a third child for whom is claimed 1924 "Leap Year baby" honors, according to word reaching The Examiner to-day. In writing of the children whose birthdays had fallen on February 29, 1924, there had not been any record in our files of the birth of these children and for this reason, their names were missed. Are there any more?

HEENAN VISITS OSHAWA PLANT

Three Thousand Men Idle To-day—Mass Meeting Called.

PEACE EFFORT CONTINUES.

OSHAWA, March 30. Canadian Press. — Hon. Peter Heenan arrived here early to-day to join the Labor Department's chief conciliation officer, M. Campbell, in efforts to end the strike of the employees of the General Motors of Canada.

The meeting held a mass meeting to-day to determine whether or not they would approve the proposal of Mr. Campbell to go back to work while the conciliation board reached a settlement of their grievances.

To-day about two thousand were on strike and another thousand were idle through lack of work.

WORKERS MEET.

A mass meeting of the striking workers of the General Motors plant being held this afternoon will probably reach a decision on the course to be followed by the workers, and on the acceptance or otherwise of the offer of the Board of Conciliation if the workers return at once. Eight hundred more employees went on strike to-day, including all the mill room employees, and the plant is now at a complete standstill.

BIG ICE JAM CAUSES FLOOD AT PIKE LAKE

MANY HOMELESS.

Seed Grain and Other Possessions Lost—30,000 Acres of Land Under Water.

SASKATOON, March 30 (Canadian Press).—Its normal course checked by a barrier of ice nearly thirty feet in height east of Pike Lake, the Saskatchewan River has overflowed its banks and the whole upper valley of the district is flooded, menacing life and property. According to latest reports the river had risen six feet during the past four hours, with the inundated area gradually widening into a huge artificial lake.

From thirty to forty thousand acres of farm land are under water varying in depth from a few feet to ten feet and twenty-nine known families are homeless and have lost most of their belongings as a result of the river overflowing its banks. Valuable seed grain has been lost and it is believed this will deal a serious blow to Spring farming operations in the district.

The ice jam, twelve miles in length, is moving toward Saskatoon from the Pike Lake area. Early reports to-day were that height of jam was forty feet above river level and that it had moved a mile during the past 24 hours.

F. P. O'CONNOR BUYS FINE TEAM

Toronto Man Pays Good Price For Milk Products Horses.

WON MANY PRIZES.

Peterborough fanciers of fine horses will read with interest and possible regret, of the sale of a beautiful general purpose team, owned and shown at many Fall fairs and exhibitions by the Peterborough Milk Products Company, Ltd. Announcement was made within the past week that F. P. O'Connor, of the Laura Secord Company, Toronto, had purchased the team, paying handsomely for "Harry" and "Pete" whom he had seen and admired at the Peterborough Exhibition last year.

The horses, one of whom originally came from Port Perry, the other from Smith township, were remarkably well mated, there being but slight if any variance in their markings. Well groomed and well trained, they were said to have advertised the firm which owned them more than anything else at the exhibitions, where they won many prizes and were never beaten in their class—general purpose. Many offers had been made by horsemen in various parts of the Dominion as a result.

The sale took place last Friday and on Monday, Robert Cleghorn, who had had charge of them, shipped them to Toronto.

Important Announcement.

Due to an oversight at the time of printing the "Tie Breaker" charts, no space was allowed on the chart for the contestant's name and address, and we would point out to all contestants the necessity of placing name and address on the solution submitted to the Tie Breaker. This can be placed near where the answers are entered.

Hollinger Disaster Before the Commons

OTTAWA, Ont., Mar. 30.—(Canadian Press.) — The Hollinger mine disaster held the attention of the House of Commons for a few minutes last evening.

J. S. Woodsworth, Labor member for Winnipeg North Centre, drew the attention of the Government to the fact that a jury had found there was gross negligence on the part of mine management in connection with the disaster which cost 39 lives.

"Would the Minister of Justice consider amending the criminal code so as to provide a penalty for this class of crime?" asked Mr. Woodsworth.

Mr. Speaker intervened to suggest that the Minister of Justice would require notice of such a question.

"I don't mind telling the hon. member that his suggestion would be considered," replied Mr. LaPointe.

CHIEF TO HIRE FOUR FIREMEN

New Men Will Take Place of Those Being Placed in Other Service.

PARK PLANS MADE.

Fire Chief George Gimblett was authorized last night by the Fire, Water and Light committee of the City Council to engage four new firemen to take the places of the four older men who are being looked after in other services of the city. A position for one of the firemen will be found immediately and the other two will be retained during the holiday season. One man is at present in the hospital and will be looked after by the city.

The chairman was ordered to call for tenders for the firemen's clothing and he, along with the Fire Chief, was authorized to buy such fire equipment as was provided for in the estimates.

At the meeting of the Park committee, the chairman, Alderman Greene, was authorized to employ a man who will operate the new gasoline lawn mower. With the adding of the new lawn mower to the equipment of the Parks committee, it has necessitated the revising of the caretakers' contracts, for it is intended that the man who operates the lawn mower will cut the grass in the different parks. The chairman was asked to revise the contracts and advertise for caretakers for the parks.

Alderman Stocker, who is president of the Peterborough Horticultural Society, suggested that H. J. Moore, horticultural lecturer in the University of Toronto, be asked to visit the city and suggest plans for the laying out of James Stevenson park. Alderman Stocker was asked to invite Mr. Moore to the city.

Leslie Hancock, of Belleville, a park designer, will also visit the city and submit a design for the laying out of James Stevenson park. Mr. Hancock agrees to submit a plan, and if it is accepted to charge only his railway fare, but if it is accepted he asks to be allowed to make the blue prints at a cost not to exceed $100.

THE WEATHER

Temperature this morning, 24 degrees, cold and raw, with the appearance of snow coming. Yesterday's highest, 47 degrees. "As mad as a March hare," is a proverb, the origin of which was always a mystery to me. Here is a little explanation from a Scottish paper: "If you have seen a March hare or better still, a pair of hares, jumping and leaping over each other, you will understand the joyous spirit of March. Even the hare is glad that winter is past, and is expressing its joy by rushing up and down the field and in jolly capers with the sharer of its joy." For this reason a March hare is madder than, say, a June hare. March is said to have borrowed its last three days from April, and these "borrowing days" are believed to be always stormy:

'The first it shall be wind and weet,
The second it shall be snow and sleet,
The third it shall be sic a freeze,
'Twill gar the birds stick to the trees.'

So if March sometimes comes in like a lamb it goes out like a lion.—W. P.

Around the City

The fire brigade made two runs on Thursday afternoon; the first at 5.56 o'clock; the second at 6.47 o'clock. Chimney fires, which were extinguished by chemicals, caused the alarms to be sent in from 268 McDonnel street and 228 Perry street.

OVERHAULING OF BREWERY IS PROCEEDING

Brewing to Start at End of April in Former Calcutt Plant.

NEW MACHINES INSTALLED.

From 35 to 40 Men Will Be Employed—Capacity 110 Barrels Daily.

The process of transforming the building formerly occupied by the Calcutt Brewing and Malting Company into a modern brewery to be operated by the Peterborough Brewing Company Limited is being carried ahead at a rate that justifies the company in declaring that brewing will commence about the end of April, and the company's product will go on the market around June 15th.

Extensive changes are being made in the plant, the most noteworthy being the enlarging of the storeroom, where, by taking out a floor, storage facilities to the extent of 30,000 barrels have been provided. This storage accommodation is on the ground floor, necessarily so because of the weight that will have to be carried.

Throughout the plant the machinery is being set up ready for operation. Much of the equipment used by the Calcutt Company is still entirely serviceable and it is being supplemented by other machinery that is now ready to be installed and that will give the company a thoroughly efficient plant, capable of starting with an output of 110 barrels a day and of being quickly enlarged to a capacity of 200 barrels a day.

Some 35 or 40 employees will comprise the working force of the Peterborough Brewing Company when brewing starts.

It is proposed to manufacture only one brand, the Calcutt Trent Old Stock Ale, which the company hopes will be of such excellence that it will command a ready sale not only in Ontario but in other Canadian provinces.

PLANE RECORDS ARE SHATTERED

Haldeman and Stinson Set New Endurance Flight Mark.

BERNARDI FLIES FASTER.

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla., March 30 (Canadian Press).—George Haldeman and Eddie Stinson set a new world's endurance record to-day of 53 hours 35 minutes for sustained flight. They landed at 1.12.40, eastern standard time, after breaking by 1 hour 12 minutes 40 seconds the German mark made last summer. The fliers landed a mile from where they took off and taxied south to the spot they left on Wednesday morning. They still had gasoline in the tanks, as the motor was still running.

At 1.00.40 p.m. they had bettered by one hour the former mark set last August by Johann Ristics and Cornelius Edsard, German fliers, in the Junkers monoplane Europa. In order to be officially recognized endurance record must be bettered by at least one hour. Haldeman and Stinson landed at 1.12 at Jacksonville Beach.

BERNARDI BREAKS RECORD.

LONDON, March 30 (Canadian Press). — An Exchange Telegraph despatch rfom Venice says that Major De Bernardi, Italian aviator, established a new world's speed record to-day, flying at the rate of 318¾ miles per hour.

GANGLAND GIVES WARNING OF ITS TERRORIST PLAN

INVESTIGATE BOMBINGS.

Bricks Thrown Through Windows Bearing Political Campaign Posters.

CHICAGO, Mar. 30.—The pre-election terrorists yesterday continued their activities while police guarded homes of 40 office holders and candidates and investigations into bombings got under way.

Judge John J. Swanson, whose home was bombed Monday night, again has become a victim of the terrorists, and has asked Police Commissioner Michael Hughes to double the police guard about his south shore home.

A man called the Swanson home Wednesday night and said: "You can tell the judge we will do a better job the next time."

Terrorists Active.

The judge was not at home, but Mrs. Henry Klass, his daughter, received the threat. Shortly afterwards Swanson asked police for an additional guard.

Swanson is a candidate for state's attorney against Robert E. Crowe, the present prosecutor, and is backed by the Deneen Republican faction. Both Swanson's and Deneen's homes were bombed Monday night.

Wednesday the terrorists had a full day. In addition to the threat on Swanson, they threatened State Senator Herman J. Haemisch, Deneen candidate for committeeman from the 46th ward. Haemisch is opposed as committeeman by Mayor William Hale Thompson.

The threat to Haemisch was mailed and signed "The Rat." It threatened one of the judge's children and also intimated the Haemisch home might be bombed.

Record of Accomplishment.

That brought this total for terrorism in the past 10 days:

Diamond Joe Esposito, Deneen worker, ambushed and killed.

Senator Deneen home bombed.

Judge Swanson home bombed.

South Halstead Street building bombed.

Letter threatens the life of Joseph Savage, candidate for committeeman for the 25th ward, whose opponent had been Esposito. Letter also threatened anarchy.

Threat made against State Senator Haemisch.

Police yesterday had almost 40 homes under constant vigil. Many of them were homes of candidates aligned with the Deneen Republican faction.

Premier King was reported to have stated that the British Government had asked the Dominion Government whether Canada wished to participate in the treaty and the Government had declined.

Urges Organized Marketing of Grain

ABERDEEN, Wash., March 30. (Canadian Press.)—Urging South Dakota farmers to get control by organized marketing of their grain products, particularly wheat, E. R. Ramsey, of Winnipeg, manager of the Canadian wheat pool, outlined the growth of the prairie province pools to Aberdeen business men here yesterday.

He declared that the Canadian pool success can be duplicated in South Dakota and other spring wheat states. With few changes allowing for conditions here.

"The whole prosperity of your Western States is tied up like ours in the prosperity of agriculture," he said.

"Wheat has never gone below $1.40 since the Canadian pool has been organized, and despite a big increase in the world's supply Canadian farmers have faith in the pool, but, should the pool system have failed," he stated, "farmers would never have gone back to the old wasteful method of marketing grain."

WHARF LOOSENED DURING BAD STORM

Roads Made Almost Impassable in Trent River District.

TRENT RIVER, March 30.—The large wharf at "Cedar Isle" boat house was carried away by Monday night's storm, but did not drift far until it was recovered.

The roads to Campbellford and Havelock are difficult to travel. An automobile got stuck one night recently, and it took four hours to shovel it clear. Buggies and democrats are in use and one party was seen coming to town on horseback.

Electric Storm.

A severe electric storm began early on Monday evening and continued throughout the night, and was accompanied by a heavy rainfall and high wind.

The trappers are having great success this week. Some report from three to five rats in the early morning catch.

Quantities of large cakes of ice float down the canal daily. The water is steadily rising, causing some of the wharfs at the resorts to disappear.

Those having sugar bushes tapped the trees this week; with the cold frosty night and warm days, there ought to be a good run.

While trapping near Puff Ball Inn, N. Garneau found the body of one of Thomas J. Brown's sheep which is one of the four that was chased by dogs early in the winter and took to the river and were drowned.

Mr. Norman Faulkner of Orange Corners, called on friends in the village on Saturday evening.

IS APPROVED BY HOUSES OF CONVOCATION

Opponents Think Measure Will Have Bad Effect On Young People.

PLEAD FOR UNITY.

Vote in Canterbury House Was 126 to 48 and in York 50 to 19.

LONDON, March 30 (Canadian Press Cable).—Sitting separately, the lower houses of the Convocation of Canterbury and York yesterday followed the examples of their upper houses by approving the new Church of England prayer book. The vote in the Canterbury lower house was 126 to 48 and in the York lower house 50 to 19. The Canterbury upper house Wednesday adopted the revised prayer book by 20 to 6 and the upper house of York unanimously. The measure now awaits the final approval of the Church Assembly before going to Parliament.

Rev. B. G. Nicholas, of Spalding, who voted for the measure in 1927, announced that he would vote against it now because he thought the rubrics would have a michshievous effect in young people. Archdeacon Chesterfield also opposed the measure, condemning the clause relating to reservation of the sacrament as 'interfering with the inherent rights of the parish priest."

The Dean of Windsor, on the other hand, heartily supported the book as an 'honest, prayerful effort to meet a great difficulty." The Dean of Westminster, summing up the discussion, said that there still seemed to be a 'bee in the bonnet of some members of the House that we are acting at the dictation of Parliament." He did not think they were open to that charge.

In the lower house of York, Canon Harris of Carlisle pleaded for unity in the Church, and declared that every vote against the book impaired that unity. Dr. Mouledale of Durham suggested that the house adjourn without coming to a decision, thereby giving the bishops an eleventh-hour opportunity of remedying their mistake.

ROADS VERY BAD AROUND WARSAW

Horse Breaks Through Ice Into Several Feet of Water.

WARSAW, March 30.—Within the last two days, the roads have become very bad, Percy Lloyd, while driving past M. McMurray's, had to spring to the seat of his cutter, to keep above water, when his horse broke the crust and released a flood of water.

One horse had to be drawn out, when two men with teams tried to pass at Dawkin's Corners and both teams got down.

Mrs. Lloyd had difficulty getting through the water near Allan Payne's gate.

The thunderstorm on Monday evening was accompanied by a heavy rain and hail about 9 p.m. No damage was done, except for a few telephone lines cut.

Spring Birds Seen.

Several robins were seen near Warsaw on Monday and at least four flocks of wild geese flew north, while a flock of wild ducks were also seen.

Personals.

BODIES RECOVERED.

Many Lose Lives When Residences Destroyed at Guayaquil, Ecuador.

QUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, March 30 (Associated Press). — Sixteen bodies, burned beyond recognition, have been recovered by firemen in the ruins of homes destroyed by a fire here on Wednesday. The blaze broke out in a street car barn and spread to a nearby gasoline station and several houses.

The police, after an investigation, have abandoned their original theory that the fire was of incendiary origin.

Mr. E. Bartley will sing "The Holy City" at the sacred concert at the Regent Theatre Sunday night.

For the second consecutive year the town of Roxbury, N. H., has not had a marriage, birth or death.

COUGH KEPT HER AWAKE ALL NIGHT

Doctor Ended Trouble by Using Novel Hospital Method; Gave Quick, Sure Relief!

Coughs, colds and bronchitis can be relieved quickly—often in a few hours—by a pleasant and inexpensive home method now endorsed by doctors because of its splendid record in hospital, private practice and home use among numbers of Peterborough families.

The case of Mrs. Wm. Nelson, Jr., is typical of many here, according to leading druggists. She neglected her cold several days and developed a deep cough that threatened bronchitis. For two nights she heard the clock strike almost every hour—unable to sleep because of constant coughing. Then she phoned her family physician, who prescribed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a concentrated mixture of ingredients which hospitals have found to be the quickest, safest and surest to end colds, coughs and bronchitis.

With the first swallow she felt its comforting, healing warmth deep down into her chest. The coughing was eased immediately and in a day or so all traces of the cough were gone.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by the physicians who treated each case.

Doctors find that this hospital medicine does far more than stop coughing instantly. It is absorbed by the whole system. This quickly checks phlegm, heals irritation and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Cherry Pectoral now and you'll feel like a different person tomorrow. Hospital directions with each bottle

SCOTT'S EMULSION

ROYAL ACADEMY HEAD TOO OLD

Sir Frank Dicksee Reaches the Age Limit in Short Time.

FEW CANDIDATES.

LONDON, March 30 (Canadian Press). — An interesting election in the realm of art will take place shortly, when Sir Frank Dicksee will resign the presidency of the Royal Academy in accordance with the rule as to the age limit. Sir Frank will attain the age of 75, and has been president since 1924. Some of his paintings have been the most popular to be produced with the last generation. He succeeded Sir Aston Webb, and the line of presidents immediately prior to Sir Aston included Sir Edward Poynter, Sir Frederick Leighton, and Sir John Millais.

While the presidency may not actually "go begging" when the vacancy does arise, it is certain that the number of suitable candidates is limited at the present moment. Sir David Cameron's services to art, which have always been combined with a large sense of public duty, are well known, but for reasons of health he might feel himself unable to accept the position. Sir Reginald Blomfield is also spoken of, and Sir Edwin Lutyens would certainly bring a fresh and unconventional spirit into the deliberations of the body, but it is a question how far he would be able to carry the council with him.

Sir John Lavery carries a European reputation as an artist, and although not a notable speaker he can speak to the point and has taken a quiet but important part in public affairs for many years. He unites three nations, in that he was born in Ireland, brought up in Scotland and one of the founders of the "Glasgow school," and he has lived now most of his life in London.

VISCOUNT CAVE PASSES AWAY

Lord Chancellor Had Distinguished Career in Law and Politics.

RESIGNED THIS WEEK.

BURNHAM, Somerset, England, March 30. — Viscount Cave, who recently resigned as Lord Chancellor, after a distinguished career at the bar died late yesterday. He was 72 years old, and had been Lord Chancellor since November, 1924. He was created an earl on his resignation.

Although Viscount Cave may not go down in history as one of the really great Lord Chancellors of the century, yet his term in this august office is likely to be held on more than one account as memorable. A sound knowledge of law, a through grasp of the science of administration in its highest branches, a dignity of bearing combined with scrupulous and unaffected courtesy, these were the chief qualities which distinguished the late Lord Cave in his service to the State.

Lord Cave, who was born in 1856, was the son of a former member of Parliament. After a distinguished career at Merchant Taylors' school and St. John's College, Oxford he devoted himself closely to the Bar. His work lay almost entirely on that laborious and unspectacular side known as the Chancery Division, where he acquired a large and probably a lucrative practice. In 1906 he entered Parliament as member for Kingston, in Surrey. He made his home in the neighboring and equally historic borough of Richmond, and gave largely of his time and talents to local administrative and philanthropic enterprise. In 1915 Sir George Cave, as he then was, took office in the first Coalition Government as Solicitor-General. A year later Mr. Lloyd George selected him for the Home Secretaryship. This difficult office, more difficult than ever at that time because of the innumerable war restrictions which pressed upon the domestic life of the people, Sir George filled with a tolerance and considerateness which earned him the support of all members of the House and of the public at large.

It was recognized, though, that a high station in the realm of the law was his destiny. In 1918 he was appointed a Lord of Appeal, and was created a viscount. In 1924 Lord Cave joined Mr. Baldwin's Cabinet as Lord Chancellor. The choice was not unexpected and it was well received by all sections of opinion. Lawyers welcomed it because they foresaw that during Lord Cave's occupancy of the Woolsack there would proceed quiet steady attention to the administrative duties of the position, coupled with sane and well balanced, if not outstandingly brilliant, legal judgements.

In 1920 Lord and Lady Cave visited Canada and the United States. Lord Cave delivered the principal address at the annual conventions of the Canadian and also of the American Bar Association. The Canadian Bar Association meeting was at Ottawa, and addresses were also delivered by Sir James Aikins, ex-President Taft, and Sir Auckland Geddes, Viscount Cave spoke on "Some Legal Aspects of the War", when he described some of the emergency legislation passed by Great Britain during the war period. Lord and Lady Cave continued their journey to the coast and were everywhere received with great cordiality. Lord Cave on his return to England spoke with special appreciation of the luncheon clubs which he found in most cities, and which he described as a strong and highly useful feature of Canadian life.

When in London he was asked about the place which the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council occupied in the legal system of the Dominion. Viscount Cave declared that the feeling in Canada towards the Committee was on the whole one of complete approval, and that opinion in the Dominion was generally favorable to the continuance of the right of appeal to this court. These remarks brought a dissenting opinion from John S. Ewart, of Ottawa, and an interesting discussion by way of letters to the English press followed between these two eminent figures of the law. The argument was conducted by Viscount Cave with characteristic urbanity.

Among other high offices which Viscount Cave held was that of Chancellor of Oxford University, to which he was elected in July, 1925.

Perhaps the most important appeal to the Privy Council over which Lord Cave presided was that in which Canada and Newfoundland were opposed, when their Lordships were asked to define the legal position in regard to the boundaries of the two countries on the Labrador Peninsula. The decision of the Privy Council, it will be remembered, went practically entirely in favor of Newfoundland.

There is no heir to the Viscountcy. In his beneficient work for the county of Surrey, Viscount Cave was most ably seconded by Viscountess Cave, who also possessed of considerable literary attainments.

DUSKY QUEEN STARTS FAD

During her visit in Paris recently the Queen of Afghanistan started a new fad. In displaying her extensive assortment of jewels she wore ropes of pearls around her bare arms from the elbow to the shoulder. Several leaders of fashion have taken up the style, which is expected to become a rage. The queen took to Europe a large quantity of uncut rubies, garnets and other precious stones in order to have them polished and mounted. She prefers colored stones and cares little for diamonds.

Afghanistan is a country about the size of France.

RURAL SCHOOLS.

A great deal of nonsense is being talked by some opponents of the township school board plan, who, on the other hand, have no alternative policy to suggest that will eliminate the weaknesses that everybody admits exist in the present school system.

When the charge is made that the measure is intended to shear rural Ontario of some of its power, the limit of absurdity is reached.

After all, a township does not represent a very large portion of territory, and Mr. Ferguson's bill merely proposes that a township board on which each school section shall have representation shall administer the schools of the township, instead of having half a dozen or more school sections functioning for the same purpose.

Such a method would obviously be more economical and promote efficiency, while it is impossible to see how it would in any way "shear rural Ontario of its power."

The Globe, gently chiding those who oppose Mr. Ferguson's plan "without offering any other remedy for what must be admitted to be an unsatisfactory condition," says that "rural life should not be left at a disadvantage which might be overcome by school boards working in larger units," and that "'the little red schoolhouse' of tradition has a chance to broaden out with the times, and should not be kept back by those who at the very best offer no other solution for the problems of the rural school."

These views are expressed by most Ontario newspapers, the Border Cities Star, for example, remarking that "the proposal is thoroughly in line with the tread of the day."

USELESS LAWS.

When a member of the Legislature said recently that a session should be called to take half the laws off the statute books, he was shooting straight at the bull's-eye.

We have a lot of measures that are not only unnecessary but never enforced.

This week the Municipal Committee passed a bill to ban children under sixteen years of age from moving-picture theatres unless acompanied by an adult.

The present age limit is fifteen years, and if any one thinks that the spirit of the law is being observed in Ontario he is not a person who visits the moving-picture theatres regularly.

In spite of the regulation, children get into the picture houses, and in the process make themselves nuisances to the adults they pester for assistance.

Granted there are many pictures that children should not be allowed to see, and further, that in the interest of safety small children should be in charge of adults to protect them in an emergency, there does not seem any reason for hoping that a sixteen-year limit will keep them out when a fifteen-year limit has failed to accomplish that feat.

It all gets back to the home.

Parents who want to make sure that their children see only worth-while pictures will do their own censoring, and those who want to protect the physical safety of their families will accompany them on their theatre visits.

As for the children of parents who are careless in these respects, a law that seems nobody's business to enforce is not likely to accomplish a great deal.

LET THE PEOPLE KNOW.

There does not seem to be any justification for the change in the Liquor Control Act proposed by the Attorney-General making it unnecessary for the Liquor Control Board to report the amount of sales made by each vendor, as is required by Part 1, Section 14, of the Act, which provides that the board shall state "the nature and amount of the business transacted by each vendor under the Act during the year."

The people of Ontario are entitled to this information, and it was originally intended that they should have it.

Why should there be a change of front now as if the details of how much was spent at each store in the Province were something that the people had no right to know?

The board reports the total amount of sales, it is true, but why should it not go further and state frankly how much has been spent in each locality?

The residents of Peterborough are naturally interested in the amount of business done at the local store and anxious to compare it with reports from other centres, and in view of the fact that the sale of liquor is a public business, carried on through the authorization of the people themselves, the public can see no reason why the information should be withheld as if there were something to conceal.

The Government had better drop the proposed change in the Act and let the people know the facts; nothing is to be gained by refusing to disclose information on a matter that is in a sense everybody's business.

SPIKING A RUMOR.

For some years there has been in this city a baleful opinion which has been sedulously sustained and kept in circulation by citizens who seemed or pretended to be so convinced of its truth that they will probably be disappointed to learn that all the time it has been utterly false.

This opinion was to the effect that the manufacturers in this city were opposed to new factories locating here. Obviously it was of malevolent inspiration, for no manufacturers ever expressed any opposition to the industrial growth of Peterborough; and its constituents of falsehood and suspicion could have but one effect, an evil effect like the evil fruit of an evil tree. It was nothing but a malicious rumor, originating from some malcontent who cared nothing for the seeds of discord and distrust which he sowed. And a flourishing, united community cannot be built up even by the strongest and most loyal hearts if disturbers and defeatists are busily whispering rumors that would inevitably foster a public sentiment of futility and bafflement.

Fortunately, the splendid co-operation so unhesitatingly accorded by the manufacturers of the city when their assistance was requested by Mayor Denne in bringing the Johnson Outboard Motor Company here gave the lie so thoroughly to these silly reports that they should never be put into circulation again; certainly they will never be listened to by citizens of good judgment and intelligence.

When representatives of the company came to Peterborough a week or so ago to examine the former Henry Hope factory, Mayor Denne desired to impress them with the advantages of this city as a manufacturing centre. And it occurred to him that the best and strongest testimony would be the approval of the manufacturers who have been located here for some time.

Accordingly, the Mayor invited the heads of the local industries to dinner at the Empress Hotel. The visiting representatives of the Johnson company were the chief guests at that noon hour luncheon. One of the first men Mayor Denne telephoned was W. R. Breyfogle of the De Laval Company. To the bare invitation to luncheon Mr. Breyfogle replied that he would be unable to accept it because of visitors at his home; but when Mayor Denne explained the purpose of the luncheon, Mr. Breyfogle promptly responded that he would be glad to go. E. G. Patterson of the C. G. E. Company showed the same good spirit in his acceptance, and it was the same with the other local guests.

At the luncheon Mayor Denne frankly declared the purpose of the gathering, and asked the Peterborough business men to tell the Johnson representatives the truth and the whole truth about the conditions which they had experienced in Peterborough. Without one dissenting exception, their statements were all in praise of this city and its people and general environment.

Robert Abbott of the Raybestos Company said that the luncheon was one of the most pleasant affairs he had attended since coming to this city, and that it emphasized the fact of harmony and the common desire to further the interests of Peterborough in any way that offered itself.

One fact stands out in this incident, namely, that Mayor Denne must have been absolutely confident that the manufacturers were all pleased with Peterborough and wished to have a personal share in its expansion, otherwise he would not have risked an unfavorable opinion reaching the ears of the Johnson representatives during their brief stay here.

If every employee in the factories of Peterborough, who desires to promote the city, will co-operate in public affairs as willingly and as effectively as the manufacturers did on this occasion, the industrial development of Peterborough will immediately enter upon a new era.

THE PRESS GALLERY.

In his complaint that the correspondent of The London Advertiser had misrepresented one of his speeches, Mr. C. H. Cahan said that members of the Press Gallery were only permitted in Parliament "on tolerance" and that if they did not behave themselves it might become necessary to remove them.

Now we have little sympathy with any newspaperman betraying the ethics of his profession to misrepresent and injure any public man for any reason whatsoever. But when Mr. Cahan talks about the Press Gallery existing on the tolerance of the members of the House he is simply talking nonsense, and must know that he is talking nonsense.

He is, in fact, permitting his mind to be fogged by what he has read of a condition that existed in England more than a century ago when Parliament was hardly more than a club for aristocratic gentlemen who came down to the House with wigs and silk breeches and some of whom did not carry their port any too meekly. Such gentlemen were hardly responsible to the people, because instead of being elected by the people they owed their places in Parliament to constituencies most of which did not have more than a hundred privileged voters, many of whom were bribed. It was under these conditions, when the people had no control over Parliament, and when it mattered little to the people what the Parliamentary lions said, that the Press Gallery existed "on tolerance." A lot of water has run down the Thames, and a lot of blood has run on many battlefields for democratic principles, since then.

But even the old Parliamentarians were glad to "tolerate" the Press Gallery. Daniel O'Connell, the famous Irish leader, once had the Gallery expelled, but if Mr. Cahan will read the sequel of that action (he will find the story told in many books in the Parliamentary Library) he may note with interest that it was not long before the British House was sighing for the Gallery's return.

In Canada, in this year of grace, the Press Gallery does not depend for its existence upon the "tolerance" of the members of Parliament. It exists as a very necessary instrument of our scheme of democratic government, and if there are any members of the present House of Commons whose thinking is so Tory and obscurantist as to hold otherwise, the sooner they disabuse themselves of the idea the better for their grasp of realities.

Being human, the members of the Press Gallery are fallible, and because newspapermen are not machines, but have their own passions and prejudices, they are necessarily subject to error. Judged in the gross, however—and how else can any institution be justly judged?—they are commendably competent and fair. If there are members of the House who think differently, we would ask them to reflect upon how much more malicious the newspapermen could be by the simple and easy process of sometimes reporting what our statesmen say precisely as they say it.—Ottawa Journal.

ORANGE PEKOE BLEND

"Pekoe" comes from the Chinese word "Pak-ho", meaning silver hair, which was applied to the tip leaves on the Chinese tea bush. Tip leaves are wiry in shape. In India they were more orange in colour, so were called "Orange Pekoe" (Pak-ho).

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, March 30 (Canadian Press). — The Montreal grain market was without any special feature to note yesterday, business being exceedingly quiet owing to the continued absence of any important demand from exporters. The trade for domestic account was also small, but the undertone was firm.

A moderate amount of business was worked with foreign buyers in spring wheat flour for May-June shipment. The local trade continued quiet, but prices were steady. The winter wheat market was also dull, but values ruled unchanged.

The trade in all lines of millfeed continued active and prices were firmly maintained. A firm feeling prevailed in the market for standard grades of rolled oats, and the trade was active.

The inquiry for all grades of fresh eggs showed considerable improvement and fairly active business was done at unchanged prices. The receipts were 2,110 cases.

The potato market was moderately active and values were firm. Car lots of Quebec varieties were quoted at $1.35 per bag of 90 pounds, in bulk, ex-track, while New Brunswick north shore potatoes were quoted at $1.50 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, and Prince Edward Island potatoes at $1.75 per bag of 90 pounds, bagged, ex-track.

The undertone to the market for imported beans was firm owing to the continued small supplies available on spot and the steady demand. Sales of car lots to arrive were made at $3.65 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities at $3.75 per bushel, ex-store.

Extreme dullness marked the butter trade, but prices were unchanged. The receipts were 131 packages.

Only a small business was done in cheese, and prices ruled steady. The receipts were 425 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 30 (Canadian Press). — Big speculative buying and 1,000,000 bushels taken for export swept the wheat market upward yesterday to fresh high price records for the season. With crop news from east of the Mississippi continuing pessimistic and with bullish private estimates for April due on Monday, the advance of wheat gained unusual momentum, many spread traders purchasing wheat against sales of corn.

Closing quotations on wheat were strong 1½ cents to 2 cents net higher. Corn finished ⅝c to 1½c up, oats showing ½c to 1¼c advance, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 70.

Widening out of demand for wheat enabled the market to absorb enormous profit-taking sales and yet continue its upward trend. Meanwhile, deliveries of 194,000 bushels yesterday on March contracts here failed to have much effect toward stopping the upward swing of the market as a whole. A decline in premiums for hard winter wheat and spring wheat was also without much influence as a bear factor. Red wheat premiums were higher, and No. 2 red winter sold at 27 cents over May, the topmost basis so far this season.

European interests appeared to be specializing in purchases of the September delivery of wheat here. This circumstance attracted considerable notice in view of the fact that the Liverpool market yesterday did not respond fully to Wednesday's advance in Chicago.

A possible reason back of foreign buying was that reports from France indicate irreparable damage as a result of extreme cold. In addition to further adverse comment as to prospective heavy abandonment of domestic soft wheat acreage, some notice was also given to talk of deficiency of sub-soil moisture southwest. On the other hand, a leading Chicago expert wired that crop conditions in Kansas are above average, with possibility of a record yield in the south-west section of that state.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength. Besides, it was apparent that corn export business was again in progress. Smallness of receipts tended also to stimulate corn buying.

In provisions, the outstanding feature was demand for lard by a house which has European connections, and which is credited with having bought lard and sold corn for some time.

GOD'S MINUTE

He forgetteth not the cry of the humble.—Ps. 9:12.

Our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the watch care that was over us while we slept, and that Thou hast brought us in health and strength to see the light of this new day. But we need Thee more in the daylight than we do at midnight. Open our eyes to the opportunities and privileges of this day. As a servant would come to his master in the early morning to receive directions for the day, so we come to Thee, seeking divine guidance. Strengthen our bodies, clear our heads and warm our hearts, that we may live this day in accordance with Thy Holy Will, and that we may do nothing displeasing in Thy sight. Bless us in our home life, that by precept and example we may lead our children in the good and right way, and help to make the atmosphere of our households so much like Heaven that it will be the natural thing for them to grow up in the "nurture and admonition of the Lord.' Go with us into the larger and outer circles of life's relationships, and everywhere enable us to help and not to hinder. Bless with us all those who cry to Thee for help, and hasten the day when all mankind will join in crowning Christ "Lord of all." We offer our thanksgivings and render our petitions in the Name of Jesus. Amen.

Pend Oreille Takes Drop, Other Issues Follow Suit

TORONTO, March 30 (Canadian Press).—The list on the Standard Mining Exchange still inclined to sag to-day, with Pend Oreille, after its recent advance, the heaviest loser. This stock re-acted below 21 for a loss of about a dollar a share from yesterday. Noranda lost about half a dollar around 17.30, and Hudson Bay lost 25 points at 17.00. Hollinger eased another ten at 16.60 with Area at 16½, Crown Reserve at 55, Laval at 16, and Sherritt at 7.40 slightly lower. Kirkland Lakes generally were firm, Kirkland Lake Gold improving two at 203, and Wright Hargreaves selling up six at 456. Aconda, Lake Shore and Sudbury Contact were also firmer.

Flintoba Mines Ltd. In Manitoba Field

Flintoba Mines, Limited, has been organized under the laws of the Dominoin of Canada with a capitalization of 3,000,000 shares of no par value, with 1,450,000 issued and the balance of 1,550,000 remaining in the treasury

The Company has been organized for the purpose of developing two properties, about 1,050 acres, both adjoining the holdings of the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company, one on the east and the other on the west. The ground is very favorably located in relation to the famous Flin Flon ore occurrences and stands in an excellent position to benefit from the extensive developments on the Flin Flon.

The mineralization consists of Keewatin Greenstones, in which there is said to be considerable copper content, and well schisted quartz which contains encouraging values in gold and silver. According to the original discoverers of the property the extent of this mineralization is considerable.

The property is accessible over the winter roads used by Hudson Bay, Mandy and Sherritt Gordon. When completed, which should be this fall, the Flin Flon Railway will be within one mile of the eastern group of the property.

Power will be available from the lines proposed by the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company.

It is understood that a limited amount of this stock will shortly be offered for public subscription prior to listing on the recognized exchanges.

Wheat Undergoes Setback Liverpool Market Blamed

CHICAGO, Mar. 30 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices underwent a material set-back early to-day, influenced by the Liverpool quotations failing to reflect yesterday's advance here. Better moisture conditions West were also bearish factor as to wheat. Opening 1-8 to 7-8 off, Chicago wheat soon showed further losses, but then rallied somewhat. With corn belt weather stormy, corn and oats developed strength, corn starting unchanged to 3-8 lower and subsequently scoring a general advance. Provisions were easy.

Wheat, March 143 7-8, May 142 7-8; corn, March 99 5-8, May 101 1-8; oats, March 59, May 58 3-8.

International Nickel Takes Lead On Active Exchange

TORONTO, Mar. 30. — (Canadian Press.)—Activity and strength of International Nickel and the strong movements in few other issues marked this morning's session of the Toronto stock exchange. Nickel on a turnover of ten thousand shares touched 98¾ and at noon was 3½ points better than yesterday around 97½. Brazilian Rights were sold up about two at 25 and British Columbia Fishing advanced 1½ at 13½. Dominion Stores at 117½, Industrial Alcohol at 43¼ and Page Hersey at 95¼ were also improved, with Massey Harris active and steady at 43½. In the easier oils, British American was at 37¾, Imperial at 61⅞ and Petroleum at 38½. Liquor is were generally steady.

Industrial Situation Shows Signs Of Strength

TORONTO, March 27.—In a summary of the iron, steel and machinery markets, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News makes the following comment this week:

Evidences of strength in the Canadian industrial situation are certainly not lacking. Production is high and, on the whole, gaining daily. Sentiment, sensitive to production, consumption and all factors affecting the immediate future, is healthy. March will undoubtedly show some interesting totals, and, from the supply end, prices exhibit an encouraging stability.

Steel mills are reported to be behind in filling orders and are running plants from 18 to 24 hours a day. Iron and steel consumers, large and small, are finding competition keen, but the usual year's business is making its appearance as per schedule, and in larger volume than in past years, while the competitive element is driving manufacturers out to "rake in" business to such an extent that industry as a whole is benefitting considerably.

An unconfirmed report says the Canadian National Railways has placed a rolling stock order worth more than $3,000,000, dividing it between the various firms. Considerable miscellaneous railway business is known to have been placed lately, and the plans of both the large roads call for further large purchases. Page-Hersey Tubes, Ltd., has, under a merger agreement with Gordon Perry, taken over the Ashbridges Bay, Toronto, plant, formerly owned by Baldwin Canadian Steel Corporation, and will use the entire plant to manufacture pipe, claiming business to be good now and promising even better for the future.

Extensive development in mining, the pulp and paper field, and the building of power sites is going forward, with consequent considerable consumption of iron and steel products and mechanical equipment. Construction industries, too, are very busy with the unusually large spring program. Imports from the United States and from overseas are heavy, and a spurt in water shipment is sure to result from the pending opening of navigation. Some price reduction is to be expected at that time also.

Prices just now are satisfactorily firm. Pig-iron at Montreal is steady at from $24.50 to $25. Business is reported good, and the outlook equally satisfactory. Warehouses say business is very good. Prices on cold rolled steel, sheets, plates, shapes, etc., out of stock, remain the same.

TUG RETURNS TO PORT DOVER

Rescue Vessel is Unable To Get Through To Imprisoned Vessels.

HEAVY GALE BLOWING.

BRANTFORD, March 30. Canadian Press. — Word was received from Port Dover that the tug Donald Mack was reported to have returned to Port Stanley after finding it impossible to free the Jean F., or the Altawandron. Heavy gales are blowing and fears are expressed for the Jean F. now with its wheel disabled, drifting about in the heavy icefield.

The tug Altawandron, now abandoned, and the rescue tug Jeaf F., caught in the ice in a futile attempt to reach the first named boat, still occupied the same relative position, about three quarters of a mile apart, this morning. The Jean F. has a crew of eight men aboard and while no anxiety is felt at present, their position threatened to become dangerous if the ice floes break up.

Premier Differs With Lord Salisbury's Statement in Lords.

ON EGYPTIAN TREATY.

OTTAWA, March 30 (Canadian Press).—"I do not know what has been cabled to London with regard to the speech I delivered in the House of Commons on Monday night, but what I did say is in Hansard and the facts of the case are as stated there," said Premier King, when shown a despatch from London in which Lord Salisbury, speaking in the House of Lords yesterday, declared Canada was not invited to participate in the Anglo-Egyptian treaty recently negotiated. "Canada was asked to be a party to the treaty, and should there by any doubt about it I would be glad, with the consent of the British Government to have the correspondence in this connection tabled," said Mr. King.

TWO OF CREW REACH SHORE

Rest of Those From Imprisoned Tugs Expected To-day.

HAVE FOOD SUPPLY.

PORT DOVER, Mar. 30.—With the arrival of the tug Racey, Captain John Wood, at six yesterady evening, the veil of uncertainy which has hung over the fate of the tug Altawandron and her crew was lifted. Harry Phillips and D. MacLeod, two of the Altawandron's crew, looking somewhat worn out from the harrowing experience they had undergone, stepped ashore in the vast crowd, which was too overcome by the reaction of the moment to utter even one feeble cheer. They bore the stimulating message: "The rest will be along to-morrow" and forebodings of disaster were scattered to the four winds.

The part of the Racey in the rescue reveals a sternness of purpose worthy of the best traditions of the Great Lakes sailors. With the advantage of her steel hull, the Racey bucked the ice until she got within some two miles of the Jean F., and was then brought to a standstill. David Wood and N. Taylor strapped food supplies on their backs, donned life-preservers and then, roped together and each carrying a pike-pole, set out over the ice for the hazardous attempt to reach the Altawandron and the Jean F., the imprisoned boats, with the provisions which were sadly needed But half a loaf of bread and a can of beans were, it was later ascertained, all the food left on that craft

Relief Boat Met Men.

When those on the Jean F., whose crew had been augmented by that of the Altawandron, who had made the perilous trip to greater safety this morning, saw the relief men headed their way, they started out with a light boat, pushed along by six men, of whom Phillips, MacLeod and Mossing of the Altawandron were there, to meet Wood and Taylor.

Release Efforts Continue.

When the two parties met the provisions were transferred, and the Altawandron's men joined Wood and Taylor for the return trip to the Racey without mishap. Mossing transferred to the steel tug Donald Mac, of Port Stanley, which again entered the ice field in order to attempt to free the two craft still imprisoned there. Phillips and MacLeod were directed by Captain W. F. Kolbe, owiner of the Altawandron, to proceed to Port Dover on the Racey, as with Mossing, the engineer, and those still aboard the Jean F., it would be possible to navigate the Altawndron with a small crew when released.

Jean F. Disabled.

The Jean F is completely disabled, having its steel rudder so twisted and buckled that it is foul of the wheel, and makes it impossible to get the engine in motion.

It is expected that the Donald Mac will have the two imprisoned craft freed some time this afternoon. Should thtis object not be attained, efforts will be made to get one or two of the ice-breaking ferries which ply this lake sent to free the two craft.

Liquor Store Closed For Oshawa Strike

TORONTO, March 30.—"The less liquor men get when they're out on strike, the better for all concerned," said D. B. Hanna, chairman of the Liquor Control Commission when interviewed to-day in connection with the closing of the Oshawa liquor store during the General Motors strike. "We intend to go along from day to day, closing the store or keeping it open, as we see fit, until the business is over," the Commissioner added. "It was closed yesterday because we had a report that the striking workmen were being paid off and we didn't want them to waste their money. They may need it.'

NEW WAVE-LENGTHS ARE GIVEN STATIONS

Toronto Broadcasters Will Be Separated, Starting On Sunday.

OTTAWA, March 30.—Toronto and district radio stations will go on different wave-lengths, commencing Sunday next, April 1.

The licenses of the International Bible Students' Association in Toronto and elsewhere in Canada will not be renewed. They are cancelled at the insistent request of thousands of listeners.

For the other Toronto and district stations the line-up on and after Sunday will be as follows:

CKCL and CKNC—516 metres.
CKGW and CFRB—312 metres.
CFCA, CNRT and CKOW—356 metres.

This readjustment means that CFCA will have the exclusive use of the 356 wave-length, CNRT and CKOW being phantom licenses for the Canadian National Railways and the Nestle's Food Company, Limited. Neither of these stations has a physical plant of its own, but the two stations, it is understood, will contract for time over the physical plant of CFCA.

ONTARIO HOUSE TO CLOSE SOON

May End Sessions Labors To-day and Prorogue On Tuesday.

ESTIMATES PASSED.

TORONTO, March 30. — The Legislature may end the labors of its second session to-day, in which event prorogation would take plaec on Tuesday next. Legislation and estimates were handled with unexpected despatch yesterday and upon adjournment at 10.30 last night the order paper was almost clear. Concurrence in items of supply is yet to be given, and there are some questions by members to be answered.

The Red Lake Railway bill, sponsored by Mr. Earngey, of Kenora, and which has been listed for ten days for consideration by the Railway Committee, is to be withdrawn. It proposed to charter a line through Mr. Backus' timber country, and promises to be controversial.

Premier Ferguson said at adjournment that he had discussed with W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, the possibility of finishing business of the session to-day, and that it seemed quite possible.

Main estimates passed last night were those of the Lands and Forests Labor and Provincial Secretary's Departments, and the Provincial Auditor's office.

In connection with a vote of $2-150,000 for Mothers' Alowances Hon. Dr. Godfrey warned members to be very careful in promising constituents that widows with one child would be brought under the act, because the province might almost be said to be overburdened already.The cost would be $1,000,00.

"When the department lost Mr. Bryce," said Mr. Godfrey, "they lost a very effective officer, but he had other fields in which he was to work. After a year's experience with our old reliable—I was going to say wonderful—man, Hon Dr. Jamieson, a man of keen human understanding, you must expect the work to go on if possible even better than under Rev. Mr. Bryce."

Under the estimates of the archives branch, E. Proulx, Prescott, inquired regarding the possibility of better accommodation and Premier Ferguson said: "Only recently the demand has been so strong for an extension to the Royal Museum, the government has reached the conclusion something will have to be done over there.

"We have in mind the thought if an extension of that building is made it should be sufficiently large that if the soldiers' association make their memorial there, rather than a shaft of something on University Avenue, accommodation will be found there for that as well."

Discussing estimates of Hon. Mr. Goldie's department, D. M. Ross, North Oxford, asked if the government planned another building at Woodstock. The Minister said he hesitated to recommend it, in view of the expense and it was hoped that that arrangements might work out so that it could be avoided.

FOUR IN CAR ARE DROWNED

Automobile Plunges Over Embankment Into Detroit River.

OCCUPANTS UNKNOWN.

DETROIT, March 30.—The bodies of a man, his wife and their two young children were taken from an automobile at the bottom of the Detroit River at 10 o'clock last night, a short time after the car had plunged over the embankment at the foot of Parkview avenue. No identification has yet been established, but a card found in the woman's pocketbook bore the name of "Agnes McDermott."

According to meagre information available at this hour the auto, a new machine of a small type, was being driven by the father for the first time. As it approached the river the driver apparently made the fatal error of putting his foot on the accelerator instead of the foot-brake. One or two persons in the vicinity told police they saw the car give a leap forward and then shoot off the edge of the dock into the water, which at this point is about fourteen feet deep.

An alarm was given at once and firemen and police succeeded in bringing the car to the surface within a few minutes. All four bodies were in the machine when it was raised. Coroner Burgess ordered the bodies sent to the County Morgue.

Between 45 minutes and an hour elapsed after the auto went to the bottom until it was pulled out. All lights still were burning. Because of the length of time the bodies had been immersed, police made no effort to use pulmotors.

COUNCIL HAS LONG DEADLOCK

Donagheadee Urban District Council has a deadlock as to who shall be chairman, and the matter has become a problem for the Home Ministry of Ireland. At the first meeting two candidates for the office were nominated for the position and voting was equal. The deadlock continued at a subsequent meeting and the Home Ministry was appealed to. His suggestion that the matter be settled by drawing lots was refused, and the people of the district are waiting anxiously to see what further action he will take.

"Sugar and Spice 'N Everything Nice"

THE talented author (name unknown) of the old nursery rhyme from which we have borrowed these pregnant words, evidently knew something about tickling fickle appetites. It may be that he (or, more likely, she) had spice cakes in mind at the time. By the way, all ye mothers of growing children, a few spice cakes in the luncheon bags will be appreciated by your young people. Here's a recipe for you:

1 cup butter
1 cup brov sugar
1 pint flou
1 teaspoon each of caraway and coriander seeds
2 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
1 teaspoon each of extract of nutmeg, cinnamon and ginger
1 cup milk

PROFESSOR GEORGES BOUCHARD, M.P.

A Sketch By the Hon. G. N. Gordon.

Georges Bouchard, educationist, man-of-letters and member of parliament, is a lineal descendant of the famous Norman Michel Bouchard, who settled on the banks of the St. Lawrence before 1680 and who helped wrest from the Indian tribes French Canada.

Recently, Georges Bouchard has written a charming story of the "Silhouette" of French - Canadian rural life, which has been translated into English. This work discloses to the reader the real character and disposition of the highly-trained and attractivge French-Canadian scholar.

Monsieur Bouchard is 38 years of age, tall, blonde, gracious and kindly. He speaks English with accuracy and precision acquired from long study of the classics. Like Sir Wilfred Laurier, "Macauly's History of England" is a text he faithfully studies and his pure English diction puts many of us to shame, when, charged with the slang of the day, we converse carelessly in our mother tongue.

The training he received at the universities of Laval, Louvain, Angers and Cornell has placed him in the position of being able to discuss, with authority, all those questions which are the subject of debate these days.

Although only 38 years of age he has been a professor at Ste-Anne-de-la-Pocatiere college, and, it is said, has now been offered the portfolio of minister of agriculture of the Province of Quebec.

We from English-speaking Canada very frequently fail to appreciate the ability, the industry and scholarly attainment of our fellow-citizens of Quebec. The reason probably is that we are so wrapped up in our own activities that we forget that the first settlers of Canada have left as their descendants a virile, happy race of Canadians who have developed leaders in commercial life and statesmen of high order.

"Other Days, Other Ways" tells the attractive history of French-Canadian family life, of the problems of the men and women of the farm, their ambition to educate their children, the toil to gather sufficient means to maintain them in old age and their watchful devotion to their young.

Georges Bouchard is one of the half dozen best dressed men in the Canadian House of Commons. The material in his well tailored shirts, collars and suits, was spun on the hand-loom of his mother, who still lives in her habitant home at Kamouraska, where the Bouchards settled two hundred and fifty years ago.

The outstanding qualities of unselfishness and contentment of the French-Canadian to-day are the same qualities which marked the French peasants, who settled in Canada hundreds of years ago. They are not the innocent victims of busy agitators. They do not enter into family feuds. Theirs is a humble, serene and contented life, devoted to their families and happy in their toil.

But like all people of Celtic origin the personal element is always an important factor in their minds. They are what we call hero-worshippers. Men of outstanding ability and of great power as orators, when the habitant becomes acquainted with them stand high in his affection and always are looked upon with a feeling of admiration akin to reverence.

Statesmen like Sir Wilfred Laurier, Hon. Rudolphe Lemieux and Premier Taschereau always were enthusiastically acclaimed by the habitant because they were of his own people reaching a high pinnacle in public life, and because he was attracted by the effects of the unusual oratorical gifts of his compatriots.

Georges Bouchard's story of glowing charm and simple beauty of countryside life appears so clear and true a picture that he has performed a needed service to his English-speaking friends in lifting the curtain that gives us the opportunity of studying French rural life at closer range.

Like other French-Canadian students Mr. Bouchard easily learned familiarity with the classics of Greece and Rome, the picturesque story of King John and the barons and the Magna Charta, the Wars of the Roses, the entrancing story of Queen Victoria and the achievements during her reign. The French-Canadian schools weave through the lessons given a thread of romance and a story of sympathetic felling which impresses upon the child's mind, in a peculiarly attractive manner, a setting and a fabric, of the lesson taught, that never fades from his memory.

Only a student by such sympathetic ingenuity could say, as Mr. Bouchard does, of the sun rising about the crest of the hills, "its rays awakening the carol of the birds in every hedge, creating a sparkle in each droplet of dew, and a gleam of gold in each kernel of wheat."

The press, this week, has reported that the young parliamentarian, Georges Bouchard, may be within a few days a minister at Quebec. If Premier Taschereau does so honor him, it is assured that his devotion to his calling, his high sense of duty, his courtly manner and his patient, untiring industry, will never fail the fascinating and attractive Canadian-Norman man-of-letters; and his neighbors, the descendants of the Normandy peasants, without even a thought of being envious, will declare with a hearty enthusiasm that they always knew that young Bouchard was destined to be a great man and that his name some day would be known to all Canadians with that of our first prime minister of French origin.

OPEN AIR ROMANCE CONTINUES IN AFRICA

Margaret Coats, Daughter of Thread King, To Wed Viscount Knollys.

LONDON, March 30—(By the Canadian Press).—A romance of the open-air life is revealed in the announcement of the engagement of Viscount Knollys and Miss Margaret Coats, daughter of Sir Stuart and Lady Coats, of Ballathie, Perthshire. Sir Stuart Coats was formerly partner in the noted thread manufacturing firm of J. & P. Coats and president of the Canada Thread Company.

Miss Coats, who is just 27, first met Viscount Knollys at a country sports meeting. "Both are passionately fond of anything which savors of the open-air" said a close friend of Miss Coats to a London newspaper, "and since that first meeting they have spent all their holidays together, walking, golfing and boating. Miss Coats shares her father's keenness for fishing and has had many a tussle with big salmon above the rapids in Upper Ballathie water."

She is heiress to one of Paisley's thread kings, who, on his father's death, came into an estate of more than £2,000,000.

Viscount Knollys, who is 33, is a keen business man. He went into the city after a distinguished war career. He served as captain in the London Regiment and afterwards as Flight-Lieut. in the Royal Air Force. He holds the Distinguished Flying Cross, Order of the Crown of Belgium, Croix de Guerre and the Order of the British Empire. His father was private secretary to King Edward and joint private secretary to King George, and Viscount Knollys as a boy was a page of honor to King Edward and a train-bearer at King George's coronation.

The couple are at present in South Africa—Viscount Knollys on a business trip and Miss Coats on a holiday visit.

The son of a Zulu chieftain, Albert Makaula White, who was adopted by a British missionary and his wife sixty years ago, has been a successful farmer in England for the last twenty-five years.

RICHARD HALL LIMITED

YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD SHOWER FOR BRIDE

Hastings Societies Hold Interesting Meetings This Week.

HASTINGS, March 30.—Mr. and Mrs. W. Richardson were honored at the weekly meeting of the Young People of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, by a shower. Mrs. Richardson was formerly Miss Olive Abbott. After a short devotional period and solos by Isabel Powlds, and Myrtle Dodd, and a reading by Vivian Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. Richardson opened their gifts, which were numerous and very useful, and each made a suitable reply. Lunch was served by the social committee.

Young People's League.

Rev. A. C. Hiltz gave a very interesting and inspiring address on "War and its results" at the Young People's League of the United Church. He spoke of the results of war as to the moral standpoint as well as the physical injuries to man. These are the greatest cost of war and not the financial cost to a nation.

Billie Fields gave a very humorous recitation after which I. Bond gave a reading and address.

Bridge Washed Out.

The stage to Warkworth was unable to get through on Tuesday on account of the bridge at Brickley being washed away with the heavy flow of water on Monday night. The bridge on the Campbellford road below Mr. Orrs was also washed out and Gillespie Brothers sawing machine was upset in the ravine.

Auction Sale.

Stock went very high at the auction sale held on Tuesday at Larry Watters, grade cattle selling around eighty to ninety dollars a piece.

Personals.

Mr. John L. Hay and Mr. Warrington Hay of Campbellford were business visitors in town on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Oliver motored to Campbellford on Tuesday and reported the road to be practically impassible for motors.

Mrs. N. McDonald and Miss Hazel McDonald spent Wednesday in Peterborough.

Mr. W. J. Mullen of Lindsay, representative of the General Motors for this district, was in town on Wednesday, the guest of Dr. J. H. Hess.

Mr. James Sanders of Campbellford, overseer of the Trent Valley Canal, for this division was in town on Wednesday. Mr. Hoard, the new lockmaster, accompanied him and will take up residence here.

Mrs. Lucy Small, who has spent the past few months at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Huycke, returned to her home at Gallivan, Saskatchewan on Monday.

Mr. George Kelleher of Campbellford was a visitor in town on Wednesday.

KNIGHTS PREPARE FOR CELEBRATION

Committees Active In Arranging For Big Celebration May 24.

(Contributed)

Knights of Columbus committees are gradually reducing to definite form their plans for the celebration on May 24th of their Council's twenty-fifth anniversary. A reception to the charter members will be held during the evening of May 23rd following the arrival and welcome to the Papal Delegate, who will be the guest of His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, and who will celebrate the Pontifical High Mass with which the events of the holiday begin. Local and visiting Knights of Columbus will attend in a body and the singing of the Mass will likely be by the St. Augustine's seminary choir. Second and third degree work will take up the afternoon. A. J. Reynolds of Peterborough will be in charge of the second degree, and State Deputy R. A. Jeffrey of Arnprior will preside in the exemplification of the third degree.

The feature of the evening will be a banquet, probably in the armouries, at which it is expected the chief address will be delivered by Supreme Knight Martin A. Carmody. Other notable speakers have been suggested in connexion with the toast list. Men who are prominent in the affairs of church and state have been invited, and it is expected that the membership generally in eastern Ontario will be largely represented. Toronto Council has promised a numerous contingent. They have formed a special "On to Peteborough" committee, with Frank P. O'Connor, a former Peterborough boy as chairman, and G. Parnell McHugh of Toronto, son of the late Senator McHugh of Lindsay, as secretary. From his Lindsay days Mr. McHugh is well known in Peterborough.

The general committee is requesting the Catholic people of the city to lend their assistance in making the celebration a hospitable one for visitors. They are asked to invite any of their relatives or friends who may be Knights of Columbus to make Peterborough their destination on the May holiday, and if they will telephone or write the K.C. club, Simcoe street, a special invitation will be sent to their friends. Many of the men who joined the Order during the twenty-five years of its existence have moved from Peterborough.

The announcement some time ago of the intention to hold the anniversary celebration has brought from various sources expressions of goodwill that are much appreciated. This twenty-fifth anniversary is the first the Peterborough Knights of Columbus have in any way specially marked. The broadcasting of the banquet addresses has been suggested and it may be arranged if the committee finds the expense within its bounds.

BACKS POINCARE ON PEACE MOVE

Stresemann Tells Foreign Pressmen 'Dare Not Fail' With Disarmament.

TIME FOR IT IS RIPE.

BERLIN, March 30. — Dr. Stresemann agrees both to agree and disagree with Premier Poincare. That, reduced to its barest bone, is the substance of the German Foreign Minister's speech at the annual banquet of the Foreign Press Association at the Hotel Adlon last night.

Dr. Stresemann rejects, but because it belongs to a past which must not be permitted to influence the future, declines to discuss the French Premier's thesis about the occupation of the Ruhr, as enunciated in his Bordeaux address.

He accepts and warmly approves M. Poincare's views on international rapprochement at present in the future which, in the German statesman's eyes, differ widely from the French Premier's attitude about the past.

In other words, Dr. Stresemann's much-heralded pronouncement this evening was as amiable as it possibly could be. Moved by an evident realization that M. Poincare dominates France to-day and probably will continue as head of its Government after the general elections, the ruler of the Reich's foreign policy preferred to deal only with those parts of the Bordeaux speech which match in with his own ideas. This diplomatic wisdom certainly will please Dr. Stresemann's Liberal compatriots as much as it will exasperate his Nationalistic antagonists.

Differs With Russia on Arms.

The Foreign Minister strongly reiterated Germany's demand for disarmament. But, while sternly deprecating any lack of achievement in this direction on the League of Nations' part, he remained hopeful of ultimate accomplishment at Geneva.

Incidentally, he drew a sharp line between Germany's standpoint and Russia's, the former nation, as he put it, being willing to see armed might abolished gradually and not all at once, as the Russians urge. He insisted, however, that the time for a first step toward the desired goal was at hand.

Some 300 diners—foreign correspondents and guests drawn from the German Government, the Diplomatic Corps and leading representatives of finance, industry, journalism, literature and art — Heard the speech, Louis Lochner, president of the association, paid a tribute to Dr. Stresemann's receptive attitude toward the foreign press.

The far-reaching role of the printed word in developing international progress and peace was dwelt on by Mgr. Pacelli ,the papal nuncio, who may have had the Pope's strictures on Fascismo in mind when he urged newspapers of the world to organize a "spiritual front against the suppression of justice in some parts of the earth." To debase and subjugate the press, Mgr. Pacelli declared, was to substitute might for right.

On behalf of the German press, Georg Bernhard, editor of The Vossische Zeitung, expressed the hope that truth would become fashionable among Governments as among conscientious journalists.

Deplores Arms Deadlock.

At the start of his address, the German Foreign Minister frankly acknowledged his disappointment at the negative outcome of the last meeting of the League's disarmament committee.

"In the public opinion of the world," he said, "the belief certainly prevails that things are at a standstill. Scepticism outweighs hope in the minds of the people.

"Germany's attitude toward disarmament has been subjected to sabotage abroad. It is charged that we do not really want to see arms laid down, but prefer to join, too, in an armaments race. If this abominable accusation really were true, the best thing for Germany would be that our alleged desires should be defeated.

"But the world cannot be deceived about the real causes of disarmament deadlock. Geneva has shown that there is no immediate prospect of even an initial step toward disarmament at the present time. That is a very deep disappointment to us for, while Germany does not demand an immediate and total disarming she is firmly convinced that circumstances to-day are such as permit the realization of the first steps in the direction of that goal."

Commends American Action.

Regarding the Locarno agreements to hasten the reduction of armaments, Dr. Stresemann pointed out that nothing whatever has been accomplished for its application during the past two and a half years. Nevertheless, he said, he kept on pinning his faith in the League of Nations, since in this question the "League simply dare not fail."

It is up to the great military powers, he added, to lay concrete and effective proposals before the next Geneva assembly.

PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHING GOOD

Inspector Advises Drinking Water Supply For Campbellford School.

ATTENDANCE 78 PER CENT.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30.—The Board of School Trustees met in regular session in the Council Chamber, Carnegie Library Building, at eight o'clock last night. There were present Dr. H. O. Richardson, chairman, Wesley Stephens, secretary, and Trustees Watson, Birmingham, Jeffs, Loucks, William Stevens, Cock, and Thomas Hall. Principals Greig and Haig of the High and Public Schools, and the caretakers of both schools were also present. Chief Light attended in the capacity of truant officer.

The main item of interest was the report of the Public School Inspector, Robert Boyes. In presenting his report, Mr. Boyes graded the buildings and accommodations all the way down the scale from one to four. He described the organization as satisfactory, the teaching as good, and the work of the pupils as excellent. Of the total enrolment of 427, only 341 were present. Mr Boyes further reported that all courses were provided for and all text books in use were authorized. The inspection had taken place on March 13, 14, and 15. He recommended that drinking water be supplied in the buildings.

The matter of a drinking water supply caused considerable discussion. Mr. Massey, caretaker, informed the board that with the present heating system in the public schools, it would be impossible to bring water into the buildings. The water supply in the High School also came into the argument, and various descriptions were applied to its taste till Trustee Cock exclaimed, "Well, Mr. Chairman, it's ratten. That's what I call it." Mr. Massey then reminded the Board of the possibility of bringing water from the old Nancarrow spring, and the matter was left in the hands of the Property Committee to bring in a report at the next meeting.

Wesley Stevens, secretary, reminded the Board that an account of considerable size due the local school from Peterborough County had not yet been paid. The account is about a year old, and it was left to the attention of the chairman and the secretary.

There were only two communications read, one relative to the educational conference to be held in Toronto during Easter week, which was placed in the hands of the principals to bring to the attentions of their staffs. The second was with reference to a conference of school attendance officers to be held in Toronto. This was laid over till the next meeting after considerable discussion, in which it was revealed that practically eighty pupils were absent from school each day. Dr. Watson also pointed out that the attendance was only 78 per cent.

Truant Officer Light told the Board that in the majority of cases brought to his attention the reason for the children's absence was given as sickness. In many cases the trouble was measles or whooping cough. Very few cases, he claimed, were actual cases of truancy.

Dr. Richardson expressed the appreciation of the board for the very generous response which had been made when it was made known that the High school required several trophies. In the brief time between the announcement and the time when the trophies should be presented, every requirement had been filled. He fancied that the oratory in the schools was having the desired effect in teaching pupils to stand on their feet and speak without being overcome by self consciousness. He also thought that the plan might prove satisfactory if tried in the Public schools.

The fact that there were only three clocks in the High school was also brought before the board and after some discussion, two more were authorized purchased. In speaking on the subject, Principal Greig pointed out that the requirements of the department indicated clocks for all rooms where examinations were being held. He also mentioned that during the Entrance examinations last year, it was necessary for the presiding officers to use "false clocks."

The Story of Confederation, a free booklet issued by the Robert Simpson Company was mentioned by Principal Haig and the board authorized him to secure as many copies as he saw fit and distribute them among the pupils. It was pointed out, however, that these books were not text books but merely for the pupils to read outside of school.

A telephone in the High school was the final consideration of the board, but after much discussion both for and against, the matter was dropped without any action being taken. After the accounts had been read and passed, with a rider to the motion that the secretary be allowed to pay the water and light accounts as they came due, the meeting adjourned.

FIRE BRIGADE SHOWING GOOD

Campbellford Men Have Hose Connected in Short Time.

INSPECTOR PRESENT.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30.—Private citizens are not allowed to play with fire alarms, but when the inspector for the Fire Underwriters' Association breaks the glass and opens the box, the firemen go through all the motions just as though the entire town were ablaze. The alarm which was turned in at 9.02 yesterday morning found the local firemen as active as usual and in three and one-quarter minutes they had arrived at the corner of Bridge and Rear streets, run out three lines of hose, each two hundred and fifty feet, connected the nozzles, and had water playing. This was their first warning that the inspector was in town. After the demonstration, Inspector Graham spent several hours testing hydrants and other items which go to complete the town's fire protection system. He also took with him a summary of the alarms, fires, and losses for the last five years.

From 1923 to 1927, inclusive, there were 183 alarms, 26 fires and a total loss of $16,715.00. The greatest loss was in 1926, with $7,085.00. This includes the loss of the Canadian Paper Box Company's horse stables by fire which broke out about 2.00 a.m., January 2nd of that year. The loss was given by officials of the company as $3,650.00. The table of alarms, fires and losses follows:

	Alarms.	Fires.	Loss.
1924	37	5	1,850
1925	39	4	2,025
1926	32	8	7,085
1927	29	2	1,900
Total	183	26	$16,715

Star Split Is Now Called Result of Collision Said To Be First Case of Star Hitting Star

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, March 30.—The so-called split in the star the Nova Pictoris was really a collision or a grazing impact, according to Dr. Spencer Jones, Astronomer Royal at Cape Town, who adds that it may be the first such stellar collision within historic times. Dr. Jones says it is incorrect to say that Nova Pictoris has split in two.

"There are two stars now and there were two stars before, although we did not know that," he said. The rarity of the happening gives it its great significance.

"The outburst occurred three years ago, and the distance between the two stars is now, I judge to be, one-fifth of a second of an arc. That means a separation of one-fifteenth of a second per year, which is the normal average angular motion of stars.

"Particular interest lies in the fact that this is the first direct evidence of a collision between two stars."

CAPE TOWN, March 30 (A.P.).—Astronomers of the South African observatory, who reported the star "Nova Pictoris" spit in two, now state that they have discovered the star is nebulous and double, with both components neubulous and of almost the same magnitude

MAGNESIA BEST FOR YOUR INDIGESTION

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs ,stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation ,and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

W.C.T.U. CONSIDERS WORK AMONG GIRLS

More Help Needed For Travellers' Aid Work, Says President.

The regular meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held on Wednesday, March 28, the president in the chair.

The meeting opened with the hymn "Faith of our Fathers," followed by our Lord's prayer, in unison.

The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $101.03.

Bills from the Y.W.C.A. for $8. and from The Examiner for 60c. were authorized to be paid; and also one-half of the budget money was voted to be sent.

It was decided to hold a rummage sale on April 20, and a committee was appointed to take charge.

Mrs. Cunningham read the Scripture lesson taken from the 20th chapter of John, and Mrs. Stephens lead in prayer.

A reception service was held and four new members were received.

A vocal solo ,"Oh, Man of Sorrows," was very feelingly rendered by Mrs. Curvin, accompanied by Miss Rose, and was very much appreciated.

Mrs. Throop reported a letter having been receievd from Dr. Detweiller, stating that she was very anxious that some person take up some part of the Travellers' Aid work, apart from the meeting of trains.

The President said that she feels very deeply the great need of some woman in each church to mother the strange and lonely girls, particularly those coming to the city from outside.

The address of the afternoon was given by Miss Amy Wood, the Police Matron, on her work in the city.

She endorsed the remarks of the president about the need of a woman to mother the strange and lonely girls, particularly those coming from England and Scotland, for her experience had shown that much evil arises from the fact that the girls and women have not a friend they can trust.

Miss Woods' talk would prove that the best of women are guiltily ignorant of the dangers young girls are meeting in this city. She is willing to do all she can, but she cannot do it all. "If we are God's children, we are our sister's keeper," she said.

The president expressed the thanks of the W.C.T.U. to Miss Wood for her enlightening address, and stated that there are so many girls in Peterborough that a net work of Traveller's Aid workers is needed.

LYRICS OF LIFE

SOMEONE NEAR

Strange how men will reach for lands,
When what they need is touching hands;
Strange how men will store up gold,
While empty hearts no riches hold.
Let us first make certain of
Not worldly goods but human love;
Let us first make sure of this:
Someone's voice and someone's kiss.

Strange how men will seek acclaim,
And never hear some tender name;
Strange how women praise desire,
When love is all that hearts require.
Let us first, for friends are few,
Hold the old, not seek the new;
Let us first securely bind
Friends we have, not friends we find.

Strange how feet will wander far,
When here at home love's pathways are:
Strange how some have better known
The stranger than they know their own.
Let us first hold doubly dear
Brother, sister, someone near;
For the ones who these possessed,
Somehow, always found the rest.

DRESS
By MARY MARSHALL

The polka dot fashion as displayed on a new bakou hat with a matching scarf.

Hats for children and young girls remain decidedly simple—and if you have felt that the much-talked-about feminization of women's clothes was going to bring in its wake a revival of fluffy-ruffle fashions for little girls you are bound to be disappointed. You may be able to find ornate flower-trimmed hats for youngsters in the shops, but you will have to look a long time before you will see hats of this sort worn by children of the class who are influential in such matters.

More and more we Americans are adopting the idea of our English cousins that girls' clothes should be quite as simple as boys'—with nothing more about them to cramp the freedom of their active young bodies.

So it happens that there is a marked similarity in the hats chosen for the well-dressed children. Only occasionally does one see a little girl dressed in clothes that are ostentatiously picturesque. And the little girl with a flare for fussy clothes signs in vain for flowers and feathers on her hats. A simple band or ornament of ribbon is the most that she can usually hope to possess.

The young girl's hat shown in the sketch is, though decidedly simple and conventional in shape, decidedly smart and unusual. The small handkerchief scarf knotted in the front links the hat up with the rest of the costume.

Decorative buttons are being used more and more, and in Paris those of turquoise and of amber are especially well liked. They are almost always round and are frequently attached to the long cuffs of afternoon gowns.

Jewel shades are coming more and more into prominence, and one important dressmaker is showing evening gowns of materials beyond the exact shadings of rubies and emeralds. These gowns are supposed to be the most appropriate backgrounds for the jewels whose colors they have taken. Other dressmakers insist that the pure white or "off-white" material is the best possible background for brilliantly colored gems.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

SATURDAY, MARCH 31, 1928.

According to astrology this should be a fairly fortunate day in planetary direction. Benefic aspects rule.

The morning is an auspicious time to plan business expansion and to carry on current affairs, for trade should be uncommonly good all through the spring.

The signs are favorable to the ambitions of both men and women who carry heavy responsibilities, especially those on whom depends the welfare of others.

Educators should benefit today, for they have the forecast of great success in molding the citizens of tomorrow.

The seers declare that the youth of this age, so much criticized is in reality more gifted and more poised mentally than any that has ever preceded it.

Geniuses of many sorts are already born and well along in training for supreme service to the world, astrologers declare.

America, already pre-eminent in science and invention, is to gain world renown in art and leterature from the work of boys and girls now immersed in study, it is prophesied.

The later hours of this day are most favorable for conferences and meetings or persons interested in industry.

Both employers and employes should benefit from the aspects which presage prosperity for all.

There is a sign that is read as depressing and discouraging in today's configuration, but its effects should not be recognized.

This is not a lucky sway for aviation and special caution should be exercised in flying under this rule of the stars.

Women will enjoy a growing fashion for collecting gems and semi-precious stones, for they will become aware of color symbolisms that are helpful, it is prognosticated.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of financial success this year.

Children born on this day will succeed amazingly in whatever calling they choose. Both girls and boys will possess rare talents, if the stars are rightly interpreted.

JUNIOR WORKERS KIND TO ANIMALS

Several Good Deeds Reported at Junior Humane Society Meeting.

The Junior Humane Society held its weekly meeting in St. John's Parish Hall, Thursday, March 29, 1928. The song, "The Marching Song," was sung and was followed by the pledge.

Several kind acts were reported.

A boy took a sick dog from boys who were pushing it out in front of moving cars. The dog was found to be suffering from distemper. Its owner was located and the dog returned by Inspector Smith.

A girl took glass off the road and a cat off the railway tracks, returning the animal to the owner.

A girl reported finding a dog which was very stiff in the joints and which was dragging a long chain.

The treasurer's report was read and adopted.

The roll call showed 27 present.

The meeting was then favoured with a delightful piano solo by Miss Constance Legon, entitled "The Robin's Return."

Billy Barton recited "Peter Puppy."

One new member took the peldge.

Next on the program was the singing of the song, "Snowbirds," by the members.

Warren Turner gave a reading entitled "The Old Hoss."

The program for next week was then arranged.

PIRATES' GAME; RANGERS' ROUND

TOTAL ON ROUND 6-4.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Mar. 30.—Although defeated by the score of 4 goals to 2 by the Pittsburgh Pirates here last night, the New York Rangers, by virtue of their 4-to-0 victory in the first game on Tuesday night, qualified to meet the Boston Bruins in the final series for the championship of the American group of the National Hockey League with a score of 6 goals to 4 on the round.

After playing a whole game and two periods in lifeless fashion, the Pirates cut loose in the third period with a burst of speed and scoring ability like that which carried them from the cellar position to a place in the league playoffs within a few weeks.

The teams each scored a goal in the opening period, Taffy Abel, Rangers' defence player, registering his first counter of the season three minutes after the game started. Martin Burke, Pirate defence star, tied the score, and the period ended with the score knotted. The Rangers outshot the Pirates by a ratio of two to one in the first period, as well as the second, which was scoreless.

MAROONS BEAT OTTAWA AGAIN

Take Second Game By One Goal Margin On Home Ice.

SCORE ON ROUND 3-1.

MONTREAL, Que., March 30. — Montreal Maroons proved too good for the Ottawa Senators here last night in the second of their two-game series in the preliminary National Hockey League play off series and scored a two to one victory over their rivals from the Capital.

The Montreal team won the first game at Ottawa Tuesday night by a two to one count, and took the round by three to one. The Maroons by their series victory, earned right to meet Canadiens, Canadian section al leaders, in a two game series, the winners of which will meet the United States sectional champions in the Stanley Cup series.

The Maroons' victory last night was well earned, the locals displaying an unbeatble brand of hockey, which had the Senators outclassed at every turn. The locals scored one goal in each of the first two periods, and after a temporary lapse at the start of the final frame during which Ottawa scored their only goal put up an airtight defensive in front of Benedict which could not be penetrated.

Ottawa: Goal, Connell; defence, Clancy and Boucher; centre, Nighbor; wings, Finnigan and Kilrea; subs., Grosvenor, A. Smith, Broadbent, Dennenay, Shields and Godin.

Montreal :Goal, Benedict; defence, Seibert and Dutton; centre, H. Smith wings, Ward and Stewart; subs, Munro, Phillips, Lamb, Oatman and Brown. Referees: M. J. Rodden and Dr. W. Laflamme, Toronto.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

ORGANIZE FOR SCHOOL SPORTS

Hold Ontario Championships In Toronto on September the 7th.

DISTRICTS DEFINED

TORONTO, March 30.—The decks for the district and final track and field meets of the Ontario Athletic Commission were cleared in a conference of the commission with the representatives of the school sections of the province. The meeting was a forerunner of the formation of an eastern association with headquarters in Ottawa, and a central body working from Toronto to link up with the Western Ontario Secondary Schools' Associations. These associations will be ready to take hold next year and they propose to handle all the sport in the schools with a view to making the athletic standing depend on the academic work. In a word, no boy will be allowed to compete in sport of any kind unless his school examinations show an average of 50 per cent.

The commission's district meets will again be held in the spring, the opening date being the Western Ontario at London, May 19. The others will be held in the beginning of June —the dates of which will be announced in a day or two. The final meet will be held in Toronto on Friday, September 7, and as usual winners at the several district meets will be brought to the finals at the expense of the commission, which also provides the medals for the district and final meets.

This year any boy qualifying for any event in his district may compete in any other event in which he competed in the district, whether he qualified in those other events or not. On the other hand, any boy brought to the final games at the expense of the commission and failing to compete will be suspended and reported to his district.

The districts have been defined as follows:

Western Ontario at London — Bruce Brant, Elgin, Essex, Grey, Huron, Kent, Lambton, Middlesex, Norfolk, Oxford, Perth, Waterloo and Wellington. Brantford and Guelph are excepted, and will be in the Hamilton district

Toronto—Peel, York and South Simcoe.

Cobourg—Ontario, Durham, Northumberland, Peterboro, Victoria, Haliburton, eastern boundary, Brighton.

Ottawa—Grenville, Dundas, Stormont, Glengarry Prescott, Carleton, Lanark, Renfrew.

Barrie—Simcoe, Muskoka and Dufferin.

The following are the standards which must be attained to entitle a winner to come to the finals at the commission's expense:

OFFICERS ELECTED AT MEETING OF LOCAL SOFTBALL ASSOCIATION

Good Prospects Seen for Coming Season—Financial Statement Read.

DISCUSS PLANS

W. Jackson Appointed Delegate to Annual Softball Convention at Oshawa.

Charles Westbrooke was elected president of the Peterboro Softball Association at the annual meeting held last night in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

J. E. Sullivan occupied the chair and in his opening remarks spoke on the prospects of the league for the coming season. Last year was a great success and there is every indication of this being a bumper one. He was also of the opinion that senior hardball players should not play softball for it might hinder with their success on the senior ball team. After some discussion it was left to the new executive to decide the question.

W. Jackson was appointed delegate to the annual softball convention to be held in Oshawa on April 6th.

A favorable financial statement was read by W. Jackson which showed a small balance on hand to carry on the work for the coming year. Discussion arose regarding the number of new balls to be used in each game and it was decided to leave this matter to the decision of the umpire at the game.

J. E. Sullivan was appointed to interview A. Kay with regards to acting as umpire-in-chief following which the officers were elected as follows; Honorary Officers.

Hon G. N. Gordon, K.C.; E. A. Peck, M. P.; W. H. Bradburn, M. P.P.; Chas Ackerman; Rev. Father Costello and Mayor Denne.

President—C. Westbrooke.

Vice-President—W. Jackson.

Secretary - Treasurer — Norman Lewis.

Executive to consist of: W. D. Kearns, F. C. Scates, W. Fitzgerald, A. Butcher, W. Bennett and J. E. Sullivan.

RECORD FIELD ENTERED FOR FAMOUS RACE

RACE WORTH $60,000.

LIVERPOOL, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—Steeplechasing is traditional uncertain and the Grand National, greatest contest of this kind in the world, has a long record of "upsets" in form and of heart-breaking mishaps to favorite candidates. This year's Grand National, to be run over the historic old Aintree course on Friday, March 30, is more uncertain than ever. The entry is the largest in the history of the race, which goes back to 1839, and there is no dominant contender or popular favorite.

Upwards of half a hundred horses will face the barrier and essay the gruelling four and a half mile course, with its deadly fences and dangerous water jumps. More than 100 horses were entered, a record nomination, and 96 accepted the weights. Out of this entry, which of course includes many horses with only a remote chance of completing the course, the sport-loving public of Britian is trying to "pick a winner."

The Grand National, which has no rival anywhere in the world, has gripped the imagination fully as strongly as any previous National and a record attendance may result. This world seaport is converted into one great hive of speculation, on the identity of the horse who will triumph in a classic test of stamina.

Most of the spectators will not be able to tell one entry from another, especially when they are well away on the grind. But it is the race, not the horse, that matters to the average man. Hundreds of special trains are being run and a great liner's sailing from the Mersey will be delayed some hours in order that its passengers may see the race.

The fascination lies in the efforts of a wonderfully-conditioned, nervously-eager field of thoroughbreds and the ominous threat of the fences and water jumps, which have no duplicates. Becher's Brook and the Canal Turn, as always, will take their toll of unlucky runners and the multitude will gasp at the stumbles and the hairbreath escapes of the riders of unfortunate mounts from the thudding hoofs of more successful competitors.

When it is all over, the actual running takes only a few minutes, prizes of more value than at any time in the race's history will be divided. Thanks to the record entry, the value of this year's National will be very close to $60,000.

The United States has sent Billy Barton, steeplechase idol of Maryland and France has sent among others, The Coyote, a renowned jumper on continental tracks. But the experts as the race nears have dropped Billy Barton from "contention," because of his very disappointing record in the National trial races held at various courses. The Coyote is admittedly a real threat to the British owners, but more reliance is placed on the veteran "leapers" who have proved their mettle in previous Nationals.

Amberwave, Lady Helen McCalmont's ten-year-old horse, rules more or less favorite at odds of around nine to one against. The other most prominent candidates areLady Partridge's Sprig, winner last year; Bovril Third, who ran third last year; Master Billie who has had much National experience, and Easter Here, just transferred to W. P. Draper, American turfman for $50,000. Jack Horner, winner for a United States owner in 1926, is not generally favored to repeat and various other candidates at one time well supported have fallen into disfavor on their showing in the trials. At least a dozen others, however, stand a good chance of winning, by all accounts.

Amberwave is to carry 167 pounds, the same as The Coyote. Veterans like Mount Etna, Trump Card, Ruddyglow, Great Span and Thrown In are to carry heavy imposts while Bovril Third gets by with 154 and Billy Barton with 151. Master Billie is comparatively lightly handicapped with 148. The bulk of the remainder are at lower poundage with a good score of hopefuls grouped on the bottom rung at 140 pounds. One of these, there are good horses even at the bottom, may win. Stranger things have happened in the Grand National.

LARGE CROWDS FOR GRAND NATIONAL

Hosts Pouring Into Little Town of Aintree for Race Meet.

AINTREE, England, March 30 (A.P.).—The largest field in the history of the Grand National steeplechase is listed to start to-day over a course known as the most hazardous and difficult for jumpers on the face of the globe. Last night's announcement gave the number of probable starters as 48, which is 11 more than the previous record in 1927. There may be a few last-minutes scratches, but experts said that not more than two or three horses would be dropped from the list.

The cost of starting a horse in the big cross-country classic is one hundred pounds sterling. The club adds £5,000 to the starting fees, so if the 48 probable starters run, the purse will amount to £9,800. The bulk of this goes to the winner, but there will be small prizes for the horses which finish second, third and fourth.

The smallest number of entries reported was in the first year of the race in 1837. Six horses were nominated that year.

Legend has it that the idea of the race was an inspiration of Jack Lynn. Jack was proprietor of a "pub" and is said to have made a fortune out of the drinks which he sold to racing enthusiasts who flocked to his neighborhood to witness the most gruelling contest in which horseflesh is ever called to participate.

The final betting shows 100 to 9 against Master Bille; 13 to 1 against Easter Hero; 100 to 7 against Trump Card; 100 to 6 against Sprig; 20 to 1 against Maguellonne, Amber Wave and Carfax; 22 to 1 against Darracq; 25 to 1 against Koko, Bright's Boy and Billy Barton; 100 to 3 against Great Span, Grakle and Rathowen; 40 to 1 against The Coyote; 45 to 1 against Rossleny; 50 to 1 against Eagles Tail; 66 to 1 against Herbert's Choice, Spear o' War, Seti First, Ardeen, Master of Arts, Keep Cool, The Ace, Ballystockart, Decombat, Foxtrot, Uncas, Rathmere, Ruddyman, and Scotch Eagle. Odds of 100 to 1 are quoted against all other starters.

You will find many things in the Classified Ads. of the Examiner.

CREOMULSION

SINGER WELL LIKED.

Of Margaret Northrup, of New York City, the assisting vocalist with the Male Voice Choir at their concert in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on Friday evening, the Union Star of Schenectady, N.Y., says:

"Margaret Northrup amazed the audience with the dramatic fervor she imparted to the soprano role. A singer with wide range, especially clear and brilliant in the upper register, she rose to magnificent heights in 'I Know That My Redeemer Liveth.' The passages were marked by limpid smoothness and she delivered her recitatives with authority and in splendid—often thrilling style."

The Greenville, S.C., News says: "Miss Northrup's voice, whose notes were like those of a flute, warmed the words of her songs with intermediate notes which contained rare color. Her voice maintained its flute-like qualities throughout the entire scale. She commands a technic so perfect as not to be obvious, a width of range, purity of tone, and a remarkably clear enunciation. Added to these qualities is a gracious and charming personality."

From the Montreal Gazette: "Miss Northrup possesses a beautiful voice of surprising power and sweetness. Her notes were clear as a bell and when in the lofty parts of the scale, her voice filled the church with some of the finest singing of the evening."

The Toronto Star: "The soprano, Margaret Northrup, has a lovely soprano voice of golden quality, with which she created many lovely episodes in about eight recitatives, and the arias, which she did very beautifully. Her voice is beautiful in quality, distinctive in charm, and effectively used ,with excellent enunciation."

Tickets need not be exchanged. Admission tickets for sale at Church door.

ENGLISH VOCAL MUSIC AT ITS BEST TO BE HEARD WHEN THE WESTMINSTER GLEE SINGERS COME TO THE GRAND GOOD FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

An unvarying result of the concerts given throughout the Empire by the Westminster Glee Singers has been that they have kindled a new interest in the glories of British traditional songs and ballads. They come here after two years on tour, in which they have sung in scores of places throughout the British Empire. Their local appearance at the Grand, Good Friday and Saturday, can be safely said to promise one of the finest musical treats of this season.

An Australian paper says of them: "These wonderful performers, who have been delighting Brisbane audiences for the past week, are notably artistic, and the result has been a feast of very beautiful English vocal music. It has been truly said that no art is of such paramount importance to civilization as music, which is a fluent and beautiful form of expression for those deeper impulses which are denied expression in words. Already the introduction of music in some places during the dinner hour of workers, and the formation of choirs in factories, have resulted in greater content and efficiency. The Westminster Glee Singers should impart a great stimulus to our naturally-musically inclined Australian people."

The Westminster Glee Singers, under Edward Branscombe, show the absolute pitch of perfection to which part-singing can be brought, and they also demonstrate the well-known fact that there is no music comparable to that of the human voice, especially when heard without the aid of instrumental accompaniment.

AT THE REGENT.

"THE ROUGH RIDERS" A REALLY GREAT PICTURE.

Human and rollicking in places, grimly affecting in others, blending finely all the essences of love, struggle, bravery, humor, pathos and death "The Rough Riders" at its opening yesterday won the highest appreciation of a capacity audience at the Regent Theatre.

"The Rough Riders" can truly be said to set a standard. It is one of the few films which deserve the adjective, great, and which add immeasurably to the progress of the motion picture.

One can say that Paramount has made a story that breathes the idealism of Theodore Roosevelt, one of the greatest of Americans; that the story recounts his nature and his exploits in the Cuban regime of hate, war and fever, with an amazing spirit of faithfulness; that a love theme with Mary Astor, Charles Farrell and Charles Emmett Mack, winds like a glowing thread throughout the drama, and that the difficult sequences of the blowing up of The Maine, the gathering of the Rough Riders, their fierce courage in the hail of Spanish lead, and the dominant figure of T. R. alive every moment, contribute to art and express history.

The sterling performances of Noah Beery as Sheriff's Hell's Bells, George Bancroft as Happy Joe. Frank Hopper as Roosevelt, Fred Kohler as the top-sergeant and Col. Fred Lindsay as Leonard Woods, are worthy of mention.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE LAST COMMAND."

Emil Jannings was a wonderful Mephisto in "Faust," he gave an extraordinary characterization in the role of Adolph Zukor in "The Way of All Flesh" and now he has a superb part in "The Last Command," as the Grand Duke Sergius Alexander of Russia. This German actor has brought to the moving pictures a type of portrayal that has never, probably, been seen before He is not a young man, nor a handsome one, but he can give the impression of youth and good looks and he can, with a sidelong glance, also impart the atmosphere of evil that was so notable in his delineation of the Evil One in "Faust."

"The Last Command" is a very odd picture. It has a tragic and sorrowful story, it has not one of the relieving touches of humour that have heretofore been considered necessary in pictures of a gloomy type, no real romance as romance is considered by the majority of people, and it has a sad ending. The hero is a big, somewhat portly man, of middle age, without a great deal of natural attraction. But it is a wonderful picture, and one, like "The Way of All Flesh," that will linger in the memory. The artistry of Emil Jannings makes it so.

A touch of psychological interpretation is manifested in the delineation of the swaggering, brutal general of the Russian Army, in the days of the "white Czar," and the picture of the swaggering director of Hollywood, for "The Last Command" envisions for its audiences two very romantic settings, in the Hollywood of 1928, described as "the Mecca of the world," and the Russia of 1917, when the revolutionists seethed below the surface, and the troops fought against invaders.

Emil Jannings is the Grand Duke Sergius Alexander, cousin of the Czar and General of the Russian forces. The opening scene shows him in Hollywood, a broken old man, stricken by the palsy, and chosen by the director of a big Russian production to take a part in his forthcoming picture.

Then the scene shifts to Imperial Russia, "proud and haughty," in the days of the Czarist regime and of the Great War. Alexander here is general in command. Before him are brought two revolutionaries who are also actors at the Kief Theatre. He has the man arrested and the girl, Natalie Dabrova, is included in his entourage, when his attention is attracted by her beauty. She is a rampant revolutionist, determined to kill the Grand Duke, but she falls in love with him instead, and when the revolutionists finally triumph, saves his life by peculiar means that almost unbalance his reason. This part of Natalie, played by Evelyn Brent, is magnificent, and William Powell, as Leo Andreyev, has another outstanding role.

Natalie is killed when the train bearing her to Petrograd crashes through a railway bridge, and the broken Alexander comes to America and to Hollywood, to meet there the director, Andreyev, whom he had imprisoned during his powerful days in Russia. The atmosphere of suspense and of unknown happenings in the offing is heightened here when Andreyev prepares a peculiar revenge on his former persecutor.

It is an absorbing, powerful drama of life, and the art of Emil Jannings makes it a notable production.

You Need It— Do You Want It ? It's FREE!

Suppose you were the holder of stock in several Canadian Mines and could obtain the services of a dependable mining engineer to visit each and every property, and give you a written report, twice a month, as to the results being obtained—wouldn't that be worth real money to you? That's the class of information you get in "Canadian Mining Truths." Each issue covers in a cold, analytical manner, approximately 40 different mines. It keeps you informed as to what is doing at the various properties. It states whether the results are promising or not. It is free of "hokum." It tells you what stocks are good speculations but not only that, it tells you what stocks are, in our opinion, selling too high. In a previous statement I said I aimed to make "Canadian Mining Truths" one of the most interesting mining publications ever issued and I meant it. Judging from the hundreds of letters of congratulation received from our readers, many of whom requested us to send it to their friends "Canadian Mining Truths" is regarded as a very valuable and unusual service. No matter what mining publications you are receiving, you need "Canadian Mining Truths." It is sent to you free twice a month. Here's a coupon for your convenience.

XI—Slaughter of Christians

WE now step forward nine hundred years. The scene is Rome, not in the days of the Caesars, but at the time when the church is supreme. It is a day of solemn thanksgiving and devout religious worship in the comparatively recent year of our Lord, 1572. By special order of the Pope, Gregory XIII, a Te Deum is being sung. What inspiring event calls forth this historic hymn of praise?

For centuries fighting had gone on between the Catholics and Protestants of France, with shameful cruelties on both sides. As far back as 1203, Simon de Montfort had organized a group of knights who pledged themselves to subdue their heretical fellow countrymen.

All peaceful attempts having failed to persuade the wanderers to return to the one true fold, Simon took the city of Beziers and proceeded to slaughter all of its fifteen thousand inhabitants regardless of age, sex or creed.

"How shall we know the heretics from the faithful?" he had previously inquired of Milon, the Papal Legate, who had been sent by Innocent III to preach the crusade.

To which the personal representative of the Holy Father had answered: "Kill them all. God will be able to recognize His own."

Effort for Peace

This, as we have said, was in 1208. Three hundred years had passed, and the wiser heads in France realized that the incessant warfare was impoverishing the country. At the feast of St. Germain in 1570 a peace was consummated in token of which the king's sister was to be given in marriage to Henry of Navarre. Leaders of both parties were invited to Paris in celebration of the nuptials.

The city was filled with Protestants, long shut out but now rejoicing in the new era of peace and tolerance. It was too good an opportunity to be lost, so thought Catherine de Medici, the Queen Mother, and her fanatical advisers. A little ruthlessness now and the offending heretics would be stamped out altogether.

The matter was planned with care. The bells rang forth at midnight—the signal being given by Catherine herself—and before morning the streets were red with the blood of twenty thousand Christians, slaughtered for the glory of Christ.

This was the massacre of St. Bartholomew's Day. This was the news that was carried to Rome and, by special order of Gregory XIII, caused the Te Deum to ascend to Heaven. If souls have ears one wonders if Mohammed and our fat friend Sa'd enjoyed that noble anthem.

All Were Cruel

At this point in our story many Catholics, and perhaps some Mohammedans, will take their pens in hand to send us harsh words of protest. We ask them to forbear. Bigotry and cruelty have not been a monopoly of any sect, or sects. All have helped to make the records terrible.

Another picture.

Nineteen years before the massacre of St. Bartholomew's Day the city of Geneva was ruled by John Calvin.

He had rebelled against the Roman Catholic Church and gone forth to establish a reformed faith. So powerful was he in personality, as well as in doctrine, that he held the government of the city in his hands. Laws were administered according to his will, and religious regularity was the test of civic rights. His rule was not without opposition, to be sure.

The old Genevan families resented the dominance of this foreigner who, having fled to the city for protection, proceeded to take it over and handle it according to his own inflexible ideas of the will of God. The opposition grew steadily between 1548 and 1553, when a fortunate event occurred to turn the scale in Calvin's favor. That event was the arrest in Geneva of Dr. Miguel Servetus.

A brilliant young fellow, Servetus—a Spaniard who had studied medicine and is credited with having been the first to discover the pulmonary circulation of the blood. He settled in Vienne in France, where he built up a profitable practise.

Dared to Question

If only he had been content to stick to his scalpels and his pills he would have grown rich, lived long and died forgotten. But there was a restless spirit of inquiry within him.

He stirred around among the churchly creeds and found items which seemed to him mistaken. He published a book, De Trinitatis Erroribus, regarding erroneous ideas of the Trinity. A layman at this distance finds it difficult to understand just what he was driving at, or why anybody should have been particularly concerned. But the righteous were deeply stirred, and none more so than John Calvin with whom Dr. Servetus had engaged in uncomplimentary correspondence before, criticizing one of Calvin's books.

Servetus was promptly arrested and condemned in Vienne; he escaped from jail and, for some strange reason which no one exactly comprehends, made his way to Geneva.

Had Shocked Europe

At once he was arrested. His enemies sought to delay the case and save the victim, but they only made trouble for themselves. Servetus had shocked the prejudices of orthodox Europe. Calvin, in forcing his sentence, was backed up by an almost universal public opinion.

When the poor doctor was led out to the stake, and the fire was lighted under him, the smoke of his burning carried away most of the opposition to John Calvin. Servetus had come at a lucky hour. Heresy was stamped out in the holy town of Geneva; the foes of the Lord's appointed were put to rout; Calvin was reestablished firmly in his seat of power, and the cost of it all was only one heretic burned—a mischievous fellow who had foolishly tried to think about God in his own independent fashion.

TIPPERARY TIM WINS NATIONAL

Only Two Horses Finish Historic Race at Aintree To-day.

ODDS ON WINNER 100 TO 1.

AINTREE, England, Mar. 30.—(Canadian Press.)— Tipperary Tim, owned by H. S. Kenyon, won the historic Grand National steeplechase to-day. Billy Barton, owned by Howard Bruce, Baltimore, was second. He and Tipperary Tim, the winner, were the only two that finished.

Betting on Tipperary Tim was a hundred to one and on Billy Barton thirty-three to one. Billy Barton himself fell during the race but recovered and finished.

Of the forty-two horses which started over the famous course and its heart-breaking obstacles, only the two succeeded in crossing the finishing line. Tipperary Tim was ridden by Dutton, an amateur ,while Billy Barton was ridden by Cullivan, a professional English jockey.

The Aintree course is regarded as one of the most difficult in the world and is such a severe test that in all previous races most of the horses have fallen. The distance, four miles and 856 yards, is over a course covered with thirty formidable jumps and part of the course is over ploughed ground.

LEON FRAZER IS SECRETARY

NEWLY FORMED BODY.

OSHAWA March 30. — At a special session on Wednesday afternoon the Chamber of Commerce named Leon Frazer of Toronto, as secretary of the newly-organized Chamber in this city. Mr. Frazer has a long and successful record as secretary and organizer of various associations in Ontario, and this fact aided the directors in making a selection from a large number of applicants. Mr. Frazer is well known in Toronto as secretary of the Tourist Association of Ontario, and secretary-treasurer of Muskoka Bungalow Camps. He was formerly secretary of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce. He will give three days of the week to his work in Oshawa, and the following three days in Toronto, until May 1, when he will come to Oshawa permanently to act as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and Industrial Commissioner.

Mr. Frazer will be the principal speaker at the next Monday meeting of the Rotary Club. By May 1, the Chamber will also have secured its offices in the Alger building, which is now under course of construction.

"The Oshawa Chamber should run along smoothly and efficiently under his guidance," said Mr. Stinson, "as Mr. Frazer has a broad background of experience to draw upon. Also, the Oshawa Chamber is a new organization recently established by the American City Bureau, and Mr. Frazer should be in a position to direct the initial enthusiasm of the members along constructive and community building channels. The people of Oshawa will be solidly behind their newly-formed chamber, and the different local organizations will cooperate. The City Council of Oshawa, during the Chamber of Commerce drive, made a grant of $2000 towards the publicity efforts of the Chamber, which swelled the total of the funds subscribed during the campaign, to $30,000," concluded Mr. Stinson.

WELCOME BANQUET TO ARMY OFFICERS

Local Corps of the Salvation Army Holds Social Evening.

The soldiers and friends of the local corps of the Salvation Army tendered a "welcome" banquet to Ensign and Mrs. Green. This seems a late welcome, but it was deemed advisable that the new officers appointed in succession to Commandant and Mrs. Ham might prefer to be in the city a while and get acquainted with their new flock and then the strangeness having worn off that officers, soldiers, and adherents of the corps could meet feeling that they had been associated a long time. Two hundred people sat down to a well prepared supper which the ladies of the corps provided and during the serving of this, the orchestra attached to the Life Saving Scouts played selections from their repertoire under the leadership of Deputy Bandmaster A. Austin. The children were entertained in the girls' gymnasium by Assistant Sergt.-Major W. Boorman and helpers in games and afterwards heartily enjoyed their supper. A meeting was held in the large auditorium of the Temple following, at which Ensign Green tendered thanks for the generous reception that had been accorded them from the local corps as well as the many friends of the Army in the city. He outlined a very extensive program for the early summer. Interesting items included are visits from Major and Mrs. Ritchie, who have recently been appointed divisional commanders of the Toronto East Division, and Colonel and Mrs. Jacobs (parents of Mrs. Ensign Green), who are old and valued officers in Salvation Army warfare. Mrs. Colonel Morris, who will be in the city for the Easter week-end, is head of the League of Mercy activities in the Dominion. Commissioner and Mrs. Maxwell, territorial commanders of Eastern Canada, will also be here. As well as these distinguished visitors, there are to be several interesting events sponsored by the local soldiery. Popular Monday evenings are to be inaugurated by a Canada Night on April 16. An all-Canadian Program will be presented, and this will be followed by an English night, a Scottish night, and as a climax an International night.

The evening was brought to a close by the reading of a Psalm and prayer by Mrs. Ensign Green.

Another banquet held at the Brownton outpost of the local corps was in the nature of a surprise to the officers, but a happy evening was spent by those present.

HOUSE OF COMMONS ADJOURNED AFTER TWO MONTHS' SESSION

Quietest Session Seen By Older Members Since Post-War Parliaments.

AMENDMENTS ON BUDGET.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 31 (Canadian Press).—After rather more than two months' session, the House adjourned at 6 p.m. last night for ten days Easter recess. The two months have not been crowded with exciting incidents or tense political situation but they have, in the opinion of older parliamentarians, been more normal months than the House of Commons has seen for several years. In other words, the session has ben highly reminiscent of the parliaments before the war. Post-war parliaments had been notable for the strenuous sessions which culminated in 1926 with the resignation of the Liberal Government and the subsequent general election.

Parliament opened on January 26 and on February 9 the debate on the address was concluded without a division. On the same day the estimates for the fiscal year ending March, 1929, were tabled. They totalled $223,000,000, an increase over last year of $7,000,000 and the supplementary estimates have not yet appeared. The budget, announcing the tariff and taxation changes was introduced into the Commons on February 16 and the debate on it was maintained until March 13. There was a Conservative amendment and a Progressive sub-amendment to the budget this year. The former was defeated by 136 votes to 76, and the atter by 191 to 20. On the budget itself the vote was 116 to 92, a majority of 24 for the government. A rather unusual incident occurred in this connection when Henri Bourassa declined to be unanimous. The House thus tripped up on its new rule, was compelled to postpone the last of the three divisions until the next day.

Budget Resolutions

From March 14 to the Easter adjournment the meetings of the Commons were taken up with the Budget resolutions. These were disposed of and the bill giving effect to the income tax changes was carried by 85 votes to 21 on March 29. During the week the accounts of the Canadian National Rly. were tabled and the estimates for 1928 totalling $39,000,000 were also presented to the House.

Throughout the progress of the session there have been several diversions, usually on the days when private bills have precedence. International bridges over the Niagara and St. Clair Rivers gave a few contentious hours. The appointment of a special committee of fifteen to consider a revision of salaries paid to judges also proved to be quite debatable. Miss Agnes Macphail's proposed government department for the promotion of international peace was also a matter which brought an unusual number of members to their feet. E. J. Garland's motion to have a committee to consider the commissioner's report on election frauds in Athabasca took up most of one day before it was passed.

Discuss St Lawrence Waterway.

The Senate meanwhile has not hesitated to take up the gigantic question of the St. Lawrence waterway and a private member of the Upper House have given notice of a special committee on the subject. The Senate, too, has given some prominence to the possible entry of Newfoundland into the Dominion by a general debate on the subject. The Upper House rejected a private bill which had passed the Commons compelling newspapers to publish a list of their shareholders.

When the Commons resumes its work after Easter estimates will be the major item. These have barely been touched so far and from what can be learned there is no government business of major importance yet to be introduced.

Several bills, mostly of a departmental nature are on the order paper now. The pensions committee which has been meeting almost daily since the first of the session will probably have amendments to propose to the House and the immigration committee will no doubt have some report.

Forecasts as to the length of the session are always current gossip at this time. Members seem agreed that unless there is some unusual developments, prorogation should come late in May—perhaps by May 24.

Around the City

Only one call, due to a chimney fire, claimed the attention of the fire brigade on Friday afternoon. It was sent in from 29 Ware street at 6.29. Chemicals were used to extinguish the blaze.

Bank clearings for the month of March totalled $3,520,478.

Huge Load of Liquor Slipped Into Harbor

NEW YORK, March 31. — The three-masted schooner W. H. Litchfield, with a car of 350,000 bottles of liquors, casually slipped through the customs patrols in the harbor, only to be seized at her anchorage at Yonkers on Thursday night, customs authorities announced yesterday. The craft, with its captain and crew of five, was towed to the barge office at the Battery yesterday morning.

Coal Test Movements Over 3-Year Period

OTTAWA, Ont., Mar. 31.—(Canadian Press.)—Test movement of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick coal to points in Quebec and Ontario similar to the experiment which the Government is inaugurating on April 15, with respect to Alberta coal are to be carried out over a period of 3 years.

This was announced here last evening by Col. the Hon. J. L. Ralsten, Minister of National Defence and Nova Scotia's representative in the Federal Cabinet.

An order-in-council was passed yesterday authorizing such tests.

CLOTHING MERCHANTS OF CITY MOVE W. H. MEREDITH'S STOCK

Staffs of Business Rivals Transport Goods and Arrange Them.

INDICATE FRIENDSHIP.

New Store is Fitted Up Ready For Opening To-day—Large Stock Displayed.

There is a very close relationship between the spirits of co-operation and sportsmanship when the two are displayed together. Men may co-operate through selfish reasons, and men may be good sports in their relations to others merely because it pays to do so but when Peterborough clothing men get together they combine the better elements defined by both "co-operation" and "sportsmanship" competition, so often a barrier, is made to link them together as one big family.

No better example of this truth has ever been provided than when, on Friday afternoon and evening, one, two or three representatives each of the C.D.S.L., Grafton's, the Teco Store, Riley and Hickey's, Regent Tailors, Al. Sharpe, Maher and Wesley, the Hobberlin agency, Lebrun's, and Jack Primeau's, as well as several private citizens, manned a number of platform trucks, made available through the courtesy of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways, and in one wholehearted moving bee, carried the entire stock of W. H. Meredith from its old quarters to the new store, formerly occupied by the Cunningham Music Company; placed the stock neatly in order on shelves and in the show cases, decorated the windows and departed late last night, leaving the Meredith firm ready to open its doors to the Saturday business.

Early after the noon hour, as many men as could possibly leave their business gathered at the store being vacated and there packed the stock for removal. However, the actual moving did not get under way until about six o'clock, when the clerks from the various stores had had supper 'uptown,' and gathered, ready for business. Their willing hands loaded the stock, an extensive one, on the trucks and hauled it up George street to its new home and then, with coats off and sleeves up, they climbed in to clear the decks and leave everything ship-shape for the formal opening to-day. Certainly no better picture could be seen anywhere by a modern diogenes seeking a living example of co-operation and industry.

The new Meredith store with its bright and up-to-date store front is pleasant to look upon and interesting to visit. The stock, as mentioned before, is of a wide range and well displayed. The interior of the store is nicely decorated and well lighted, and will no doubt enjoy a large trade, once the buying public becomes thoroughly acquainted with its location and purpose.

PLAY REPEATED.

Baraca Class Presents "Dutch Detective" at Knox Sunday School.

Under the auspices of the Volunteer Bible Class of Knox United Church, a play entitled "The Dutch Detective," was presented by members of the Baraca Class of Murray Street Baptist Church on Wednesday evening last. The play was a decided success as a comedy, every member of the cast taking his part well, and was much appreciated by the audience. A piano duett was played by the Misses Jean and Marion McCannan, and a solo was given by Mrs. Ross Williamson, accompanied by Miss Pollock. G. Coleman's orchestra supplied excellent music between acts, after which a social half-hour was spent by all those who helped make the play a decided success.

Prince Thrown Thrice But Continues Riding

BROMSGROVE, Eng., Mar. 31 (Canadian Press).—The Prince of Wales rode in two steeplechases to-day, was thrown three times, gave up the first race when he tumbled twice, but finished the second race despite a fall. In the first race, the Prince came a cropper at the fourth fence, but re-mounted and continued. On the second time around he fell at the same fence, and decided that he had had enough for that race anyway. Undaunted by the condition of the course, which was sodden with water from heavy rains, the Prince started in the second race in which he had entered, but the hoodoo was still with him, and at the same old fourth fence he fell again. The Prince caught his horse, re-mounted and finished the course amid wild cheers.

BAILIFF SHOT DURING RAID

Further Casualties Mark Chicago's Affairs—Political Leader Killed.

BODY SET ON FIRE.

CHICAGO, Mar. 31.—The shooting of a municipal court bailiff by raiding federal prohibition agents and a mysterious gangland torture-death threw Chicago's already turbulent pre-primary campaign into renewed disorder yesterday.

William Beatty, 35, bailifff and a Republican ward leader, was wounded Thursday night in a federal raid on a southside saloon. The shooting climaxed a week of intensive activity on the part of government prohibition authorities.

Body Set on Fire.

The bullet-riddled body of a man was found burning in the street several miles south of the city limits early yesterday. Gasoline had been poured over his body and set afire.

A card bearing the name "Paul Marchese" was found in his clothing. Marchese is the family name of the widow of "Diamond Joe" Esposito, Italian ward leader, who was assassinated last week.

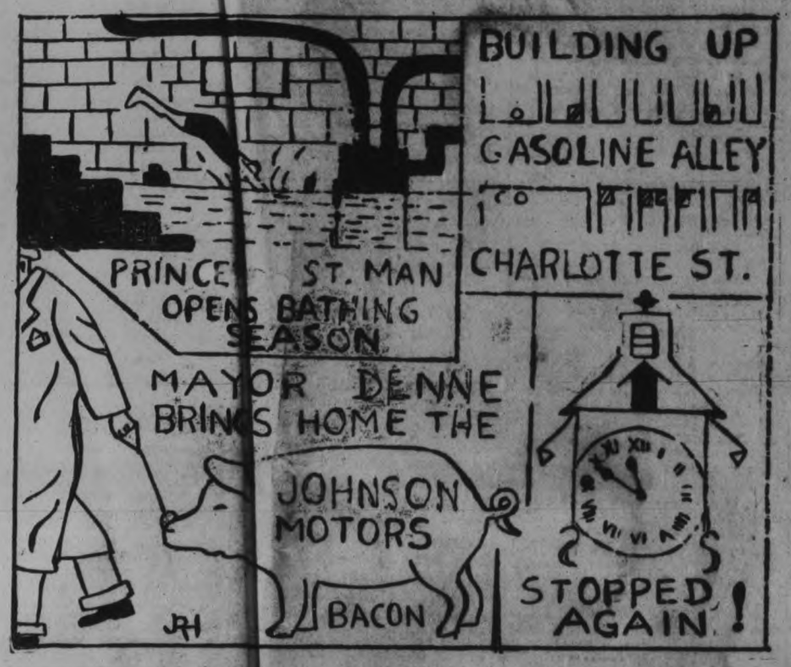
NEWS OF THE WEEK IN PETERBOROUGH



G.M.C. STRIKERS ARE RETURNING

Terms of Strikers Which Dovetail With Those of Employers Accepted.

WILD SCENE AT MEETING.

OSHAWA, Ont., Mar. 31.—At four o'clock yesterday afternoon the five-day strike of the General Motors of Canada terminated. All workers have agreed to return to work on Monday, and the plant will once again resume business. From the time the Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Labor, arrived in the city early yesterday morning he negotiated with the strike executive and H. A. Brown, general manager of the plant. For a time neither party would relent from their respective terms, and it was Mr. Heenan's duty to act as arbitrator. Yesterday morning the strike committee presented its proposals, which were taken up with Mr. Heenan, who in turn conferred with General Manager Brown. The outcome of the last interview brought the good news that the strikers' terms had been accepted.

Their terms, however, dovetail with those of General Motors, so it is thought that absolute harmony will reign when the plant re-opens.

The scene at the Armories, when it was learned the strike was over, was one which was only eclipsed by the signing of the armistice. Twice did A. C. Phillips, the chairman of the meeting, read the terms, following the first reading, a vote in favor was asked by a show of hands. This created a wild scene, many not understanding the full meaning and wanted time to consider. Further excitement prevailed when many shot up their hands to find others rushing at them to have them pull them down until a more clear understanding of the terms had been defined.

Following a speech from R. W. Stewert, who implored the strikers to accept the proposals, a resolution was again placed by A. C. Phillips and seconded by R. W. Stewart that those in favor show their hands to the terms accepted until a report is received from the industrial investigations committee. This was finally carried, only about seven dissenting from the 3,500 present.

BIG INCREASE IN COLLECTIONS AT CUSTOMS HOUSE DURING YEAR

Total For Fiscal Year Show Gain of Three Hundred Thousand.

UP 21 PER CENT.

March Collections Show Increase of More Than Fifty Per Cent.

Figures are sometimes considered monotonous, but very often they tell an interesting story, whether of progress or failure. In an interview with W. M. Lang, of the Peterborough Customs Department, The Examiner was to-day shown a few totals decidedly indicative of the fact that Peterborough is going ahead.

For instance, in the month of March, 1928, total collections were $148,083.78, as compared with $95,980.75 in March, 1927, or an increase of $52,103.03.

As the Government's fiscal year closes on March 31, Mr. Lang was also able to show a set of figures that spoke optimistically. In the year 1927-1928, collections reached a total of $1,754,862.27, an increase of $303,668.97 over the year 1926-1927.

DETECTIVE-SERGEANT WILLIAM MEAGHER

THE WEATHER

The morning of the last day of March, with a temperature of 22 degrees and the ground covered with three or four inches of freshly fallen snow. This is a different scene to that presented last year, or, in fact, most years, but with the poet, I can say:

"Ah! March, we know thou art
Kind-hearted, spite of ugly looks and threats,
And out of sight are nursing April's violets."

The chances are our cold weather is about over, the snow will soon disappear, April showers will take the frost out of the air and ground, and all nature will respond to the reviving influence of Old Sol. Soon our long (too long) winter will be but a memory.—W. P.

DANIEL TRIAL BEGINS TO-DAY

Junior Officer Appears Before Court Martial On Four Charges.

ADMIRAL "FED UP."

GIBRALTAR, March 31 (Canadian Press). — A solemn naval tribunal today started threshing out the famous Royal Oak affair when the court-martial of Commander Daniel opened in a court room improvised in one of the hangars of the aircraft carrier Eagle.

Commander Daniel pleaded not guilty to four charges, broadly accusing him of breaches of naval discipline in writing and reading publicly remarks calculated to bring Rear-Admiral Collard, his superior, into contempt. The hearing of the charges against Captain Dewart on similar charges will follow the conclusion of the Daniel case.

Delving into the mysterious background of the entire incident, a letter was read into the evidence indicating that Admiral Collard was dissatisfied with the arrangement Commander Daniel made for his landing from the Royal Oak at Malta. The barge which the Admiral had requested did not appear when he wanted it because the commander considered the wind and waves too strong. The Admiral thereupon became very angry and ordered Commander Daniel personally to arrange the matter, the commander bringing the barge alongside the Royal Oak against his own judgment. It was alleged in the letter that Admiral Collard told Captain Dewart in the presence of some seamen that he was "fed up with the ship."

Rear Admiral Collard gave brief testimony before lunch adjournment, after which a letter written by Captain Dewer to Vice Admiral Kelly was read. In this letter it was alleged that Admiral Collard became excited at a dance on board the Royal Oak, said that he had never heard such a noise in his life, used abusive language to the bandmaster, and stated that he would not have such a begar on his ship"

Young British Aviator Advertises For Passenger Upon Atlantic Flight

LONDON, March 31. — The hold that trans-Atlantic flying has gained on the times clearly was shown yesterday when an advertisement appeared in the Daily Mail, saying that any lady or gentleman desiring to fly from London to New York on July 1 should write F. P. Young, 5 Suffolk Street, Pall Mall, London.

The advertiser claims he has flown thousands of miles and made a careful study of aeronautics and airplane construction. The advertisement said Young intended to use his own machine, a multiple-engined flying boat, capable of seating 20 persons. He adds the expense of the flight was £45,000, largely supplied by a Singapore business man.

IN NEW YORK ALSO.

NEW YORK, March 31. — Any one who wants to fly across the Atlantic is offered the chance by an anonymous advertiser in a New York newspaper.

In the "public notices" column of The Times, among the prosaic announcements of several business partnerships, wives who have "left bed and board," and inquiries for missing heirs, appeared the following:

"Former LaFayette L'Escadrille pilot willing make trans-Atlantic flight either way, man or woman passenger; credentials furnished to responsible parties." Efforts to learn the identity of the advertiser were futile. He failed to answer a message asking details of his plans for publication.

OFFICERS HOLD ANNUAL DINNER

Case of Pipes Presented To Capt. Melton, Who is Leaving City.

PETERBOROUGH RANGERS.

Officers of the Peterborough Rangers held their annual mess dinner in their quarters in the Armouries last night. Representatives from sister corps were present and also those who were connected with the old 57th before the war. The dinner was presided over by Captain D. G. H. Melton, the mess president. Many toasts of a military character were proposed and an occasional feature of the program was the singing of those songs that were so dear to the hearts of the men when they were serving in France.

A feature of the occasion was the presentation to Captain D. G. H. Melton of a set of pipes by Lieut. R. J. Bolton, the Adjutant of the unit, on behalf of the officers of the regiment. Captain Melton is leaving the city in the near future, and the officers of the mess all wished him god-speed in his new field of labor.

224 BALLOTS FOR ELECTION

Twenty Others Received Too Late For Chamber of Commerce Directors.

LEADING MAN HAD 177.

Of interest to the members of the Chamber of Commerce is the fact that in the recent election of directors held on Thursday, March 29, two hundred and twenty-four ballots were cast, not including four spoiled and twenty others that came in on Friday too late to be of value. Not one of the sixteen directors elected received less than one hundred votes and the man who headed the polls received 177 votes, according to to the information given out by D. M. Bissell, the chairman of the Judges of Election.

The increased interest in the voting augurs well for the Chamber of Commerce, said the secretary, as last year there were only some 57 ballots cast. Also it is more of a compliment to the directors elected, as the election this year was a genuine contest from start to finish.

MAPLE SYRUP GOES ON SALE

First Offering of Spring Sweetstuff Made This Morning.

EGG PRICES VARY.

Maple syrup made its bow at the farmers' market this morning. Several vendors had a small quantity, that sold from 65 to 70 cents a quart.

Potatoes had a good sale this morning at $1.75 a bag. Spy apples were 60 and 75 cents a peck, and Greenings were 40 cents. Carrots were 25 cents a peck, beets 30 cents and parsnips 40 cents. Red onions were 20 and 25 cents a measure.

A little boy had white bunnies for Easter, selling at half a dollar apiece. He brought four of the small fluffy things and sold three of them. A tiny, bright-eyed collie pup was priced at $1.50.

In the basket section, eggs were selling at 35 cents a dozen. One lady with her basket in sections marked "extras" and "firsts" sold the extras for 35 cents a dozen and the firsts at 32 cents. On the open market, one man retailed eggs at three dozen for a dollar.

Butter was 42 and 43 cents a pound, hens 30 cents and chickens 35 cents a pound.

Aldermen Authorize Employment of Temporary Man To Assist in Rush Period.

STORMY SESSION.

Board of Works Debates Many Matters at Monthly Meeting —Will Buy Ford Truck.

City Engineer Parson's request for temporary assistance, provoked a stormy few minutes at last night's meeting of the Board of Works. It was not looked on with favor by Ald. Stocker, but was granted by the board.

Mr. Parsons pointed out that he had the sewage disposal plans, the paving work, sewers and all the routine work. He could not be working in the office on the plans and be out surveying at the same time.

A fifty cents an hour man would do for this work the chairman contended.

"Some of this work should have been prepared," said Ald. Stocker. "It's a serious business wanting extra help at the salary we pay."

Mayor Denne pointed out the large amount of routine work to be done in the office which fritters away the engineer's time.

"You think that it's easy, Mr. Chairman" asserted the engineer — "you think that I'm doing nothing when I sit there. I'm studying those books, and getting something out of them for the city. That's a technical man's job."

"I was there yesterday, and you were taking a half day off. Why was that if you were so busy?" demanded the chairman.

"I worked Saturday afternoon and all day Sunday on the plans," was the reply.

Ald. Greene contended that the city is big enough now to have an understudy permanently on the job. All these matters should not be in one man's head, he said.

Mayor Denne suggested that the girl in the office could take calls about work needed and pass them on to Mr. Evans.

Mr. Parsons pointed out that the girl there now is inexperienced but that she is learning rapidly. Even so many people call up and ask to speak to him when they have minor matters to discuss.

Ald. Stocker's suggestion that a third year student could be engaged was combatted by Ald. Hamilton, while Mr. Parsons feared much time would be lost teaching such a green man the work.

Ald. Hamilton moved that the engineer and clerk hire an assistant.

Ald. Stocker asked if the chairman was to be ignored.

Ald. Hamilton did not want him added as he seemed prejudiced in the matter but when Ald. Stocker offered to resign as chairman, he relented and added his name.

Ford Truck to be Bought.

A 1½ ton Ford truck to cost $802 was chosen by the aldermen from a list of ten trucks, one ton, 1 1-4 tons and 1½ tons, ranging in price from $850 to $2100, offered by local dealers.

The truck will be used for carrying cement, tools, supplies, etc., to different jobs, which cost $1300 last year for cartage.

Ald. Huffman favored the purchase of the Chevrolet. The price was $52 lower. He stressed the fact that the Ford is a new model, as yet untried, while the Chevrolet is known as serviceable.

No Concrete Mixer.

The Mayor and Ald. Phelan opposed the purchase on the grounds that the council decided at the last meeting to lay asphalt pavements.

Ald Stocker declared that letting the contract helps to build up fortunes for people outside the city, while if the city did its paving it would save money.

Ald. Huffman asked if the council had given up the idea of laying Amiesite?

Ald. Greene asked why a cement base is needed on most streets. On residential streets there are good solid rock roads. He agreed that the base should be laid where there is heavy bus traffic.

Ald. Ackerman declared his belief that the city should buy a cement mixer and lay a cement base and amiesite surface.

Mr. Parsons pointed out that in many places there is clay sub-soil which will heave and cement bases are needed.

"Look here, you can't bring in this one mixer and go out and lay pavements for the same price as the Warrenite people. They have all kinds of machinery to do the rest of the work," declared Ald. Huffman.

"The Amiesite people will give you a ten year guarantee, and they lay it on our own base," said Ald. Lowe.

"They can's show you any that's been down more than three years," declared Ald. Phelan.

"It's absolutely non-skid," said Ald.

He submitted a decree to his ministerial council, which was approved ordering the dissolution of all organizations of Italian youth other than the Balilla and Avanguardista. When the decree becomes effective, within 30 days, the Catholic boys' organizations will be eliminated.

The action of the government follows closely on the recent address of the Pope before the diocesan board of Rome, when the Pontiff took exception to the Fascist state having complete control of the education of Italian youth, including their spiritual and moral welfare.

Note Withdrawn.

Immediately the decision of the ministerial council became known, the Pontiff conferred with his advisers at the Vatican, taking under advisement the nature of the reply, if any, that should be made to Mussolini's new move. A note which was to have been published in the official Vatican organ Asservatore Romano, dealing with the Catholic Centre party's rejoinder to the Pope's criticism of that party for not showing due homage to the Holy Father, was withdrawn. Instead the paper published a brief note of comment "The National Centre party's reply to the Pope," says the paper, "contained no clarification upon the points the Pope criticized, and thus constituted a new argument for the ... MADOC HIGH SCHOOL GIVES GOOD PLAY

"Flying Romeos" Presented By Literary Society To Appreciative Audience.

MADOC Mar. 31.—The High school Literary Society presented the "Flying Romeos" at the Empire Theate on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, through the courtesy of Gordon Munroe, manager. The Lower school orchestra supplied the music for the evening, and during intermission several of the girls sold home made candy in dainty baskets and boxes, which brought about thirty dollars, going to help the fund for the payment on the new piano recently purchased by the Literary Society. The total proceeds for the evening was very encouraging and will go far to wipe out the debt incurred in purchasing the piano which was much needed.

Personals.

The members of the Oakdale Rebekah Lodge held a very pleasant Thimble Tea at the home of Mrs. A. Kincaid on Monday evening.

The electric storm on Monday evening lessened the attendance at night school considerably.

Miss Norma Fair, of O.B.C., Belleville, spent the week end at her home in Madoc.

Mrs. Alexander, of Bancroft, and Mrs. Vernon Reid were the soloists at Trinity United church on Sunday evening.

ARCHDEACON TELLS CHURCH'S PROGRESS

Lakefield Has Visit From Former Rector of St. John's Church.

LAKEFIELD, Mar. 31.— Ven. Archdeacon Davidson, of Toronto, gave a most interesting and highly instructive lecture in St. John's church on Friday evening, on 'The Church Through the Eye and Ear," illustrating with a chart its progress since the days of our Lord, and the formation of the church on the Day of Penticost. The various branches formed by the Apostles and their first converts, linked up the whole of the Roman world with the Christian church, which spread south into Africa, north into Russia and Germany and west to France and to the British Isles. The British church is a very ancient one and owes its beginnings to times even before St. Augustine who founded an established British church when he arrived in Kent, the speaker said. Tracing the history of the church down to the present day, the Archdeacon gave information both instructive and of general interest.

He paid his usual kindly tribute to St. John's, which was a neighboring parish for the many years of the Archdeacon's life as rector of St. John's, Peterborough; he was ever a welcome visitor to Lakefield and the parish church.

Archdeacon Davidson was the special preacher in St. John's church on Sunday, which was the feast of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary. The seromn dealt with the anointing of our Lord with the precious ointment by that other Mary, an act condemned by the Jews as wasteful, but commended by our Lord as an expression of love and reverence.

Lakefield House Leased.

J. C. Strickland, of Peterborough, has leased the Lakefield House' for a term of years and has closed it for a few weeks, during which time it will be entirely renovated, decorated and put in shape for the summer season.

Miss Watson Injured.

Miss Odell Watson met with a very painful accident on Wednesday morning when a pot of potatoes upset over her lower limbs, scalding her very badly. Medical aid was summoned and the wounds dressed, but the injured girl was suffering from pain and shock.

Skating Is Ended.

The rink closed last week after a successful season. Skating was very popular throughout the winter and a new record for attendance was established at the O.H.A. matches.

Yes, Spring Is Here!

The small boy has taken to marbles, which is a sure sign of spring and one may expect to see the little girl and her skipping rope. The sidewalks are nearly all bare now and the roads are rapidly drying.

Personals.

The Grove school closed on Friday for the Easter holidays, the boys leaving for their homes on Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Burrows spent the week end in Toronto, the former attending the re-union dinner of the 4th Brigade Field Artillery, held on Saturday evening at the Carlsrite.

London Publisher Speaks At Stratford

STRATFORD, Ont., Mar. 31. (Canadian Press.)— John Walter, editor of the London Times, speaking under the auspices of the National Council of Education here yesterday, strongly voiced the opinion that every effort should be made to increase the friendly feeling between Canada and Great Britain as being people of the same nation. He said that he had found the British spirit strongly evident in the places he had visited in Canada and felt that there was the best of understanding between the two countries. The bulk of his address was an historical outline of the Times. Last evening he was the guest at a banquet tendered by the city and attended by editors of the surrounding district papers. Later in the evening he saw his first hockey match, witnessing the championship game between Stratford and Kitchener in the Canadian Professional Hockey League.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

I AM GREATLY INDEBTED to the Public Library for access to a very remarkable book bearing the striking title of "The Impatience of a Parson." It is a plea for the recovery of vital Christianity. The writer is an eminent minister of the Church of England, and, until a short time ago, Vicar of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, one of London's historic churches. I am not surprised to learn that British churches and churchmen have been greatly stirred by it. Written in clear and vigorous language, it expresses an impatience shared by many earnest Christians on both sides of the Atlantic. Whatever our reaction to it may be, we are compelled to admit that it states the truth even if some may argue that it does not state the whole truth. For one, I am convinced that it states the truth as the writer has seen it. And the substance of the book may well be pondered by all who have the good of the church and the glory of God at heart.

A PROVOCATIVE BOOK.

At the very outset, we are told that for fifteen years this minister had been growing increasingly disturbed at the condition of religion as represented by the organized churches. Except for occasional outbursts from his pulpit, he had for the most part held his peace. For three years, just previous to the publication of this book, circumstances had compelled him to relinquish active work, thereby affording him larger opportunity for thought and study. The result has been this provocative book—and I use "provocative" in the most friendly way. For one I am glad that circumstances compelled him to lay down much of the routine work of a large parish. Otherwise this book might never have been written, and a very valuable stimulant been lost to the Christian church.

It was while he mused that the Psalmist felt the fire burning in his soul. It was after his sojourn in Arabia that Paul wrote Galatians; and if he had not been put in prison he would never have had as much time for thinking, and the literature of the church, in all probability, would have been the poorer. Had John Bunyan not been shut up in Bedford, or some other jail, we might never have had "The Pilgrim's Progress." As the result of Samuel Rutherford's exile in Aberdeen we have those matchless letters of his. And it was while banished to the lonely isle of Patmos that the Apostle John had his glorious visions, recorded in the Revelation associated with his name.

Therefore, suffering and shut-in one, your condition may be made the gateway to some larger service when once you are able to be up and out again. Listen for the voice of God in the time of your enforced idleness. You will never be able to speak for God until God has had a chance to speak to you.

THINK OF THIS.

"I am compelled," he says, "with the greatest reluctance, to believe that the churches have corporately so misunderstood the message of their founder, and so mishandled and mislaid His values—the values of His Father-God—that what survives and does duty nowadays, through the churches, as Christianity is a caricature of what Christ intended. The churches need much more than patch-work repair."

Were it some ranting revivalist writing, we might very easily pass it off with a shrug of the shoulders, and then go along in the same sedate style, as if the matter were not worth another moment's consideration. But when we keep in mind the fact that the book has been written by a representative of a church which is usually credited with having a sane ministry, it is a matter for our careful and prayerful attention. When a minister of the Church of England tells the rest of the world that "Christianity badly needs rash men who will not flinch from the crispness of religion, nor fear the result of stirring up wasps' nests," the rest of the world would be wise to give some time to reflection.

REVOLUTION INEVITABLE.

He is of the opinion that a Christian society which fulfills the mind of Christ would have to be so different from any church that exists today as to be scarcely recognizable by existing churches.

For myself I feel that when the primitive church is compared with the church today, it is almost impossible to find any real resemblance. The early church knew what it was to gather for prayer. If the church of today ever knew it seems to have had little difficulty in forgetting. The most poorly attended meeting of most churches is the meeting which is supposed to be for prayer. The early church had a passion for the salvation of sinners. But the church of today does not give much, if any, evidence of such a passion. Indeed it does not seem to believe—if you are to judge by its preaching—that there are any such folks as sinners. And, of course, if there be no sinners there can be no need of salvation.

The early church was spiritual. But the church today is mostly carnal. The early church was characterised by a profound belief in the Virgin birth, the Vicarious atonement, and the Victorious resurrection of Jesus Christ. Today, the church is spending her time and her strength in questioning these.

No wonder he says, "An immense revolution is inevitable if the common people are again to hear Christ gladly."

WAR ABOLISHED.

He comes from his survey with the conviction that we have arrived at a point at which there must soon be a true Christianity or a catastrophe. He believes that war is to be abolished as "a purely bestial and devilish affair, having nothing whatever to do even with patriotism save for the hardness of men's hearts."

Progress in science and education and such an increase of knowledge all around as we now have, with selfishness unsubdued, makes man "as much more dangerous as his power for mischief has increased." And we find ourselves in hearty agreement with him when he adds, "Some religion that can eat up selfishness must prevail." Genuine Christianity is the only religion which can do that. But the difficulty today is that genuine Christianity is, or seems to be, a diminishing quantity. The measure of the church's failure, according to this writer, is its inability to turn out a sufficiency of Christ-like men and women. With him, I feel that the world is looking for a fresher, truer and larger version of the religion of Jesus Christ, and that it is justified in requiring it.

THE IMPATENT PARSON

Along with most of us, the impatient parson, is sure that there must still be a church, though he pertinently reminds us that "the founder of Christianity was unable to remain a member of the orthodox and and authorized church of His day."

Perhaps he is nearer the truth than many will be willing to admit when he suggests that if the churches were to become out-and-out Christian and if all their ministers were to speak the flaming Word of God in the hearing of the people—it is more than likely that places of worship would be emptier than they are today. And it might be that a goodly number of the prophets would be stoned. It is a rare thing to like prophets until they are dead. And even then while we commemorate them in stone and stereotype their message for all time in a form which they themselves would deprecate, we should be gravely disturbed if they contemplated returning to continue their tiresome habit of saying uncomfortable things. It is not prophets we want today! We want politicians.

TAKE CHRIST SERIOUSLY.

At times it seems as if Christendom refuses to take Jesus Christ seriously. It seems to be devoted to Him, but it does not seem to know what to do with Him. To a large extent it has lost the clear-cut conviction of the early church. It is rich and increased in goods, but it has lost in spiritual values. If it has any conviction it has lost the courage which ought to go with that conviction to make it count for something in the world.

It has been demonstrated again and again that there are times in history when decisive and courageous action is the only safe course of pursue. Many of us can say amen to the statement that, "it is high time that what is said to be desirable but impossible should be done, and done without delay." There are many who feel that such a time for the church of Jesus Christ has arrived.

I hope that this hasty and very imperfect review of a very remarkable book will lead many to read it all for themselves. —Allan Fairbairn.

Camouflageing Error

GIVEN an unpiloted ship and a wild sea with a shoreward drift, and wreck is inevitable. Given a luring light on a rock-bound coast with a presumptuous pilot, and every passenger is imperilled. Again, a dragging anchor will not prevent disastrous drift.

Language is our medium of expression. Words and phrases may be as successfully used to camouflage error as to reveal truth. Even the name of Jesus may be emptied of its content and divested of every divine significance.—"Jesus Christ at the Crossroads."

What About Your Child Now?

PASSING a house one day we heard an angry mother calling for her erring child. He was not yet nine years of age, but she promised him a good beating as soon as she could lay hands upon him. When he came to within a few feet of his mother she raised an arm to strike, and the child, screaming in terror, dodged and darted through the doorway. All the way to the corner we heard the piercing wail of the boy undergoing the keenest torture. How long it lasted we don't know, but long after we had passed out of hearing we fancied we yet heard.

To strike a horse is considered cowardly and inhuman. Yet when it comes to beating a child—literally beating, striking with a club or any other weapon that's convenient—when it comes to beating one's offspring, humanity takes a flight out the window and brutality often rains a tatoo of malevolence.

Imagine a bereaved mother whose baby son of seven has but recently died. She has all the baby clothes, the tiny shoes and faded gingham rompers, the little socks, brass buttoned soldier suit, everything that he ever wore, laid away in the cedar chest.

She has one constant thought—her baby. For hours she will sit before the chest and finger the contents. For the hundredth time she will tell us that she wants him back. She will tell us how, often, at her boudoir door, her sanctum of rest and quietude she was accustomed to hear the small hesitating knock and inquiry to come in. Being too tired to grant the request she ordered him curtly away.

Then there were times when he went rollicking through the house and over the waxed floors, shouting commands to his fanciful troopers from the crest of a broomstick horse. The house rocked and the floors showed scars and the chairs skidded into each other nicking away the varnish.

Many nights the household stayed up when baby had the croup or something else, and how they chafed at the loss of sleep!

Now she wants him back. She could stand most anything if she could nestle his curly head against her breast just like he was a baby again. She wants the feel of his dimpled hands to go round her neck and pull her head closer for the good night kiss. He might cling to her gown wherever she went; break in on any of her card parties with unwashed face and hands and jam-soiled clothes; ask questions, play soldier in the house, have his heart's every wish.

We are to be pitied if we cannot love children without having death drive home their worth. —A. F.

What We Are Waiting For

IN the House of Commons discussion on the Prayer Book, Sir Martin Conway, traveler and explorer, after referring to the "marvellous religious movement," in the armies and at home during the war, said this intense religious feeling was not satisfied by any sect or church. He went on to say that "Science itself, in the examination of the constitution of matter, has led many wise and learned men, in consequence of their own researches, to realize that there must lie behind all material things a spiritual something about which it is difficult to grasp and as yet impossible to define. Such a feeling is widespread among thoughtful people today. We are waiting for someone who will not overthrow the old revelation, who will not disestablish the old faith, but who will carry us into a wider field and will give us a new vision of the world that is beyond, a new vision of the unknown, of the eternal, towards which we ordinary folk can but blindly grope."

We are told that "the just shall live by faith," "without faith it is impossible to please God," and "faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." Despite his ignorance of much that scientific men claim to know the man who has faith is not blindly groping. —A. F.

What a man is inwardly that to him will the world be outwardly; his mood affects the very "quality of the day."—Bradford Torrey.

SATURDAY, MARCH 31, 1928.

AS THEY HAVE IT IN ENGLAND.

We're going to have movie censorship in Ontario as they have it in England, instead of the Belanger bill to prohibit young Ontario from viewing films not classified by the censors as fit for children, to which The Examiner referred yesterday as an example of unnecessary legislation.

Briefly, what is to be done, at the suggestion of Premier Ferguson, is that the Ontario Board of Censors will divide films into two groups, "universe" and "adult," the former considered fit for adults and children alike and the latter classified as suitable only for adults.

All advertising matter, whether in the press or on billboards, will have to be stamped to show the classification of each movie.

After that it will be up to the parents.

This scheme will notify them as to the nature of the films being shown, and whether or not their children view pictures that the censors consider as fit only for adults depends upon the parents themselves.

There will be nothing to prevent young picture fans from attending the showing of any particular film, the onus of restriction being placed where it rightly belongs, on the heads of families.

That is a better plan than to flatly prohibit children from seeing films considered unsuitable for them.

HERE IS A FINE DEED.

The action of Peterborough's retail clothing firms yesterday in moving the stock of W. H. Meredith, dean of the clothing men of the city, to his new store, arranging the goods and making everything ready, even to the dressing of the windows, for to-day's opening was at once a tribute to the regard in which this veteran of the business is held by his competitors and as fine a demonstration of brotherly good feeling that it has ever been the pleasure of The Examiner to record.

So long as that spirit exists in Peterborough nothing can go very wrong; some communities may grow faster, but this will continue to be a city in which life is really worth while, a city where men can look beyond the narrow bounds of self-interest and hold out a helping hand even to competitors.

To the individual who saw this opportunity of making a gesture of friendship to a citizen who deserves well of the community and to the retail clothing merchants who eagerly embraced the scheme and heartily co-operated in carrying it through to a complete success, hearty thanks should be forthcoming.

They have shown that Peterborough's business section is not too engrossed with material gain for the Golden Rule to penetrate, and the fine example they have set may have results that cannot be even dimly visualized now.

A BUSINESSLIKE SESSION.

The Ontario Legislature finished its business for this session yesterday, and the House will be prorogued next week.

The session has been short and businesslike, and for this happy condition of affairs all parties in the Legislature deserve credit, the Government for having its program well prepared and its legislation ready for consideration, and members of the Opposition for refraining from obstructionist tactics and for their readiness to facilitate the transaction of public business.

There has been very little legislation of a controversial nature before the House, and the session, with the exception of the flare up over the wandering ballot episode, has been free from spectacular features.

While a large number of bills was introduced, only a few were of any outstanding importance, Hon. Mr. Price's bill to protect the people of Ontario from dubious stock-selling schemes and the Premier's measure to establish an industrial research council being the new legislation of major significance.

Mr. Ferguson's township school bill was again discussed, but once more withdrawn; a measure providing for the establishment of a system of apprenticeship in the building trades was carried, and a change in the Liquor Control Act allowing the Control Board to "bulk" returns from the stores in making its annual reports was authorized despite strong opposition.

Outside of these the legislation was of a minor nature, largely in the line of amendments to measures already in force.

THE MEMBERS CAN DO MUCH.

Realizing as he expressed it in the Legislature that "the time is not quite ripe for the imposition of a bill of this kind," Premier Ferguson has once more withdrawn his township school boards bill from the order paper of the Legislature.

Newspaper comment throughout the Province seems to be thoroughly in favor of the measure, but the plan has not yet been "sold" to those most directly concerned, the people of rural Ontario, and the Premier is too shrewd a politician to force a bill upon electors who are opposed.

It is significant that Opposition members, most of whom come from rural ridings, expressed themselves as favoring the principle of the bill, and that being so, it would seem that they now have a chance to forget politics and to endeavor to prepare the ground in their respective constituencies for an educational reform that would obviously be of profit to the rural sections of the Province.

Admittedly, rural education leaves something to be desired; it is in many cases costly and inefficient, and there is no reason why these conditions should be suffered merely because the system has been in force for a long time.

Politics should not enter into the situation, which is too serious to allow considerations of party advantage to interfere with a plan that promises to put rural Ontario more closely a par with urban municipalities in respect to educational facilities.

Much can be done by members of the Legislature in educating public opinion to the merits of the township boards scheme, and The Examiner believes they would be helping their constituents and the whole Province if they threw their support behind the proposal.

TRUE AND FALSE INTEREST.

The opinion is expressed that "if ever a statesman makes peace as interesting as war, he will win a place in history above Pericles as the most practical man who has yet appeared in the political history of the world." Making peace interesting is a matter of cultivating the intelligence. The word peace does not denote negation or stagnation. It embraces all the constructive activities of mankind—agriculture, commerce, manufacturing industry, transportation, education, art, literature, government, religion, domestic affection, friendship. The person who is not interested in these things or some of them can hardly be described as a normal human being.

One occasionally meets with cases where all these varied interests do not satisfy some abnormal man or woman, who find life wearisome without "thrills" of a foolish or vicious kind. These cases are regarded as extraordinary and deserving nothing but blame or pity. Yet many people have accepted without question the notion that war affords "thrills" that peace cannot bring. One cause of this is the false glamor with which war has been invested by writers who know little or nothing of its horrors, or who ignore them. A large part of the soldier's life is dreary and repulsive to him. Few civilians can imagine what our gallant veterans have gone through.

The truth is recognized in much of the literature produced by the Great War of 1914-18. Returned soldiers speak of their experiences with anything but enthusiasm. They did their duty, but it was a disagreeable duty. There is considerable discussion in England over war films the aim of which is to conceal the repulsive features of war, and restore the old false glamor. The truth ought to be told about war and about peace, and if that is done there will be little doubt that the verdict of mankind will be for constructive activity and sentiment as opposed to destruction and hatred.—London Advertiser.

WAS IT REALLY?

The Globe, under the caption, "The Senate Wrong Again," scolds the Upper House because it rejected the bill concerning newspapers, magazines, etc. This bill was copied from the United States statute verbatim and introduced in the House of Commons by Mr. Church, one of the members of the city of Toronto. It went through the Commons without a vote and, probably, with little attention except from the Postmaster-General, and was sent over to the Senate.

Undoubtedly there is a feeling all throughout the country that strings of newspapers are becoming the property of individuals, possibly to the detriment of the public interest, and it is known that papers, the ownership of which rests in one group of men, preach different doctrines, according to their location. This, to put it mildly, shows a lack of sincerity and the public are beginning to think they should know who owns the papers.

There are men, perhaps a little more radical, who believe the writer of every editorial article should be known to the public, which would mean signed editorials.

The bill introduced by Mr. Church contained a lot of verbiage that to newspaper men was meaningless. The Globe, of course, as far as can be learned, forgot to support the bill until after it was defeated, which allowed it to hold its old grouch against the Senate without any inconvenience. This paper has no fault to find with The Globe's article, but it wants to state once and for all that the insinuation that there was a lobby against the bill in the Senate is without the faintest scintilla of foundation.

But to get back to the bill. This bill required that ownership should be established by the publication of the manager, managing editor, editors, etc., together with the list of officers, shareholders, bondholders were known, in every daily newspaper. Newspaper companies, in this Province at least, are compelled annually to give this information to the Provincial Government, and, in addition, they must also declare the value of the stock held, the number of shares held by such individual and the amount paid thereon. This information can be secured at any time. It was said after the debate in the Senate, but not in the Chamber, that there are certain papers in Canada operating under special charters and these are not subject to the requirements of the Joint Stock Companies' Act. Consequently they are not compelled to give this information as already outlined.

It is very doubtful if the editorial contributions in a young country would be improved by compelling the writers to give their names. Impersonal journalism has been a great strength. Editorial utterances are the views of the newspaper rather than the personal views of the individual writer and the company must take all the responsibility.

The bill also provided that circulation of a paper must be published under oath at least twice a year. What purpose is to be gained by this clause? The circulation of a paper is of interest almost solely to the advertisers, and at present the papers of Canada have to prove their circulation annually, and submit their books to an independent audit known as the A.B.C. system in order to get their rating, and every advertiser at present has access to this rating.

There is a good deal in having the ownership of papers known, and it ought to be easy to draft a bill to accomplish this purpose of compelling all newspapers to make returns each year under oath showing the ownership of the paper, as those operating under the Joint Stock Companies' Act now have to do. If there are other newspapers like The Globe that believe all information asked for in the Church bill should be published, there is no reason on earth why these papers should not publish these particulars in their own columns. Why wait for statutes to compel them to do something which they think should be done?—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

"Now it can be told" doesn't apply to the sales made at the various Government stores in Ontario.

Tomorrow being the First of April a lot of men might fool their families by going to church.

The Suggestion that Uncle Sam should send the marines to Chicago is not far off the mark, seeing that an armed guard for voters has been requested.

The Globe thinks that Premier King had better watch his step when he attends a Leap Year meeting of women Liberals.

Building operations in Canada show a big increase over the first three months of last year. The growth is general throughout the country, indicating widespread prosperity.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, March 31. — The week has been a disappointing one to the shippers of cattle. Monday's market opened with a rather heavy run of cattle, but of an exceptionally good average quality.

Quality, however, did not count much in face of too liberal supplies, and only a very moderate demand. A few of the local wholesale butchers made good pickings, but the representatives of the big packing houses were standing off, apparently not interested. Later the cattle began to move out slowly, at declines of from 20c to 35c. There was a heavy holdover of more than 1,200 cattle at the close of the day's trading, and these, with only moderate light receipts of fresh stock, were a drag on the market for the balance of the week.

Prices suffered further declines, and for the week-end market, with still a few stale cattle left over, the decline was fully 75c off the heavy steers, and 35c to 50c off for good butcher steers and heifers.

It looks as though but few cattle will be required for the next week before Easter, and shippers have been advised by some of the commission houses to hold back their cattle for the present.

Springers and milkers — Choice springers $85 to $100, with fancy higher; good springers, $60 to $75; common hard to sell. Milkers not wanted.

Stockers and feeders—There is a very few coming forward. Good steers around 800 pounds are selling from $8.50 to $8.75; shortkeep steers, from $8.75 to $9.25. No heifers offered.

Calves — Trade more active, choice selling at 14c to 14½c; good, 12c to 13c; medium calves were not popular, at from 9c to 11c; common as low as 7c.

Sheep and lambs—A few selling at 15c, with others down as low as 9c to 10c. Yearling sheep sold around 7c to 8c; choice butchers' sheep, 6c to 7c; heavy fat sheep and aged bucks, 5c to 5½c; cull sheep, 2c to 3c. Spring lambs, choice, $14.00 to $16.00; good, $12.00 to $13.00. Thin lambs not wanted.

Hogs — Due to light receipts Tuesday's sales were effected at $9.25 f.o.b., or an advance of 25c over Monday's price. Prices look steady at $9.25 for the balance of the week.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, March 31 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday continued of a disappointing character, the only business reported being a few loads of wheat to the United Kingdom and a sale of one load of No. 2 Canadian Western oats was made on spot at two cents per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, track Fort William for immediate shipments.

The trade in cash grain was also slow the demand being confined to small lots but prices were unchanged. The foreign demand for Spring wheat grades of flour continued good and prices were firm. The demand for Winter wheat flour was fair and values were unchanged.

A moderate amount of business was worked in all lines of millfeed and the undertone to the market was firm. The tone of the market for standard grades of rolled oats was firm with a moderate trade passing.

An active business was done in all grades of fresh eggs, but the undertone continued easy. The receipts were 2,464 cases.

A steady trade was done in imported beans and prices were fully maintained. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked were made at $3.65 per bushel, ex-track, and broken lots at $3.75 per bushel, ex-store.

Little business was done in butter but the undertone was firm. The receipts were 869 packages.

The demand for cheese was confined to small lots, but prices ruled firm. The receipts were 95 boxes.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, March 31 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as:
Demand $4.87 3-16.
Cables $4.87 11-16.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 31 (Canadian Press).—Heavy selling on the part of holders of future deliveries of wheat brought about a sharp setback yesterday in prices here. Much of the selling was to realise profits, but unlooked-for declines at Liverpool, slowness of export call, and better moisture conditions for the domestic crop were also influential.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1 cent to 1½ cent net lower; corn at ⅝ cent decline to an equal advance; oats ¾ to 1 cent down, and provisions varying from 7 cents setback to a rise of 12 to 15 cents.

Emphasizing bearish effects of increased pressure yesterday to sell wheat was the circumstance that numerous traders showed a disposition to go slower on the buying side and to await private crop estimates which will be given out Monday. Meanwhile, field advices yesterday from east of the Mississippi remained decidedly unfavorable. Besides, one Chicago observer found conditions less auspicious in Kansas going West from Ellis. He placed the Winter loss in that section at about 20 per cent.

Rallies in the wheat market yesterday failed to prove of a lasting character despite a statement from a leading trade authority that the vital factor just now is alleged terrific crop loss from Winter killing in the Great Central belt. His statement, which attracted much notice, said that with a small crop east of the Mississippi, the prevailing price level is not high, especially in view of likelihood of very low private monthly crop estimates on Monday.

Corn and oats were responsive to wheat weakness. Corn news, however, was mainly bullish, weather over the belt being stormy, and farm holdings of corn in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois being reported as very small. On the other hand, Southwestern messages forecast that a somewhat larger movement from farms would be witnessed in the near future.

Provisions averaged lower, with holders selling May lard and with hog values tending downward.

CHICAGO CATTLE.

CHICAGO, March 31 (Canadian Press).—Hog receipts 30,000; top $8.50; shippers took 13,000; estimated holdover 7,000. SIGNS OF SPRING.

Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir,— On looking out of my dining room window this morning I was very much surprised to see a robin red-breast sitting as large as life on the lawn of the house opposite.

I do not remember personally ever to have seen a robin so early, though others I know have done so, and so like all the rest of folks who have something wonderful to tell, I send it along to The Examiner and I am sure that like myself you will feel that spring is just around the corner.

One other thing I would like to say: Congratulations to those of you who have been recently promoted. May you have much joy from your new labors, from a sense of serving others, even though some of them may prove cantakerous. There is a joy and reward in itself in seeking to impart to others thoughts which give joy to us, so may we all be eager to share with each other the 'good things,' but suppress as far as possible the sentiments that are kill joys.

Yours very truly,
Christiana.

ABOUT THE CHILDREN'S SHELTER.

Dear Sir:

As regards a meeting of the C.A.S. held on Tuesday, the 20th. It turned out just as one could expect. When women make up their minds to make trouble they do it or bust.

In the first place people who know the matron and caretaker (which is almost the entire community) know positively that the things said are impossible. These ladies memories seem to be failing them. When Mrs. Brooks, as old as she is, can distinctly remember the good reports given only a short time back by the different organizations mentioned before. I have had occasion to be at the Shelter several times and have yet to see one of the children punished or treated any differently than one would treat their own. They are never locked in the playroom and have all the liberty that is necessary for any child. They are not like wax dolls or kept in glass cases so as not to get their hands soiled. But they certainly are kept clean and respectable.

I recently heard of a lady who had to whip her boy (about sixteen years of age). Maybe he was one of the little fellows who had been coaxed with a few little candies when he was the right age to be trained.

If every one could see how those little ones climb over both Mr. and Mrs. Brooks and hug them and say "I love you. How much do you love me?" And then see Mr. Brooks show with his arms how wide he loves them. Yes, even little Dick who got spanked. They would not think the children needed much more love and care. They have just been a mother and father to them, both where love and punishment are concerned. If the Board had some one else in view why couldn't they have said so in a proper manner. If a fellow steals a car or robs a bank he pays the penalty, but one's reputation can be stolen (which is worse) and the thief go unpunished.

I wonder if the ones who made these charges can think deeply or if it ever occured to them that there might be a reporter from the Great Beyond. I guess they have never given that a thought. But I think they will some time, somewhere have to make an answer and it will have to be the truth too.

Personally I would rather by far be the ones who were accused so falsely than the ones who accused them. Thanking you for space and wishing the Board every success with their new prospect, I remain,

ONE WHO IS INTERESTED.

GOD'S MINUTE

Deliver me, for I do not forget Thy law.—Ps. 119:153.

Our Heavenly Father, with gratitude and confidence we bow together before Thee this morning after the rest of the night. We face the day, with its untried experiences, in courage and hope, claiming Thy promise, "I will in no wise fail thee nor forsake Thee." We humbly place ourselves at Thy merciful disposal; forgive us, protect us, guide us, use us, and keep us in the thought of Thee all the day. Reveal Thyself to them that are dear to us, and lead them into Thy peace. Those who are in temptation, deliver; or in any sorrow or affliction, sustain and comfort; supply every need of theirs, according to Thy riches in glory in Christ Jesus.

Give our rulers, we beseech Thee, wisdom and power to administer righteous government; save us from the covetous and proud; unite our people in the bonds of love, constraining them to justice, and mercy, and pity, that those who have may help those who have not, that oppression and poverty may cease from among us. And may we as a nation understand and fulfil our mission to the world.

Spread abroad everywhere the knowledge of Thy salvation, and bring in speedily the day of Jesus Christ, in Whose Name we ask all. Amen.

Columbia, Penn.

Special Protection for Roads
During Early Spring

Warning to Drivers and Owners of Trucks and Teams

The Ontario Highway Traffic Act contains provisions designed to prevent damage to road surfaces and road foundations during wet spring months. All who have to do with the operation of trucks or teams on the highways should be familiar with the law.

It is provided that on all roads, outside cities and towns, during March and April:

Solid tired trucks and trailers shall not carry more than half a load;

Pneumatic tired trucks and trailers, with a carrying capacity exceeding three tons, shall be limited to half a load;

The speed limits for trucks at all seasons are: 15 miles an hour for solid tired vehicles, and 20 miles an hour for pneumatic tired vehicles of more than six tons gross.

The penalty for overloading at this season is a fine, imprisonment, or both. Licenses may be suspended also. Highway traffic officers have been directed to be especially vigilant in apprehending all who disobey.

The Department of Highways desires to impress upon truck and team owners and drivers the provisions of the law and the penalties provided. It seeks their co-operation in a decent observation of provisions so greatly in the public interest. Ontario has an investment of over $170,000,000 in roads and an annual maintenance bill of $4,000,000. This investment must be protected.

MALE VOICE CHOIR CONCERT

"Rule Britannia," the famous national song of England, given in honor of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the composer, Dr. Thomas Augustine Arne, was a fitting opening to the program of the eighth annual concert of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir, presented in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church last evening, and attended by an audience of nearly four hundred people.

The choir, whose annual concert for the past seven years have looked forward to as musical events of the season, is not as [illegible]erically as in former years, but that had nothing to do with the excellence of the program offered. In fact, the fine of tone was exceedingly compact. There wasn't a ragged note visible anywhere in a lengthy and varied choral entertainment.

Under the skilful direction of Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., whose careful tuition has brought the choir up to its present high standard, the ensemble effect in the choral numbers was splendid. Every section was well represented and responded nobly to the demands of music that ranged from heavy, forte passages to light, pianissimo effects. In this latter type of work, considered most difficult for a large group of men's voices, the choir was extraordinarily good, control and balance being displayed to great advantage. Precision of attack and release, finely balanced tonal effects, attractive shading and rhythmic form, characterized this organization as always. A diversified program added to the charm of the choral entertainment. The choir has always given a good account of itself in years past, but last night's concert surpassed the performances of other years, presenting it in a slightly different angle, owing to the presentation in the church, rather than in the Grand Opera House. Its compact delivery of finely-chosen selections was delightful.

The assisting vocalist, Miss Margaret Northrup, of New York City, came in for a large share of applause. Her voice, while not overly big or powerful, has a beautiful range, is sweet, delicate, and very expressive. Her songs were chosen to display it to the best possible advantage, in a series of graceful numbers of a light, attractive type. In selections that included passages of a coloratura range, a lovely quality of high, pure, clear, fibrous tone was paramount. She sang daintily and easily, an attractive stage presence and finesse in delivery adding their charm to the sweet music.

The singing of "Rule Britannia," in which the audience joined in the refrain, formed the opening choral number, was followed by a lilting and stately march, "The Trumpet Sounds," with a spirited and vigorous atmosphere that brought out to the best possible advantage the well-trained voices of the various sections, demonstrating their crisp precision in attack and release. The same quality of vigor that attunes itself so well with male voices was apparent in "The Wolf (Robber)," an arrangement by M. B. Chenhall of an old English composer's music.

Diversity Is Keynote.

The diversity of music which was the keynote of the entire program of choral and solo music last night was demonstrated in the next number by the choir, a part song, "By the Sea," a quiet tone poem descriptive of the ocean and beautifully interpreted.

The "a capella" music (without accompaniment) which is so difficult in rendition had no terrors for the choir, demonstrating its ability in this type of song in another rhythmic marching song of Elgar's, entitled "Zut! Zut! Zut!" In this, as in the other numbers, the men appeared to be enjoying their own rendition immensely, this enthusiasm imparting a very attractive atmosphere to the rousing song of the soldier boys.

A powerful and ambitious number in dominant mood and declamatory style, sweeping along to a strong climax, was the chorus, "Hymn to Apollo," from Gounod's "Ulysse," displaying a sustained volume of sonorous, broad tone, and followed by a splendid contrast in the unaccompanied passages of "Fierce Raged the Tempest,' with its reverential tone shading.

The final choral number was an arrangement by Mr. Chenhall entitled "Reminiscences of Old British Song Masters,' 'including many of the famous compositions by British composers. Like the other choral numbers, it received hearty applause. In several instances, the choir was compelled to return and repeat a portion of a well-received number.

A third unaccompanied choral number that stood out in bold relief, by reason of its pathetic character, was the popular negro spiritual, "Deep River," sung by request. As in their selections in bold and soft mood, this melancholy cry of a shackled race was splendidly interpreted by the fine voices.

Two variations in the choral program were quartettes sung by Messrs. Lee, Crowe, Rowe and Wood. These were exceptionally well done and brought encores in each instance. The first was an exhortation, "Negro Sermon," with a declamatory recitative by E. Rowe, done with dramatic emphasis and fine dialect. The second quartette was entitled "Laugh a Little Bit."

The Visiting Soloist.

Miss Northrup's solos were encored in every instance. Her sweet, high voice, expertly handled, had plenty of scope in an attractive program that was generous in the extreme. Her first group included an Old English song, "My Lovely Celia," and two French numbers, "Tes Yeux" and the Waltz Song from "Romeo and Juliet." The staccato passages of the third number were very dainty. An encore to this group was Cyril Scott's sweet-toned "Lullaby."

The second group was a delicious trio of little songs of varying type and national atmosphere, beautifully interpreted. One of the sombre-mooded Slavic compositions was Zimbalist's arrangement of "Songs of Russia," followed by the gorgeous and haunting brief bit of Mexican music, in "Estrellita" (Little Star), an old composition that has been brought into favor lately through its wonderful organ arrangement on the phonograph and the prominence given to it in radio programs by Don Amaso. One of the sweetest of the evening's songs was the third number, a Swedish interpretation of life entitled "When I was Seventeen," with color and light in its music, pathos and sweetness in its words, and a bird-like quality to the reiterated refrain. An encore was the well-known favorite, a captivating interpretation of "The Cuckoo," with its staccato passages.

Miss Northrup's final group of four songs had the same quality of attractive and delicate sweetness. It included "April, My April," which is a song of springtime freshness, a finely descriptive bit of imagery in "The Night Wind"; a little love song, "Just You," and a crystalline bit of lustrous, polished, flute-like tone in the coloratura cadences of "The Swallows," again descriptive of bird song. To the renewed applause which greeted this group, Miss Northrup gave a lovely rendering of the old favorite, "Annie Laurie," making a delightful period to a brilliant program.

Miss Muriel E. Bridge contributed her expert and very satisfying piano accompaniments to the choral and solo numbers, and Mr. Chenhall played the organ for several of the choral selections.

The personnel of the Choir is as follows:

FOURTH PETERBORO TROOP

The meeting opened with flag break and inspection followed by a game of mount ball. Later a centipide race was held. In this race the members of each patrol straddle a scout staff and run the length of the H. Q. and back.

The instruction periods were then held in the patrol corners for twenty obstacles to scatter around the floor to play the Blind Man's Journey. Four scouts are started off from different points to get through the things without knocking anything over or touching another scout.

The Council fire opened with the singing of The Maple Leaf and the Tale of Three Good Turns. The different yells were then practiced by the troop. The Crows picked the next song and it went off in great style. Another song was sung in the form of a welcome yell.

Troop Leader Taylor then gave the result of the competition. The Owls are leading with 194 points and Kangaroos second with 191½ points. The Crows got the most points this week so they got the flag. Good work Crows! You may win the competition yet. There is going to be an entry in every section of the Scoutcraft Department of the Hobby Show from the Fourth Troop.

Do a Good Turn Daily was then sung by the troop. Don't forget next week is stunt night. There is to be one stunt by the separate patrols and two stunts done by members of the patrols.

Mr. Corbett read a short story to the troop on the way trees prune themselves.

IS SENSATIONAL PREACHING WISE?

Rev. Wm. Allan's Strange Sermon Title For Sunday Evening.

RONALD FORTUNE SINGS.

Doubtless there will always be a difference of opinion as to the propriety of using anything of a seemingly sensational kind in the pulpit. And there may be much room for a difference of opinion as to what is sensational, in the pulpit or out of it!

Having had our attention drawn to the rather unusual title "And Actor—A Night Club and a Bible" as advertised for Sunday evening at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, we have been informed that the subject is the outcome of a unique radio program which was broadcast last Sunday night. It promises to be an interesting theme; and while it seems sensational, perhaps it is not quite fair to condemn anything before it is heard.

Those who are accustomed to hear the minister of St. Paul's will tell you that he knows the Bible and carries on a Biblical ministry. And he knows something about night clubs and theatres, as many can testify who have heard him speak outside his own pulpit, and on other occasions than at church services—but how he will make use of such a subject will be interesting to hear.

The choir will render the second part of "Olivet to Calvary" as a musical ministry; and Mr. Ronald Fortune, tenor soloist of St. Andrew's and St. Paul's Montreal, who was heard last Sunday will be heard again on Sunday.

SIX MEN ENTER FARM CONTEST

One Who Keeps Best Set of Books For Coming Year To Get Course.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN.

Six young farmers in the County of Peterborough have entered the Department of Agriculture's farm accounting contest. Each man agrees to keep an accurate set of books for one year of his farm expenditures and receipts, and the one who at the end of the year has the best set of books is given a short course at the Kemptville Agricultural School. J. B. Nelson, agricultural representative, expects that two additional men will enter the contest, so that two might be chosen to go to the Agricultural School. Yesterday J. Coke, of the Economics Department of the Ontario Agricultural College, was in the city instructing those who have already entered the contest.

The six already in the contest are: W. G. Waterman, North Monaghan; Carl Purdy, Cordova Mines; Edgar Clarke, Norwood; David Forsythe, Indian River; Harold Dunford, Lakefield, and Kenneth Petrie, of Otonabee.

Insurance Man Says Great Future For This Province.

CITIES TO GROW.

Horace Greeley's "go west" advice should be unheeded by the young men of Ontario, O. B. Shortly, Toronto and York County district manager for the North American Life Insurance Company, declared to the Peterboro Life Underwriters at their luncheon at the Empress Hotel last night. Mr. Shortly is a son of Benj. Shortly of this city.

"I have travelled extensively, but I have never found a place more suitable to live in than our own Ontario," he said. "Our young men should pay no attention to this "go west' stuff. Stay right here in the east. Think of what we are going to see in Ontario during the next generation. Think of the cities we are going to have. You can't beat our farms and our farmers. Think of what our mining area will mean to us. Be satisfied right here, because a great future is in store for us."

Mr. Shortly's address was one of the most practical discussions on insurance topics that have been so far delivered at the association's meetings. It was chiefly for insurance men, but it had numerous features of general interest. People buy insurance because they love somebody, Mr. Shortly said. Its protective function presents a great appeal. The "somebody" may be the person himself who invests in the insurance. In that case the endowment policy is taken. All the Canadian insurance companies are reliable. Hence a man often buys a certain policy because of his confidence in the insurance salesman and the attractiveness of his personality.

Should Be Students.

Advising insurance men to study their subject constantly, Mr. Shortly said he had rarely gone to bed in the last twenty-five years without reading something about insurance. In the quiet of that hour the subconscious mind seems most receptive, and memory retains the ideas more acutely.

"If you don't make the effort you will never get anywhere. Life is a fight, although I don't like to use that word. You have to fight to keep your health, to pay your taxes, to buy clothes. I call life an enjoyment. We ought to thank God every day that we are allowed to live in this beautiful world.

Avoid Familiarity.

Mr. Shortly said that an acquaintanceship and connection were most valuable, and should not be spoiled by familiarity. Why do many men not buy insurance from their friends? In regard to the programming of insurance Mr. Shortly said it could be adopted in smaller policies as well as large ones. It was just as easy to sell a $5,600 policy as one for $5,000. The larger amount would provide a family with $100 a month for five years. During that time the family would become adjusted to its new circumstances and the home was maintained.

Many a man who says he cannot afford insurance could put away and save $1.64 a day, equivalent to 6 p.c. or $10,000. At that cost he could have a $10,000 estate and it would cost him only $1.64 a day in his insurance premium.

Mr. Shortly discussed short and long term endowments and stated that a Toronto financier recently told him that if he were living his life agai nhe would put his money into endowment insurance and dispense entirely with stocks and bonds, thereby eliminating every chance of loss.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Shortly in a motion by F. L. Ray, seconded by I. P. McNabb.

'We have listened to an address that should have been a matter of pride to Mr. Shortly if it was delivered to an audience of 10,000, and it is a mark of a big man that he is not influenced by the size of his audience in delivering his address," Mr. McNabb remarked in a warm tribute to the speaker.

H. B. Matthews presided and expressed his regret that many members had failed to attend. A March recessional bluster had kept many members at home. The most instructive part of Mr. Shortly's address were his stories of actual sales and the sincere, simple methods that had been used to convince the prospect of the advantages of life insurance.

Cheerful Workers of St. James' Church Hold Social Meeting.

The members of the Cheerful Workers' Bible Class of St. James' United Church were entertained on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Swanger, 497 Romaine Street.

The meeting opened with singing "O Canada," followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The following program was given:

Reading—Mrs. R. English.

Piano solo—Dorothy Swanger.

Jumping and Wrestling Are Practiced at Weekly Meeting.

All Saints' Athletic Association held its weekly meeting on Friday. The meeting will be held on Wednesday next week instead of Friday. Charles Lewington gave an interesting talk on pattern-making. On Wednesday Miles Perrington will give an address. The main sport of the evening was jumping. Jack Hope jumped 4 feet 9 inches, Bud Frost 4 feet 7 inches, and Gordon Young 4 feet 5 inches. After the jumping was finished, wrestling was started. There was a boxing match, which ended in a draw between Bill Hope and Bud Frost. There will be no basketball practice this week.

CITY ENGINEER GETS ASSISTANT

Ackerman. "The snow goes away faster."

"It's porous," replied Ald. Phelan. "If frost comes it will heave in time."

"The question is, 'Are we going to buy a cement mixer, and keep it up for a month's work each year?'" said Ald. Huffman.

"This time last year we were unanimous to buy a plant and lay cement pavements," answered Ald. Ackerman.

The matter was laid over.

Complying with instructions from the Provincial Department of Health the owners of cottages on the sewage disposal property will be ordered to remove their buildings not later than June 1.

Ald. Phelan opposed this on the grounds that the department should give the orders itself. Mr. Wearing pointed out that the city in allowing them on the land, becomes liable if they should fall into the tanks.

Will have Roads Sprayed.

The Bituminous Spraying and Oiling Company and the Municipal Spraying and Oiling Company both quoted the same price for oiling the streets.

Mr. Parsons explained that the cost is more than what the city pays now for the work, but with proper equipment the job would be properly done. He suggested that one of these companies be hired to do the long hauls and busy streets while the city will do its own work on the others. The amount in the estimates would care for it in this way.

Ald. Huffman suggested that the main streets be oiled as far as the money will go and the others left undone but his colleagues united in telling him what kind of a "holler" would be raised.

Ald. McIntyre asked for comparative prices for a square yard of surface. Mr. Parsons computed the cost at four cents a yard to the company, and ¾ cent for preparing the road; while the present cost is three cents. The job would be better done, one application would be enough where two are needed now.

As the Bituminous Company did the work on the highway, where the aldermen had seen it, it was given the preference.

Mayor Denne suggested that the roads be cut down on the avenues west of Park street, from 40 feet to 27 feet. Curbs could be put in as on Elias avenue, and the expense of the roadwork decreased.

Ald. Phelan pointed out that the city has power to charge the total cost of curbing against the property as local improvements.

Ald. Lowe proposed the centre boulevard scheme but it was explained that twice as much curbing would be needed and the road area needed would be one third greater. The cost of curbing on Elias avenue was about 40 cents a lineal foot, and it was paid for at once without the issue of debentures.

Tenders will be called for for the paving of Aylmer, Park and McDonnel streets, of which notice was given last year.

Many places on the sidewalks and roads needing repairs were mentioned by the aldermen, and listed for attention.

Finance Committee.

The Finance Committee passed a number of indigent patients' hospital accounts and the ordinary accounts.

Lack of an appropriation resulted in the laying over of a proposal of an insurance company for group insurance for city employees without discussion.

Mayor Denne proposed that nothing be done until some company bring in a request from a large proportion of the employees and complete details as to the cost. The council could then consider the matter.

BEING A PRINCE IS NO SINECURE

The business of being a prince is far from a bed of roses. Next to the Prince of Wales, Prince Henry and Prince George are two of the busiest men in the kingdom. Engagements of one sort or another keep them occupied from morning till night. Above Prince Henry is shown with friends at the Point-to-Point military meeting at Aldershot. Also shown above is Queen Victoria of Spain receiving a bouquet from the gardener on their Andalusian estate in the ancient Spanish province, while Prince George and the Infante Don Jaime look on.

MARRIED IN OTTAWA.

LORD GREY OPENS INSTITUTE

Lord Grey of Fallodon is seen with George Ratcliffe, Lord Mayor of Leeds, upon the occasion when the former foreign secretary opened the new institute for the blind. Lord Grey's sight has been failing since before the war and he is now practically blind, although he still presses his intellectual pursuits with his old-time vigor.

ROYAL ROMANCE.

Another royal betrothal is reported with a price in direct line to the Swedish throne as one of the principals. He is Prince Gustavas Adolphus, son of the crown prince, and the bride-to-be, according to the report, is Princess Theodora, daughter of Prince Andreas of Greece, whose wife is Princess Alice of Battenburg. They are shown above.

Miss Ruth Evelyn Porter of Toronto recently became the bride of Kenneth eGorge Case of London, England. Miss Porter's brother, Capt. John C. ("Red") Porter, of the Varsity Grads, world's hockey champions, was one of the ushers at the wedding.

On Round Island, at the entrance to the English Channel, there has just been opened the first wireless lighthouse — a wonder lighthouse which is expected to revolutionize navigation at sea. TORONTO'S NEW CHIEF OF POLICE

Brig.-Gen. D. C. Draper, C.M.G., D.S.O. and bar, of Quebec, whose appointment as Toronto's chief constable has just been announced. Toronto preferred a military man as chief because the last two police heads' success was attributed to their army training.

DISTANT RELATIVES MEET

Canada has a real claim on Lindy. When Mrs. E. Land Lindbergh, mother of the famous flier, visits Toronto during Easter week, for the first time two women, descendants of the same great great grandfather, Ephraim Land, will meet. The one is Mrs. Lindbergh herself. The other is Mrs. J. A. Harvey of "Harcroft", Toronto. Mrs. Lindbergh's great grandfather was John Scott Land, while Mrs. Harvey's great - grandmother was Abigail Land, a sister of John Scott Land. Above on the LEFT is Mrs. J. A. Harvey with Mrs. Lindbergh on the RIGHT. Below is a photograph of Abigail Land and a picture of the old homestead of Ephraim Land at Niagara.

COMPLETE LONG FLIGHT

Despite a series of mishaps, with two crashes, the light Auro Avion airplane "Red Rose," piloted by Capt. W. N. Lancaster and Mrs. Keither Miller, wife of an Australian newspaperman, has completed its 13,000 mile flight from London to North Australia, said to be longest ever made by a woman. They left London on October 14. On the trip Mrs. Miller carried only a small suitcase containing a change of clothing, a comb, a tooth brush and a tiny moving picture camera.

Here are some of the prominent members of the Ontario Anglers' Association who are demanding an inquiry with a view to preserving Ontario's wonderful fishing grounds as an attraction to tourists. No. 1 shows G. A. Warburton, (2) G. A. Forbes of Hespeler, (3) J. W. Carron of Sault Ste. Marie, (4) Col. A. Hoffman Smith of Sudbury, (5) John H. Findlay of Sudbury, Major R. T. Porter, Bobcaygeon.

This is Sir Harry Lauder by himself. The sketch of himself was made by the distinguished Scottish bard, for a friend while in Toronto on his Canadian tour. It was but the matter of a moment. Picking up a visiting card he began to sketch with pen and ink. Then he showed the result, a clever pen and ink caricature of himself.

ACUTE NEPHRITIS

The principal work of the kidneys is to eliminate toxins from the body. There is a certain amount of bodily waste which must always be thrown out through the kidneys, but when extra poisons are generated in the tissues the kidneys often have a great burden placed upon them, and they sometimes break down under the strain of the added work. A condition known as acute nephritis may then develop which may be only temporary, but oftentimes leads to a chronic form of nephritis which is commonly called Bright's Disease, so named after the doctor who spent so much time in investigation of this serious disorder.

Correspondents so often write asking about the cause of swollen ankles and puffiness under the eyes. These are two of the principal symptoms of acute nephritis but, of course, may come from other causes. There may be a puffiness of the entire face as well as swelling of the ankles.

The onset of this disorder is so rapid that in many cases convulsions will be caused by the sudden retention of toxins. Pain in the back, nausea, and vomiting may be present. There is usually a fever at first, varying from 101° to 103°. The blood pressure is often increased, and the pulse tension becomes hard. The skin is dry, and it is difficult to induce sweating.

A urinalysis will disclose the fact that the urine is scanty, highly colored, and contains blood, albumin, and casts. Sometimes the retention of urine is so great that only four or five ounces will be passed in twenty-four hours. This thick, heavy urine generally contains a large amount of albumin and usually skin cells from the urinary passages. The trouble is, the material that the kidneys should eliminate is retained, and the material which is eliminated is that which should be kept in the body. Albumin and blood would not be naturally thrown out through the kidneys, but this occurs in acute nephritis and uremia. Other poisons remain in the body and poison the whole system.

Acute nephritis is usually produced from a general toxic condition of the body, and the kidneys break down and cannot function normally because of the overwork. In some cases exposure to cold and wet is found to be a cause on account of the added burden placed upon the kidneys when the pores of the skin are contracted and the skin cannot carry on its normal elimination.

The expectant mother must use all of her eliminative functions to throw out her natural wastes and also those of the unborn baby. If she does not live carefully this may place too great a strain upon the kidneys, and acute nephritis frequently develops because of this.

The kidneys are always overworked if there is any injury to the skin, such as produced through eczema and other skin diseases. Severe burns to the skin may produce a temporary nephritis until the new skin cells are formed.

The symptoms of acute nephritis will usually disappear within a day or two if the patient is put on a fast of fruit juices, and drinks two or three gallons of water daily. Several sponge baths should be taken each day, and two or three enemas to wash out the intestinal wastes.

After the acute attack has subsided, the diet should consist largely of green vegetables and fruits, and no protein food used for several weeks.

This treatment will bring about a very rapid recovery, but the patient should learn his lesson and stop any causes which may bring on another attack, or from which he may some day develop chronic nephritis.

Questions and Answers.

Question: L. P. asks: "Will you kindly give a remedy for pinworms? Also the cause of them?"

Answer: Any druggist can supply you with a worm remedy. The cause of pinworms is an unhealthy condition of the colon. A course of enemas for a week or two will usually bring about complete elimination of any worms.

Question: X.Y.Z. asks: "Do you consider radium springs water more beneficial to health than water from the faucets?"

Answer: Distilled water is the only pure water, but outside of that the water furnished by any city water supply should be equally as good as the water from any special springs.

Question: V.C.S. writes: "I am on your diet for constipation, and would like to know whether butter should be used on Melba toast, and whether butter and salt is correct for the vegetables. If salad dressing is used on the salads, what kind?"

Answer: It is all right to use butter on Melba toast, also on vegetables, and it is all right to use salt on the vegetables if they have not been cooked properly. With proper cooking very little salt is needed. I have a special article on salad dressings. Please send for it, and the next time you write give your name and address.

Answer: By first getting rid of any bodily toxins which may be irritating the nervous system, and then by studying mental science in order to learn how to better adjust your mental process.

A HOME OF SPANISH INFLUENCE.

W. Stuart Pavey, Architect.

This picturesque home with its strong characteristics, is an example of the style which although more generally seen in the South, has that inbred beauty which assures the retention of its charm amid the more severe setting which Canada affords.

It will be observed that no sacrifice of interior convenience or economy has been made in order to obtain exterior effect, a commendable feature which is often lacking in houses of strong style adherence.

The presence of curved lines in an otherwise perfectly straight and square form invariably gives a much more interesting, almost luxurious effect; and here the principle has been effectively applied by the use of archways instead of doors in the locations indicated on the plan by dotted lines.

One is immediately struck by the distinct character which results, upon entering the moderate size square hall which is connected by archways, with the living room and coat alcove. On passing into the living room the beautiful effect is still more apparent as one may see directly through to the dining room and sunroom, unless more privacy is desired in which case rich portieres would but enhance the Spanish effect. The entire exterior living room wall is occupied by a centre fireplace with a window and bookshelves on each side.

The kitchen is very conveniently located with doors to rear porch, dining room, rear entry with refrigerator recess and basement stairs, and through the coat alcove to main hall. Correspondingly good is the arrangement within the kitchen itself, of the broom closet, dresser, table, range and sink.

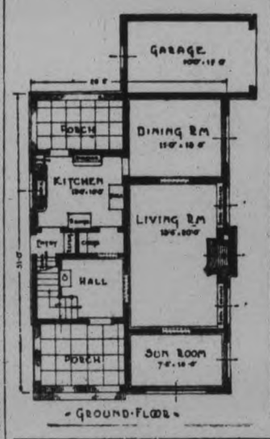
The second floor arrangements will surely appeal to the orderly housewife, for in addition to a clothes closet in each of the four good sized bedrooms, a sewing room, and large linen closet open directly off the hall.

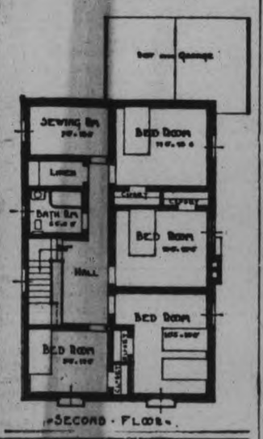
An additional charm, impossible to portray in a black and white illustration, is obtained by a beautiful color scheme having roof of variegated shingles, rough plaster white walls which catch the sunlight in a way which covers the entire house with a filigree of shadows, and blue woodwork.

Two wrought iron flower boxes at the windows, all of which have metal sash, are distinctive touches.

With hot air heating, the cost of this home is approximately eight thousand dollars.

Readers desiring further information regarding a house of this design should communicate with MacLean Builders' Guide, 345 Adelaide St. West, Toronto, Ont. who will see that it is supplied. When writing please mention design number 117. Copyright, 1928.





EXTENDING ROADS THROUGH ROCKIES

Passes Used Now Discovered in 1858—First Road Built in 1923.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 31 (Canadian Press).— Announcement that approximately 375 miles of highclass motor highways will be open for travel in the Canadian national parks this summer serves as still another reminder of the remarkable developments that have come as the result of modern invention. Last year the number of visitors who entered the mountain parks by motor totalled approximately 40,000. When it is remembered that it is only five years since the first through motor route was opened across the Central Rockies, a better idea of the rapid development of this form of travel can be obtained.

The year 1923 marks, too, another anniversary that provides an interesting measuring point from which the progress of Canada may be realized. It is just seventy years this summer since Dr. (later Sir) James Hector discovered the two passes in the Rockies which were destined later to open the first doors to rail and motor travel. In the summer of 1856 a British expedition under Capt. Palliser, sent out by the British government to discover a possible location for a road in all British territory suitable for the passage of wagons across the Rockies, reached the Bow Valley, not far from the present city of Calgary. Before them lay mountains, a catholic wilderness of tangled peaks thrusting an almost impenetrable barrier 400 miles wide between the east and the west. The main route of travel, followed by the great fur companies, lay to the north. But this route, by way of the Athabaska pass and the Columbia river offered many difficulties. The pass itself was too difficult for horses and the river presented obstacles and dangers sufficient to make this route an impracticable one.

A few other passes were known to have been crossed by early travellers but maps and data about the character of the country were rare and hard to obtain. When Hector, therefore, undertook the exploration of the Bow Valley and the passes beyond, he entered an almost uncharted wilderness. The story of his adventures, of the exploration of the Vermilion pass, of the hardships, sufferings and almost death which he endured on the west slope of the Rockies, and of the famous Kicking Horse pass, provides one of the most thrilling chapters in Canadian history. The Kicking Horse pass was finally chosen for the route of the Canadian Pacific railway.

For nearly forty years the railway provided the only means of travel across the mountains, but the completion of the Banff - Windermere Highway in 1923 across the Vermilion pass made a new way for the open-air, open-sky mode of travel. The opening of Kicking Horse Trail has provided another motor crossing of the central ranges, and today a distance of less than 100 miles remains to be covered to complete the long talked of project of a motor highway in all-Canadian territory from the plains to the coast.

Model Health Area Planned In Alberta

EDMONTON, Alta., March 31.—(Canadian Press).—The establishment of a model health area in Alberta is the latest development in the interests of health evolved by the Health Department of the Government of Alberta. A model health area with a population of about 21,000 persons will be established. Here a model hospital will be built and a surgeon, assistant surgeon, and nurse will be placed with a view to serving the needs of the district. The Rockfeller Foundation will co-operate with the government in this good work by supplying 25 per cent. of the cost of establishing one or two such districts in the province, and will also pay for the nurse or nurses in connection with the hospitals which will mean an expenditure of about $5,000 per year for the first five years, in which time the success or otherwise of the scheme will be demonstrated.

This announcement was made by the Hon. George Hoadley, minister of agriculture and health, at the northern district conference of the Women's Institutes. He urged the women of the province to shoulder the responsibility of leadership in health.

Mr. H. Rush will sing at the sacred concert in the Regent Theatre Sunday night.

PREMIER FAVORS CLASSIFYING FILMS

Would Have All Publicity Marked "Universal" Or "Adult."

TORONTO, Mar. 31.—The Ontario Government proposes, instead of adopting Aurelien Belanger's bill to classify films fit to be viewed by children and to prohibit children from viewing films not so classfied, to institute a system of movie censorship similar to that in force in England. That is, the present Board of Censors will divide the movies into two groups, one "universal" and one "adult." All films, propaganda and advertising matter are to be stamped to tell the public whether they are fit to be viewed by youth and age alike or by adults only. The only compulsory part of the system is the stamping, and there is no provision, as in Mr. Belanger's amendments to the Theatre and Cinematograph Act, to prohibit children from seeing films designated as fit only for adults.

This Premier Ferguson made known in the Legislature last night, when in the final moments of the night session J .A. Pinard (Liberal, East Ottawa) inquired on behalf of Mr. Belanger, who was absent, as to when the Belanger amendment would come before the House for third reading.

Solution, Says Premier.

"I have a suggestion to make," said the Prime Minister, "a solution of the difficulties. There are many things to be said of the scheme, but the objectionable feature is that it declares 'Thou shalt not.' It is a suggestion whether we shall have class legislation and say to parents you shall not take your children to this show or that one."

The Censorship Department, said he, was permitted by regulations already passed to institute a system similar to that in effect in England. He went on to explain that there the films were 'stamped in two categories" as "universal" or "adult," and that this stamp appeared on films on all such propaganda as pamphlets, on advance notices and on advertisements in the press.

"This," he emphasized, "means a notice to all parents. And this, it seems, can be worked out under the regulations much more satisfactorily than arbitrary statutes."

Suggesting that the bill be withdrawn, he promised "the Government's undertaking" that the stamping system would be established.

Liberal members wanted to know what would become of the proposal in the bill to change the age limits at which a child could attend a show unaccompanied from 15 to 16 years. The Premier thought that the present age might stand until it was seen how the suggested scheme would work out here.

Attendance of Matrons.

He was, he declared, strongly in favor of anything that would protect the welfare of children in theatres, and he forecast that there would be more rigid regulations in respect to the attendance of matrons.

"The whole question," said he, going back to his first point, "is whether we should put this all in a statute. If you say, 'You shall not take your child to this theatre because there is something there you shouldn't see,' I am afraid you are going to have a rush to go to that theatre. There is some cussedness in human nature that when you say there is something you mustn't have, everybody wants it. When the O. T. A. said, 'There is something you shall not drink,' every one wanted it.

"But, to speak seriously," he went on, "I believe that this could all be worked out." In conclusion, he read excerpts from the regulations to cover the proposed system.

Mr. Pinard suggested that, in the absence of Mr. Belanger, the bill stand, and to this the Premier agreed.

RESEARCH PLANS BEING ADVANCED

Universities and Industries Will Benefit From Central Laboratories.

OTTAWA. Ont., March 31—(Canadian Press).—Centralized industrial research, made possible by the decision of the Dominion Government to establish national research laboratories, as well as to Canadian industries.

Co-operating with the National Research Council, the univerisities have for the past 10 years voluntarily given over their laboratories and their staffs to investigations outside the strict limits of academic research. The step finally decided upon at Ottawa, on the insistent representation of National Research Council, means that these facilities will once more be liberated for the service of pure science.

The council will continue the bursaries and scholarships with which since its creation, it has stimulated the training of research specialists, to supplant foreign-trained experts in Canadian industries. The fitting of scientists for research work is of the utmost importance to Canada, whose industries are still in an infant stage of development, it is pointed out.

The National Research Council has awarded 344 scholarships, as the result of which 155 Canadians complete their training in their own country, almost all of them finding employment in Canada. Before the inauguration of these awards it was necessary for the Canadian student to go abroad to complete his training with the result that he usually found employment abroad and was lost to his own country. American institutions of learning give 2,000 such scholarships annually, the majority of which are open to Canadian students.

One of the great needs of today is an increased number of such scholarships, so that Canadian universities may maintain graduate schools for training in science and research of sufficiently high standard to eliminate the necessity of the most brilliant graduate going abroad to complete his education and possibly taking his valuable knowledge permanently out of the Dominion. Such graduate schools will provide the technicians required by the universities and the government service, as well as the national industries.

Another important feature of the council's work during its ten years of activity has been awarding of grants to aid special researches. One hundred and twenty researches have been made possible by this policy, nearly half a million dollars being made possible by this policy, nearly half a million dollars being so expended. These researches were carried on at the laboratories of 10 universities and 11 government departments. Their results were of incalculable benefit to several important industries, notably the mining industry, the problem of rock crushing being one which was attacked with particular success.

There are, however, a number of pressing Canadian problems, principally industrial, the solution of which it has been impossible for the council to attempt. Universities and colleges are primarily institutions for the dissemination of knowledge and the members of their staffs cannot be expected to undertake investigations not closely allied with their academic work. Researchers of an industrial character require laboratories fitted with special equipment not needed in purely scientific research and it is these requirements which the national laboratories to be established at Ottawa will meet. Incidentally, they will free the university labs. for the academic purposes for which they are designed.

How many weeds are you sowing?

Recently one ounce of Alfalfa seed was found to contain approximately 900 weed seeds, which would have resulted in the distribution of almost a million weeds to every acre sown.

And such examples as this are not uncommon. Forestall the danger of ruined crops now! Take every precaution in selecting and cleaning your seed—because on them principally depends the ultimate success of your crops.

Under the Weed Control Act the destruction of noxious weeds is compulsory. Let us co-operate to end this menace.

VIEWS WITH ALARM WOMEN'S ADVANCE

Principal Hutton Fears They Will Soon Run College Athletic Dinners.

TORONTO, March 31.—(Canadian Press).—Picturing himself as "a Victorian, a die-hard, and a last-ditcher," and as "a voice in the wilderness", Professor Hutton, in his valedictory address as Principal of University College, deprecated the trend of affairs today. He viewed with alarm the increasingly prominent part women were playing in athletics. "All the world is in the melting pot", he asserted. The time was not far distant when women would be running the University College athletic dinners.

FAMOUS WRITINGS TO BE AUCTIONED

Alice in Wonderland Manuscript and Diary on Shakespeare on the List.

LONDON, March 31 — (Canadian Press).—Alice, who went through Wonderland, and encountered the Mock Turtle, the Mad Hatter, and Walrus and the Carpenter, and all that great and curious and merry company, has consented to sell the story of her adventures. In other words the manuscript of Lewis Carrol's immortal fairy tale will be offered here at auction next month. The sale will be on the instructions of Mrs. Alice Pleasance Hargreaves, for whom it was written privately by the author with no idea of publication at all. The MS. was beautifully written, illustrated with pen and ink sketches and decorative headings, and bound into a little book. As first edition copies of "Alice in Wonderland" now fetch high prices, the manuscript is sure to provoke very high bidding.

A large collection of first editions and manuscripts of Thomas Hardy is the feature of the library of the late Clement Shorter, who was an assiduous collector. The Hardy manu- He Killed," and there is a great deal scrips include the verses on "The Man of Johnsoniana and letters of Dickens, Barrie, Shaw and others.

Another notable offer at this sale will be a diary which contains the earliest written account of how Shakespeare met his death.

This diary, written by Rev. John Ward, Vicar of Stratford-on-Avon, within 25 years of Shakespeare's death, is being sold by the Medical Society of London for the purpose of references to Shakespeare it states that out of the proceeds of his plays he "spent at the rate of £1,000 a year," and after a merry meeting with Drayton and Ben Jonhson, "at which it seems he drank too much, he died of a feavour there contracted."

Airplane Aids Swedish Stork

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March, 31.—Modern aviation has relieved the dread isolation of the remote country districts in Sweden, and the ambulance planes have saved many lives in distant and lonely parts of the country by transporting sick persons to hospitals in record time, but a new use for airplanes was inaugurated recently, when a midwife was transported by air from the mainland to the remote island of Salthol-men, which had been cut off from communication with the coast through difficult ice conditions. A woman on the island who was giving birth to a child, was attended to by the midwife, and everything came off happily. The child turned out to be a girl and the happy parents decided to commemorate the peculiar circumstances under which their daughter was born by giving her the name of "Propella" and by asking the pilot who brought the midwife to act as godfather at the baptism.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 31.—After a brief taste of summer weather, the mercury has swung to the other extreme and the town is in the grip of a snow storm as severe as any of the season. Although the snowfall has not been heavy, the wind has piled some deep drifts in the sheltered places. Merchants who had stored their snow shovels for the season were busy last night clearing their sidewalks before the morning workmen make the task more difficult. While the hockey game was in progress last night, the snow driving against the metal roof gave the scene an atmosphere of real winter. The northeast wind has made outside work decidedly difficult and in some cases, operations were suspended temporarily. With the younger crowd, the cold weather is extremely popular since it affords them another opportunity to skate before they store the blades for the summer and begin to overhaul last season's summer attire with an eye to repairs

NO BETTER MEDICINE FOR LITTLE ONES

Is What Thousands of Mothers Say of Baby's Own Tablets.

A medicine for the baby or growing child—one that the mother can feel assured is absolutely safe as well as efficient—is found in Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are praised by thousands of mothers throughout the country. These mothers have found by actual experience that there is no other medicine for little ones to equal them. Once a mother has used them for her children she will use nothing else. Concerning them Mrs. Charles Hutt, Tancook Island, N.S., writes:—"I have ten children, the baby being just six months old. I have used Baby's Own Tablets for them for the past 20 years and can truthfully say that I know of no better medicine for little ones. I always keep a box of the Tablets in the house and would advise all other mothers to do so."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or will be mailed upon receipt of price, 25 cents per box, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CAMPBELLFORD GRADS WIN 16-6

ONLY ONE PENALTY.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 31.—Campbelford High School Grads reverted to their school boy days for an hour or so last night and turned in a school boy score of 16-6 against the Hastings team. There was a surprisingly small crowd present to watch one of the cleanest and fastest games played here this season. The only penalty came in the second period when Horkins drew a lone minute for tripping. This marks the game as the one with the least penalties and highest score of any game played here during the winter. To the crowd who witnessed the game, the score came as a sort of surprise after the same team having defeated the Grads to the tune of 8-4 in Hastings.

The play was fast for the first two periods but when Campbellford scored the thirteenth goal, a jinx seemed to come over them and the visitors rattled in three goals, seemingly at will. For a time it looked as though Scriver's talisman was going to deliver the goods after all. Tommy Stewart handled the game and insisted on clean hockey. His demand for fast play was not as insistent and during the final period, the fans howled lustily for speed and to "play hockey." Thus the entire game was more or less reversed. The local team usually gets going at their best speed during the last period, and on occasions when they have suffered defeat, the supporters have consoled themselves with the thought that the tables would have been turned if the local boys had only "got going earlier."

Another feature was the fact that Hastings brought only the necessary six sixty-minute men. And at the end of the game these same men were hitting a lively pace. At first they appeared to be just a little too slow for the furious pace that the local players set. Rathwell, left wing, played a consistently fast game and accounted for two of the goals in the last period. For Campbellford, Runions proved his uncanny ability to check and scored two goals in the second period. Horkins played his usual brilliant game and Ingram's solo rushes which usually meant business won him cheers from the sidelines. Ibey's game was up to its usual high par, and his cool thinking saved dangerous situations. In the third period, both Ibey and Horkins suffered a relapse and took their time about all their plays. Referee Stewart watched them closely and before he decided to take action, the boys were going strong again.

In the first period, Stevenson scored the goal for the visitors while Horkins, Ingram, Ibey and Blute each scored one for the home team. The period ended four to one for the Grads. In the second period Stevenson scored another goal for Hastings and Campbellford tallied eight times. Of the eight Horkins scored two, Ibey three, Runlons two and Blute one. The score at the end ofthe perod was 12-2, In the third period, each team counted four times, bringing the score up to 16-6. For Hastings, Rathwell scored two and Fenton two. For the Grads, Horkins scored two and Fred Ingram two.

Although the scores were exceptionally high, some of the most brilliant hockey of the season was played by both teams. Combinations were the regular order, and only an occasional solo rush was attempted, and these mostly by Ingram and Horkins. Even while some of these were lone plays, the other players on the forward line were in positions to receive passes had the puck carrier found it necessary or advisable to do so. Ibey's score on a pass from Horkins was one of the fastest plays seen here this year.

Both teams played their positions well. Any fan who craves good, clean hockey was afforded a wonderful opportunity last night. It is some time since a game with only one penalty and that for only one minute for a minor offence, has been played on Campbellford ice. This fact alone proves that the game was exceptionally clean. The teams::

Birthday Honor For Prince Henry

LONDON, March 31 (A.P.).—The Official Gazette announces that the King has conferred new titles on Prince Henry. He becomes Baron Culloden, Earl of Ulster and Duke of Gloucester. The new titles were given to Prince Henry in commemoration of his 28th birthday to-day. Hereafter the Prince will be known as the Duke of Gloucester. This is a revival of a title of great antiquity, although it has been extinct since 1834. Robert, the natural son of Henry I., was created Earl of Gloucester in 1122, and there have been Dukes of Gloucester, all members of the Royal Famil, during the four and a half centuries between 1385 and 1835.

BRIGADE CALLED TO CHIMNEY FIRE

Delay Caused By Person Ringing in Alarm Not Staying To Direct Men.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 31.— The fire alarm which was turned in from ward three at twenty minutes past one yesterday afternoon proved to be a chimney fire in a residence on the river road close to the edge of the town. The brigade made its usual prompt response and went immediately to the box from which the call had been sent. There was no one there nor could any sign of fire be seen by any of the men on the truck. Acting on past experiences, the chief ordered the truck to turn south and proceed toward Thirty Foot Lane where chimney fires had been reported recently. Just as the truck got under way a boy came running up and hailed the chief to say that the fire was up the River Road. With all possible speed the truck was turned about and headed in the right direction. Upon arrival, it was found that the blaze in the chimney had been extinguished and the brigade was not required.

There was, of course, some delay in arriving at the scene of the fire. This was due to the fact that the person who turned in the alarm failed to remain at the box to direct the truck. This course is strongly urged by the fire chief as often the blaze is small and not easily noticed from a distance. The firemen state that it is the duty of the person who rings the alarm from the box to remain at the box or leave some responsible person there to direct the truck as it approaches. Any person telephoning a fire alarm should be sure to give the exact location and be assured that the message is understood. This is the opinion of the fire chief, who is anxious to have his crew operate with a maximum efficiency. Once the alarm is sent in, it is a matter of mere seconds till the big red truck, with its crew of firemen clinging to the rails as they clamber into their coats, dashes out of the fire hall and is on its way to the fire. If they have been told exactly where to go, or if there is a person at the box to direct them when they arrive there, there will be no delay on the part of the brigade.

LIFE TERMS GIVEN FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Two Men Found Guilty of Killing East Flamboro Farmer.

HAMILTON, Ont., March 31. — Tried for murder and convicted of manslaughter, Jacon Sczepanuk and Joseph Deczuk were sentenced to life imprisonment by Chief Justice Meredith in Supreme Court late yesterday afternoon. The jury went out at 4.10 o'clock after hearing evidence all day, and the verdict was returned at 5.15 o'clock. The pair brutally assaulted Mike Yonash, East Flamboro farmer, on February 28, after a drinking party in his home and he died in a few moments. Found outside in an unconscious condition, the police were told that the unfortunate man fell from his back door and suffered his fatal injuries when he struck a wagon wheel. The post-mortem examination revealed that several ribs were broken and vital organs ruptured.

When the jury returned with its decision it was announced that the charge of murder had been reduced to that of manslaughter and a conviction registered in each case. His Lordship asked them if they had anything to say, after which he passed sentence.

Widow Implicates Brother.

No new evidence was offered at the trial yesterday, the testimony being largely a repetition of that produced at the Waterdown inquest and the preliminary trial in County Police Court. Mrs. Yonash, widow of the deceased, was the chief witness, and her tale implicated her own brother, Joe Deczuk.

Dr. Deadman, city pathologist, who performed the post-mortem examination, told of the terrible injuries sustained by the victim. Ribs were fractured, the splintered fragments rupturing other organs, and the skull was fractured severely enough to cause a hemorrhage of the brain.

Young Women Undertake Work For Indian Hospital at Munsey.

The March meeting of the Young Women's Christian Temperance Union was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Kenmure, 798 George street. Material was distributed among the members to make clothing for the children in the Munsey Indian Hospital in Ontario. After the business, Miss Pearl Carruthers favored the audience with a piano solo. A chapter from Miss M. Corkindale's book was then given by Miss Miriam L. Richardson telling of the harmful effect of beer and alcohol on the human system. By experiments conducted by notable medical doctors and scientists, the book says, proofs have been given which show conclusively that those who drink beer cannot accomplish nearly as much work as non-drinkers. Dr. Saleeby, the noted English doctor, says "beer is nothing more than poisoned water." The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Micks, 425 Stewart street.

Mr. Alfred McEwen will give a violin solo at the sacred concert in the Regent Theatre Sunday night.

WOMEN'S PAGES HAVE CHANGED

Style of Writing Different Now—Lady Reporters Necessary.

DO GOOD WORK.

TORONTO, Ont., March 31.—(Canadian Press)—The change in the style of writing, and the advance in her profession made by the feminine reporter in Canada today, is summed up in an article in the "Mail and Empire", anent the visit to Toronto of Ellen Terry, in her prime.

"The woman's page was only bursting from its chrysalis. The society editor revelled in long lists of those present, and description of gowns. The society editress did her work well enough. She was not a writer—or if she tried to be she made not much of a fist of her task. Ellen Terry was interviewed, but the result was bald and uninteresting. There were no women reporters then. Now there are plenty of them; they are necessary—and they know how to write. If they had arrived a little sooner there would have been some nighly interesting stuff written about Ellen Terry, for she was bright in conversation and possessed more humor than the average Englishwoman. She was well worth listening to; but the society editresses who met her let her brilliant talk go unnoticed, and printed descriptions of her clothes and banalties about Canadian weather and similar rubbish. But it was the style of the day; for the clever woman journalist who writes for both men and women had not yet arrived, albeit she was on her way."

LYRICS OF LIFE

WHAT HAVE I DONE TODAY?

What have I done today to make
A better world for someone's sake?
What child is happier for a smile,
What man for comradeship awhile?
What woman today has found in me
A touch of knightly chivalry?
There are such chances all the way
To serve, what have I done today?

For, if I cannot think of one
Good deed my busy hands have done,
Cannot recall a single word
The hearts of sadness should have heard,
If I have been so much concerned
With my affairs I never turned
To answer someone's sudden call,
What matter if I lived at all?

Oh, I may dream of things to do
When I have put my own dream through
But heaven does not count as such
The gifts of those who have too much.
But how God loves—for God is just—
The beggar who divides a crust.
Tomorrow is too far away
To count. What have I done today?

DRESS
By MARY MARSHALL

The kid glove shown above has applique of suede in different color embroidered with rhinestones. There is a small purse to match in moire with the same design in rhinestones. Below this is a short glove of washable suede in beige stitched with brown with gold slide fastening. Then a sport glove with patent fastening. The glace kid glove below is trimmed with printed kid.

One mentions the possibilty of black gloves in a whisper. One swallow does not make it summer, and the fact that here and there one notices a fashionable woman wearing black gloves as part of gray or beige or black and white ensemble does not mean that the fashion for black gloves is surely coming.

In Paris the fad for black gloves was possibly started by a popular actress, who wears a beige frock with a black scarf and black elbow gloves. One must bear in mind that two years ago a few women adopted black stockings. Very sheer black stockings still appear—but the light-toned stocking is still the usual choice.

Well-dressed women are divided into two camps so far as gloves go. A distinguished minority will have nothing to do with ornate gloves of any sort, clinging tenaciously to the slip-on glove for all occasions. The necessary tone of "elegance" may be gained by the fineness of the kid, the immaculate condition of the glove, its perfect fit and the careful blending of the tone with the color scheme of the costume with which it is worn.

The great improvements that have been made lately in rendering glove kids of all sorts washable is something for which women should be thankful. And doubtless the fact that washable gloves are so satisfactory now accounts for the long-continued vogue for gloves of light tones.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

SUNDAY, APRIL 1, 1928.

This is rather a threatening day in planetary direction, according to astrology, which finds reason for the April fool tradition in the direction of the stars.

There is a sign making for misrepresentation and double-dealing and it is well not to be too sure of one's own probity while this rule prevails.

Neptune is in an aspect supposed to make it easy to deceive and for this reason the player of tricks is lucky under this configuration.

This is not a day for visiting persons whose friendship it is important to cement, for there may be an inclination to reveal one's weakest points.

Vanity is supposed to be accentuated under this sway which affects men and women equally, causing an excess of egotism.

Ministers who preach under this planetary government may discover difficulty in fixing the attention of congregations on spiritual subjects.

Self-sufficiency and the sort of independence that ignores spiritual things may be evident in the trend of thought today.

This configuration is likely to encourage political ambitions and to inspire candidates with an inclination toward abuse of opponents.

All the aspects appear to presage for the summer a period of unequalled bitter political contest in which women will find little chance to exert their influence, the seers foretell.

Trade should be good and commercial conditions improving it is announced by the seers, but there may be much unemployment.

Great forces at work in the world, it is prognosticated, and they will bring about decided benefits even though the opposite is feared.

Interest in banking and stocks should be strong under this direction of the stars which presages international conferences of far-reaching significance.

Persons whose birthdate it is may experience a year of strange changes. They will find politics perilous.

Children probably will be gifted.

MONDAY, APRIL 2, 1928.

Again the stars are threatening according to astrology which finds the rule indicates uncertainties and futilities wherever efforts is put forth.

This is an inauspicious day for seeking employment or for attempting any favorable change in one's conditions.

It is well not to trust one's judgment today and the wise will avoid all who desire to sell anything. Real estate agents may be able to unload undesirable land under this direction of the stars.

While the seers counsel extreme conservatism in making investments at this time they declare that every man should secure a share of real property and warn of a time when what is easily attained now may be out of reach.

Under this planetary government poise should be cultivated for quarrels will be easily precipitated.

The rule is not propitious for those who desire to maintain domestic harmony and presages increase of divorces.

It has been foretold that marriage would be a subject for widespread discussion and this forecast has been fulfilled, but now a new leader or teacher in social science is to arise and he will advocate drastic reforms.

Turkey now comes under a favorable sway that may bring the country close to England and even to America, astrologers announce.

Jupiter is in a place presaging much discussion of labor problems and many satisfactory agreements or compacts in various part of the world.

Big fires prognosticated some time ago and since then most destructive will be followed by other conflagrations in cities of various sizes, it is forecast.

Persons whose birthdate it is probably will receive important papers of letters in the coming year.

Children born on this day may be subtle, keen and fond of detail. The subjects of this sign have extreme possibilities for good or bad.

LADIES THANK MAN WHO BACKED CAUSE

Letters of Thanks Come From 244,000 Women—Minister Said 15.

QUEBEC, Que., March 31.—(Canadian Press).—When Hon. Mr. Perron, Minister of Roads, declared that "he did not believe there were more than 15 women in the Province of Quebec who wanted feminine suffrage—"and the handful of women who ask for suffrage do so against the wish of the great mass of women, making some noise and attacking public men wo do not agree with them which doubtless was their right"—telegrams of appreciation of the counter-stand taken by Hon. Dr. Du Tremblay were sent to the latter by four influential organizations of the province.

The message wired by the Montreal Women's Club to Hon. Mr. Du Tremblay was as follows: "One thousand and nine grateful women thank you for your support." The Provincial Franchise Committee's message reads: "Please accept hearty thanks from 23,000 unenfranchised women."

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SEA LION

Climbing out of the clothes basket of their airship, the balloons of which were soft and flabby like dish rags, Uncle Wiggily, Baby Bunty and Vallie found themselves on what seemed to be a large, flat cake of ice or snow. Yet it wasn't exactly flat, for there were hills and hummocks all about, with little valleys in between, almost like the rolling fields and meadows around Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow at home. But there were no green trees, grass or weeds and no colored flowers. All about was dazzling white. "Yes, this must be the North Pole," said Uncle Wiggily looking about and noticing, in the distance, some animals moving about on the ice and snow.

"I don't see any pole," said Bunty.

"Nor I," said Vallie. "If this is the

"Hello!" roared the big animal.

North Pole somebody must have chopped it down to make a fire and I wish I was near that fire for I'm cold, and she began to shiver in spite of her fur coat.

"It is cold," said Uncle Wiggily, also shivering a little. "It is quite a change from the heat of a volcano to the cold of the North Pole. But if we can find Eski he may be able to tell us where we can get warm."

"Who is Eski?" asked Vallie.

Uncle Wiggily told her about the little Eskimo rabbit boy who had come on a visit to Woodland around Christmas time. Eski lived at the North Pole and when he visited Uncle Wiggily the Eskimo rabbit showed Mr. Longears how to make igloos, or houses, out of blocks of ice and snow.

But Eski had hopped back to his own country, where now Uncle Wiggily and the bunny girls had landed after traveling in Italy and Holland.

"It's funny about the North Pole," went on Bunty. "Do you s'pose Unki Wig," she asked, "that somebody chopped it up for firewood?"

"Oh, no," answered Uncle Wiggily, "You know there isn't really any North Pole in the shape of a log of wood."

"There isn't?" cried Bunty in surprise.

"No. It is just a sort of make believe. In the geographies the far ends, or tips of our earth, are called "poles"—the North Pole and the South Pole—though that doesn't really mean there is a pole stuck in the ground, like a fence post."

"I always thought it did," said Bunty.

"Well, now you have learned something," went on Uncle Wiggily. "The North and South poles are imaginary, but they mean the two farthest apart points on the earth. And we're at the North end."

"I wish we were at the South end!" murmured Vallie, her teeth chattering as she snuggled close to Uncle Wiggily. "It would be warm down South—you always said so, Unki Wig."

"Some parts of the South are warm, but not the South Pole," said Mr. Longears. "There is perhaps more ice at the South Pole than there is at the North. Only around the middle of the earth, near the Equator, as it is called, is it always warm. But I must do something to get us all warm, even if we are at the North Pole. I wish we could find Eski. He would help us build an igloo."

"I think I hear someone coming," spoke Bunty in a low voice.

They all listened. They could hear a crunching sound in the soft ice and snow as if someone was walking over the crust which had been a little bit melted in the sun.

For the sun shines at the North Pole. It shines all day long for a certain season, never going down even at what, to us, would be midnight. The day is twenty-four hours long at the Poles, for several months of the year. And then, of course, comes the long night, when the sun is never seen at all. Then the night is twenty-four hours long.

Uncle Wiggily told the bunny girls this as they listened to the crunching of the ice. Eagerly Vallie and Bunty looked over the top of a nearby hummock to greet the Eskimo rabbit boy when he should show himself. But, instead, the head of a big animal was thrust over the hummock of ice.

"Hello!" roared this big animal who had a tail and two flippers in front instead of feet. He had two long teeth growing out of his mouth. "Hello," he roared again. "Who are you?"

"I'm Uncle Wiggily!" answered the bunny gentleman. "Who are you?"

"A sea lion!" was the roaring answer, and Bunty and Vallie ran to hide behind Mr. Longears. But they need not have been afraid for the sea lion kindly smiled at them.

Cambridge Wins Rowing Classic by 10 Lengths

TIPPERARY TIM WINS FAMOUS GRAND NATIONAL

American Horse "Billy Barton" Was Only Other Entry to Finish Race.

PLAYS 100 TO 1.

Heavy Downpour of Rain Made the Course Doubly Difficult.

AINTREE, March 31 (A.P.).—Tipperary Tim, an unknown and rank outsider, won the Grand National Steplechase yesterday. The hundred to one shot galloped past Billy Barton, one of the favorites, and the great American threat, as Billy fell at the last barrier, and came home first, one of the two horses to finish out of forty-two starters. It was the most remarkable Grand National run in the event's 89 years of history.

Billy Barton, a crack jumper from the blue grass Kentucky country, had a wide lead over Tipperary Tim, when the two survivors of the four and a half miles of treacherous racing terrain, came into the last lap. In the shadow of the packed stands, Billy Cullinan pressed his mount for the last barrier, an ordinary jump. But the feet of the American hope slipped a muddy puddle; down he went with Cullinan, asprawl beside him. A moan came from the stands. In a moment Billy Barton regained his feet and Cullinan threw himself again into the saddle but Tipperary Tim, the 10-year-old gelding, had overtaken and passed the fallen idol. Tim's amateur rider, J. Dutton, carefully guided him over the last leap and urged him now ahead of the recovered Kentucky horse to the finish line to gain glory for H. S. Kenyon, his owner, and keep the race in England.

Course Slippery

The horrific carnage of the always difficult and dangerous Grand National course was laid to the condition of the ground, which was heavy and slippery due to recent rains. The big field resulted in numerous jams at difficult jumps. General conditions were such that numbers of horses toppled at the first few jumps and the casualties between Beecher's Brook, the sixth obstacle, and Valentine Brook, which is the ninth jump on the first lap, were the greatest in history. Only nine of the field survived the first round, all of the invaders, save Billy Barton, the Pride of Howard Bruce of Baltimore. Kissing the Mud, Bright's Boy and other favorites were caught in a crowd at Valentine Brook, where a torn fence five feet high and three feet wide is flanked by a natural stream. Many fell here, but there were no serious injuries. An unprecedented number of horses fell over themselves and each other at the Canal Turn between brooks.

The race gave the throng that always attends the Grand National plenty to think about and to cheer over. Among the distinguished visitors who occupied boxes were the King and Queen of Afghanistan, who were guests of Lord Sefton. Nearly three hundred thousand people filled the stand and surrounded the course despite the threatening aspect of the weather and intermitten rain and hail.

After one false start, they were off. Billy Barton broke the tape in front and gave courage to his supporters on his 33 to 1 price. Immediately the tumbles began as scores of the hopeful thousands saw their hopes go aglimmering, their choices down in the fierce struggle, slipping in the mud, falling, missing the hazardous jumps. The strong and lucky horses scrambled around to the the stands again, among them Tipperary Tim, De Combat, Sir K. Frazier's Ardeen, W. B. Duckworth's Great Span, Count Jumilhae's Maugelonne and Lord Erdman's May King. All the favorites, including Sprig, which won the race last year, were down and out.

Answering the bellow of his supporters, Billy Barton put on a burst of speed, passing the stand, which carried him into the lead with De Combat, Great Span, May King and Tipperary Tim. They swept away on the lead ground which proved disastrous for all save the gelding and the Kentucky horse.

The exultation of the American contingent knew no bounds when Billy Barton appeared to the stands again apparently certain of victory. Then their hopes, raised so high, sank to despair when he fell. Again they mounted when after his trip or slip and fall, he gathered his four legs under him and with blood trickling down his neck from a badly bumped nose, felt his rider in the saddle and set off in pursuit of Tipperary Tim. But the race was won by the strength and stamina of the English horse and the skill of his amateur pilot.

The unusual finish yesterday recalled a somewhat similar ending in 1911, when Glanside won all by himself from a fied of 25 starters. Complications have arisen among the betting fraternity inasmuch as there was no third place winner to decide many wagers.

Pools Undistributed

Many thousand of pounds remain as undistributed from the nation-wide pools. The $200,000 Liverpool Sweepstakes reserved large sums for the fourth place winner as well as substantial prizes for all horses that finished. No way has been found to distribute the surplus.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Ask Racing Classic Made Less Dangerous

LONDON, Mar. 31.— (Canadian Press.)—The running of the Grand National Steeplechase, the great Liverpool classic, is to come before the House of Commons. The Rev. Herbert Dunnice, Labor member for the Consett division of Durham, and president of the Liverpool Free Church Council in 1914, will ask the Home Secretary, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, in the Commons on Tuesday if some way cannot be found to make the race less dangerous.

In view of the fact that "of forty horses competing in the Grand National, only two were able to finish the race," he asks the Home Secretary "whether he has considered the advisability of taking such action as may be necessary to prevent obstacles from being used in this and similar races of such a character as are likely to endanger the lives and limbs of the animals taking part."

LIGHT BLUES LEAD ALL WAY

Cambridge Crew Leaps Ahead From Start, Rowing Splendidly.

LOSERS SEEM RAGGED.

PUTNEY, England, March 31 (Canadian Press).—Leading all the way, Cambridge University to-day scored an easy victory of ten lengths over Oxford in their eightieth annual boat race on the Thames. The Cambridge crew covered the four mile course in 20 minutes and 25 seconds, not threatening the record time of 18 minutes and 29 seconds, set by Oxford in 1911. To-day's victory was the Light Blue's thirty-ninth. Oxford has won forty and one race was tied.

The Light Blues started off at 38 strokes to Oxford's 36 and soon had their shell in front. Gradually they forged ahead until open water showed between the crews at one and a half miles. Still keeping their stroke above Oxford, Cambridge swept along, gradually increasing their advantage, their steady, splendid rhythm contrasting with Oxford, which appeared ragged at the three-mile mark. At that time Cambridge was three lengths ahead. Oxford made a gallant attempt to catch the leaders at Barne's Bridge, but only lost more distance as a result. They saw their ancient rivals for the first time when they paddled to the bank to disembark.

The crews got away after Oxford won the toss and chose the Middlesex side. At Hammersmith Bridge, approximately a mile and three quarters from the start, Cambridge had opened up a lead of two lengths. The condition of the water was good, there being a fair following wind, which however, made the course choppy at the bends. Cambridge had been favored to win, the odds being three to one.

Rowing enthusiasts gathered early at vantage points along the two path and on the Putney, Hammersmith, and Barne's bridges. Not all of the spectators were on the ground. Several airplanes soared over the course in special flights, and than than a score of persons saw the race from these aerial grandstands.

PUTNEY, Eng., March 31 (Associated Press). — On the eve of the eightieth annual Oxford-Cambridge boat race, expert opinion on the chances of the two crews seems to have settled into agreement with popular sentiment in backing Cambridge as favorite.

The Cantabs enter to-day's struggle over the approximately 4-mile course with the prestige of overwhelming success since the war. Only once in the last eight years have the men of Oxford triumphed on the river. That was in 1923, when the Oxonians were stroked to victory by W. P. Mellen. The Light Blues now have four straight victories to their credit.

The Cambridge crew is believed to have greater power, while racing experts figure they pull in greater harmony. Their individual experience and prowess also is rated slightly higher than that of the Oxonians.

Oxford has an advantage in a veteran coxswain who knows the crooked Thames course by the sad experiences of the past two years, while Al Sulley, at the Cambridge tiller, will be in his first big race.

The last day's practice on the course where the annual classic will be viewed to-day by hundreds of thousands of spectators, was confined to light rowing, with some attention given to quick starting. As the rival crews left the river, coaches left statements on the condition of their charges, both saying they were "fine."

The forecast is for wet and windy weather conditions, which may have much to do with the result. The crew which wins the toss will have the choice of position, thereby gaining the advantage of better protection from winds and rough water.

To-day's race will begin at one of the earliest hours since the first race in 1829, because of the time of high tide.

The starting time is set for 9.45 a.m., so that the shells moving upstream from Putney will get the benefit of the flood tide, which reaches its height soon after the finish at Mortlake.

WARNS AGAINST BEING TOO SURE

Expects Athletics To Be Hard To Beat If Pitching Staff Holds Out.

MUST HUSTLE TO WIN.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 31.—As Miller Huggins sees the 1928 pennant race in the American League, the Yankees are strong enough to win and should finish in front. But Mr. Huggins will not predict they will. He regards his players as strong enough collectively to beat out seven other clubs, but he is none too sure that they will not be beaten by themselves.

"The toughest opposition which the Yankees will encounter in the coming race", said Huggins today, "will be from the Yankees themselves. It is the tendency of a successful ball club to take too much for granted and to believe that it can pull itself together at any time, in spite of whatever reverses it encounters.

"Experience teaches that this is a fallacy, but we all pay too little attention to experience. For that reason, I hesitate to predict success for my ball club until I know thoroughly what will be the reaction among the players to reverses.

Fortunate Last Year.

"That big string of victories which we ran up last year was impressive then, and a handicap now. They may have cause the players to feel that the same line-up figures this year to run rough-shod over all opposition as it did last year.

"I feel that we were fortunate in many ways last year, particularly in having Ruth, Gehrig, Lazzeri and Combs in practically every game of the year and our best pitchers always available.

"It would be foolish to expect such good luck to prevail year after year. When injuries come to stars the club may not be able to hold up as well as the players think .....

"To much confidence has wrecked great ball clubs of the past and it will be the end of Yankee success, as well, if the players get the idea that they have only to go through the regular season and then cut up a World's series' melon.

Must Hustle to Win.

"It required a lot of hustling to win in both 1926 and 1927, and unless the hustling is continued through 1928 the Yankees will not repeat. They positively cannot loaf and win.

"There can be no discounting the strength of the Athletics and Senators. Both are strong clubs, well enough equipped in every department to make the Yankees battle all the way to the leadership. The addition of Speaker to the club will improve the attack, though I am not particularly impressed with the defensive angle when Cobb and Speaker are both out there.

"They have been great players and both will cause plenty of trouble for opposing pitchers, but the Mackmen will swim or sing through their pitching. If the boxmen start the season in good trim and carry through, the Yankees will have to win close to 100 games to take the flag.

Senators Are Strong.

"Washington has some young pitchers who are coming along and the deal for Gaston was a great one for the Senators. Sisler, too, may be a big help. I look for Harris's team to be in the thick of the fight all the way.

"Detroit carries a lot of punching power, but the club will have to show me better pitching before I can regard it as a pennant menace. At the same time it is well to remember that you never can tell when some young pitcher will come through with a remarkable year.

"I do not regard Chicago, Cleveland, Boston or St. Louis as likely to be factors in flag chase. Chicago has the pitching but is not well balanced otherwise. Cleveland, too, has some good pitching but the infield is not up to requirements and the outfield has never been strong since Spenker left.

Browns Seventh.

"The makeover of the St. Louis club leaves the Browns something of a puzzle but I cannot figure them finishing better than seventh. Nor would it surprise me if Boston, with the natural improvement to be expected from its young pitchers, should beat out the Browns."

Inside Sportin' Dope—By a Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, this is the year for the West to howl and I guess out in the section where men is men and they ain't got no use for cent piece they're doing that same thing, and how! The westerners got a right to yell, seeing the Regina Monarchs grabbed the jr. Canadian title and the University of Man. come along right after and copped the sr. silverware. The O.h.a. wasn't represented in neither finals, and Mister Bill Hewitt'll probably say it couldn't be helped, seeing he couldn't be looking after the Grads while they won the Olympic serious and getting the O.h.a. teams in the final playoffs at the same time. Well, we've win our share of championships down this way, and it don't hurt none at all to see the 2 mugs go west. So far as Peterborough anyway is concerned they're likely to stay out there quite some time. It's all right to sing "Let a Smile Be Your Umbrella on a Rain, Rain, Rainy Day," but looking at next winter's campaign from this distance a bird can't help being a little doubtful.

And just to make the gloom complete, Mister Sporting Editor, let me tell you that the outlook for sr. baseball here this summer ain't so darned rosy that the club has ordered a shelf built for the Central League cup. Taking the census of the material right now, it looks like we're going to lose 4 or 5 of last year team, owing to change residence, new jobs, etc., and if they's been any ball players moved in they ain't been doing no talking about it. Some birds claim the town is chuch full of players ready for sr. company. I hope they're right, because the youngsters is going to get plenty chance to show this year, and if about 4 of them don't make the grade, well, you can right your own ticket.

Some young feller what writes for the Oshawa Times didn't seem to appreciate what I sez last week about American ball players imported into the Motor Town. This guy declares that Oshawa ain't to blame because automobile workers what come from Flint to Oshawa happens to be ball players. That's his story, and he's going to stick to it, but I could tell that bird an interesting yarn about a coupla ball players what didn't happen to be motor car makers what was invited to visit the Motor City about the same time as Santa Claus was doing his stuff. The same went to Oshawa, but they didn't stick there, and what was said and done when they was there would make snappy reading for the O.b.a.a. executive. I ain't going to broadcast any more about them, but if that Oshawa dope mixer wants names and pictures let him drop me a line. I just want to let him see I know my spring seeds. If the Oshawa team can put all them new players over the Central League executive and the O.b.a.a., well, it's all right with me.

Just in passing, Mac, I see Mister Howie Morens gets the trophy for the most valuable player in the big money loop. That shows the boys what write hockey around the circuit know their stuff, for the Stratford streak, as I call him, got 123 sporting writer votes outa 140. The other 17 better go back to writing obituaries—they must be dead from the neck up if they couldn't see Mister Morenz lay over the rest like the Grads did over Switzerland.

That seems to be all that's bothering me this week, Mister Sporting Editor, so adios.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

Souminen Leads Marathon Runners

PALMA, N.M., March 31.—(Canadian Press.)—Leading the cross country foot racers across a 38 mile stretch, Arne Souminen of Detroit, yesterday increased his lead over the 91 other plodders left in the long trek. He covered the distance from Moriarty to Palma in 6:03:30. His elapsed time is 161:31:35.

Second place in yesterday's lap went to Pat Demarr, Los Angeles, who set the pace for the major part of the day's jaunt. His time was 6:21:39. His elapsed time is 251:27:32. James Pollard, Reno, Nev., finished third in 6:24:30. Elapsed time 223:47:35.

RANGERS WILL MEET BRUINS

First Game of Two Game Series to Decide American Championship.

ON SUNDAY NIGHT.

NEW YORK, Mar. 31 (Canadian Press).—The first game of the series of two games for the American group title of the National Hockey League will be played here Sunday night when the New York Rangers, conquerors of the Pittsburgh Pirates in the group semi-final clash with the Boston Bruins at Madison Square Garden. The second game will be played in Boston on Tuesday night, the winner to meet the Canadian group champions, Montreal Maroons or Canadiens, in the Stanley Cup series for the world's title.

Sunday night's game will ring down the curtain on professional hockey in New York City for the season. A circus will occupy the Garden for a month, commencing next Thursday, and the New York sextette, if they triumph over the Bruins, will play their "home" games in the Stanley Cup series in Montreal.

The Rangers came through their series with the Pirates in good shape. Two minor casualties occurred on Thursday night. Taffy Abel, defence player, sustained a cut over the eye which required three stitches, and Frank Boucher, who was the star of the series, received the butt end of Martin Burke's stick, which forced him to retire from the game. He did not play in the final period, and the absence of his demoralizing poke check was largely responsible for the Pirates' third period rally in which the smoky city players registered three goals and won the game.

John Morrison Goes To Montreal Club

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 31.—(Canadian Press.)—Pitcher John Morrison has been sent to the Montreal club of the International League by the Pittsburgh Pirates. Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss announced last night. Catcher William Haeffner was transferred to the New York Giants and Infielder George Gettleiber to Fort Worth. Waivers were recently asked on all three players.

Morrison, known as "Jughandle Johnny," deserted the Pirates during the pennant race last season. Haeffner rejoined the local club this spring after several years' absence from the big show, and Gettleber was obtained from Lincoln of the Western League.

STRATFORD WINS FROM KITCHENER

Beats Millionaires Decisively in Second Game of Play-offs.

STRATFORD, March 31. — Displaying their real mettle in the last twenty minutes of play, the Stratford Nationals in the second game for the championship of the Canadian Professional Hockey League, played here last night, gained a decisive victory over the Kitchener Millionaires winning by a score of 6 to 1. Five of the Nationals' counters came in the final spasm. The game was played before the largest crowd of the season.

The first two periods, considering that it was championship hockey, were not impressive, and to the eye of the spectator it looked as if Kitchener had the better of the situation. From an offensive standpoint, they did except for short intervals, but the style the Nationals showed in the long run. During the first two cantos they adopted a wearing down process that completely played out their opponents and then with their superior strength the homesters forced the play and scored almost at will. They gained one more goal than was allowed in the final period, but the decision was so decisive that no objection was raised.

MONTREAL MAN WINS SWEEPSTAKE

G. Playfair Gets About $15,000 From Legion Charity Sweepstake.

SHERBROOKE, Que., March 30 (Canadian Press). — Tipperary Tim, winner of the Grand National at Liverpool to-day, enriched G. Playfair, of Montreal, by possibly fifteen thousand dollars. Playfair drew the winning ticket in the charity sweepstake of the Quebec Provincial Council of the British Empire Service League. L. Baker, Owen Sound, won the second prize, some five thousand dollars. The draw took place at St. John's, Quebec. The definite value of the winning tickets will be announced later.

NEW RECORDS SET FOR ATTENDANCE

Official Figures Show Heavy Increase Over Last Year For League Games.

MONTREAL, March 31. Canadian Press.— National Hockey League attendance records were crashed almost all along the line during the scheduled campaign this winter, according to official figures on the hockey crowds attending the league games in the various cities on the circuit.

This winter 1,350,000 witnessed N. H. L. play in the scheduled games, which was an increase of 230,000 over the attendance mark set the previous year.

While eight of the ten clubs showed increased attendance figures, one unchanged and Pittsburgh recorded a drop, the high mark again fell to the two local clubs, Canadiens and Maroons, who were the respective leaders last season. Canadiens hit the record high total for a club in one season, with 219,000, as their attendance figure for 22 home games. This was an increase of 21,000 over the previous season. Maroons drew 192,000 in their 22 home tussels this season, an increase of 17,000 over their last year's figure and a total which gave them second place on the attendance list. The New York Rangers were third with 166,000, an increase of 10,000 over the preceding year.

Boston played before 149,000 in the Hub, 16,000 more than last year, a figure which indicated capacity crowds for each game at Boston and which suggests that the Bruins in a new rink next season will be a tremendous attraction.

The biggest increase was shown by Detroit, who played in their new rink at Detroit this winter to 142,000 fans. Last year Detroit played in Windsor, drawing 48,000 spectators, their increase this year being 94,000.

Interesting figures are shown in the Ottawa column. Ottawa has a total for the year of 99,872, which represents an increase of 18,000 over the preceding year's campaign. The improvement resulted from the decision reached by the club directors that 22 home games were too much for the Capital City fans and as a result two of the Ottawa home games with Detroit were played at Detroit. The switch served to leave the Senators on the right side of the books this season.

The remarkable story in the list of attendance figures is the combined total of the two local clubs. Canadiens and Maroons together attracted 411,000 fans to 44 league games, roughly 10,000 per game, which is by far the greatest attendance figure for any city on the circuit. New York's two teams combined drew 291,000.

Pittsburgh was low with only 40,000 for the season a decrease of 5,000. Chicago, despite its lowly position, drew as well as last year when the Hawks were contenders.

The figures:

Canadiens, 219,000; increase of 21,000.

Maroons, 162,000; increase of 17,000.

Ottawa, 99,827: increase 18,000.

Toronto, 101,000: increase 2,000.

New York Americans, 125,000; increase 2,000.

New York Rangers, 166,000; increase 10,000.

Boston, 149,000: increase 16,000.

Pittsburgh, 60,000. decrease 5,000.

Detroit, 142,000, increase 94,000.

Chicago 73,000, unchanged.

MARCH 31, 1915.

Major Bennett writes describing how Peter Victor of the 57th was seriously wounded by Germans when lifting fog reveals him. He writes: "My Peterborough boys are in exceptionally fine fettle. Several are temporarily in the hospital and many changes have taken place but up to the present I have not suffered any losses among the Peterborough boys. One of my 9th Horse men from Toronto died on the way up. I am sorry Peter Victor of the 57th was seriously wounded a few days ago. He was out in front of his trench (he is now sergeant in No. 3 Company) and when the fog lifted the Germans got him in a volley. He was hit twice and I fear he will not be back again for some time as the bone of his leg is shattered.

"Fred Howart is still my sergeant-major, E. Nicholls, Sr., platoon sergeant. Field and A. Ackerman are now full sergeants and Cumberland, Carpenter, Haydon and Stevens are corporals. My commanding officer frequently compliments me on the splendid character of my company and as a fact we do without a doubt get honors on every side. We were the first Canadians of the First Contingent to go into action which meant something.

"We have our regular or perhaps irregular service every Sunday, and our last was a 'cracker jack'. Captain Gordon, who is one of our brigade chaplains, I think he comes from Kingston, came along to my valet and asked me could we open up. I said certainly and called for a voluntary parade for divine service. Every man responded and in a few minutes we were assembled in an old barn sitting around the chaplain and singing praises to the spasmodic accompaniment of 3-15 guns which are set about 50 yards in the rear.

"My captain has just come in and informed me that the rumor is about that we are to move to-morrow to the west in the neighborhood of Labasee. If this is so you may expect to read double headlines in the newspapers very soon. We are not supposed to write news of the movement of the troops, but, strange to relate the Canadian papers always like to be well informed of our doings and before we see it in the London papers too. The papers were wrong in their guess of where we landed in France and also about our being stationed at Rouen. We simply shipped right into the firing line from the transport and have been doing the trick ever since.

"Now once more I thank you for all your kind references and hope and pray for our and my future. It is my only wish that I may be permitted to 'carry on' as I started and to safely pilot my lads safety through to their own credit and to the credit of our beloved Canadian home, and as for myself in command, I hope of course to come through safely and be permitted to quietly resume my ordinary walk of life."

MARCH 31, 1916.

Pte. Joseph H. Rogers reported killed in action. Private Rogers was a hockey star and as far as known was the first Peterborough member of 21st Battalion to be killed in action.

30,300 HUDSON AND ESSEX CARS

Shipped Out in February—A Step-up of Nearly 5,000 Cars.

Hudson Motor Car Co. established a new record in February with the shipment of 30,300 Hudson and Essex cars, according to word received from the factory by C. L. Brewer, Hudson-Essex distributor.

This was the largest February in the company's history, exceeding February of a year ago by approximately 5,000 cars. It is likewise a step-up of about 5,000 cars from January of this year. The announcement is made that schedules for March will rise still further to meet expanding business of the Spring months. The Hudson plant is operating two and three shifts and employment figures are at a high mark.

"The early season of 1928 has fulfilled its promise of active automobile business from the very start," said Mr. Brewer, Hudson-Essex distributor. "January was the best January we ever have known and February has continued with a rising tide of buying. The public began buying motor cars early and has maintained this healthy interest. The mild winter has been of much assistance in stimulating the buying urge.

"In all recent seasons, the public has awarded its patronage in very large numbers to certain lines of cars. All motor car buying is highly selective; the public either likes certain cars very strongly indeed, or hardly at all; and thus the sales of the fortunate lines advance while the general sales level moves much less.

"The reception which Hudson-Essex cars have enjoyed so far this year indicates to us that such a wave of popularity has caught them up.

"Enthusiasm for them began with the first automobile shows of the year, and has increased as larger numbers of them are seen on the streets and as their new owners tell other motorists of the satisfaction they are receiving.

"While the smaller cars of moderate price are showing a great growth, we notice also that such cars as the Hudson are active as well. The power and comfort of these large cars have admirers in increasing numbers. Road regulations which permit of cross-country travel at modern rates of speed are a boon to the owners of these large, powerful cars. In both the low priced and the medium priced fields, 1928 starts off most promisingly.

Brewer Motor Sales are distributors for Peterborough, 130-132 Brock street.

The "Flu" LEFT HER WITH A VERY WEAK HEART

Mrs. Beulah Demone, Pleasant River, N.S., writes:—"Having suffered with the 'flu' a few years ago, I was left with a very weak heart.

"I was unable to go about, and could not do my housework.

"I would get dizzy spells and would have to go and lie down.

"I could not sleep at night as the least little noise would wake me up.

"I tried different kinds of medicine, but they seemed to do me no good.

"A friend recommended MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS I have used five boxes and am much better; do not get those dizzy spells, and can do my own work as well as ever."

Many Sharp Gains Recorded At Toronto

TORONTO, March 31 (Canadian Press).—A number of issues recorded sharp gains in active trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. Steel of Canada advancing most. Steel Common jumped seven at 196 and the Preferred was accordingly higher at 175. Maple Leaf Common sold up five at 116, while British Columbia Fishing, one of the session's leaders, gained more than two points at 15¾. Elsewhere the list was not only unchanged but in many cases tended easier, with Nickel the weakest issue at 94½, down two points. Brazilian new stock eased to 58⅜ and British American Oil softened to 37½, with Walker's down half a point at 61¾. Most unlisted stocks, however, were steady.

Gains Are Scattered On Mining Exchange

TORONTO, March 31 (Canadian Press).—Though a definite price movement was lacking in active trading on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day, some fairly substantial gains were recorded in scattered issues. The Kirkland Lakes were firm, with Wright Hargreaves gaining eight at 4.65. Teck Hughes recovering 10 at 850, and Lake Shore selling up 50 at 24.30. Kirkland Lake itself was two points better at 2.05. Amulet firmed four at 355, and Aconda gained three at 30. The easier issues were led downward by Pend Oreille, which reacted eighty points at 19.70. Noranda eased twenty around 17.30, and Bidgood weakened six at 103. Mining Corporation sold down 15 at 345. Malartic, coming in demand, firmed eight at 134.

Strength At Liverpool Causes Rise In Wheat

CHICAGO, March 31 (Canadian Press).—The unexpected strength of wheat quotations at Liverpool led to a sharp early advance to-day in the wheat market here. With talk rife of heavy acreage losses, new crop deliveries of wheat went to fresh high price records for the season. Starting at ⅞ to 1⅛ up, Chicago wheat afterwards scored some further gains. Corn and oats also were firmer, corn opening ¼ to ⅜ up and subsequently rising a little more.

Opening prices are: Wheat, March 143⅞, May 143⅜. Corn, March 100¾, May 103¼. Oats, March 58¼, May 58⅜.

Profit Taking Sales Halt Upward Movement

NEW YORK, March 31 (Canadian Press).—Stock prices started forward at a terrific pace in to-day's market but stumbled under the weight of an enormous volume of realizing sales. Early gains of one to five points were quickly reduced or cancelled and in many cases converted into net declines almost as large. The ticker fell more than half an hour behind the market. There was little in the day's news to influence the price movement. The sensational advance in pool specialties yesterday had attracted a large amount of outside buying, but professional traders took advantage of this strength to cash in on paper profits. More than a score of issues were marked up to new high levels for the year in the first outbreak of buying. Radio was the principal target for selling pressure, dropping ten points below last night's final quotations to 185 with a slump from 189 to 185 between sales. General Motors quickly slipped from 194⅞ to 191¾.

IN MEMORIAM.

WARREN. — In loving memory of our dear daughter, Doris who died eight years ago to-day, March 30, 1920:

Happy were the days we spent together,
Lonely are our hearts to-day,
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever passed away.

When the dear Lord took her from us
It was his holy will;
He left in our hearts a vacancy,
Which none else can fill.

But in our saddest moments,
One happy thought holds sway,
We will meet again, dear Doris,
And be happy some sweet day.

—Ever remembered by her loving Father and Mother, and Sister and Brother-in-law, Violet and Louise.

ASTHMA

results from a narrowing of the air passages leading to the lungs. These passages become narrowed when the circular muscle fibres of the bronchial tubes become excessively contracted. All muscle fibres contract and relax, dependent upon messages conveyed from the brain through the spinal cord and nerves. An improper supply of nerve energy to these muscle fibres cause them to tighten up and decrease the size of the air passages, thus reducing the amount of oxygen reaching the lungs.

By Releasing

nerve interference at the spine the Chiropractor restores proper nerve energy to the bronchial tubes. The tubes regain a normal size and comfortable breathing takes place. Many asthmatics have found wonderful benefit from Chiropractic Spinal Adjustments. WHY NOT YOU?

ONLY BAD BIT OF BUTTER WAS IN QUEEN'S PARK

George H. Barr Tells of Improvement in Quality in Ontario.

MAKING PROGRESS.

Province, Rotary Learns, Produces 70 Per Cent. of Canada's Cheese.

That the only piece of bad butter he remembered encountering in travelling around Ontario during the past year, was found in the Parliamentary restaurant in Toronto was one of the many interesting statements made by George H. Barr, Director of Dairying for Ontario, in the course of a most instructive address to the Peterborough Rotary Club to-day.

Mr. Barr, who was introduced by Rotarian George A. Gillespie, as the best Dairy Commissioner in the Dominion, gave Rotarians some new impressions of the importance of dairying in this province. For instance, he told them that up in Northern Ontario, a part of the province that was usually thought of only in connection with mines, there were already 13 cheese factories and 30 creameries. He reminded his hearers that when mining operations were finished nothing would remain but holes in the ground, while on the other hand the scientific development of agriculture would leave the land more valuable than ever.

The importance of dairying in Ontario, Mr Barr illustrated by showing that in this province there were over 1000 cheese factories, creameries and condensing plants, and that Ontario produced more butter than all the western provinces combined, and accounted for 70 per cent. of the cheese produced in Canada. As to quality, he said that Ontario produced 92.6 per cent. first grade cheese, while owing to the introduction of regulations requiring cream to be graded the production of first grade butter had increased in Ontario in two years by some 16 or 17 per cent. As a result it was almost impossible to find bad butter in any hotel in the province, and the consumption had materially increased.

"People nowadays don't spead their butter," said Mr. Barr, smilingly; "they simply cut it in slices and place it on their bread."

One danger the Director of Dairying was able to see was that the operations of creameries were endangering the cheese factories, and the result might easily be a reduction in the production of cheese that would leave the province with not enough for export to make any impression on the British market. At present Canadian Cheddar cheese was first of all the world in that market but if production continued to decrease, that position would be lost, and Ontario instead of exporting cheese, would have to compete in butter on the British market against the Danish and New Zealand producers.

Discussing the milk question, Mr. Barr was very emphatic in regard to the desirability of pasteurization.

"I would not want to live in a community where I could not buy pasteurized milk," he declared, remarking that he had had to study the conditions in Montreal during the epidemic of last year, and was satisfied that pasteurization was the only effective method of guarding against such conditions. Mr. Barr stressed the advantage of a milk diet, remarking that he and his wife and son accounted for three quarts a day and did not drink tea at all except when they had visitors.

Among the guests at the luncheon to-day was Harold G. Ratcliffe, Vice-President of the Toronto Rotary Club, who told something of the preparations that were being made in Toronto for the district convention, and inviting the Peterborough Club to be represented by an attendance of 100 per cent.

President A. L. Killaly called the attention of the members to the duty of supporting the League of Nations Council, and Rotarian Jas Juby invited his fellow Rotarians to attend the annual meeting and banquet of the Peterborough branch of the Ontario Motor League to-morrow night.

Many Lose Lives In Smyrna 'Quake

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 2 (Canadian Press). — Practically the entire population of Smyrna is living in the open in consequence of the severe earthquake on Saturday in which 32 persons are known to have perished and 59 injured.

An official report yesterday, which describes the shock as the most disastrous felt in Turkey since the Stamboul quake of 1894, says that ninety per cent. of the buildings in Smyrna were damaged or destroyed, including six mosques, four schools, and five factories, some of which were American-owned. The report describes the populace as terrified despite the efforts of authorities to restore order. Four hundred and fifty tents, scores of doctors, and tons of provisions have been rushed to the stricken city.

FISHERMEN OUT AT WORK TO-DAY

Port Dover Setting Nets, Unmindful of Last Week's Excitement.

TUG STILL WORKING.

PORT DOVER, Ont., April 2 (Canadian Press)—Business as usual might well be the motto of the fishermen of Port Dover, for the tugs went out to set nets today and the dramatic scenes of yesterday are apparently forgotten. However, the tug, Jean F, one of the many small tugs in the fleet, is tied up at dock awaiting repairs after being fast for five days in the largest ice field encountered on Lake Erie in many years, while the tug Altawandron is still fast in the icy grip of the floes, with the tug Vermont of Ashtabula, Ohio, making a determined effort to release her.

Six men of the Jean F, and two men taken aboard that tug from the marooned Altawandron were brought to port on the Jean F yesterday, thanks to the efforts of the Vermont. The Vermont's part in the rescue was all the more creditable when it was realized that she was not an ice-breaker but an ordinary towing tug and that in order to cope successfully with thick ice she had to back up, run ahead at full speed, swing sharply to the right or left and drop the full weight of her side on the ice. Each time she did that the rail of the boat went down until it was almost under water and for hour after hour she went through the same dangerous and monotonous procedure. Sleep was out of the question for her double crew.

Captain Misner, of the Jean F., said that at no time did he worry over the situation, and with some better luck on Wednesday night would have reached the Altawandron and got away themselves. He also paid tribute to the aviators who dropped the supplies from the air, saying not a thing was missing.

LIFE MEMBERSHIP FOR MRS. T. BROWN

St. James' W.M.S. Meets at Home of Mrs. T. Curvin, Water Street.

The attractive home of Mrs. T. E. Curvin, Water street, was the objective of a large number of the members of St. James' W.M.S. on Friday evening, when Mrs. Curvin and her group entertained the Auxiliary.

A verse of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and prayer, offered by Miss Jackson, was the opening of the following delightful program:

A radio concert was followed by community singing in groups, accompanied by Mr. Curvin on the mandolin and Mrs. Curvin at the piano.

Mrs. George H. Rowe, in her usual pleasing style, gave two highly entertaining readings. Mrs. J. McAdam also contributed a very humorous reading, which was greatly enjoyed.

A progressive Irish questionnaire proved to be an amusing interlude in the program.

Allenby Curvin's singing was heartily applauded, Mrs. Curvin accompanying him.

The presentation of a life membership pen to Mrs. Thomas Brown, a former member of the society, was a pleasing feature of the evening. Mrs. E. L. Woodley, president of St. James' Auxiliary, read the address, in which they regretted the loss of so active a member from their society, and eulogizing Mrs. Brown for her long-continued and faithful service. The pin was presented by Mrs. E. J. Wagar on behalf of the members. The gift was a complete surprise to the recipient, who, however, ably replied to the honor conferred upon her, thanking the St. James ladies and assuring them that her work in their WM.S. had been a labor of love.

The service of refreshments by the hostesses concluded a most enjoyable and happy affair.

MINE THAW HOUSES ORDERED MOVED TO SURFACE LEVELS

Mine Inspector Issues Order as Result of Hollinger Disaster.

WORK NEAR COMPLETION.

Inspectors Making Thorough Inspection of Hollinger, Level By Level.

TIMMINS, April 2. — Under the supervision of the Inspection Branch of the Department of Mines of Ontario all underground thaws in all the mines of the Province are being moved to surface. This action is the result of an order from the chief inspector following the disastrous fire which broke out at the Hollinger Mine on February 10 in a stope filled with refuse, principally thaw flouse waste. The work of moving the thaw houses to the surface at the Hollinger, McIntyre, and Dome Mines is now practically completed. The chief inspector accompanied by Inspector D. G. Sinclair of Sudbury, has gone to Kirkland Lake to supervise the carrying out of the order in that area. In the meantime a thorough inspection of the Hollinger property, level by level, is being made by George E. Cole, resident inspector for the Porcupine district. This inspection, which has been in progress ever since the fire, will cover a further period of several weeks.

The regulation affecting underground thaw houses, while causing some inconvenience to the mines, due to the fact that climatic conditions in the north country make underground thaws in many respects desirable, on the other hand, will have the effect of removing what was really a hazard, as revealed by the investigation which followed the Hollinger disaster. It was noted in the evidence at the inquiry that the gases which were generated in the fatal stope on the 550 level spread with almost unbelievable rapidity. Placing together the evidence of a number of witnesses it is found that within the first 15 minutes after the fire was discovered these flames had spread over an area of one quarter of a mile in length and one-eighth of a mile in width.

Not only did the gases spread rapidly through the workings, but they were generated in sufficient volume to drive the smoke against the natural air currents in the drifts and with them at a velocity greater than that at which they would normally travel through the workings.

REFERENCE MADE TO C. H. CLEMENTI

Rev. Dr. Blagrave Speaks Feelingly of Passing of Member of Well-Known Family.

Feeling reference was made yesterday morning in St. John's Church by the vicar, Rev. Dr. Blagrave, to the passing last week of Mr. Charles Hamilton "Cope" Clementi, a descendent of one of the oldest families in Peterborough, which for three generations were connected with St. John's. The late Mr. Clementi's great-grandfather was Muzio Clementi, who because of his distinguished musical achievements as founder of "Pianoforte," was buried in Westminster Abbey. His grandfather was the late Rev. Vincent Clementi, who was one time incumbent of Lindsay and Lakefield, in whose time St. John's Church, Lakefield, was built. The Rev. V. Clementi was one time locum tenens of St. John's, Peterborough, and during the time of his residence in Peterborough, lived in the house now occupied by Col. A. Stevenson. The late Mr. Clementi's father was Theodore Bold Clementi, a Dominion land surveyor, and well-known to many still living.

Dr. Blagrave referred to the long and honorable connection of the family with St. John's Church, and expressed the sympathy which the congregation felt with those who are now bereaved, uttering the time-honored prayer, "may his soul rest in everlasting peace."

Newfoundland Sealing Fleet Plane Damaged While Landing on Rough Ice

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 2 (Canadian Press). — The Newfoundland sealing fleet lost its aerial branch yesterday when a plane which has been used for the past month to "spot" seal herds on the ice pack off the coast was damaged in landing on rough ice.

Returning to St. John's from the fleet yesterday, Pilot Caldwell, who had been working with the sealers for several weeks, smashed his Avro plane while landing on the frozen surface of Quidi Vidi Lake, behind the city.

The wings of the plane were broken off, but the aviator was unhurt. No other plane was available here to continue the work with the fleet.

The system of spotting seals from airplanes was adopted several seasons ago and proved very successful. Because of the vast extent of the ice fields which drift down from the Labrador coast, the sealing steamers often missed great seal herds on the floes. The work of the aviator was to fly above the ice fields and report to the vessels the location of the herds. The steamers would then proceed to the point designated and their crews would club and skin the young seals. The several species of hair seals found among the ice floes are killed for their oil and skins, providing one of the most important Newfoundland industries.

MORE QUAKES IN ASIA MINOR

People of Smyrna Flee To Hills Again To-day—Nine Shocks Felt.

GEYSERS THROWN UP.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 2 (Canadian Press). — Another series of earthquake shocks struck the historic city of Smyrna this morning, increasing the terror of the population, which was barely recovering from Saturday's earthquake, in which forty or more people lost their lives, according to the latest estimate.

Nine shocks to-day sent the boldest, who had returned to their houses, again fleeing to the hills outside Smyrna. The appearance of geysers in the gulf added to the terrifying phenomena which had marked the previous 'quake and spread further panic.

FRANCE MAY SELL HER GERMAN BONDS

Poincare Says Some Consideration May Be Given Sale of Securities.

PARIS, April 2.—(Canadian Press.)—The possibility that the marketing of the German bonds issued under Dawes plan will enable France to pay her war debts is recognized by Premier Poincare. In a speech yesterday he said it was possible that some consideration might be given to the marketing of the railroad and other obligations provided under this plan. Premier Poincare also said that France asked nothing better than to deal in an atmosphere of confidence with all questions of international interest which may arise.

MERCELLO MOWRY LEAVES C.G.E. AFTER 36 YEARS AS EMPLOYEE

Receives Many Gifts From Associates as Tokens of Respect.

22 YEARS A FOREMAN.

Resting Up At His Home Now, Looking Forward To His 75th Birthday.

Born in Peterborough on October 21, "Trafalgar Day," 1853, and with the events of yester year fresh in memory, Mercello ("Merce") Mowry, now cheerfully looking forward to his seventy-fifth birthday, is "resting up" at his home, 588 Charlotte Street, after thirty-six years and nine months of service as an employee of the Canadian General Electric in this city. He retired on Saturday with pension from the Canadian General Electric Company, where he has been a most faithful employee. While the company has not altogether adopted a pension system as yet in the plant here, it is still a fact that faithful service on the part of old employees is being recognized in a most practical manner. He carries with him the best wishes of his fellow-employees as well as brother-foremen of the plant. The presentation by the staff and foremen of the different departments of a case containing three tobacco pipes of which any man might well be proud, accompanied by a purse of substantial sum, took place on Saturday at the noon hour as he prepared to leave for home, while in the evening a large number of the men of his own department gathered at his home, where they still further evidenced their good fellowship by presenting him with a purse of gold and suitable address. But more of that later.

The Examiner representative, calling upon him and making his acquaintance for the first time this morning, faced a clean-shaven, alert-minded person, not overly tall, with keen eyes and iron-grey hair, of easy approach and happily a conversationalist though a modest one. The visit with him was a pleasure.

Presentations Made.

Mr. Mowry was quietly though sincerely pleased with the kind expressions of his fellow-employees and based the earlier part of his conversation on this subject alone. He recalled how, as he was leaving the C.G.E. for the last time as one of its employees, members of the staff and foremen of the various departments had gathered, and through their spokesman, R. E. Layfield, had presented the pipes and purse referred to. The concluding phase of the presentation, "Three cheers for Mr. Mowry" and "He's a jolly good fellow,' 'were not less heartily repeated when, on Saturday evening, the members of his own department, over which he had been foreman for twenty-three years, gathered at his home for the presentation of the purse of gold and a jolly evening of music and other entertainment. The address which they read is as follows:

"Dear Mr. Mowry:

"We your fellow companions having learned that you were retiring as foreman of your department in the Canadian General Electric Company Limited, feel that we could not let this occasion pass without expressing to you, how much we regret this separation. You have been our foreman for a great many years, and we say in all sincerity, that your good judgment in the direction of the work was all that could be expected and won the respect of all who had the good fortune of securing employment in your department. Not only have you been a good foreman and a very real asset to the Canadian General Electric Company, as shown by the progress made, but you have been a real good fellow as well. Now that you are leaving, we cannot help but feel the loss we will sustain. However, it is some satisfaction to know that a man from this department trained up in the work by you has been chosen as your successor. It is also a great satisfaction to know that you are continuing your residence in Peterborough and that we will be able to meet you from time to time and renew the good fellowship that has always existed between you and your men.

"As a token of respect and as an acknowledgement (in our opinion) of the greatest and best mechanic the company ever had, we ask you to accept this purse of gold, and we hope you may be spared to enjoy many years of health and happiness.

"Signed on behalf of the employees of your department."

Born in Peterborough

The retiring veteran of the C.G.E. has had a long list of experiences, though reference to himself in the relating of them is usually hesitant. "I was born in this city almost seventy-five years ago, over on Mark street, in East City," he said. "That was on Trafalgar Day, October 21, and among my first recollections is the visit of King Edward VII. to Peterborough. He was Prince of Wales then, and I remember how I sat with my parents on the steps of the old "American Hotel," owned by Lewis McGregor, to watch the royal visitor go by. I was about seven years old then." Peterborough,

Visits Kaiser's War Headquarters

BRUSSELS, April 2 (Canadian Press). — The bomb-proof shelter and villa where the former Kaiser made his headquarters when visiting the "front" during the World War, was the chief attraction yesterday for his brother-in-law, Alexander Subkoff, who is staying at Verviers awaiting the outcome of his application for a vise to visit the free city of Danzig.

The appearance of Subkoff at the Grand Hotel at Verviers, accompanied by an unidentified woman, completely upset a dinner that was being given in honor of former Minister Forthomme. All the guests promptly left their tables in the hope of glimpsing the husband of Princess Victoria Schaumberg-Lippe, who was recently expelled from Germany after a series of escapades, but he outwitted them and his companion hopped to a motor car and hurried off to Spa.

PUBLIC REPROOF ANNOYED DANIEL

Feels That He Was Deliberately Insulted By Admiral, He Tells Court.

RECOUNTS EVENTS.

GIBRALTAR, April 2 (Canadian Press). — The court-martial of Commander H. M. Daniel, growing out of the now celebrated Royal Oak affair, continued to-day aboard the airplane carrier Eagle, with Commander Daniel holding the centre of the stage. He discussed fully the dance at Malta at which Rear-Admiral Bernard St. G. Collard is alleged to have abused the bandsmen and had the marine band replaced by jazz musicians.

He felt the admiral had given himself a deliberate insult in upbraiding him in the presence of other officers and seamen on the Royal Oak, in a controversy over the admiral's barge.

Commander Daniel said that when the Admiral approached him he complained about the band making an awful noise. "When the Admiral reached the band enclosure, he said, 'Come here, you. Stand here. You call this a flagship band. I never heard such bloody awful noise in my life. I will have you sent home tomorrow.' The bandmaster, standing at attention, said he would do his best. The Admiral returned 'I should think you would see if you can't do a bit better'."

He said the Admiral spoke loudly in the presence of guests and bandsmen. The bandmaster told Commander Daniel later that he would never stay on the ship or in the service after such an incident. He would never be able to regain his prestige with the band.

Apology Tendered.

The Admiral made something like an appeal in asking Daniel whether he had heard his. (the Admiral's) words to the bandmaster, according to Commander Daniel. He had suggested that he himself (Commander Daniel) make the best redress possible to those entitled to it and the Admiral wished the witness success in it. Daniel then saw the Major of marines and bandmaster, and told the latter that the Admiral had directed him to convey his sincere apology. The Admiral later congratulated Daniel in "getting him out of a nasty hole."

Commander Daniel also told of what he described as a "deliberate insult to the officers" by Admiral Collard when the latter arrived on the Royal Oak on one occasion and ignored the officers standing at salute to receive him.

Cross-examined by the prosecuting counsel, Commander Daniel admitted that Admiral Collard was undoubtedly the chief host at the dance. He admitted he himself was almost rude to other officers in taking them to ladies at the dance, supplying these with partners.

LITHUANIAN CLAIMS UNDER DISCUSSION

Polish Minister Denies Charges of Firing Across Border.

KOENIGSBURG, Germany, April 2 (Canadian Press). — Lithuanian claims for ten million dollars damages because of Polish military operations and the activities of bands of marauders on the Polish Lithuanian border, took precedence at the Polish-Lithuanian conference to-day. M. Zaleski, Polish Foreign Minister, denied a statement by Premier Waldemaras of Lithuania that emigrants sheltered in Poland had fired into Lithuanian territory during the night. Three commissioners were appointed to go into the various problems.

U.S. ICEBREAKER BRINGS 'JEAN F' SAFELY TO PORT

Two Tugs Ice-Bound On Lake Erie For Past Week.

ALTAWANDRON STILL FAST.

Jean F. Became Ice-Locked While Attempting Rescue of Sister Ship.

PORT DOVER, Ont., April 3 (Canadian Press Staff Corespondent) —The tug Vermont of Ashtabula, Ohio, towed the fishing tug Jean F into port here at one o'clock Sunday with all members of the latter's crew in good condition and with two members of the tug Altawandron's crew also safe and sound. The arrival of the American tug was witnessed by almost every person in this little hamlet. Through the past week the Jean F. and the Altawandron were ice-bound in a huge field out on Lake Erie, with every effort being made to break them free.

Ice-breakers from the American side and an airplane from Camp Borden had kept the outside workers informed of progress being made toward the imprisoned tugs, but until yesterday no definite word had been received as to just what was transpiring.

Last Friday the Altawandron was en route to the fishing grounds when it entered a lead, as the narrow channels in the ice are known. Five minutes before reaching open water on the far side of the ice field the lead closed. She turned and made for home. Before she reached the Canadian side of the ice field, however, the opposite end of the lead closed and she was caught fast. On Saturday two members of her crew, Capt. Matthews and L. Murphy walked over the ice field to Port Rowan, 17 miles away, returning the next morning with food supplies. From then until Wednesday the Altawandron's crew with food rationed and with only a small stove to provide heat were confined to the enclosed deck of the small tug. On Wednesday morning they burned a number of nets, hoping that the flare would attract the attention of the lighthouse-keeper at Long Point. Later they started across the ice towards open water at the end of Long Point dragging the small skiff with which the tug was supplied. They had gone about three miles when they were forced to return owing to the terrible condition of the ice field. Shortly afterwards they sighted the Jean F. and again started out. They crossed six channels of open water in the tiny skiff and dragged and pulled it the remainder of the way to the last channel, a quarter of a mile wide where the Jean F's lifeboat met them and assisted them aboard that craft. Thursday, three members of the Altawandron's crew were brought to shore, two of them aboard the tug Racey and the third man being taken to Port Stanley aboard the Donald Mac. The Altawandron had been abandoned and the remaining members of her crew remained aboard the Jean F. Then the ice field under the urging of a southwesterly wind moved again and the Jean F became trapped.

Plane Brought Supplies

From that time every possible effort was made to reach the tugs. An airplane was sent from Camp Borden to drop supplies and carry messages to the imprisoned crews, while tugs from Ashtabula and Port Dover performed heroically in attempts to break their way through the huge ice field. Late last night the Vermont of Ashtabula reached the Jean F, finding crews safe. At five o'clock yesterday morning they began breaking the ice from around the Jean F, and a little later had her cleared away. They immediately started for Port Dover, arriving here at one o'clock, the Vermont later returning to the ice field where she will attempt to break the Altawandron out.

Harrowing Experience

Port Dover has been through one of her most terrible weeks day after day, with little authentic news trickling through.

INVESTIGATION REPORT GIVEN ON JUVENILE IMMIGRATION

RECOMMENDS SAFEGUARDS.

Enquiry Conducted By Canadian Council on Child Welfare.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 2 (Canadian Press).—"That for children who are physically and mentally sound, who are industrious and ambitious and have developed normal moral stamina and self-control, life in Canada offers greater opportunities than in Great Britain at the present time, but for those not so equipped, even with all the safeguards provided, migration and settlement in this country is a hazardous undertaking."

This was the first of the findings in a report made public by the Canadian Council on Child Welfare following an inquiry extending over a year, into a representative group of former juvenile immigrants who arrived in Canada in 1910 and 1920. The report based on a study of this group after the immigrants had been in this country 17 and seven years respectively, is largely the work of Mrs. J. Brackenridge McGregor of Toronto. The study had the endorsation of the Association of Canadian Clubs, and was financed by the Montreal Women's Canadian Club.

Recommends Safeguards.

The report recommends more adequate safeguards for the selection of juvenile immigrants overseas. It is suggested:

(a) That the work of interview and selection of juvenile immigrants in the British Isles be placed in charge of a Canadian official thoroughly familiar and sympathetic with life in Canada and Canadian conditions.

(2) That no child be passed for Canada without: (a) A health certificate signed by a Canadian doctor on the overseas Canadian department of health staff.

(b) A favorable report on tuberculin, Wasserman, and psychiatric tests.

(c) A complete social history of the child and his family background.

(e) That copies of these documents be filed in the juvenile immigration branch of the Department of Immigration and Colonization. There should also be more adequate safeguards, the report finds, for the handling of the children in Canada. The Department of Immigration and Colonization should adopt certain standards for the placement and after-care of these children and allow only those societies to engage in the work which are properly equipped. The following points are of special importance.

(a) That prior visits of inspection be made to every home in which it is proposed to place a child before the application is approved.

(b) That every society be required to provide a receiving home for the children, who should remain there long enough to allow the workers to learn something of their individual character, needs and adaptabilities before placement

If, for any reason, this should be found impractical, it is suggested that an official of the home in Canada, responsible for their placement, accompany each party on ship board to become familiar with the children, travelling by the same class.

(c) That greater effort be made to afford advice and vocational guidance to immigrant boys and girls at the expiration of their indenture.

Other Recommendations.

Other recommendations in this connection are:

That a substantial addition be made to the present inspection staff of the juvenile immigration branch, or a satisfactory working arrangement be established with the provinces, whereby the services of their child-caring resources could be utilized in some co-operative way.

That the societies and the child welfare divisions of the Canadian provinces establish something in the nature of a confidential exchange for the listing of foster homes and employers in order to avoid the acceptance by one society of homes found unsuitable by other British or Canadian agencies.

That there be co-operation between the Dominion Department of Immigration and the Provincial departments to the end that there should be moved into each province only that number of juvenile immigrants that the Provincial authorities agree can be properly absorbed.

That the Department of Immigration take the initiative in arranging frequent conferences with the Provincial authorities and the overseas juvenile immigration agencies.

Further recommendations of a more general nature are;

That steps shall be taken to develop better contact and understanding between Old Country and Canadian interests.

That the movement shall be frankly recognized as one of supplying agricultural and household help in Canada and be limited to children suitable for that purpose.

The Department is asked to continue the minimum age limit of fourteen years as a permanent feature of immigration.

That the legal status as to guardianship of the children in Canada shall be determined.

That the migration of the better type of British young people shall be developed as a hopeful and constructive solution of Canada's need for increased population.

One of the stage horses took sick on the road from Peterborough last week, and Gordon Sharpe had to telephone for his father to meet him. NEW SCHOOLS ON FAIRS LIST

Representative Arranges For Exhibition For Six Schools in Harvey.

MINE FAIRS IN COUNTY.

A new public school fair district has been organized this year by J. B. Nelson, representative of the Department of Agriculture, in this county. The new district will include six schools in the Township of Harvey. Previously only three schools in the Township were connected with school fair districts, but now the eight schools are in school fair districts. The centre for the new district will be at Buckhorn, where the fair will be held.

Fifty-four schools in the county, according to the representative, have already made application for seeds and eggs, and more are expected every day. This year there will be nine school fairs held in the county, with the championship fair at Norwood.

In another year Mr. Nelson hopes to open up a district in Chandos Township and connect this school fair with the Apsley Agricultural Society's fair, which is being held for the first time this year.

Hope Increasing.

TORONTO, March 31. — Canadian Press. — With an airplane and heavy steel tug on the way to succor the tug Jean F., locked in the ice on Lake Erie with eight men on board, hopes were held to-day that the men would be removed from any possible danger before many more hours.

The tugs left Ashtabula at nine o'clock to crash through the ice and take off the men or, else, if possible, return with the Jean F. in tow.

The Jean F. was supposed to be about 19 miles from that point.

A government airplane, carrying provisions, left Camp Borden camp at nine fifteen to locate the drifting tug for the Ashtabula resuers and also to drop more provision to the men on the Jean F. These men were not believed in any immediate danger to-day.

STORM PLAYS HAVOC ALONG PACIFIC COAST

Two Ships Off Washington and Oregon Coast Reported in Distress.

PLANE CRASHES INTO SEA.

Train Service Interrupted, Twenty Mile Territory Swept By Floods.

PORTLAND, Oregon, April 2. — Canadian Press. — With two ships off the Washington and Oregon coast in distress, and an airplane and its occupants reported having crashed into the sea, and the residents of Coquille, Oregon, reporting twenty miles of territory under water, a storm which played havoc for the past 48 hours continued with lingering fury yesterday.

Coast guardsmen from Roquish, Wash., were out yesterday attempting to locate an airplane which was reported in the surf on Saturday night at Garyland, 20 miles south of here. The plane, flying north disappeared as soon as it struck the surface, it is reported.

At Marshfield in Southwestern Oregon, reports were received saying that the flood waters in the Coquille Valley had reached their crest as a result of the run off from the Coquille River, that stream jumped four feet overnight, making it seven feet above normal flood stage.

Overran Railroad Tracks.

The flood waters overran the railroad tracks between Coquille and Myrtle Point, placing that area under four feet of water.

Farmers who prepared Saturday night to move their families to higher ground, were watching the river yesterday to determine what move they would make last night.

Train service south of Marshfield was suspended because of the flood conditions, which caused slides near Mapleton. Farther south, the Sixes River, driven to high marks by storm waters, was Cutter Haida saying that craft had reached the distressed schooner Helen B. Sterling, a six-masted vessel. A line was thrown aboard and the schooner was reported in tow bound for the Columbia River.

The Sterling, caught in the full fury of the storm had been riding at anchor off Heceta Head, lashed by the winds.

Radio messages intercepted here indicated that the coast guard cutter Snohomish was searching for the schooner H. V. Kruse, last reported riding out the storm on the northern Washington coast.

MILLBROOK FAIR FINANCES GOOD

Winter Fair Concerts Produce Surplus of $75—Banquet a Success.

SPORTS' DAY PLANNED.

MILLBROOK, April 2.—A meeting of the Agricultural Society was held in the town hall on Friday evening; the president, Harold Tate, being in the chair. There was a good attendance for a business meeting.

Financial reports were presented by the treasurer, J. N. McGill, and proved quite satisfactory. The Winter Fair this season proved a decided success, with approximately $75.00 cleared from the two concerts held in connection with this annual event.

The banquet sponsored by the Agricultural Society, and given in the Armomries in honor of James I. Seymour and Sons, owners of "Idlewylde Korndyke," the Holstein cow with a world record, was highly successful from every viewpoint, and there was a small balance on hand after all expenses had been met.

After considerable discussion it was decided to hold a Sports' Day on Thursday, June 7, when a good all-round program will be presented including a softball tournament, horse racing, foot races, etc. James L. McCamus was appointed convener of the committee to complete arrangements; sub-committees will be named at a later date. The date chosen will be the first half-holiday in June; the 3rd, which is the King's birthday, falling on a Sunday.

The meeting adjourned to meet again at the call of the president.

LEAGUE MEMBERS STUDYING SINGING

Rev. C. D. Daniel Gives Instructions to Petherick's Young People.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, April 2.—The Junior Department, under the direction of Miss Gladys Petherick, had charge of the Thursday night meeting of the Zion League. The Rev. Mr. Daniel conducted a short singing lesson, the second series of which he is giving to help train the younger members in the service of song. The devotional period was taken by Earl Fairman and the Rev. C. Daniel, while the program consisted of recitations by Doris Barnum, Cora Petherick and Arthur Petherick; monologue and topic by Gladys Petherick; reading my George Brunton; music by the Junior Choir and a vocal duet by Misses Gladys Simpson and Gladys Petherick.

Owing to the Rylstone play on Thursday evening next, the League will be held on Wednesday evening. The following week, the local debating team, Miss Nellie Bennett and Earl Fairman will go to the English Line to compete with the team there. This will take the place of the regular League meeting.

Sugar-making is rather an uncertain proceeding as yet, the weather has by no means become settled. Practically everyone in this district tapped the sugar maples during the warm spell of last week, but the sudden change in the temperature has been disastrous.

Roads are not good in this section with some parts obstructed by snow while others are axle deep with mud and ruts. These severe rainstorms and floods have washed away several culverts which makes car driving a dangerous proceeding.

A.Y.P.A. HEARS TALK ABOUT CHEMISTRY

O. R. Stalter Gives Address at Meeting of Omemee Branch.

OMEMEE, April 2.—O. R. Stalter, of the Omemee High School, was the speaker at the A.Y.P.A. weekly meeting. The title of his remarks was "The Fairyland of Chemistry", and it indeed proved to be a veritable fairyland of interest. Mr. Stalter presented in a very pleasing manner the way in which chemistry is utilizing waste material to the benefit of mankind, and gave some interesting examples of the chemist's art. Another feature of the evening was the reading of another series of the "Spotlight" the popular branch magazine. Much amusement was afforded by the facts brought to light by the beams of that interesting organ.

TEAM RUNS AWAY.

Walter Fowld's Horses Stopped By Chicken Wire—Badly Injured.

HASTINGS, April 2.—On Saturday afternoon, while unloading coal at the rear of Dr. Hess' garage, the team belonging to Walter Fowlds became frightened and ran away. They ran up Victoria Street, lightening their load of coal as they went along the street. They ran down Division Street as far as William Clapper's, where they became entangled in the chicken wire of a hen yard. While they were passing Mr. Clapper's house a wheel caught the building and thus broke the vehicle considerably.

The horses were badly bruised and bleeding considerably when found.

HOUSE BURNED WITH CONTENTS

George Sopha and Family Escape When Smoke Wakens Child.

LOSE FURNITURE.

HASTINGS, April 2.—About 2.15 on Saturday morning, fire completely demolished the home of George Sopha. The strangling cries of their younger daughter aroused the rest of the children who at once cried for their parents By this time the house was in flames and the family had a miraculous escape from death. They escaped in their night clothes, ran to a neighboring house and gave the alarm.

The fire engine was on the scene in less than half an hour, but to no avail, as the fire had gained great headway and all was a mass of flames. The entire contents of the house were destroyed, and although Mr. Sopha carried insurance on his furniture, it will only cover part of his loss.

The late snow storm of Friday was the means of saving the entire street, as the roofs were covered with snow.

The hose of the fire engine was not long enough to reach the river, and as a result the engine was forced to pump water from a pond at the northern end of the town.

All that remains of the building are the brick walls. The house was owned by James Convey and was covered with insurance.

PARENTS!

Please Explain the Drawing Contest To Your Children To Avoid Disappointment.

In order that the children may not be disappointed with the printed reproductions of their drawings in The Examiner drawing competition, will parents please read the explanation that appears with to-day's drawing and in turn explain the situation to the children? The Examiner realizes that this method of reproduction is not by any means perfect. The method used for printing photographs, however would be prohibitive in cost and would take from a week to ten days for every picture's production and this present system will give very good results if the drawings conform to the simple rules.

Tell the children, too, that so many drawings have been sent in they may have to wait a few days, but all that conform to the rules will be printed. Thank you!

Stay Young with Your Daughter

As scores of mothers do by keeping that schoolgirl complexion, the result of natural ways in skin care. The daily rule to follow:

THE present generation recognizes charm only in Youth; with every daughter wishing, in her heart, for her mother to retain, above all things, her youthful allure.

Most mothers know how true that is. And those who are wise in modern beauty methods know too that natural ways in skin care are the most effective known for holding back the hands of time.

That means soap and water—a clean skin, pores cleansed regularly of age-inviting accumulations. Beauty experts advise it. Skin specialists urge it—but always, of course, with the Right Kind of Soap. That is the important point.

The rule to follow if guarding a good complexion is your goal

So, on expert advice, more and more thousands of women turn to the balmy lather of Palmolive, used this way.

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive Soap, massaging the lather softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good old cream—that is all.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Avoid the mistake

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or one represented as of olive and palm oils, is the same as Palmolive.

And it costs but 10c the cake! So little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain a cake today. Then note what an amazing difference one week makes.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, April 2. — Mrs. Harold Rowe, Healey Falls, has been spending a few days as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lowe and Mr. and Mrs. Craig Beatty.

Charles Nadoo, who was suddenly taken ill on Saturday, is able to be about the house and expects to return to business in a few days.

The third alarm in the last few days was turned in from the box in Ward Three at about seven minutes past ten last night. Arriving at the box, the firemen found no one there, and a search of the vicinity failed to reveal any trace of fire. In their opinion, someone was playing an April Fool prank. Investigation by the police proved that the alarm was not 'phoned in, and that the glass on the alarm box had not been replaced since it was broken at noon on Friday. Thus it was an easy matter for a passing pedestrian to pull the handle as he walked along the street.

The local churches have a busy week ahead of them. Most of them are holding special services during the week, and the choirs are preparing special Easter music. In St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, there will be only one service during the week. This will be at the hour of the regular midweek prayer service on Thursday. In the United Church, all evening meetings have been dispensed with for the week in order that a special service may be held each evening, which will be conducted by the minister.

by HILDA DORAN ROSS
Home Economics Counselor

"YOU should always use tepid water (95°), not hot water, when washing silk stockings. This saves colored hose from fading and white hose from turning yellow. Never rub silk stockings unless absolutely necessary—it tears the fine, soft fibres. Rinse them in water of the same temperature and squeeze the water out or roll in a dry towel—don't wring. The secret of cleaning lies in the soap you use. My experience has taught me to depend on Princess Soap Flakes. They are so effective that you won't need hot water, and the rich suds foam through and through the silk fibres and quickly, but gently, remove dirt, without rubbing.

"You can use Princess Soap Flakes for every household washing task. They contain no harsh chemical filler or harmful free caustic which rot delicate fabrics and are so hard on your hands."

LOOK UP AND DOWN THE STREET.

The new safety first organization for children inaugurated by a Toronto newspaper has adopted a pledge as essential to membership in the club that might well be driven home to children everywhere.

It is simply this: "Remember to look up and down the street before you cross."

Such a precaution would eliminate nearly all street accidents of the type in which pedestrians are run down, and the warning is one that cannot be too often sounded to children, both in the home and at school.

It is already evident that carefulness in this respect will be more than ever necessary this year, for not only will the number of cars in commission be the greatest on record but there are signs that unless police court proceedings subdue the enthusiasm of some of the motorists there will be more than the usual amount of fast driving to contend with.

The "step-on-the-gas" complex is making its appearance with the first stretches of bare pavement, and unless the police get busy early and make an example of enough of the offenders to convince the public that traffic laws mean something, the advice "to look up and down the street before you cross" cannot safely be ignored.

FARM ACCOUNTING.

The fact that six young Peterborough County farmers have entered in the Department of Agriculture's farm accounting contest is interesting.

Far too few farmers attempt to keep anything like a complete set of books, and as a result there is probably no business in which there is so little definite information as to financial details as in agriculture, many of those engaged in it merely "going it blind" from year to year.

The agriculturist who at the end of the year knows to the last cent the cost of all his farm operations during the twelve months and has at his finger-tips all the data in regard to expenditure and income, is in a much better position to iron out weaknesses and make his farm profitable than the hit-and-miss farmer who keeps no books.

The Department of Agriculture is doing something decidedly worth while for Ontario farmers in seeking, through its annual contest, to arouse interest in farm book-keeping as an essential feature of farm life.

The local contestants, who agree to keep for one year an accurate record of expenditures and receipts, will find the task interesting and profitable, and their experience will, it is to be hoped, lead many others in their neighborhood to realize that it is good business for a farmer to know what his farm operations cost him and what he is getting out of its various departments.

THE OSHAWA STRIKE.

The amicable settlement of the strike in the General Motors plant at Oshawa is a credit to all interests concerned.

Few such walkouts involving so many men have been so quickly dealt with nor marked by such evenness of temper on both sides, and it is to be hoped that the result of the hearings of the Conciliation Board will leave both parties well satisfied.

Hon. Peter Heenan, the Federal Minister of Labor, who is able to record a series of successes as a mediator in industrial troubles, and officers of his department who were quickly on the scene when the strike began deserve congratulations upon their share in the proceedings; the management of the company showed a commendable willingness to fall in with the recommendations of the Minister of Labor and the striking employees, whose conduct during the walkout was of an exemplary nature, are also entitled to credit for readily accepting the proposal for conciliation.

Strikes are costly affairs, costly to industry, to the workers and to the public generally, and it is fortunate that in this case, as in many similar disputes in this country, there has been a spirit of fair-play and an anxiety to play the game that have hastened the conciliation proceedings.

In that respect we have perhaps been singularly fortunate in Canada where respect for law and order has prevented industrial disputes from taking the nasty turn so often found in similar controversies elsewhere.

LOCAL SCHOOLS WELL TO FRONT.

Although Peterborough's Public Schools adopted the penny bank system only a few months ago, so thoroughly have the pupils of the various local schools participated in the scheme that Peterborough now stands sixth in the list of Ontario municipalities in respect to the average weekly percentage of pupils depositing during January and February.

Ridgetown schools show the highest percentage, 88 per cent., followed by Cornwall, Weston, Strathroy and Mount Brydges, and then Peterborough with 67 per cent. —a splendid average considering that the schools in 67 other centres had a lower percentage, and that the percentage of all the municipalities in Ontario operating penny banks was only 31 per cent.

There are now 351 schools in the Province in which this form of thrift education is being encouraged, as compared with 303 a year ago, while the total deposits amount to $996,333.78, as against $857,863.49 for the same date last year.

Peterborough's pupils at the end of February had $4,084.92 on deposit, and the average weekly percentage of pupils depositing in the local schools was as follows:

King George School	81
King Edward School	69
Central School	67
Queen Mary	65
Prince of Wales	63
Queen Alexandra	63

The showing of the local schools is most gratifying to those who have long urged the desirability of Peterborough establishing the penny bank system.

MR. BENNETT AND THE WOMEN POLITICIANS.

A French cynic once wrote that bachelorhood denoted a profound knowledge of women. We are not prepared to say, and, indeed, we should be sorry to say, that this acid phrase correctly describes the reasons for the matrimonial shyness of either of our two great party leaders. We are struck, however by the penetrating knowledge of women politicians, expressed most gracefully, but with singular courage, by Mr. Bennett, on the occasion of his meeting with the Conservative women of Ottawa. The Opposition leader, had he less of knowledge, or more of blarney, or a fondness for comfortable phrases of flattery, might have made himself a prince of good fellows, and the hero of many Ottawa drawing rooms on Monday night, by the easy process of telling his feminine hearers that they were now, each and all of them, the arbiters of our destiny. He told them a very different story. What he administered was a sugar-coated pill.

Only a few days ago this great family journal timidly ventured to suggest that women, if they wished to take a real part in politics, should not be content with a favored seat on a political platform, or with the murmuring of ideals, but must get right down into the dusty arena and bear some of the burdens of the day. As a reward for our frankness we received a communication from a lady who, feeling herself scorned, had all of the proverbial fury, and who proceeded, figuratively speaking, to scratch out our eyes, the while pitying our intelligence.

Mr. Bennett, if he witnessed our tribulation, was unterrified. And so on Monday, while his fair hearers delicately munched their lettuce sandwiches and skilfully balanced their tea-cups, he repeated (though with much more grace) nearly everything that we said.

He told them they must organize. It is a fine thing to have a great cause, and banners with noble mottoes, and resounding battle-cries, but these things, Mr. Bennett averred, do not win elections. Elections, on the contrary, are won by organization, won by men and women engaging in a lot of unpleasant drudgery, in going to homes and talking to people, in compiling and checking voters' lists, in organizing wards and sub-divisions, in getting out the voters. This work is not spectacular. It is often dull and prosaic; it is sometimes despised; and it involves a lot of inconvenience and toil and trial upon one's temper. But it is the real spade-work of an election. Far more effective, far more real, than sitting on platforms, or having one's name on the list of national committees.

But hear Mr. Bennett:

"I have not yet met women in Canada as well informed in public questions as the women of England. Even the charwomen in the Old Land have a full appreciation of what the budget means to them. The shop-girls, too, are well informed on all public questions."

And again:

"You must organize, and that to the last subdivision. The workers in that sub-division must consider the most important election is that in their own section. Do not be so interested in what is going on so far from home; but be keen to win the election in your own sub-division."

A telling sentence, that last one. Winston Churchill once said that he had no use for those democrats who were forever championing the rights and liberties of the downtrodden in far countries, but who would not speak to a workman when they met him on the road. It is the same in politics. There are men—and women—who fix such rapt gaze upon the horizon that they cannot see the ground before their feet. While they are content to speak fine phrases, and to deal with politics as an abstract thing, other men, more practical, grapple with realities and gather in the votes. In politics, everybody cannot be statesmen.

But hear Mr. Bennett again:

"If you really desire to organize, do it thoroughly, to the last sub-division. Get to know how every woman in your district will vote. And do not always depend upon what they themselves say. You know most women have tendencies before they have convictions."

Summed up, Mr. Bennett, we should say, psychonalyzed women in politics. Unerringly, he put his finger upon their weak spot—their tendency to regard politics as a privilege, a field where the palm may be had without the dust. The same criticism—or is diagnosis the word?—could be made of men, perhaps; but that is not the point. For the position, after all, was that we must men had been charged with making a mess of politics, whereupon woman was to come with a flaming sword to purge it of its evils!—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

After announcing he was going back to a normal life, Lindbergh is now intimated Lindbergh is to attempt a flight around the world. That's a queer sort of normalcy.

Two hundred and forty-four members of the Chamber of Commerce voted at the annual election. That is a high percentage than is usually registered at municipal elections.

It seems difficult for the City Council to arrive at a concise policy in regard to street paving.

The Director of Colonization for Canada's National Railways says that there is no use of the Dominion looking to Great Britain for the population she needs. But he doesn't explain why Australia succeeds in securing a steady flow of immigrants from the Old Country.

That row about the Senate's desire to take a more active part in public affairs may have been grossly exaggerated.

"Again," says the Globe, "the time is 'not quite ripe' for township school boards, and the bill is laid over. The sunshine of progress is a weak gleam in this field of education."

It must be boring. The Oxford-Cambridge boat race was held on Sunday.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, April 2 (Canadian Press). — There was no improvement in the foreign demand for grain in the Montreal market on Saturday, the only business reported being sales of a few loads of tough No. 3 Canadian Western oats for May loading, and an odd load or two of scalpings for nearby shipment. The local and outside demand for oats was much better than it has been of late, and a fair amount of business was accomplished for all-rail and opening of navigation shipment from Fort William. The spot market was steady.

Prices for all grades of spring wheat flour were firmly maintained under a moderate inquiry from local and foreign buyers. The movement of winter wheat flour continued limited, but values were firm.

The domestic trade in all lines of millfeed continued active, but demand from United States buyers was dull. Prices were unchanged. A moderate amount of business was done in standard grades of rolled oats at steady prices.

The egg market continued active and firm. The receipts on Saturday were 3,522 cases.

Little business was done in butter owing to the fact that the demand was confined to small lots. The undertone was firm . The receipts were 161 packages.

Extreme dullness again marked the trade in cheese, but values were unchanged. The receipts were 97 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 2 (Canadian Press). — Active speculative buying lifted the wheat market on Saturday to the topmost prices which deferred deliveries have reached yet this season. Private crop estimates due on Monday are expected to show a smaller domestic winter wheat crop in prospect than a year ago. Heavy profit-taking sales, however, by the holders of wheat brought about a reaction.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, ⅝c net lower to an equal advance, with corn ¼c off to ½c up, oats unchanged to 1c down, and provisions varying from 17c decline to a rise of 15c, contributing impetus on Saturday to the upward swing of the wheat market here was an unexpected advance in quotations at Liverpool accompanied by reports that India was buying wheat in Australia.. Official advices were also at hand telling of unfavorable weather and crop conditions in Europe with wheat and rye both below the level of February 1, 1928, as well as March 1, 1927. Word of India purchasing from Australia attracted special notice because the Australian visible supply at present is but 36,000,000 bushels against 58,000,000 bushels a year ago.

Unofficial April crop estimates to be issued to-day will be figured on the basis of average abandonment of acreage rather than on actual loss. Meanwhile, however, indications were persistent of crop damage in the central domestic wheat belt and there was talk about the lack of rain where needed in other sections. On the other hand, export demand on Saturday for wheat from North America was slow and week-end adjustment of future delivery trades tended further to pull the market down from the day's best figures.

Corn and oats were governed largely by the action of wheat. Argentine advices said that about one-fifth of the estimated reportable surplus of the new Argentine corn crop has been sold for forward shipment to Europe. No fresh export business in United States corn on Saturday was announced.

For the most part, provisions were easy on account of scattered selling.

kling through from the ice field. Her inhabitants have discussed the situation and speculated as to just what was occurring. As the wind shifted and changed, the ice field moved further and further from the shore until yesterday morning it was estimated to be nearly twenty miles from Long Point, which is itself twenty-one miles from this port. The ice was jammed all the way to the American shore yesterday and the Vermont with the Jean F in tow bucked her way to the Canadian side of the ice field, this being the easiest way out of a difficult situation. All Saturday night and yesterday the people of the village kept a close watch and shortly after twelve o'clock word came that boats were returning to the harbor. There was a grand rush for the docks and almost immediately the Vermont felt her way carefully into the harbor, while the Jean F lay a short way out. As the Vermont came in the Jean F proceeded under her own power and stoutly nosed into the dock, while the crowd which had gathered cheered wildly. There were mad scenes of excitement as friends and relatives of the eight men rushed to greet them while cameras clicked and the newspapermen grabbed the men for interviews.

Went Calmly About Work

Immediately the first rush was over the Jean F's crew, true to the traditions of the Lakes, went calmly about their work piling the fish boxes and stowing their nets away. Later they were taken to their homes, everyone being in good spirits but all needing shaves and clothes badly.

SECOND CHAMBER FINALLY CLOSED

Nova Scotia Legislative Council Leaves Office at Prorogation.

HALIFAX, April 2.—(Canadian Press).—Friday saw the prorogation of the third session of the provincial legislature since the advent of the Conservative Government after forty three years of Liberal regime. It was also the occasion of the disappearance from Nova Scotia of the bicameral system of parliament, Premier Rhodes witnessing the successful culmination of his efforts, instituted at his first session, to abolish the legislative council.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

Editor, The Examiner, Peterborough.

Dear Sir:

In the issue of March 24, under the heading "Chips and Shavings" Allan Fairbairn, through the medium of the fictitious John Plane, made a decidedly ill-advised attempt to present in a questionable humorous manner, a review of "Memoirs of Mary Baker Eddy". After acknowledging through his imaginary spokesman that he had not read the book Mr. Fairbairn proceeded with the attempted review, and under such circumstances the result could not be anything but complete failure. The book referred to is not in circulation and therefore should not be selected for revnew by any fair-minded person. The facts are that in the Christian Science organization, provision is made for the proper editing and publishing of all authorized Christian Science literature. When this book appeared without such proper authorization, it was found, while substantially correct in detail, to be somewhat distorted, and not likely to give a proper impression to those unfamiliar with the exact teachings of Christian Science, and was not considered by those in a position to pass judgment, to correctly represent the wishes of Mrs. Eddy in the matter, nor the intentions of Mr. Dickey from whose notes the editing was done. Consequently the book was immediately and quite properly withdrawn and all copies returned.

Before proceeding with the article in question, Mr. Fairbairn would have been well advised to have considered the desirability of treating the beliefs held sacred by thousands of persons, with at least reasonable respect. Quite irrespective of an inability to understand or appreciate the teachings of Christian Science, the great majority of thinking per sons are honest enough to freely admit the impersonal and self-sacrificing nature of Mrs. Eddy's efforts to help a sin burdened and suffering humanity to realize freedom. Thousands of persons restored to lives of usefulness and happiness through the light afforded by the teachings of Christian Science, are grateful beyond expression for the beneficient influence of Mrs. Eddy's life work. These facts should be, and in most instances are, amply sufficient to assure respectful consideration; and most certainly, should not inspire one to ill-advised attempts at ridicule which in this instance border very closely on insult and perhaps to sacrilege.

References to one statement may suffice as an example of the unfair nature of the whole article. The writer said, "It is something for which we ought to be deeply grateful to Mrs. Eddy. That she ever gave God credit for anything without claiming the lion's share for herself is something to marvel at." This expression contains enough unkindness and lack of Christian charity to perhaps account for the whole effort and conveys the exact opposite of truth. Any person with even a slight knowledge of the correct import of the teachings of Christian Science, knows how consistently, persistently, and effectively Mrs. Eddy withdrew her own personality. Her writings are absolutely permeated with the fact of God's omnipotence and everpresence. To suggest otherwise is to misunderstand a positive truth. For example, in Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, Mrs. Eddy has written, "For God is infinite, all-power, all Life, Truth, Lover, over all and all" (p.17). And again, "There is no power apart from God. Omnipotence has all power, and to acknowledge any other power is to dishonor God" (p.228).

In the consideration of religious topics and especially of Christianity, brotherly love and true Christian charity should afford ample incentive for all deliberations, and there certainly should be no place for any condition of thought not commensurate with the mind of Christ. Such is the intention of this corrective letter.

$20,000 IN FURS IN SHOW WINDOW

Barries Has Display of Foxes, Mostly Raised in This District.

"Twenty thousand dollars' worth of silver and black fox furs to choose from-" That's what the shopper on George street reads on a neatly printed sign, surrounded by an unique display of furs in the windows of Barrie's store.

The entire display was made up in the firm's factory here; the furs coming from various fox farms in Peterborough and neighboring counties as well as distant points. In conversation with a member of the staff, it was stated that this display, and similar ones likely to follow, are arranged especially to attract the tourist from across the border, who finds that he can buy a better fur at much lower cost than in his own country, due to the heavy duty. There are furs in the windows ranging from one hundred to four hundred dollars.

SACRED CANTATA AT GEORGE STREET

Choir Sings "The Darkest Hour" at Evening Service on Sunday.

A very large congregation was present at George Street United Church yesterday evening. The choir of 44 voices rendered a sacred cantata, "The Darkest Hour," by Harold Moore, in an excellent manner, the voices blending beautifully. They showed the fine training imparted by the director, G. F. Liddle, and the efforts of the members themselves in the response necessary to produce such a fine offering. The passion music illustrates what the words imply. The solos were excellent, all the singers seeming to surpass themselves, and taking their respective parts in a very effective manner. Mrs. G. F. Liddle was narrator, E. Rowe, High Priest, A. V. Lillow, Pilate, Douglas Carlisle, Jesus. Miss Daisy Murray sang several soprano solos, being particularly good in "God So Loved the World."

GOD'S MINUTE

Thy prayers and thy alms are come up before God.—Acts 10:4.

Our Father in Heaven we thank Thee for teaching us to value this moment of looking up to Thee at the commencement of the day—lest we forget the purpose Thou gavest it for.

We thank Thee that Thou hast placed us in a world that needs today what we can give it and so gives dignity and meaning to our transient lives.

Teach us this day to do the thing that pleases Thee and so through all its difficulties and all its disappointments enjoy the peace that passes understanding that shall make us cheerful at all times.

We thank Thee for the knowledge of Thy love that forgives our sins; may we reflect it to-day, seeing only the best that is in others, that we may be kind all the day through. Enable us to "serve" and to "give."

Save us from the selfishness that blinds and from the conceit that cannot walk by faith, and enable us to let our light shine, that men may glorify Thee to-day for having seen us—for Thine is the power and the glory, for ever. Amen.

WIN SECOND GAME.

WINDSOR, Ont., April 2.—(Canadian Press).—Windsor Collegiate Alumni basketball team, last year's Dominion finalists against Winnipeg Tallers, Saturday night easily took the second game of the Ontario senior finals from Hamilton Y.M.C.A. The score was 32-17. A third game will be necessary, as Hamilton won their home contest a week ago by two points, after Windsor lost three of their regular players from fouls and injuries. The deciding game, it is expected, will be staged in a London gymnasium, next Saturday night.

Don't let the Martins get away from you!

"I'M sorry the Martins are moving away," said Mrs. Drummond to her husband. "It will mean that we are going to lose track of some very nice people!"

"I don't see why it should. If a good customer of mine moves away we follow him up by Long Distance. Don't let a little thing like distance separate you from the Martins!"

A great change has come over Long Distance telephoning. Now it is almost as rapid as local telephoning. You give Long Distance the distant number and, in a great majority of cases she is able to make connection while you hold the line. The Long Distance operator will look up the distant number for you, if you don't know it, and tell you what it is.

Still better, give us a list of the friends or customers you are likely to talk with. We will add the numbers and return the list to you.

ADMIRAL USED STRONG WORDS SAYS ACCUSED

INCENSED AT DANCE.

GIBRALTAR, April 2 (Canadian Press Cable).—Because the starboard and not the port accommodation ladder was prepared for Rear-Admiral Bernard St. G. Collard, at Malta, on March 5, and because some of the women guests at a dance aboard the battleship Royal Oak were "wall flowers," the Admiral became abusive and said he was "fed up" with the ship.

This testimony was brought out in the opening session Saturday of the court martial which is trying Commander H. M. Daniel on charges of breaches of naval discipline. It was adduced before eight captains from ships of the British Mediterranean Fleet who sat in full regalia, including hats, and listened to the reading of letters in which Commander Daniel reported the incidents to Captain Kenneth Dewar. Captain Dewar's trial is to follow the Daniel hearing.

There was a sharp passage-at-arms when the Read-Admiral took the stand and Day Kimball, former assistant Attorney-General of Massachusetts, and now a British barrister acting as counsel for Daniel, tried to cross-examine him. Mr. Kimball asked the widest latitude in pressing his questions, but after a long discussion in camera, the court ruled that the Read-Admiral's conduct, as such, could not be inquired into.

The court-martial, which took place on the aircraft carrier Eagle in the harbor here, furnished a most impressive spectacle. Shortly after the eight o'clock gun was fired, Commander Daniel and Captain Dewar arrived on the Eagle, the latter accompanied by his wife, from whom he parted at the gangway. Admiral Collard came next, and finally the members of the court, led by Captain Burgess-Watson, president. All the members of the court wore frock coats, epaulettes and cocked hats and carried swords. Each was piped aboard will full honors.

The three officers figuring in the dispute also wore formal dress, while Mr. Day Kimball, counsel, appeared in the ordinary garb of a British barrister. In the space where the court assembled a provost marshal with drawn sword stood behind Commander Daniel. The charges against Daniel were read by the Judge Advocate General. Commander Daniel pleading not guilty.

At the close of the prosecution's case some witnesses were called by the court, including Captain Osborne, who took over the Royal Oak on March 3. He found that discipline and morals were "very high indeed," he said. Rear-Admiral Collard was not on board when he arrived. Other officers gave similar evidence.

Daniel Did Duty

Day Kimball, defence counsel, in a speech for the defence, said that he hoped to show that Collard's conduct was so serious that it was the duty of Commander Daniel to take some action. It was the Commander's duty to keep the Captain informed, he said. A close confidential relationship must exist between them. The accused honestly believed that the state of affairs alleged really existed. Was a man punishable, he asked, if he made a complaint through the proper quarters against his superior or put on paper what he would have said in the captain's room? The prosecutor submitted that Daniel's criticism of the conduct and possible future conduct of Collard was subversive of discipline and contrary to regulations.

Captain Dewar's letter to Kallay, read by the Judge Advocate, showed that Dewar expressed reluctance to make a complain against his superior but that he felt it his duty to do so when discipline was undermined. Dewar referred in his letter to the lagged threat of Rear-Admiral Collard on the occasion of the dance in January aboard the Royal Oak in the presence of several guests that if Dewar did not make Commander Daniel do his duty introducing people he (Collard) would make him do it. The letter said that arrangements in regard to introductions had been made previously.

Later in the evening, Captain Dewar's letter continued, Collard abused the bandmaster before the whole band and several guests, saying that he had never heard "such a bloody noise" in his life, and that the bandmaster should be sent home.

The band was dismissed and a jazz band summoned. Dewar protested, according to the latter, and there nearly was another scene. The attack on the bandmaster caused great discontent and disgust throughout the ship. Next day the bandmaster desired to resign and forfeit his pension. Collard denied to the chaplain, Dewar's letter said, that he had called the bandmaster a "bad name," but investigation, the latter continued, conclusively proved that he had.

Dewar said that he did his best to restore the personal prestige of the admiral and these efforts were met with considerable success until the incident of March 5 when the admiral desired to leave the ship. Collard then complained that he could not get a single order obeyed on "this bloody boat—no ladder—no nothing," that he was treated worse than a midshipman, and that he would ask that his flag be shifted.

When he returned to the ship the day after that incident in regard to the manning of his barge, Dewar's letter related, he adopted an insulting attitude towards the officers and ignored his salute.

Admiral Gives Version.

In his evidence, Rear-Admiral Collard gave his version of the incidents mentioned in previous testimony, saying that at the dance in January he had noticed a lot of ladies sitting out without partners, although there were a number of men standing about. He twice drew Dewar's attention to the situation, but it was not remedied, so he had said to Captain Dewar: "Well, you have got to make that commander of yours do his job, and if you don't I will."

Referring to the band incident, Rear-Admiral Collard said that the bandmaster apparently was half asleep and was not taking the slightest interest in the dance. The result was a "frost." He had told Daniel that it was simply impossible to dance to the last tune played, and he and the commander had gone to the bandmaster. "I told him I never had heard such a bloody awful noise in all my life called dance music, and that he must improve matters," Collard related. The bandmaster had expressed regret. Collard declared that he had told the commander that "you cannot have a bloody man like that in charge of the flagship's band. We will have to get rid of him." The band played for two more dances and then was replaced by a volunteer band. His remark to the bandmaster was not made in the hearing of guests. He had indignantly denied to the chaplain, Rear-Admiral Collard said, that he had called the bandmaster a foul name.

Collard said that Daniel, when interrogated, had said that Collard had used an offensive term to the bandmaster as he was walking away. Daniel later reported, after a conversation with the bandmaster, that the incident could be regarded as closed. Collard denied the accuracy of Dewar's account of the disembarkation incident on March 5. He had said to Dewar: "I am sick of you as a flag captain. Either you will have to go or I will shift my flag." He denied that anybody but Dewar had heard what he said. He saluted the quarterdeck as usual on his return the following day. Collard's cross-examination occupied two and one-quarter hours.

Several witnesses described the wardroom incidents when Daniel asked the officers to give evidence at the court inquiry.

The court was adjourned until to-day, when Daniel is to give his evidence.

JACK MINER AND THE BIRDS
AND SOME THINGS ABOUT NATURE

A Republication of the Book by Permission of the Author, Jack Miner of Kingsville, Ont.

CHAPTER I.
Who is Jack Miner?

Now, as you have this story in your hands and have looked at the name of the writer, I imagine I can see you raise your head, as your eyelids come down for an instant. "Who is Jack Miner? Who is Jack Miner?" This thought repeatedly flashes through your mind.

Well, let me assure you of this fact, that Jack Miner is not Old Bill Miner, nor Jesse James, and although I have been reared in the woods, that is no evidence that I have split feet and antlers. But I will admit there has been many a time in my life that if you could have seen me you would have thought you were looking over Esau's line-fence.

However, just who I am is a question I am not prepared to answer, as it is not a history of my life I am supposed to be writing; but in a few brief words will say that my dear mother's people that are in America are a good, self-sacrificing, respectable, God-fearing people. And my father never had but one full sister; yet, he said, where he lacked in quantity he made up in quality. Father and mother were both born in Leicestershire, England. As to my father, I know he was a truthful, honest man, and, according to his own story, he was raised on the toe of a step-father's boot. A few years after he graduated from this lofty position, he followed mother and her people to America, and eventually overtook them in the good old State of Ohio, and on the 10th day of April, 1865, I was born, barefoot. According to my oldest brother's statement, father was at that time quite down-hearted over the fact that his old favorite yellow tom-cat had been coming home absent for about two weeks, and he had given up all hope; but as soon as I arrived and he saw my complexion, he took me out and laid me in brother's arms, and as he raised up he clapped his hands together, quite cheerful, and said, "Ted, we'll call him John Thomas." John Thomas it really is. Fortunately, my friends have shortened it down to just Jack.

We were very poor financially, and as I was second-oldest boy in a family of ten children, I had to put a shoulder to the wheel and help roll the bread-wagon. The result is I was educated for ditching, cutting cord-wood, and splitting rails. In the spring of 1878 father decided to migrate, and at the age of thirteen I was liberated here in Canada, a sportsman's paradise. I took to the woods as naturally as a park hare, and I know I was father's favorite because he always called me to build the fire in the morning, and when the other boys would lodge a tree I have often heard him shout, "Come out and come away from it! You'll get 'urt! Leave it w'ile Jack comes; 'e'll go hunder and cut it down." If we were splitting rails, father always set the wedges, permitting me to handle the maul.

Father and mother enjoyed life together nearly sixty years and put up with the mingled enjoyment and annoyance of us ten children. How some of father's teachings still ring in my ears! When I have gone to him with complaints about others he has often said, "Shut up; I don't want to 'ear it. But if you have some of your own failings to tell, let's 'ear 'um." Yes, he was always short but to the point. One piece of advice that he gave us boys I have always tried to practise; that was: whenever we grabbed hold of anything and found it was red-hot, to drop it.

But now let me lay these smiling facts aside for a few seconds and close my introduction to you in real earnest. For, outside of unavoidable sadness, my life has been one continuous round of enjoyment made up of failures and disappointments and dark, stormy clouds, which have been completely trampled out of existence by success that in every case exceeded my expectations, and has caused the sun to shine so brightly that it has illumined my path clear up to the Great Divide, and given me an imaginary glimpse of the beautiful Beyond.

CHAPTER II.
My First Pet.

Well, the first pet I can remember having was a young blue jay. I was, of course, very anxious that he should live, so I filled him to the top with fish worms. The next morning the blue was there, but the jay was silent.

The next I have any recollection of was when father took our pet 'possum by the handle and wound it around the corner of the old stable, to settle a quarrel which arose between my brother and myself over its ownership.

I remember I started one spring with a pair of white rabbits, and when fall came, I had every box on the premises full; even father's old wagon-box was turned up-side-down with a snarl of rabbits under it, and when he used the box my troubles were many. As I knew how to set traps around my rabbit pens I am strongly of the opinion that some of the neighbors' cats haven't got home yet.

How well do I recollect seeing the wild geese, and hearing their "Honk! Honk!" as I strained my young eyes to see them 'way up there, often having to look twice before seeing them, as they passed, in spring and fall, over the good old State of Ohio on their migrating trips. Oh, how I used to stand with clenched hands and wish I were a man so I could follow them somewhere and secure one, but not until I got to Canada did the real fun begin.

All kinds of game, and such a variety of pets as I had; squirrels, coons, foxes, crows and ravens, and I even got a nest of young hen hawks and kept them until father found it out. You know in those days there was one day in the week that we did not work, and I made every minute count; and although I had miles and miles of woods to roam through, night and day, yet my ambition was a little higher. So I secured a pair of tree-climbers, and then there was no tree high enough for Mrs. Crow or Mrs. Hawk to raise her young so as to be out of my reach.

Well do I remember shooting my first deer, and how I burglarized the top shelf of the pantry to get one of my mother's old pewter spoons. This spoon had a great handle to its history, being handed down from somewhere this side of Noah. I pounded it, to remove the ancient look, melted it and ran seven small bullets, while my unsuspicious mother looked on at the operation of melting and moulding. By daylight the snow had ceased falling, and I put the seven balls in the "thumb-hand" barrel of the old shot-gun and started on my first deer hunt. By noon I was back with a fine deer, and if I had had a melted spoon in the other barrel I surely would have killed two.

A LESSON ON BEEF MEAT

Many families do not use as much meat as they should because they consider it too expensive. But the truth is, there is hardly a food substance which contains so much valuable nourishment in the same amount at the same price.

One fault is that most people use too much meat at a meal when a quarter to a half pound of lean meat a day is the most healthful amount for the adult. Another point which is not generally realized is that the cheaper cuts of meat are just as nutritious and can be made just as appetizing as the more expensive sirloin and porterhouse steaks. There is a limited amount of these so-called choice cuts of meat, and the high prices prevail largely because the general public will not buy the cheaper but as highly nutritious parts.

For ordinary family use the housewife with a limited allowance for food should use more care and study in selecting the less expensive meats.

American prime beef has earned the reputation of being the best in the world. This is because of recent improvements in breeding, feeding, and shipping. At one time the longhorn Texas steer was the accepted American type, but this steer is now virtually obsolete, as the result of mixed breeding with high class imported stock. Range feeding exclusively has been succeeded by grain feeding, scientifically controlled for a long time before slaughtering.

The average American consumes one hundred and seventy-five pounds of meat a year, while English people only average one hundred and ten pounds per capita. The French eat only about one-twentieth as much as the English, and the Germans, Austrians and Italians even less than this.

Beef can be considered both as a flesh forming and energy food as it contains fifteen and twenty per cent of protein, and also a considerable amount of fat. Beef is at its best after it has been hung for awhile and aged. Fresh beef even cut from young animals is tougher than older meat which has been properly aged.

The best beef when fresh has a light colored fat. Beef with a yellow fat must be looked upon with suspicion, although, this is not a sure sign that the meat is not wholesome. If the purchaser wishes to be sure of good steer meat, it is best not to buy the meat in a cut rate shop as the cheap beef sold in these stores is liable to be cow meat, and not equal in quality to the steer meat which is by far the best beef to use.

Good steer meat will have a fine, firm, smooth texture and the flesh will be a bright red color intermixed with fine streaks of white fat. It should retain the impression of the finger after it is removed. Old or tough beef is elastic to the touch, while meat that is either too light in color or a deep purple should be avoided. Good beef should not have a sickly smell, or be wet and flabby.

Boneless cuts are often sold by the retailer. This meat may be excellent if the butcher removes the bone himself, but many butchers purchase their "boneless cuts" from the packing houses. These are easy for the inexperienced butcher to handle, but some claim that the meat deteriorates rapidly after so prepared and shipped.

Questions and Answers.

Question: N. D. W. asks: "Is there any help for my father, who has a "woozy" feeling in his head and sometimes falls, otherwise seems well.

Answer: It is not possible for me to diagnose cases by mail as well as your family physician can who has the opportunity to physically examine your father. A good diagnosis should determine the cause of his trouble.

Question: R. L. asks: "Are Shredded Wheat Biscuits an alkaline or acid food? Should salt be used in cooking oatmeal or other cereals? If so, how much salt to a pint of water?"

Answer: Shredded Wheat is made of shreds of real wholewheat and then toasted. It can be considered a neutral food, according to the acid and alkaline classification. I do not advocate seasoning any cereals while they are cooking. Oatmeal may be seasoned afterwards with salt, butter or cream, but no sugar.

Question: Mrs. M. W. asks: "What is the treatment for lack of hydrochloric acid?"

Answer: Many people who think they have a lack of hydrochloric acid have received this impression after having a laboratory test made of the stomach contents, pumped out after a meal of crackers and water, or toast and tea. This is an unreliable test for stomach acidity, as no gastric juice is needed to digest either the toast or the crackers. If any acid at all is found in this test, it is probably due to over-acidity; but, on the other hand, a total lack of hydrochloric acid in the gastric juice does not indicate anything in particular unless the test is made after a meal where some protein has been taken. The importance of such tests is often overestimated. If there is really a lack of hydrochloric acid, the best treatment is to stimulate the gastric secretions by the use of fruit juices taken either as a fast, or used an hour before meals.

ARCHIBALD LAMPMAN.

Rich in Indian lore, and teeming with memories of French voyageurs and British pioneers, as is the district between the City of Peterborough and the shores of Rice Lake, it is extremely probable that in the near future, its chief claim to fame will be that it was the scene of the boyhood days of one of Canada's best loved and most distinctively national poets and men of letters. Everyone knows that, without their connection with Burns, Ayr and Alloway would be obscure localities unknown beyond the Scottish border, and without the memory of Shakespeare that enshrouds it, Stratford-on-Avon would be merely one of many pretty English provincial towns. And the fact that Gore's Landing, on Rice Lake, was the site of the boyhood home of Archibald Lampman is sufficient to render it a place of no small importance to the student of Canadian literature.

To-day, almost thirty years after his premature death, Lampman's place is secure among the small but growing band of Canadian poets who have won a place in the world's literature. No one who calls himself a Canadian can afford to remain ignorant of the language and images of this poet. One can almost become conscious of the tang of the Canadian soil in these poems. Lampman to-day is being studied in some of our most important seats of learning. Ten of his poems are included in the Canadan section of the volume of Representative Poetry, which is presented for the reading of the advanced classes in English at Toronto and McMaster Universities.

He has been called one of the gentlest of our poets and his temperament and work well deserve the epithet.

Born at Morpeth

Archibald Lampman was born on November 17, 1861, at the rectory in Morpeth, Ontario, where his father was a clergyman of the Church of England. Both his parents were of United Empire Loyalist stock. The house in which he was born was a plain, old-fashioned frame structure of a type that is very familiar to all the small towns of this continent. Morpeth is on the north shore of Lake Erie, and the poet's earliest recollections were of the vast inland ocean, so sudden in storms, so beguiling in calm—meet playground for a child of the muses. The house remained standing until the early years of the present century when it was torn down to give place to a more up to date building which was erected as a parsonage. Already many expressions of regret have been heard from Canadians interested in the history of their country that some steps were not taken to save from demolition a house so connected in sentiment, with the beginning of a distinctively Canadian literature. In the little village there were (and possibly still are scores of houses that could have been secured for the site of a new parsonage without interfering with a building which should now be the property of the Dominion or the Province.

Lampman received his first instructions in prosody from his father—a poet and scholar himself. His mother, too, who spent her last years in Winnipeg, was an educated woman, with a strong practical bent to her mental qualities, and who took a deep interest in the development of her boy's poetical gifts.

Seven Years On Rice Lake.

For about seven years, from his sixth to his thirteenth birthdays, he lived amid the ideal scenery around Gore's Landing, Rice Lake, where, to quote the words of another sweet singer of Canada, Duncan Campbell Scott, the biographer of Lampman, "the scenery seemed enchanted, the society was congenial, and many forces united to strengthen his love of nature and his powers of observation." It is well nigh impossible to over-estimate the influence on the development of Lampman's genius of the beautiful and romantic surroundings of his boyhood and his poetry is rich with the magic of those woods and shores. He absorbed much of the Indian tradition with which the region is saturated.

While at Gore's Landing, he suffered a serious illness—an attack of rheumatic fever which left him lame for many years. During his enforced confinement to bed he read omnivorously. As a very small boy, he was passionately devoted to the reading of history. Strangely enough, in one who was so gentle and tender hearted, he was a great admirer of the arch-destroyer, Napoleon.

At Trinity College School.

His early instruction he received from his father, later being sent to Trinity College School, Port Hope, which has produced so many men of mark as was attested by the grief with which the news of the recent disastrous fire was received in all parts of Canada. Under the guidance of a skillful and sympathetic teacher, he learned not so much how to be a scholar as how to be a man. He was, however, a brilliant student, and during his years at Trinity College School, earned for himself a name for scholarship that followed him to Trinity College. His life at the famous Toronto college did not bear out his scholastic record, for he spent much time, which rightly belonged to his studies, to social intercourse or in perusing books of travel and history. The poets, too, he read with keen delight ,especially Keats, whose life in some respects resembled his own.

The enjoyment received from his college training more than compensated him for the feelings of his friends, when he graduated with but second class honors, which by a little more application might have become of great distinction.

Teaches in School.

The practical commercial style of life did not appeal to him. He disliked occupation that demanded routine. His first venture, into the realm of teaching in Orangeville High school, was brief and disastrous. Although there was no breaking of the morale of scholars in those days by public discussions as to the advisability of abolishing strapping in schools, Lampman's experiment came to grief through his failure as a disciplinarian. Next he obtained a clerkship in the post office department of the Civil Service at Ottawa, and the Capital city was his home for the rest of his life. Here he found the atmosphere more congenial to his nature loving spirit, for the wild beauty of the northern wilderness quite harmonized with his mood.

Fondness for Nature.

He was so fond of being alone with nature and listening to her voices, that each year he refreshed both body and soul by a trip into the great wilderness of the upper lakes, and it was upon one of these trips that he received the strain from which developed the heart trouble that in February, 1899, caused his death.

His poems, which record the impressions and meditations of his walks and excursions about Ottawa were published in the volumes, "Among the Millet," in 1888, and "Lyrics of Earth," 1893. A complete collection of his works, edited by Duncan Campbell Scott, was issued in 1908. During his last years, his health became more and more a matter of concern to him, and bodily weakness, necessitating many absences from office work, gave him increased leisure for meditation and composition. He fought disease and death as valiantly as did Henley or Stevenson, and the effect on his verse is seen in a plaintive seriousness and a touch of the pessimism that one meets with in the poems of Matthew Arnold.

Careful Worker.

He was scrupulously careful concerning form and finish and had a conscience about fine shades of meaning. He considered that his sonnets were his best work—an opinion, however, that is not shared by many of his present day students and lovers, who find their greatest delight in his longer poems. Every season and month and phase of nature in the Ottawa Valley has been treated in his works. Among the personal poems are two revealing his grief for a dead child. But the "Lyrics of Earth" are written in more cheerful vein and reveal the poet as finding like Wordsworth true joy and inspiration from nature herself.

While his work is strongly individual and distinctive he owes a great deal to the influence of two of his favorite poets, Spenser and Keats. Both these poets set their seal on their Canadian lover. Of course, Lampson's setting is almost entirely Canadian, and he looks upon our familiar fields and forests with close and clear observation, but through a mellow haze.

He wrote not for gain, and his income from his writings was never at any time more than a mere fraction of that earned by some of our popular song writers. Simplicity of style and a sense of the beauty of the things of everyday life pervaded his writings, and this same freedom from affectation and sincerity of purpose were characteristic of the man which struck even the most casual of his acquaintances.

How He Looked.

Another impression of Lampman is worth setting down here. A description of the poet as seen by a younger man who himself achieved a reputation as a writer of range and power. This was Arthur Stringer, who spent an evening with Lampman at the Montreal home of Dr. W. H. Drummond, author of many famous poems descriptive of the habitant of Lower Canada. The meeting took place shortly before Lampman's death. Stringer describes him as "a small man, with a small yellow beard. He was carelessly, but perhaps not shabbily dressed. His face was long and thin, and as delicately moulded as a woman's. In fact the gentleness of his meditative eyes at once brought back to my mind some earlier suggestions of the frequent effeminacy of earth's men of genius. You see it in the portrait of Shelley at Oxford. It looks out at you from the likeness of Shakespeare at Stratford. It haunts you after seeing Raphael's portrait of himself in the Vatican. And then again I saw it in the living and breathing Lampman."

The more we study Lampman the more beauty we see in the nature of the country we live in ,and the more we study nature the more we see to love in Lampman.

The little things that most men pass unnoticed were to him objects for thoughts and for poems, as may be seen by merely scanning his titles. He takes a very commonplace subject, "Frogs," for instance and produces a beautiful poem. As we run over the index pages, we find the poems to number two hundred and thirty-seven, and of these, one hundred and seventeen are seen to be purely nature poems; at least eight others, such as "Freedom," give no indication by their title that they are nature poems, but when read through are found to be entirely devoted to nature, thus making one hundred and twenty-five nature poems, more than one half of all he left with us. Many of the others, not classed as nature poems, have nature touches here and there, and sometimes whole stanzas of beautiful pictures.

Everything he has written breathes the gentleness and courtesy characteristic of the man. His death was mourned by all lovers of good literature in the Anglo-Saxon world. Though one cannot help regretting his early passing, his verse will ever remain to Canadians a legacy rich and rare, and his memory will be revered by all who rejoice in the verse of one who wrote with scholarly grace, poetic insight and rare beauty of expression.

Winter Break.

All day between high curded clouds the sun
Shone down like summer on the steaming planks,
The long bright icicles in dwindling ranks
Dripped from the murmuring eaves till one by one
They fell. As if the spring had now begun,
The quilted snow, sun softened to the core,
Loosened and shunted with a sudden roar
From downward roofs. Not even with day done
Had ceased the sound of waters, but all night
I heard it.In my dreams forgetfully bright
Methought I wandered in the April woods
Where many a silver-piping sparrow was,
By gurgling brooks and sprouting solitudes,
And stooped, and laughed, and plucked hepaticas.

ARTIST ACCUSED OF FRAUD

For five short weeks Miss Theodora Alvarez, as a painter from sunny Spain, tried to impress Toronto with her fame. Then she appeared in court facing five charges of fraud. Pleading guilty on three charges, she was remanded for sentence. She had a suite in a fashionable hotel, was made much of by society and was said to have commissions to paint many Canadian notables. She is shown with one of her pictures.

Your Child's Teeth

Keep Them Free of Film

To it dentists trace tooth and gum troubles and that "off-color" look

DO you want your child to have prettier teeth and better protection from tooth and gum troubles now and later on?

You will notice a film on your child's teeth. The same stubborn film that you can feel by running your tongue across your own teeth. You must combat it. Ordinary dentifrices don't fight it successfully.

Film clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs breed in it and imperil teeth and gums.

Pepsodent curdles the film, then gently removes it, and firms the gums. It is the modern scientific method for better tooth protection. Get a tube today or mail the coupon.

Animals for Decoration Or for Playthings to Make

HERE are the little wool animals we have been talking about. In France women wear them in tiny size on the lapels of their coats and the shoulders of their frocks.

You can do that, too, or you can make them for your children. They are really the most attractive things you can imagine.

To begin with, collect all the old worsted you can lay hands on. Then get a worsted needle, a little white inch-wide or narrower tape—according to the size of the animals—and some pasteboard.

The diagram shows how you wind the wool over the pasteboard. There are two pieces of pasteboard with a slit in the middle of each. Put the two pieces together. If you want to make a sizeable Teddy bear for a child to play with, use two strips of pasteboard five inches wide and eight inches long. Have the slit through the center of the pieces perhaps a quarter of an inch wide and five inches long. Now wind the worsted around and around the cardboard, neatly and firmly, until you have a pad about a half inch thick. Then sew it through the slits with worsted and a worsted needle, or with coarse, strong thread. For the bigger animals place a piece of tape over the part to be sewed and make the stitches through the tape. This adds to the stability of the animal.

Now, after sewing firmly, clip both edges of the wool, and pull the ball of wool thus released clear of the pasteboard. You now have the body of the bear. Trim it with sharp scissors, until it is the right shape.

For the head, make a smaller ball of wool on smaller pasteboards. Make a separate, very small piece for the nose. Sew the nose on the head, and then trim the nose to a good shape, trim away the head to shape it—taking care to leave two extensions for the ears.

Sew the head to the body, catching the thread through the tape in the center. Sew on two beads for eyes.

For the legs, wind the wool around three lead pencils, and before sewing it up the center, draw out one pencil. Or else use narrower strips of pasteboard, about two inches wide, and with a slit four inches long. Make four legs, and sew them firmly in place.

The chick is made from a big fluffy ball of yellow yarn, trimmed to shape, with wire legs. The dog is made like the bear, only trimmed differently.

If you want to make these wool animals in a very small size for ornaments for coat or shoulder of frock, simply work with very small pieces of cardboard and use finer wool.

Just go ahead and follow directions, and before you know it you will find yourself expert at making these fuzzy, soft and very attractive animals.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE FUNNY OX.

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Uncle Wiggily, with Baby Bunty on one side of him and little Vallie on the other side, stood on the North Pole ice looking at the big Sea Lion which had floundered and flipped his way over the top of the ice hummock, or hill. The Sea Lion had to flop himself because he really hadn't any legs. He had flappers, or flippers, two in front and two behind, where his tail would have been if he had owned one. But if he did have a tail, it was smaller even than the silly little one of the Bob Cat.

"So you have come to the North Pole, have you?" roared the Sea Lion, who couldn't seem to talk gently no matter how he tried.

"Why, it's Eski!" cried Mr. Longears.

"Yes, we came here from Mt. Vesuvius, the Italian volcano," said Uncle Wiggily.

"And I almost wish we had stayed there," sighed Bunty.

"It was lovely and warm," went on Vallie. "But I suppose it would soon have gotten too smoky and ashy for us."

"Yes, indeed," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "I hope," he went on to the Sea Lion, politely tipping his tall, silk hat, "I hope you don't mind because we came to your North Pole."

"Bless your pink, twinkling nose, of course I don't!" laughed the Sea Lion, and his laugh was like thunder. "I'm glad to see you and I hope——"

The Sea Lion suddenly stopped talking and looked behind him down the slope of the ice of the hill up which he had just flipped. He was looking at some one or something that Uncle Wiggily and the bunny girls couldn't see. And then another voice called:

"Who is up there, Sealie? To whom are you talking?"

At the sound of this voice Baby Bunty smiled happily. And the Sea Lion answered:

"Uncle Wiggily is here!"

"Good for him!" cried the other voice. "I hope you were polite to him, Sealie." With that up the ice hill came hopping the same Eskimo boy rabbit who around Christmas time had visited Uncle Wiggily.

"Why, it's Eski!" exclaimed Mr. Longears.

"Of course I'm Eski!" said the other rabbit, who wore thick fur, with a big fur hood over his head and skin boots lined and trimmed with fur. "I'm so glad you came. You didn't send any word."

"We didn't know ourselves that we were coming to the North Pole until we landed here a few minutes ago," said Uncle Wiggily. "Bunty, Vallie and I have been traveling in Holland and Italy. This is our first visit to the North Pole."

"I hope it won't be the last," said Eski politely. "Did my friend Sealie treat you kindly?" he asked, looking at the Sea Lion, whose pet name was "Sealie."

"Why, we were just beginning to get acquainted," said Uncle Wiggily, "but to tell you the truth, we are so cold, just having come from sunny Italy, that——"

"Dear me! Of course! I should have thought of that!" exclaimed Eski. "How thoughtless of me! Have you some sealskin furs for my rabbit friends?" the Eskimo bunny asked of Sealie.

"Of course I have," was the answer. "You'll find some in that cave over there," and Sealie pointed with one flipper. Eski ran toward what seemed to be only a bank of snow, but with a long icicle which he used as a shovel the Eskimo rabbit began digging in the snow and soon uncovered quite a hole, or a little cave. There was something dark brown inside. Uncle Wiggily and the shivering little rabbit girls were hoping this brown pile would turn out to be warm, sealskin jackets when all of a sudden there was a loud bellow such as a bull might give and out of the cave rushed a funny ox.

He was an ox covered with long, brown, shaggy hair, and seemed to have back of his head a hump, not as large as a buffalo's hump, though. The funny North Pole ox had two horns which curved down in front of his face. But he did not shake his horns at the visiting rabbits, nor try to stick them. He just ran out of the cave where Sealie had said some warm garments might be found.

"Who is he?" whispered Bunty in Eski.

"That's Dustie, the musk ox," was the North Pole rabbit's answer. "He's a funny chap. I remember——"

But just then Dustie gave another loud bellow and, trotting over to Mr. Longears, cried out:

"Did you bring any with you? Quick! Please give it to me!"

MOTHER'S QUILT.

(Suggested by Walter Banyon, Benton Harbor, Mich.)

Strange that I carry this quilt around?
Well, I never think that it's strange at all.
For many a comforting thought I've found
In this patchwork quilt when the shadows fall.
For here's a bit of my sister's dress,
The one that you never knew, I guess.
The little saint of my childhood hours
The reaper took like the first spring flow'rs.

My mother fashioned this patchwork quilt,
She made it out of the things of old,
And maybe you cannot see the gilt,
But this patchwork quilt is a cloth of gold.
For here's a bit of her Sunday vest,
And here's a square of my father's vest.
And here's a waist that belonged to me,
I tore when I fell from the appletree.

Strange that I carry from town to town
This queer old quilt of my poorer days?
Yet every night when I lay me down
It warms my heart in a hundred ways.
Wherever my feet may chance to roam,
Here's a thought of her, here's a touch of home;
And, a castle roof or the sky above,
It covers a boy like his mother's love

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

TUESDAY, APRIL 3, 1928.

Many aspects are strong today, according to astrology, which reads that the benefic influences dominate.

The morning should be an auspicious time for attending to banking matters and for forwarding financial enterprises.

Judgment should be trustworthy while this configuration prevails, making for optimism that is nevertheless wise.

If the stars are rightly read women will find the sway of the planets thwarting today, but the stars indicate some great national movement in which they will make a deep impression.

There is a sign of promise today for promoters of business as well as for supporters of political candidates.

Stimulation of hope among persons of high ambitions may be strong today when those who have enjoyed public approval will crave more.

Holders of office and possessors of authority of every sort are well directed under this sway.

There is fair promise of all who project new enterprises today, but large cooperation and extensive capital will be required.

The seers foretell that the impulse of the stars is toward gigantic organization of every sort, even that which prepares for war.

Women now come under a planetary government making for growth of power in national affairs.

They may exercise far-reaching political influence through non-partisan organizations.

This should be a happy wedding day for the stars presage a life partnership in which there is no danger of divorce.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have trouble over love affairs in the coming year, but they can avoid difficulties.

Children born on this day may be inclined to be careless and irresponsible. They should be trained in systematic habits.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The brown suede pump above has a bow embroidered in silver beads with strips of kid appliqued on the vamp to give a laced effect. The golf oxford is of blue and white checked cloth trimmed with white kid. Then an evening slipper of silver kid with pomegranate red heel and trimming. Below a pair of satin slippers with rhinestone buckle—showing two different sides.

Never were high heeled shoes more generally worn than at the present time, and when one says high heels nowadays one means heels that are extremely high and likewise slender—heels that would doubtless be extremely difficult to wear had we not grown used to them.

With some fashionable women there is no alternative for the high heel save the really low sports type of heel. For evening afternoon wear they are very high and decidedly slender—for city street wear they are almost as high and only a trifle more substantial. For sports wear there are straight low heels, but most sports shoes are cut so that there is somewhat more shape to the arch and a slightly higher heel than formerly—a fact that makes them more comfortable to many women.

Of course, there are shoes with the so-called Cuban heel. But the shoemakers make them as a concession, just as French milliners make large head sizes as a concession to the women who have long hair.

Among the materials used for shoes this season are a wide assortment of reptile leather, frequently seen in blue, green and other colors. It really is remarkable to think that within the short time that reptile leathers have been used it has been possible to arrange a steady supply of boa and python skins large enough to meet the demand. Yet I can assure you that reptile skins sold as genuine by reputable shoe dealers really are genuine.

In spite of high heels and rather narrow toes I am sure you will agree with me that fewer women suffer shoe discomfort nowadays than was once the case. One reason, I think, is because shoes are light and low cut. Another reason that we often fail to consider is that the shoemakers have made wonderful strides in designing shoes of late. A woman allows a shoe dealer to put a shoe on her foot that is really large enough but because, through skillful designing, it makes her foot look slender and shapely she is willing to ignore the question of size. Lots of women don't even know what size shoes they wear any more. The idea, I suppose, is that a woman's foot is as small as it looks.

FASHIONS IN POETRY

"I would rather die than have written a line like that," said Lord Tennyson on one occasion, after quoting the words: "What dire offence from amorous causes springs," from Pope's "Rape of the Lock."

The above was quoted as an example of the criticism directed by one class of poets towards the work of another class, in the course of Professor J. F. Macdonald's lecture on "Fashions in Poetry," given under the auspices of the Women's Canadian Club in the hall of the Public Library on Saturday afternoon. There was a good attendance of members and a number of men were also noticed in the audience. In the absence of the president, the chair was occupied by Mrs. J. F. Allan.

"Poetry is a thing which changes its forms from age to age, not as suddenly nor as spectacularly as dress does, but its fashions are just as varying."

The speaker, a member of the Faculty of Toronto University, pointed out that there are three elements in poetry; the metre, the diction, and the subject matter. All are subject to change from time to time. Fashions in metre come in for criticism by men of differing minds. No less than one hundred and fifty years ago, Samuel Johnson, who was practically dictator of English letters at that time, wrote of Milton's "Lycidas" that the diction was harsh, the rhythm unpleasing. Later, an appreciation of this work was considered a test of poetic erudition.

Tennyson objected to the way the "s" sounds were strung together in the quotation from "The Rape of the Lock," but he himself used sibilants to fine advantage in "The Lady of Shalott," where he speaks of the "shifting heavy barges, trailed by slow horses" and of "shimmering silken sails."

Wordsworth and Coleridge revolted against the artificiality of the sixteenth century muse. A comparison in style when writing on practically the same subject was manifested in the words of Gray: "For them no more the blazing hearth shall burn, or busy housewife ply her evening care," and in those of Wordsworth: "And she I cherished turned her wheel beside an English fire."

The Victorian period saw a great deal of the ornate elaborate fashion in poetry. An ornate style has been defined as one in which "nothing is pictured exactly as it is and everything is made to seem a little better than it is in reality." So in "Enoch Arden," we are not told that the hero is a peddler of fish, but rather that he is "an Ossian-smelling osier." Again, in "The Passing of Arthur," speaking of the dying king as "looking wistfully with wide blue eyes, as in a picture," Tennyson goes on to describe Arthur's visage: "All his hair was hanging loose or knotted into points, mixed with the knightly growth which fringed his lips." The last line had reference to a moustache, but didn't call it so. In the ornate style, a spade was never referred to as a spade.

The modern, graphic style of poetry was illustrated in many quotations from the work of Thomas Hardy, for whom the speaker appeared to have a great liking. In 1916, a simple little poem entitled "In Time of the Breaking of Nations," gave a very clear-cut outline of the devastation of war in an indirect way. It commences:

"Only a man harrowing clods
In a slow, silent walk.
With an old horse that stumbles and nods,
Half asleep as it stalks."

This bare, austere style, said the lecturer, leave as much to the imagination, and constitutes as great a departure from the ornate style of Tennyson and his compeers as did the revolt of Wordsworth and Coleridge from the fashion obtaining in the days of Pope and Dryden. Hardy and Housman, he declared, had done most to change the fashion. The latter, who is one of the greatest scholars in the world, and is Professor of Latin at Cambridge University, uses exquisite, clear-cut, simple words, ninety per cent. of them being words of one syllable, and the remainder words of two syllables. He regards his own style as so simple that he wrote a little apology for it at the end of his first volume, and said: "Malt does more than Milton can to justify God's ways to man."

The modern, graphic style has a curious effect on patriotic verse, said Professor Macdonald. We no longer have fiery words like those of Kipling or of Tennyson, in describing the glories of England, as declaimed by old John Gaunt on his deathbed. Modern poets, like Drinkwater and Belloc and Rupert Brooke, have more to say in praise of their own particular counties than in praise of the Empire as a whole. An intense love of the soil of one's native birthplace seems to be paramount, because of the definite new fashion of reality rather than of vague generalities.

Nor have we lugubrious, mournful efforts descriptive of the woes of the poor, like Hood's "Song of the Shirt." Rather have we little bits of contrast, eched sharply, in the musings of the man "snug in my easy chair" before the fire, who pauses momentarily to think of the that other man who provides the coal for his fire, "crowded in the smelly dark, with steaming shoulders stark."

Another contrast was afforded in the line from Thomas Gray's "Ode on a Distant Prospect of Eton College," in which he ruminates, mournfully: "Alas, regardless of their doom, the little victims play," and in Herrick's lugubrious lament, "Fair daffodils, we weep to see you fade away so soon," with the treatment by Hardy of a glimpse of children at play at school, which ends with the lines:

"A bell—they flee. Silence then.
So it will be some day again—with them, with me."

Again, Hardy speaks in his own way, in "Waiting Both":

"A star looks down at me and says;
Here I and you stand, each in our degree.
What do you mean to do? Mean to do?
I say: 'For all I know, wait and let Time go by Till my change comes'" "Just so," says the star
"So mean I. So mean I."

Mrs. Allan thanked the speaker for his delightful address and the charming way in which it was presented, and spoke of the advantage of Peterborough if it could secure Professor Macdonald for a similar series of addresses to those he is now giving in Toronto, on "the Modern Drama."

Les Canadiens and Maroons Battle to Draw

FRENCHMEN TIE WITH MAROONS BY 2-2 SCORE

First Contest of Two Game Series For Canadian Championship.

PENALTIES FEATURE.

Leduc and Phillips Given Major For Fighting in Third.

MONTREAL, April 2 (Canadian Press). — Canadiens and Maroons, Montreal's entries in the National Hockey League, Saturday night battled to a two-goal draw in the first contest of the two-game play-off series between the two teams to decide which club will represent the Canadian section of the league in the Stanley Cup series against the winners of the American division. It was a gruelling but brilliantly-fought struggle in which penalties played an important part. Twenty-two infractions were called in all by the officials, including two majors, one each for Leduc and Phillips for attempting to start a minor brawl in the third period. One fine was also imposed during the contest, Oatman incurring the wrath of one of the officials when he used abusive language to Mantha after the two had come to grips in the second period. Both Oatman and Mantha drew minors for the affair, but Oatman also had the fine tacked to his sentence.

There were no serious outbreaks, however, and despite much close checking the fans, numbering close to 14,000, witnessed a fast and thrilling hockey spectacle. Canadiens at one time held a two-goal margin, largely by taking advantage of penalties to Maroon players. The Maroons, however, did not quit and were not slow to take advantage when a series of penalties left Canadiens shorthanded, and only needed ten seconds of playing six men against three for Canadiens to tie the score, on goals rushed in by Ward and Smith.

On territorial play, the Flying Canucks held a decided edge and had it not been for the splendid work of Benedict between the Maroon posts, the Flying Frenchmen would now be resting easily with a lead to carry into the second game of the series which will be played Tuesday night. The veteran Maroon goal-tender was in top form Saturday night, and stamped himself as one of the greatest "money" players in the game. The two goals that beat Benny, were well earned by the dashing Canucks.

Leduc got the first midway through the first period when the Canadiens had a full team against Benedict, Munro and Phillips, the rest of the Maroon team reclining in the penalty box. Gagne had the disc in the corner behind the Maroon net, while Phillips was out front attempting to watch about three Redshirts at once. Munro dashed in to cover Gagne, but the latter whipped the puck to the front of the net. Leduc was standing there and batted the flying disc past the unprotected Benedict. Four minutes after play started in the middle frame, with both teams at full strength, Canadiens made it 2 to 0 when Gagne finally connected with one of his fast wing shots. Gardiner carried the length of the rink, and when he reached the Maroon defence, he whipped a fast pass over to the speeding Gagne, who immediately let fly with one of his numerous bullet-like tricky drives. Benedict made a wild stab to deflect the disc, but was too late, and the Canucks were two up.

Had Wide Margin

Things looked rosy for the Canucks at this time, as they were having a wide margin in territorial play and were continually bothering Benedict. They became a bit over-anxious in their checking, however, and a series of penalties left them short-handed. They were four against six. The Maroons were quick to take advantage of their balance in Man power and swarmed around the Canadien net in their attempt to make up lost ground. The pressure finally told, and a Munro-to-Ward combination split the weakened opposing rearguard to coast in on Hainsworth. Ward took Munro's pass and whizzed a shot past the goalie. Only one down, the Maroon-clad warriors increased the pressure. Almost from the face-off following Ward's goal, Hooley Smith coasted in on the defence. As the back line retreated to cover up their net, Smith let fly with a hard drive which the hard-working Canuck goalie scarcely saw, and the score was tied. It was a sudden reversal of fortune, and Maroon supporters, who a minute before were downhearted, were now raising the roof in their overwhelming joy.

Hainsworth Stars.

The sudden reverse left the Canadiens temporarily stunned, having gained confidence by virtue of the two quick goals, rushed to the attack. Hainsworth however rose to the heights, and also single-handed turned back the maroon--clad warriors' terrific onslaught. He held the fort until his team was back at full strength. Canadiens then opened up in an effort to get back their lead, but although they came close to scoring, they could not fathom a stubborn Maroon defence backed by the hard-working Maroon goalie.

Third period was scoreless. Both teams had splendid scoring chances, but both Hainsworth and Benedict were stopping everything in sight.

The Maroons were forced to play practically the entire game without the services of Babe Siebert regular defence man. Siebert had been ill since Thursday and came to the rink from his sick bed. He started alongside of Dutton but was in no shape to continue after playing the best part of the initial session and was replaced by Munro for the remainder of the game. The Maroon captain filled the gap in perfect style, but it was a tired Maroon rearguard which was on the ice at the finish of the game.

The line-up:

CANADIANS ONLY ON OLYMPIC TEAM

Expatriates Athletes With Over Five Years' Residence Elsewhere Barred.

TORONTO, April 2.—At the meeting of the Canadian Olympic committee held here it was decided to limit candidates for the Olympic team to Canadians living in Canada, to Canadian students attending schools in other countries, and to Canadians who were residing out of the country, but who have not lived outside of Canada longer than five years.

It was decided to change the dates of the track and field trials, which are to take place at Hamilton, from July 6 and 7 to June 30 and July 2. The trials will take place under the auspices of the Hamilton Olympic Club. The track and field team will sail about July 11.

There is some wonderful Olympic material in Canada just at present. At Montreal, McKecheneay of M. A. A. equalled the world's record for sixty yards by running it in 6 1-5 seconds. His feat was most gratifying to the committee. A year ago the Montreal boy sustained a broken leg, and the committee felt that he would be unable to compete. Therefore, his come-back is hailed with delight by the men in charge of athletics. Out in Vancouver Williams was caught in the sixty in 6 2-5.

In the quarter-mile there are two 40 second men in Ball of Winnipeg and Christie of Varsity and Hamilton while there is also Ed. Percy of Toronto and Glover, Edmonton. There is also Edwards in the half-mile, in addition to Mitchell of Varsiety, one of the finest runners on the continent; Little of Manitoba, and Pete Walters, the former Listowel boy, now of Toronto.

Not since the days of Jack Tait have there been so many milers capable of doing 4.20 or better, Griffin and Jack Walters being especially prominent. There is a wealth of good material for the 3,000 metres in Sargent, Galt; Walsh, Guelph; Graham and Gilbert, Toronto Varsity; Trenout, Queen's; Hornby, Hamilton, and Snell and Dahl, Toronto.

Pickard in the pole vault, and Philing of Cardstone, Alberta, are best in the field events. Pickard finished fifth in Paris four years ago, and since then is at least a foot better. The marathon team is rated the strongest which has ever been selected to represent Canada. Cliff Bricker leaves to-morrow for Holland to complete his training.

The Rowing Trials

The rowing trials will take place at St. Catharines in conjunction with the Canadian Henley regatta, July 5, 6 and 7, with the Olympic events on the first day's program. In view of the fact that Jos Wright and Ed Guest are going to the Royal Henley regatta at England prior to the Olympics, a double sculling contest will probably be held in Toronto about June 2. The purpose is to demonstrate that Wright and Guest are the logical Canadian representatives.

Dr. A. S. Lamb, honorary secretary of the Canadian Olympic committee, will go to Amsterdam two weeks in advance of the team to make such preparations as are necessary.

Dates for the boxing and wrestling trials will be decided upon within the next two weeks.

KEPT SLATE CLEAN.

WICHITA, Kansas, April 2.—(Canadian Press).—Undefeated five years ago, the Treavans Cochran girls basketball team of Dallas, Texas, kept their slate clean Saturday night when they captured the National Girls' invitational basketball title here by defeating the Cockeril Robins of Pittsburgh, Kansas, 32 to 15.

Lottie Schoemmel Sets New Record

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 2.—(Canadian Press)—Mrs. Lottie Moore Schoemmel of New York yesterday set a new world record for endurance swimming remaining afloat unassisted in the Deanville pool here for 32 hours. The former record of 31 hours was set in 1880 by Miss Edith Johnson, in Blackpool, England. Mrs. Schoemmel was comparatively fresh when she finished at 5:23 p.m.

When her bathing suit of grease melted in the warm water, anxious friends procured her a bathing suit of wool guaranteed not to shrink or disappear, and she put this on as she swam, thus saving a delicate situation.

BILL BURKE WINS HONORS

Retains Early Lead To Become United North and South Golf Champion.

ARMOUR RUNNER-UP.

PINEHURST, N.C., April 2.—(Canadian Press.)—Starting the final round with a seven stroke lead, Billy Burke, young professional of New York, who first began tournament golf two years ago, became the United North and South open golf champion, with a 73-69-74-73—291 for the 72-holes of medal play.

Although his wide margin looked none too safe for a time during the final round, the former caddy master, finding his putts a little hesitant, flickering into the cup, pulled himself together and finished the final nine with a steadiness that made pars look easy.

Nearest to him at the finish was Tommy Armour, of Washington, national open champion, who had a 73-223-296. Johnny Farrell, winner of the recent $15,000 Miami Beach open, was next at 73-224--297 and Tommy Harmon, of New York, fourth with 76-223--299.

Bobby Cruickshank, of New York, who lost his North and South title after holding it two straight years, was fifth with 76-225--301.

Won Qualifying Medal.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 2.—(Canadian Press.)— Acting as pacemaker for one hundred and eight women, Glenna Collett, of Greenwich, Conn., won the qualifying medal for the third consecutive year of her participation in the North and South women's golf championships Saturday. Her score was 39-40--79.

Canadian entrants were unable to make the sacred sixteen who will continue in the championship play. The Canadians with their scores:

Mrs. Edwin Crockett, Toronto 47-52--99.

Miss Mary Millichamp Toronto, 46-48--94.

Mrs. E. P. Clarkson, Toronto, 44-51--95.

BEAVERS WIN FIRST GAME

Defeat Springfield Indians 2-1 in Canadian-American Finals.

SPRITED HOCKEY.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 2 (Canadian Press). — The Quebec Beavers defeated the Springfield Indians by a 2 to 1 score here early last night in the first tilt of the four-game series that is to determine the championship of the Canadian-American League.

A crowd of 7,000 stormed the local arena to witness a contest that bristled with spirited action from start to finish. The second game of the series will be played at Providence Arena on Tuesday.

Quebec won the game on two long shots at 6.46 in the first period. Nick Wasnie registered from the Springfield blue line, a shot that sailed clean through Abby Cox. Less than a minute later, Leo Quenneville netted a 40-foot shot from the left lane, another easy shot that Cox failed to save. These two were rather fortunate goals an denabled the Beavers to coast to victory.

The lone Indian counter came late in the first period when Goldsworthy made good on a 20-foot shot from the right lane. In the second and third periods, the home team had a big edge in the attack, but the great goaltending of Lamontagne of the Beavers prevented further scoring.

The Summary.

First period:
1—Quebec, Wasnie, 6.01.
2—Queebc, Quenneville, 7.02.
3—Springfield, Goldsworthy, 10.14.

STRATFORD WINS CANPRO LEAGUE

Classic City Defeats Kitchener 5-0 in Final Game of Series.

DETROIT, April 2.—Roy Brothers' Stratford team buried Kitchener under a 5 to 0 score before a capacity crowd of nearly 14,000 people here last night to capture the Canadian Professional Leagle title by a margin of 12 goals to 2 on the round.

Kitchener were outclassed last night by a hard-hitting club that was superior in every department from goal out. Never after the first ten minutes of play did Kitchener have a chance with their rivals from the Classic City, who gave everything they have, even when the game and title were safely tucked away, going into the final period with a 4 to 0 lead.

Led by Frank Carson and Bill Touhey, Stratford launched an attack that could not but bring results, and back of the blue line there was a Dolson-Holway-Hicks defense that would not bend even when Kitchener was playing with a one-man advantage.

Dolson was unbeatable last night, just as he has been on several occasions this year. The diminutive Stratfoard gaol tender stopped every puck, several of his stops being nearly phenomenal, but he had not as much to do as did "Bud" Fisher at the other end, who played a remarkable game, despite the five drives that beat him. All were from right inside and shots on which he had no chance to save.

BOSTON TIES WITH RANGERS

First of Finals in American Section of N.H.L. is Closely Fought.

GOALS COUNT.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Sixty minute of torrid hockey between Boston and the New York Rangers ended in a 1-1 deadlock here last night, and the teams will travel to Boston for the second game of the final series for the championship of the American group of the National League on even terms. Total goals for the two-game series will determine the American team to meet the Canadian group title-holders for the world's professional hockey championship.

Boston— Goal, Winkler; defense, Shore and Hitchman; centre, Frederickson; wings, Oliver and Galbraith; subs, Clapper, S. Cleghorn, Gainor, Connor, Gordon and Harrington.

New York Rangers—Goal, Chabot; defense, Abel and Johnson; centre, F. Boucher; wings, W. Cook and F. Cook; subs, Gray, Boyd, Murdock, Thompson, Callighen and Bourgault.

Referees — Cooper Smeaton and George Mallinson.

Both goals were scored in the final period. Frank Boucher, Ranger centre player, connected with B. Cooks pass from behind the net to beat Winkler for the first goal. Seventy-two seconds later a three-man Bruin rush tied the score, Harry Oliver, right-winger, scoring on a pass from Frank Frederickson.

The game played before a crowd of 18,000 persons, was featured by the brilliant defense work of both teams. Winkler outshone Chabot in the nets. The Bruin goalkeeper several times saved his team when it seemed nothing less than a miracle would stem the Ranger tide. Chabot's performance also was brilliant, but the Bruins were not as frequently close to the goal as were the New Yorkers. The Rangers threw away several golden opportunities by poor flinishing.

It was a typical Ranger-Bruin battle, with 22 penalties keeping the teams below strength constantly. Eddie Shore, Boston and Ching Johnson, New York, both defense palyers, lived up to their season's reputation and records as "bad men" with four minors apiece. Bill Cook received three minors. Boston players were penalized twelve times and New York ten.

The game brought the local hockey season to a close. If the Rangers should win the American group they will play their Stanley Cup games in Montreal.

HEENEY AND TUNNEY MATCHED FOR HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE BOUT

Tex Rickard Sets Championship Match For Some Time in July.

CLEARS UP MUDDLE.

Indicates Fight Will Take Place in London, England.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 2. — Tex Rickard announced on Saturday that Gene Tunney would defend his heavyweight title in July against Tom Heeney of New Zealand.

Heeney defeated Jack Sharkey and Jack Delaney in elimination bouts leading to his selection. Selection of Heeney followed a series of conferences between Rickard and Chartel Harvey, manager of Heeney.

Rickard and Tunney previously had been notified that the heavyweight champion would face suspension by the New York State Athletic Commission unless an opponent was named by April 3.

Rickard said the Heeney-Tunney bout would be the only heavyweight title fight this year, and indicated that the match would be held in London, England.

Waiting for Final Word.

"I am now waiting for final word for England," Rickard said, "and if the terms are agreeable I shall take the fight over there."

Tunney was notified by telephone of Heeney's selection.

"In selecting the Australian champion, Rickard has in my opinion, named the leading contender," the champion remarked.

Staged in London.

LONDON, April 2. — Negotiations to hold the Tunney-Heeney heavyweight championship bout at Wembley Stadium have been in progress for some time officials of the big outdoor arena stated yesterday.

Only last week Bernard Mortimer, a prominent British sportsman, was in London, discussing proposals for staging the affair here.

"I am certain that if Tex Rickard decides to come to London with the fight, it will be at Wembley," Mortimer told the officials.

CLEARS UP MUDDLE.

NEW YORK, April 2.—(Associated Press).—The selection of honest Tom Heeney, the village blacksmith, to fight Gene Tunney, world's heavyweight champion, in July, helps to clear up the current fistic muddle even if it lacks spectacular prospects or provokes no cheers from the other boys of the elimination tournament who are now on the outside looking in.

In the first place, Tex Rickard, for lack of other magnetic elements, seems to have decided to ballyhoo one of his old loves, the international struggle. In the second place, his choice of Heeney, aside from honest Tom's capable record, forecasts the probability of a second title fight in September, either with Jack Dempsey again in the comeback role or a challenger selected from one of the other listed contenders, such as Johnny Risko or Paulino.

Risko, shelved just when he had reached the finals of the elimination tournament, probably will be assured a chance to scramble for the second title bout, but the baker boy won't get into the picture if Dempsey decides to have another fling.

Heeney gets the preference over Risko now because the New Zealander already holds a decision over Jumping Johnny, also because Rickard believes another test between these two would do no particular good. The promoter by now has had enough of these elimination fiascos.

On the same sort of reasoning, Paulino would be entitled to as much if not more consideration than Heeney. The Spaniard fought Heeney twice, gaining a decision and a draw. In both instances the majority of ringside opinion favored Heeney, but the record nevertheless favors Paulino. The Spaniard, however, may be content with the talk of his opposing Tunney, or whoever is the champion, in 1929, in title bout in one of the bull rings of Madrid.

Lott Adds Another Title To His Crown

AUGUSTA, Ga, April 2.—(Canadian Press.)—George Lott, of Chicago, ranking No. 3 player of the nation, added the South Atlantic tennis singles crown to his titles yesterday when Tamio Abe, Japanese champion, defaulted in the singles of the tournament because of an infected foot.

Abe, paired with Frank X. Shields, New York, national junior champion, in the morning trimmed Lott and Johnny Doeg, Stanford University stars, for the doubles title, 6-3, 6-8, 6-0.

The Japanese champion, in declining to meet Lott, said the doubles match had caused irritation of three infected toes on one foot and he was unable to play

In the mixed doubles final, Alice Francis, Orange, N.J., paired with Shields, won over Clara Louise Vinke, of Cincinnati, paired with Lott, 7-9, 6-5, 6-2. The play of Miss Francis was the feature of the mixed doubles finals, her placements being unerring and her returns little short of sensational.

PADDOCK TO TRAIN FOR OLYMPIC TEAM

Sprinter Plans Few Workouts in New York Before Departure.

NEW YORK, April 2 — Charles Paddock, holder of the accepted world's records for 100 and 220 yards and other distance, arrived in town Wednesday from Texas. Filled with business, Paddock will have little or no time for track work for the next couple of days, but he will get in several workouts before he leaves town. The man who has been a member of two American Olympic teams and aspires to a third took up his temporary residence at the New York Athletic Club, which now houses about the greatest collection of sprinters in the country.

Among the Winged Foot sprinters are Jackson Schols, Olympic 200-meter champion; Roland Locke, who has run the 200 yards faster than Paddock's accepted world's record; Frank Hussey, who recently set a new indoor world's seventy-yard record, and others. Paddock's most recent performances were that of setting a new world's mark for 140 yards, breaking his own time, and then coming back a day or two later and again lowering the same record.

The arrival of Paddock in the East was simultaneous with a statement from Boston over the long-distance telephone that Jack Ryder would accept the Olympic coaching position to which he recently was appointed, and that he would solidly back the program of Head Coach Lawson Robertson. By this statement Ryder of Boston wished to spike rumors that he and Robertson were in disagreement over the date on which Lloyd Hahn would sail for the Olympic games, assuming that he becomes a member of the team.

Sailing Date Not an Issue.

It is no secret that Robertson wishes all athletes to sail together on the President Roosevelt on July 11. On the other hand, Ryder has several times stated that he thought Hahn ought to go over earlier than this in order to better train himself.

Ryder said last night that the sailing date of Hahn would not become an issue and that if in the judgment of Robertson and others it was best for the general interest of the team to sail in a body he would agree. He praised his hearty support to Il Robertson's plans and gave it as his opinion that Hahn could condition himself for victorious races by intensive training in Holland even if he did sail on July 11.

The arrival of Paddock again calls attention to the sprinter who has been dubbed the "fastest human" with considerable justification. Considered a veteran in experience so far as championship competition is concerned Paddock is evidently in good form and capable of fine performances. While one of his record-breaking performances in Texas was made with the aid of a high wind the fact that he later made faster time is a striking testimonial.

Paddock in Fine Shape.

Further proof of Paddock's condition is afforded by the fact that he recently defeated Charley Borah on the Coast. Borah went undefeated last year except for the national 100-yard championship, yet Paddock defeated him decisively. Borah's time in races last season have been within fractions of seconds of world's records and he was being groomed as the successor of Paddock. Now Paddock seems to have resumed his old way.

A poor indoor campaigner Paddock was unwilling to come East for the recent indoor season. He has run indoors only seldom and then with little success. There is little opportunity in the restricted indoor spaces for Paddock's great leaping finish for which he is noted. The indoor game is rather for the fast starter and the man who can slow down quickly after the finish.

If Paddock gains a place on the 1928 Olympic team he will be the first sprinter to win a berth on three Olympic teams. Many field event men have succeeded in spanning several Olympics, but no sprinter has accomplished that feat. Paddock showed but poorly in the 1924 competition. Following his return from Europe and a round-the-world junket, he was considered to have passed his prime. The intensive training which he plans to undergo for the coming Olympics and the recent performance on the Coast and in Texas would seem to indicate that he is far from the retirement that many have predicted for him.

Tunney Plans to Box Before King Alfonso

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 30. — Gene Tunney, world heavy weight fight champion, probably will accept a royal invitation to Spain in 1929, and incidentally stage an exhibition bout for King Alfonso, he announced here yesterday.

The champion said he planned to tour Europe next year and had accepted tentatively the Spanish King's invitation to appear at the Barcelona exposition in April 1929.

"I have notified Marquis de Foronda, President of the exposition that I hope to be in Europe in 1929 and attend the Barcelona exposition at the invitation of King Alfonzo," he said. "If nothing interferes with my present plans I will be pleased to box an exhibition bout there."

WILLIAM BALLIET DIES IN NEW YORK

"We ask your assistance in tracing the heirs of William Balliet. All we know concerning his origin is that he said he was born in some part of Ontario in 1856. He left the province more than thirty-five years ago, and spent some time in western logging camps, where he was by occupation, a saw filer. He is now lead, leaving estate worth about $10,000, and no known heirs.

"If you will publish this letter it may come to the notice of someone who can give us information concerning his heirs. Particulars should be sent to Mr. Dyer without delay."

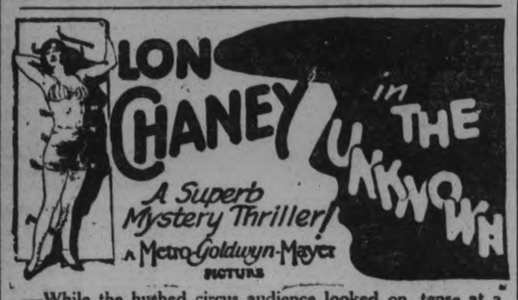
IN POLICE COURT

Stephen Emery, of the township of Belmont was given nine months on two charges this morning when he appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley. Emery a week ago pleaded guilty to selling liquor and for this offence he was given three months in the common jail. This morning he pleaded guilty to keeping a still without having received the proper license from the inland revenue officer and was fined $200 and costs or six months in the Ontario Reformatory. His lawyer, J. A. O'Brien, said his client would not be able to pay the fine.

Herbert Gilgour was fined $10 and costs in police court this morning for operating his car with 1927 markers. His Worship in this case levied the minimum fine.

A local man pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place yesterday morning and was fined $20 and $4.50 costs. His Worship in passing sentence remarked that the prisoner was probably one of the 'April fools.'

REGENT Home of First Run Pictures and Good Music!



—While the hushed circus audience looked on, tense at a climax of daring and danger, a far more thrilling drama was being played behind the scenes. Lon Chaney never had a role that fitted him so perfectly as the man of mystery in this absorbing picture of the big tent and the underworld.

CAPACITY AUDIENCE FOR FINAL CONCERT

Good Program Given at Regent Theatre Under Humane Society Auspices.

The seventh and last of the series of sacred concerts which have been given during past weeks at the Regent Theatre on Sunday evening, under the auspices of the Peterborough branch of the Humane Society, was presented last evening with a capacity audience, many being turned away. This was the third concert arranged by Dr. J. J. Craig, and F. H. Dawson, presiding last evening, paid him a warm tribute at the conclusion of the entertainment.

Referring to the excellent work done by Dr. Craig in the cause of the Humane Society, Mr. Dawson said: "He is one of the greatest community workers in the city of Peterborough, and whenever there is anything to be done with regard to the betterment of the community, Dr. Craig is eager and willing in assistance."

Mr. Dawson also thanked all who had taken part in the program, the musicians, accompanists and orchestra.

The program, which was a fitting close to the splendid series just closed, was as follows:

Song by Miss Millicent Elston, "There's a Beautiful Land on High"; song by Miss Fern Stenton, "Resignation"; reading by Miss Th[illegible]na Buller, "The Old-Fashioned Way"; song by Master Alfred Pink, 'Loving Shepherd of the Sheep'; song by Miss Florence Murray, "Ave Maria"; song by Delbert Lucas, "I Come to Thee"; song by Miss Elva Jackson, "In the Time of Roses"; song by Edward Bartley, "The Holy City"; song by Mrs. E. Kitney, "By the Waters of Babylon"; song by Charles Clarke, "Open the Gates of the Temple"; song by H. Rush, "Beyond the Dawn"; violin solo by Alfred McKeown, 'Salut d'Amour'; reading by J. H. Primeau; violin, cello and piano trio by Donald Greene, Jack Thackeray and Miss E. Webber; selections by W. Boorman's orchestra.

An addition to the program that was much appreciated was a baritone solo by F. Proggatt of Toronto, a member of the Mendelssohn Chir.

MERCELLO MOWRY LEAVES C.G.E.

counting the Scotch village, later known as Ashburnham, had a population of about five thousand at the time."

The conversation drifted to "the weather" for even that can be an interesting subject at times, and thence to the recent floods which have caused so much trouble. But the big gest flood that I remember," continued Mr. Mowry, "was one spring when I was a young man. I don't recall the year, but anyway, another chap and I put a canoe in near where th Ackerman plant now stands, and we sailed to the locks, way on down south. The floods that year were due to the failure of such dams as Martin's, Dixon's, and Rogers'! That was before the C.P.R. lines went through, then known as the Ontario and Quebec Railway."

Since he has been a resident of Peterborough all of his life save for a couple of years at Patterson, near Richmond Hill, Mr. Mowry also recalls practically every event of interest in the city's history, including fires which destroyed the building where the Oddfellows' Hall is located. He clerked in Hamilton's hardware store then, while William Green, city tax collector, worked in a store across the street. However, only a few of the boys with whom he went to school are still around.

Conversation drifted back to the C.G.E., which holds a warm spot in the heart of its retiring employee. He recalled how, when he had entered it in 1891, it was but a quarter of its present size. The main building, which was about three hundred feet long, has since been extended and houses the machine shop, while the number of employees has grown accordingly.

Mr. Mowry is also well known and enjoys the respect of Peterborough Oddfellows, for he is an honorary veteran of Otonabee Lodge 13, I.O.O.F. He had originally been a member of the Aurora Lodge from 1874, until transferring to the local lodge. During his membership, he passed through the various offices, and in 1887 was the Noble Grand. He is also a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters and an adherent of Murray Street Baptist Church.

WATERWAY VIEWS TO GO ON STEAMER

Transparencies Will Be Shown On "City of St. Ignace."

In response to a letter from the Trent Waterway Development Association, Edward A. Ryan, general freight and passenger agent of the Cleveland and Canada Navigation Company, Cleveland, Ohio, writes in part:

"We are glad to note that you are having an exhibit at the second Ohio Sportsmen's and Outdoor Show in Cleveland on May 17-23 and will say that we also have a booth—number 134, at the same show. We will be be very pleased indeed to receive the hand-colored illuminated transparencies depicting Kawartha Lakes and Trent Waterway scenes which, you advise, will be available after the show and we will see that same are given prominent places on board our steamer, the 'City of Ignace.' We will do all we can to undertake publicity for your Kawartha Lakes district.

"Hand colored transparencies, illuminated, give very attractive publicity," was the comment of Secretary Frank G. Stinson this morning. "Could we but finance the work, several hundred of these pictures could be placed in various United States' centres. They would depict not only the scenic beauty, but emphasize, in some cases, the industrial advantages of the city of Peterorough as well."

THE WESTMINSTER GLEE SINGERS TO BE HEARD IN THIS CITY SHORTLY

COMING TO THE GRAND

While it may be maintained that Britain occupies no high position as a musical nation, there is one branch of music in which it cannot be challenged—Cathedral choir singing, and its boy sopranos. For centuries the Mother Country has held first place in this field. Purity of tone, the acme of perfection in unaccompanied singing, and beauty of expression are salient features in the branch of music that England has made particularly her own.

This city will shortly have the opportunity of hearing the Westminster Glee Singers, and it is certain that these qualities of Old English music will be abundantly exemplified by the troupe brought here by Edward Branscombe, tenor soloist for ten years at Westminster Abbey.

Although a measure of sacred music will be included in the programs of the Westminster singers, it is mainly in the secular forms of cathedral singing that their greatest appeal will lie. Glees, madrigals, part-songs, solos with vocal accompaniment, concerted numbers for boys voices, male quartets and vocal dances will all be represented, the whole forming an absolutely unique entertainment.

Wherever these gifted vocalists have appeared, and this includes every part of the British Dominions, they have been received with the greatest enthusiasm. Their most recent tour of Australia, New Zealand, and India reached to 635 concerts, and in Sydney alone they gave no less than 42 performances, which constitutes a record in the domain of concert giving.

The Westminster Glee Singers will be heard here on Good Friday and Saturday at the Grand.

AT THE REGENT.

GYPSY ATMOSPHERE IN "THE UNKNOWN" IS REAL

What happens when a gypsy king dies?

This question was responsible for intensive research into the strange and half-legendary customs of the nomadic tribes who wander in their odd wagons—and who, it is declared, were the originators of the modern circus.

A complete gypsy funeral ceremony for a dead chief is one of the mysterious details of "The Unknown," Lon Chaney's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, now playing at the Regent Theatre. Chaney himself plays a sinister armless sideshow freak, who throws knives with his toes with deadly accuracy, and rules a Spanish underworld from his strange hiding place in the midst of teeming crowds in a circus.

The play is a graphic mystery story in which Chaney plays one of the strangest roles in his entire career as Alonzo, the queer half-demon of the circus, whose uncanny skill with his feet is his defense and his weapon. Joan Crawford plays the heroine as the circus girl the strange freak comes to love and for whom he makes the supreme sacrifice. Norman Kerry plays Malabar the strong man of the circus, and John Gorge is Cojo the clown, henchman of the armless menace of the tented city. Nick de Ruiz and others of note are in the cast.

The following informtion has been summarized from the letter written us by Mr. A. T. Leavitt, who is to be Managing Director of United Fuel Investments, Limited:

THE COMPANY AND ITS BUSINESS—United Fuel Investments, Limited, is being incorporated under the Companies Act of the Dominion of Canada for the purpose of acquiring interests in public utility and other enterprises. It will now acquire substantially all the share capital of Hamilton By-Product Coke Ovens, Limited, and over 90% of the share capital of United Gas & Fuel Company of Hamilton, Limited.

Hamilton By-Product Coke Ovens, Limited, commenced in 1924 the manufacture of coke and the recovery of the by-products resulting from the coking of coal by modern methods, including gas, sulphate of ammonia, tar and motor benzol. This Company was the first in Canada to undertake the manufacture of domestic fuel to supplant foreign anthracite. It owns a modern by-product coke oven plant strategically located on a 35-acre site within the city limits.

The original installation of the Company was 25 ovens, and the demand for the company's products—especially coke—increased so rapidly that an additional 35 ovens were installed during the past twelve months, and it is now capable of coking 1,000 tons of coal per twenty-four hours, giving an annual capacity as follows:—

Coke Produced	255,000 tons
Gas	2,500,000 M. cu. ft.
Tar	2,920,000 Imp. Gals.
Ammonium Sulphate	9,000,000 lbs.
Motor Benzol	1,000,000 gals.

United Gas & Fuel Company of Hamilton, Limited, with its predecessor company, has been successfully operating over a period of 60 years, during which time it has engaged in the distribution of gas. It owns a 6,000,000 cubic foot gas holder of the most modern type, one of the largest single holders in the Dominion of Canada, and 458 miles of gas mains, through which it distributes gas, both for commercial and domestic purposes, throughout Hamilton, Ontario, a city of more than 125,000 population which, with the surrounding municipalities, embraces a total population of over 200,000. The Company's supply of gas is purchased from Hamilton By-Product Coke Ovens, Limited.

MARKETS — COKE AND BY-PRODUCTS — Coke is derived from bituminous coal, as a result of treatment by scientific processes. As a high-grade, smokeless fuel, its quality, efficiency and comparative cheapness for both industrial and domestic purposes when produced by the modern methods used by this company render it preferable to hard coal, which product it is gradually supplanting. The superiority of this company's coke has enabled it to take and hold all of the domestic and foundry coke business that it has been able to supply. The company's position market-wise is unassailable in that its location and freight advantages protect it against competition. Considering the admitted advantages of coke and the 4,000,000 tons of other fuels imported into central Canada annually, the market for the Company's product is almost unlimited.

The principal by-product of a merchant coking plant is Gas, and the Hamilton By-Product Coke Ovens, Limited, is fortunate in being associated with United Gas & Fuel Company of Hamilton, Limited, for the purpose of distribution. The City of Hamilton consumes approximately 1,200,000,000 cubic feet of gas annually and it is estimated that there is a potential demand of 3,000,000,000 cubic feet annually. Prior to the enlargement of the plan during the past year the gas company was not able to take on any additional domestic gas consumers and had no industrial users, due to inadequate supply. The correction of this condition by enlargement of the coke plant which has a contract with the gas company for its supply, will increase the business of both companies and allow them to operate on a more productive and efficient basis. New contracts recently signed, absorbing by the end of 1928 all the recently enlarged gas capacity, will increase the distribution of gas during 1928 by approximately 25%.

Markets for other by-products, including tar, sulphate of ammonia and motor benzol, are all well established and represent a profitable activity.

CONTROLLED COMPANIES—The companies which will presently be controlled by United Fuel Investments, Limited, have the following funded debt outstanding:—

United Gas & Fuel Company of Hamilton, Ltd.	$1,880,000 Bonds
Hamilton By-Products Coke Ovens, Ltd.	$1,690,000 Bonds
	$925,000 Notes

It is anticipated that part or all of these securities may be refinanced for the purpose of reducing interest charges.

ASSETS—It is estimated that the holdings of United Fuel Investments, Limited, have a present value of more than $10,000,000, with a potential value greatly in excess of this amount when the full benefit of the additional installation at the coke plant, completed in 1927, is realized.

EARNINGS—Combined earnings of the controlled companies available for depreciation, taxes and dividends, certified by Price, Waterhouse & Company, Chartered Accountants, were as follows:—

Year ending December 31, 1926	$677,712
Year ending December 31, 1927	548,166

Hamilton By-Product Coke Ovens Limited, in 1927, completed construction of a new battery of 35 ovens, which increased the Company's capacity by 140%. This new plant is now operating, and arrangements have been completed for the sale of the total output. Results from the increased capacity will be progressively reflected in earnings of the current year, the plant reaching its maximum productive capacity in the last quarter. It is estimated that the combined earnings of the two controlled companies available for depreciation, taxes and dividends for the year ending December 31, 1928, will amount to $1,053,025

The earnings as above set out for a full year's operation of the enlarged plant, are estimated at 1,301,525

The estimated earnings accruing to United Fuel Investments, Limited, for a full year's operation of the enlarged plant, after depreciation and income tax, available for dividends on this Preferred Stock are $1,003,542

Preferred Dividend on this issue $540,000

PRICE: 100 and accrued dividend

Each ten shares of Preferred Stock will carry a bonus of three shares of common stock, fractions to be adjusted at $20 per share.

Orders may be telegraphed or telephoned at our expense.

These shares are offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to allotment. Dividends on the Preferred Shares will accrue from April 1, 1928. The organization of the Corporation and the issue of these shares will be passed upon by Messrs. Blake, Lash, Anglin and Cassels, Toronto.

It is expected that interim share certificates will be ready for delivery on or about April 10, 1928.

What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

XIII—What Happened to Mrs. Hutchinson

THE climate was bleak. The woods were full of Indians and wild animals. Mrs. Hutchinson was pregnant. She went forth from the town and with her went that splendid little rebel who insisted on making every fight her own, Mary Dyer, also pregnant. Both women promptly miscarried, which was interpreted by the pious as an evidence of their guilt.

Anne Hutchinson's sentence might have been even more severe, but she was strongly connected in the colony. No such connections operated to spare Mary Dyer, who for twenty years was a thorn in the flesh of the authorities.

The colony having enacted horrible laws against the Quakers, Mary determined to test them, having as helpers two Englishmen, William Robinson and Marmaduke Stevenson. The three were condemned to death, and the men were hanged on Boston Common before Mary's eyes. She herself climbed the ladder to the scaffold, the halter was put around her neck, and her eyes covered with a handkerchief furnished by the Rev. Mr. Wilson who had jeered at her two predecessors.

At that moment a messenger burst theatrically through the crowd with the cry: "Stop, for she is reprieved."

Meant to Scare Her

It was the intention to scare her so thoroughly that she would refrain from agitation in the future, but Mary was not that kind. After a few months of recuperation she was busy again, and this time there was no reprieve. The same "Priest Wilson" was on hand to make her last moments more unhappy.

She never flinched. Pert and unrepentant to the last, she was hung up "as a flag for others to take example by," as one of her judges cynically expressed it. Hung up on Boston Common by those who, having fought for the right to worship God according to their own fashion, were unwilling that any should worship Him otherwise.

"It is the Shame and Reproach of New England," said William Coddington, once treasurer of the Massachusetts Colony and later governor of Rhode Island, "that those that were persecuted in England and bore their testimonies against Bishops and Ceremonies should in New England put to death four of the servants of the ever living God, banish upon pain of death, cut off ears, fine, whip and imprison, for keeping their consciences pure to God. . . ."

"Priest Ridden"

"But he adds: "The Magistrates were priest ridden . . . they (the preachers) would have Accommodations for Lands, and the Best Houses built for them: now were they grown warm in their Accommodations: now was the iron bed, like that of the Tyrant made use of, to cut all according to it shorter or longer. . . ."

At The Hague is a museum filled with instruments of torture that freeze your blood. If all hell were to sit up for a night devising ways in which to wring the utmost possible pain from human flesh, it is difficult to imagine that anything could be added. Every organ of the body, and of the bodies of both sexes, has received its due measure of attention. There is nothing left for cruelty to devise.

You turn your eyes away in horror, and then the thought flashes into your mind: "These are the fruits of faith. All these playthings of the fiends were invented amid prayer and fasting. Invented that Christians might correct one another regarding doctrines of which Jesus of Nazareth never heard."

If the crimes against men's bodies have been horrible, the outrage of their minds by the church has been even more costly.

Persecution destroyed its thousands or ten thousands, but ignorance kept the whole world dark for centuries. And the church was the friend and protector of ignorance. Strange that it should have been so.

Science and Theology

Extraordinary that a faith which begins with the words "let there be light," whose great Prophet said: "I came that ye might have life, and that ye might have it more abundantly"—that such a church should have stood like rock against every effort of the human mind to live more fully. By what weird perversion did this come to pass? What were the beginnings of the "conflict between science and theology" that darkened the lives of so many fine men and held the world back for centuries?

In the beginnings of the race there was neither science nor priesthood. No division of labor had taken place. Every man was his own blacksmith, tailor, arrow-maker, physician and priest. Tribes integrated for protection.

When it was discovered one day that a particular member of the tribe was more skilful than the others in chipping flint, somebody conceived the idea that the whole tribe would fight more effectively if this one member were left behind to make arrows, his product being more accurate and deadly. So he was relieved from fighting but, having contributed his skill, he still shared equally in the spoils.

Spiritual Specialist

From such rude beginnings came the slow emergence of the crafts. The smith, forger of swords and plow-shares, was a mighty man in all tribes, and his descendants still dominate the telephone directory. The butcher, baker and candle-stick maker, all stepped out after thousands of years and with them, or after them—it is all conjecture, of course—came a man who was recognized as a specialist in the spiritual and esthetic sphere. Perhaps he was a singing dervish and worker of enchantments, who looked wisely at the stars or the entrails of a bird and foretold the future.

Probably in his beginnings he was even more primitive. But he emerged along with the craftsmen, and from the earliest days of recorded history in Egypt we find him in the dual capacity of priest and physician, the custodian of both science and religion. Between them in those days there was no conflict. They were one.

Tomorrow—Priestly Usurpation.

Rev. G. J. Bousfield Addresses Young People of St. Luke's.

An illustrated address, entitled, "Across Canada," given by Rev. G. J. Bousfield, and portraying interestingly many of the beauty spots of the Dominion, featured this week's meeting of the A.Y.P.A. of St. Luke's church, held in the parish hall.

An enjoyable program included vocal solos by Mrs. W. J. Davies, Mrs. W. Hepburn and Miss Verna Johnston, with accompaniments played by Mrs. Harris and W. C. Thomson, also a darky song with ukulele accompaniment, by the Misses Eulah and Grace Simpson, a piano duet by the Misses Eleanor Bothwell and Margaret Whittaker and a monologue by Jack Primeau.

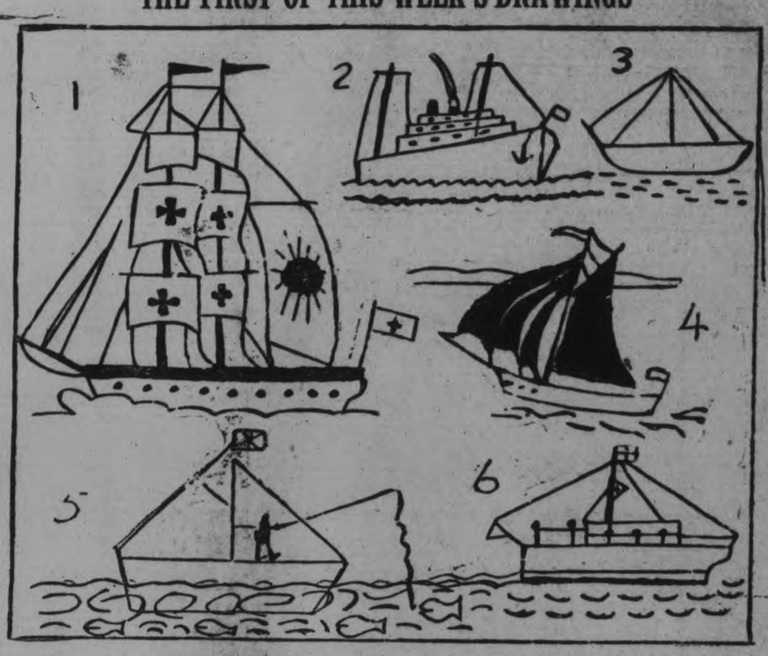
THE FIRST OF THIS WEEK'S DRAWINGS



1. Leo Clancy (9 years), 784 Water street; 2, Ernest Ward, (9 years, 324 Murray street; 3 Arthur Lomax, (10 years), 413 Sheridan street; 4, Kay Dinesen, (12 years), 748 Munroe avenue; 5, Christey Mason, (7 years), 479 Bolivar street; 6, George R. Ebbs, (7 years), 223 Mark street.

Don't Forget

To mail your voting coupons before Tuesday night, or bring them into the office.

To-day's Drawings.

Isn't that a fine old ship that Leo Clancy drew? This seems to be the days for ships, because we have six of them. Ernest Ward drew the only steamship in the picture and I see that in printing it has lost part of its anchor. Small fine lines do not print by this process. Arthur Lolmax and George Ebbs have drawn nice boats, and doesn't that sailing vessel of Kay Dinesen's scud along over the waves? I'll bet Christey Mason's fisherman is not fishing in Rice Lake, if what Fred Roy has been telling people is right—there are too many fish in Christey's picture—and the drawing was so big that the printer had to leave some out.

Please Read this.

You will see that plain outline drawings print much better than pictures that have a lot of fine lines, so it is better to make your drawing simple. Photographs of people can be printed in the newspaper nicely, because they are sent away to a factory where they are etched on metal. They are then called half-tones because they show the shading from white to black. Our drawings are made by another process, that shows just two tones—white and black. If you make your drawing shaded we must either print it black or white—the sails in number four were shaded, and now they are all black.

Now that you know why the drawings must be outlines only, I hope that you will help out.

No Tracing!

About twenty boys and girls have sent in drawings of Jiggs and other characters that are very cleverly traced. We want original work but it may be copied. Anyone (even the Drawing Editor) can trace with carbon paper or heavy lines, or through thin paper, but the real test comes in drawing from model, memory or copy. Any drawings of course that we know to be traced will be laid aside, and those who have sent in traced drawings should forget them, and send in new original drawings.

The Contest Continues.

This contest was not just for one week. One little boy, whose picture was not printed last week, was very weepy on Saturday, and we are sorry that we did not make clear that the contest would continue. There are a great many pictures on hand, but we hope some day this week to print a whole page of them to catch up. It is taking so much space today to tell all about the contest that I am afraid there will not be room for more than six pictures. If the boys and girls will just read the rules that were printed last week and stick to them I will have more room for pictures, and yours will get in quicker. Try; won't you?

One thing more. The Examiner is not picking the winner every week. It's up to you boys and girls. Get the coupon out of Saturday's paper, and mark on it the number and name of the picture you think was the best last week, and send the coupon to us. The picture getting the largest number of votes will win and the winner will be given a crisp dollar bill. These coupons must be sent in before Tuesday night, and the winner will be announced on Wednesday, when the prize will be mailed.

This week's competition is entirely new with a new set of numbers, and another coupon for voting for this week's winner, will be printed next Saturday. Clip out the pictures every night, so that you may judge them when the last lot is printed on Saturday.

Watch for a big bunch of pictures to-morrow.

PETERBOROUGH BOY HELPS COLLEGE WIN

W. J. Riddiford One of Team Which Wins Debating Trophy.

Brilliant debating on the part of W. J. Riddiford, an old Peterborough boy son of Rev. W. C. Riddiford, formerly pastor of Park Street Baptist church in this city, brought the Kerr Shield, the trophy of the Toronto Intercollegiate Debating Union, to McMaster University for the eighth time on Thursday evening. The final was held in Castle Memorial Hall, McMaster University, when students from the Dental College were pitted against Mr. Riddiford and C. H. Howard, of McMaser. The McMaster men upheld the affirmative on the resolution, "That the United States should join the League of Nations."

Mr. Riddiford in his speech had some lively thrusts at our neighbor from the south. He quoted from the memoirs of Field Marshal von Ludendorff in which the German Junker leader declared that it was all along recognized in German official circles that the United States would postpone taking part in hostilities until it was assured that it was joining with the winning side. "The United States did not join the Allies until their success seemed likely," said Mr. Riddiford. "Acting on the same principle, the United States should now join the League, for it has proved itself a success."

No nation in the world, said Mr. Riddiford, derived more benefit than did the States from the preservation of peace, which was the work of the League. It was a selfish and pernicious policy for the States to enjoy the material advantages which came to her international trade from the work of the League and yet consistently to refuse to help shoulder the burden.

FALL SAYS MONEY FOR RANCH SHARE

Nothing Unusual or Unlawful in His Acceptance of Liberty Bonds.

EL PASO Texas April 2. — Canadian Press. — Throughout cross examination yesterday by Atlee Pomerene, the government counsel, Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the Interior, remained emphatic that there was nothing unusual or unlawful in his acceptance of $233,000 in Liberty bonds from Harry Sinclair, the wealthy oil magnate. PETERBOROUGH MAN IS CLASS HISTORIAN

William Edgar Will Compile Activities of McMaster Class of 1928.

William Edgar, son of Rev. W. S. Edgar, has been elected by his fellow students as historian, class '28, McMaster University. Mr. Edgar will write an account of the activities of the graduate class in Arts, from the date of the first arrival, in the fall of 1924, to the events on the eve of the final exams. This will be published in the May issue of the McMaster University Monthly. During the school year, a number of items from Mr. Edgar's pen have appeared in the University magazine.

McMaster University on Thursday evening for the eighth time was awarded the Kerr Shield in the final debate of the Inter-college debating union, held in Castle Memorial Hall between W. J. Riddiford and C. H. Howard of McMaster University, and H. M. McCaffrey and H. A. Keenan of the Faculty of Dentistry, who spoke for the negative in the motion: "Resolved, that the United States should enter the League of Nations." The judges were V. Webb, H. G. Stapells and R. MacNicol.

Mr. Riddiford is the son of the Rev. Mr. Riddiford, a former pastor of Park Street Baptist church.

ORGANIZE DRIVE TO SUPPORT LEAGUE

Local Committee Formed To Take Part in Membership Campaign.

A meeting, called by the executive of the Canadian Club, was held in the Public Library Hall on Saturday, March 31st, for the purpose of organizing for the "coast to coast" drive for membership for the League of Nations on April 17th. About thirty people were present

Mrs. J. F. Allan explained the purpose of the meeting and asked that a chairman be appointed.

Colonel C. H. Ackerman was nominated and chosen unanimously. On motion of Dr. Blagrave and Mrs. J. F. Allan, Mrs. Drummond was appointed secretary.

Messages of regret were read from Mrs. Harstone, Messrs. J. J. Turner and J. McNabb, who were unable to be present.

Colonel Ackerman in a few well-chosen words emphasized the necessity of enlisting as many people as possible in this movement. He was followed by J. A. Aylmer, who spoke briefly, expressing his entire sympathy with the movement.

Dr. Blagrave emphasized the fact that the chief idea of the membership drive was to get public opinion behind the League. He spoke of the League as an organization, by means of which the feeling of the people could find an outlet. The bulletin sent to every member would keep them informed of the great work the League is doing.

A Publicity committee, composed of Messrs. Dela Fosse, Reynolds and Dr. Craig, was appointed.

It was moved by Dr. Blagrave and carried, that the executive of the Canadian Club form a nucleus for an interim executive and that to these be added Colonel Ackerman, J. A. Aylmer, Dr. Craig, Father Costello, Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Kenner.

The meeting then adjourned.

MONTREAL, April 2. — Canadian Press. — This city went to the polls to-day to elect a mayor and twenty-three aldermen, and to decide whether or not daylight saving would be authorized by the city this year.

The perennial mayor, Mederic Martin, is opposed by a comparative youngster, thirty-three year old Camivien Houde, a former member of the Legislature and a native of Montreal. Twelve aldermen were elected by acclamation on nomination day.

DANIEL GUILTY OF SUBVERSION OF DISCIPLINE

Convicted On All Charges Rising From Remarks Made in Ward Room.

DEWAR'S TRIAL NEXT.

Guilty Officer Dismissed From Ship But Not From Service.

GIBRALTAR, April 3.—(Canadian Press.) — Commander Daniel, who was found guilty by court martial today of actions prejudicial to discipline, was dismissed from his ship, the Royal Oak, and severely reprimanded.

The sentence implies dismissal from his ship, but not from the service. He will remain on half pay until it pleases the Admiralty to appoint him to another ship or another post.

There was a solemn scene when the court re-opened this afternoon for the announcement of the decision. When Commander Daniel entered, he found his sword lying on the table with the hilt towards the president of the court. This gave positive indication that he had been found guilty on at least one count, as otherwise the hilt would have been toward the defendant who again would be privileged to grasp it. The assemblage, however, was not left long in doubt concerning the full decision as the Judge Advocate, when all was silent, solemnly delivered the verdict amid intense silence.

The court was closed after Commander Daniel's certificates had been read and was not re-opened for an hour and a half, during which time sentence was being considered.

The Judge Advocate read this sentence: "The court, having found the charges against the accused proved, orders Commander Daniel to be dismissed from H.M.S. Cormorant and severely reprimanded."

The Cormorant is the ship to which Daniel was posted after the Royal Oak incident, this posting avoiding being placed on half pay.

The commander was found guilty on all charges involving reading publicly in the ward-room of the Royal Oak certain remarks subversive to naval discipline and of reading remarks and criticisms on the conduct and orders of his superior officer, Rear-Admiral Collard, calculated to bring the latter into contempt. Captain Dewar, also of the Royal Oak, is scheduled to face similar charges.

The trial opened aboard the airplane carrier Eagle on Saturday and detailed testimony was introduced telling of incidents aboard the Royal Oak which formed the background of the controversy between Admiral Collard and the two other officers. Extensive testimony was introduced concerning a dance aboard the battleship during which the Admiral was declared to have berated the bandmaster and to have referred to him with an opprobious epithet.

The defense contended that the Admiral's action were such as to interfere seriously with the morale of the crew, since the Admiral rebuked the bandmaster and even Commander Daniel in the presence of other officers and members of the crew.

Testimony for the defense closed this morning and after a short adjournment counsel for the defence delivered an earnest plea on behalf of the commander. The prosecution then followed, contending that the charges of activity subversive to discipline by Commander Daniel in reading a letter in the battle ship's wardroom had been proved.

Incidents of the noted dance on board the battleship which precipitated the trouble were recalled by Major Attwood, commanding the marine battalion. He had just finished dancing, he said, when, upon looking around, he saw the Rear-Admiral shaking his fist at the band and talking loudly. Commander Daniel spoke to the Rear-Admiral, witness said, then both officers walked away while everybody stared at them.

Major Attwood said Commander Daniel told the officers in the ward-room that the incident of the band was closed and was not to be referred to again. The witness said it was a fair statement to make, with reference to the unpleasant scenes on the Royal Oak, to say that all the officers who had the mortifying experience of witnessing it were inflamed with indignation and were deeply resentful. There seemed to be a certain feeling in the ward-room, he added, that if something were not done there would be trouble on the ship.

Carroll Manuscript Is Sold For $75,000

LONDON April 3. — Canadian Press. — The original manuscript of Lewis Carroll's famous "Alice in Wonderland," was sold to-day to Dr. A. Rosenbach, of Philadelphia, the noted book collector, for 15,400 pounds sterling.

Says Thomas Hardy Could Not Write Two Lines of Correct English Together

LONDON, April 3 (A.P.).—George Moore the novelist, who has just recovered from a long illness, gave voice to some unusual opinions yesterday about modern literature and art. It was on the occasion of the successful production Sunday by the Private Play Society of his latest playlet, "The Life of An Immortal," which has Shakespeare for its theme.

"It seems strange to me," said the novelist, "that after forty years of hard work, boycotting and spurning, I should through one short play suddenly become one of the idols of the English public. Congratulations have poured upon me, but I am only a very weak old man, barely able to stand.

"I came to England forty years ago like a troubadour to revolutionize English literature. I absolutely refuse to speak about my living contemporaries, because there is not one worth talking about."

Referring to the late Thomas Hardy, he said: "Hardy could not write two lines of correct English together. He had no insight in human nature."

Then about Joseph Conrad: "Conrad's works will be dead in a year. Anyone could write the sort of stuff he wrote about barges floating around in green or blue vases."

Of music and art generally, he said: "Just mere spitting at the stars, and when women try to spit too, the thing is worse than ridiculous for they cannot compete with men."

SATISFIED WITH NANKING PACT

Nationalist Government Expresses Profound Regret For Indignities Suffered By U.S.

ACCEPTS RESPONSIBILITY.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—The agreement reached by John Van A. MacMurray, U.S. Minister to China and Chinese Nationalist official for a complete settlement of the Nanking incident was described yesterday by the State department as entirely satisfactory to the United States.

The Nationalist Government expressed profound regret for the indignities to the United States' flag, and to the official representatives of the United States, for the loss of property sustained by the U. S. Consulate during the outbreak at Nanking, and for personal injuries and material damage done to the American residents.

It declared the outbreaks were instigated by Communists prior to the establishment of the Nationalist government at Nanking, but accepted responsibility for them .Orders have been issued for the protection of the lives and property of Americans in China. The troops of the division which took part in the disorders have been disbanded and steps have been taken for the punishment of the soldiers and others implicated.

Full reparation was promised for personal injuries and material damage done to the United States consulate, officials and American residents and property at Nanking. For this it was proposed that there be created a joint commission to verify the injuries and damages.

The writ claims damages for alleged libel.

TWO MILES OF PAVED STREETS TO BE ADDED TO CITY SYSTEM DURING 1929, COUNCIL DECIDES

Instructions Given To Advertise Block Between Weller and Charlotte Streets.

ALSO PARK STREET SOUTH.

Reid Street, To Link With Chemong Road Pavement, Added to This Year's List.

Peterborough's 1929 paving program was outlined last night when the City Council at its regular April meeting, ordered that notice be given of the intention to pave Belmont and Homewood avenues, Gilmour, Walton, Leslie, St. Joseph and St. Thomas streets, completing the area between Water and Charlotte streets, west of Park street, and Park street from Wolfe street to Lansdowne, a total in all of slightly more than two miles.

The motion specified that this work be done with asphalt, and was supported by all the aldermen except Ald. Stocker who stated that it was too much work for one year, and opposed the use of asphalt on principle, holding that the city should lay concrete pavements by day labor.

The proposal to add Reid street from McDonnel street to the city limits, to this year's program, met with general approval. The street will be paved with asphalt, with curbs and gutters, to the top of the hill, just past London street, and from there on will have a twenty foot concrete slab to match the paving to be laid this year on the Chemong road.

The paving already planned for this year will cost $67,620.50, of which the city pays $43,394.10.

A difficulty exists with regard to the connection of the two strips. East of the Chemong Road the city boundary is Wolsely street. West of the road the boundary runs along behind the houses fronting on Victoria avenue. Thus for nearly seven hundred feet the boundary runs along the centre of the Chemong road. The contract let by the province calls for the work to be done to Wolsely St. In order to get around the difficulty a resolution was put through last night asking the government to add this seven hundred feet to its contract the city to pay half the cost.

The paving for 1929 was opened up by Ald. Macdonald, who moved that notice be given of the intention of the council to pave the west end block next year, declaring that conditions are deplorable in that section.

Aldermen Cotton and McIntyre urged that Park and Reid streets, from Charlotte street to Lansdowne street be added.

"Where are you going to be doing all this work?" asked Ald. Stocker.

"Peterborough is the lowest taxed city in Ontario," replied the Mayor.

"We'll be the highest," warned Ald. Stocker.

"What about East City?" asked Ald. Huffman. "I think something should be done for them over there."

"Don't kill the goose that lays the golden eggs," was Ald. Greene's rejoinder as more streets were mentioned.

"That's what it will be," agreed Ald. Stocker.

That the aldermen hadn't backbone enough to do that was Ald. Stocker's criticism, when Ald. McIntyre urged that the work be so advertised that the city can do its own work, possibly with Tarvia. It was pointed out that the general designation of asphalt would cover this. Ald. McIntyre also urged that London street from Aylmer street to George street, be included declaring that the west end is getting all the paving. The work would connect two paved streets.

Ald. Stocker refused to vote on the question.

Outside the paving program last night's meeting which lasted only an hour and a half dealt with routine matters.

Bylaws Passed.

Bylaws were passed as follows:

2767—Authorizing the council to borrow money for current expenses to carry on the city's business until the taxes are collected.

2768—Authorizing the payment of grants to various organizations including $3500 to Exhibition Board, $1400 to the Children's Aid Society, $1000 to the Peterborough Health Association, $700 to the Well Babies' Clinic, $200 to the Peterborough Poultry Association, $500 to the Salvation Army Moralty Work, $150 to the Ashburnham Patriotic League, being the amount of the taxes on Armour's Hill; $25 to the Sick Children's Hospital, and $150 to the Peterborough Health Association.

"It's coming out of the Baord of Works, Ald. Greene, and I was afraid to ask the cost," said Ald. Stocker, when Ald. Greene asked how much signs will cost for implementing the parking by-law. The engineer was authorized to buy the signs.

Notice will be given of the inten-

Nobleman Injured In Car Accident

BELLEVILLE SUR SAONE, France, April 3 (Associated Press). —Viscount Trematon, heir of the Earl of Athlone and a nephew of Queen Mary of England, was seriously injured and one of his companions was killed in a motor accident near here Sunday afternoon.

The Viscount was driving the car, accompanied by Kenneth Madocks and John Couran, fellow-students with him at Cambridge University. The machine crashed into a tree. Madocks' skull was fractured and he died within a few hours. Couran escaped with scratches.

The Viscount was taken to a hospital, and it was said there last night that his condition was satisfactory. The physicians have allowed him to take some nourishment and to smoke a cigarette.

LORD HEWART CENSURED BY BRITISH BAR

Chief Justice Informed That He Unjustly Reproved Counsel in Murder Case.

CAUSES STIR.

Remark To Prisoner After Trial Creates Discussion Among Members of Bar.

LONDON, April 3.—Lord Hewart of Bury, Lord Chief Justice of England, has been informed by the General Council of the Bar that he unjustly reproved counsel for the defence in a murder trial in February last by telling the jury that the counsel in question had no right in his address to the jury to call their attention five times to the fact that convicion of the prisoner would mean his death sentence. Lord Hewart described this as "most improper." The result of the verdict, he added, rested in other quarters than in the hands of the jurymen.

The incident of a Lord Chief Justic being told by the General Council of the Bar—whose function is to decide points of professional duty —that he had acted unjustly is unprecedented here, and has caused something of a sensation in legal circles.

The prisoner in question was acquitted by the jury, and Lord Hewart told him he was "lucky." This remark created some discussion among members of the bar at the time.

Lord Hewart, who addressed the Canadian Bar Association in Toronto on August 24, 1927, made a speech the following day at a joint luncheon of the Empire and Canadian Clubs, on the subject of the modern newspaper, which created a good deal of comment. He characterized the printing machine as "a terrible thing," and said the owner of such a machine could "shatter the reputations of individuals, and even make hay of the peace of continents." Some newspapers took the speech as a serious reflection on the press, while other regarded it as of a semi-humorous nature.

PRESTON ORDERED TO PRODUCE PAPERS

Must Appear on Thursday For Examination For Discovery.

PORT HOPE, April 3. — General Sir Arthur Currie, wartime commander of the Canadian forces in France has obtained an order from the high court directing that W. T. R. Preston appear before the Registrar of the Supreme Court of Ontario at Cobourg at ten o'clock Thursday morning next for examination. The action yesterday was the latest development in Sir Arthur's $50,000 suit for alleged libel, brought against W. F. Wilson, Port Hope publisher and W. T. R. Preston, author of a newspaper article, which charged needless loss of life among Canadian soldiers at Mons, on the last day of the Great War.

Under the court order Mr. Preston is instructed to produce all memoranda, books and papers in his possession in any way relating to the matters in question It is expected that the examination will occupy the the whole day.

Lithuanian and Polish Delegates To Discuss Problems at Berlin

KOENIGSBERG, Germany, April 3 (A.P.).—The conference between seven Lithuanian delegates, headed by Premier Waldemaras, and seven representives of Poland, headed by M. Zaleski, foreign minister, terminated amicably yesterday A joint agreement was entered into that the commissions charged with working out details for a future settlement will meet at Berlin, April 20.

The delegates met in a neutral city for the purpose of settling vexed problems which have caused much trouble between Poland and Lithuania, particularly the occupation of the City of Vilna by Poland.

All of the questions involved were of a delicate nature, and so Premier Waldemaras and Minister Zaleski, with their advisers, merely talked the situation over, without anything definite being accomplished. Lithuania has set up a claim for $10,000,000 damages because of Polish military occupations—which will probably develop arguments at the coming meetings.

With regard to Vilna, M. Zaleski did not see how discussions on this subject would help the negotiations for better relations.

Before the close of the conference, Premier Waldemaras admitted that they "were still on shaky ground, but the only ground they had to build on thus far."

The commissions will also have under consideration economics, security and nationalities.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS.

EX-ALD. JOSEPH CROWE, Whose Birthday this is.

NORTHWEST IS SWEPT BY GALE

Swollen Rivers Cause Near Flood Conditions in Some Areas.

SHIPPING IMPERILLED.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 3 (Associated Press).—Besieged on land and sea, the North-West yesterday felt the full fury of a parting wintry thrust that lashed the region from Saskatoon to San Francisco with rain, snow, cloudbursts and terrific winds and imperilled shipping along the gale-swept coastline.

Swollen rivers caused near flood conditions in some areas, others were beclogged with ice jams and snows blanketed the mountains, while in the broad Pasific two ships were known to be in distress.

Both the sailing schooner K. V. Kruse, 117 days out of Australia for Seattle, and the steamer Jane Nettleton, southbound from Puget Sound, reported they were in trouble. Five men who Saturday took off in a lifeboat to aid the distressed schooner Helen B. Sterling off the Oregon coast were adrift in the stormy sea.

Saskatoon, Sask., reported a threatened repetition of last week's flood in the Pike Lake Valley, 20 miles south-west, with the breaking up of a 12-mile ice jam which caused the first flood, and two smaller ice jams forming and the waters of the Saskatchewan River rising.

Storm Warnings Issued.

South-west storm warnings were ordered along the coast north from San Francisco yesterday. Heavy rains were causing the Coquille River in Oregon and its tributaries to rise, menacing lowlands and flooding highways and railroad tracks. Train service south of Coquille was held up yesterday. Logging crews in the area were withdrawn to await better weather.

The five men adrift are members of the Siuslaw coastguard station, Oregon. Unable to get in across the bar Sunday, after the coastguard cutter Haida took the Helen B. Sterling in tow, their lifeboat was anchored off the bar until yesterday morning, when the anchor-line apparently broke and the boat went out to sea. She was believed to have drifted northward. The men on board are Captain Stitt, Clyde Deal, Joe Barnhart, Harold McCready and Elmer Peterson.

SIXTY-EIGHT ARRESTED.

MEXICO CITY, April 3.— (Canadian Press.)— Sixty-eight adherents of the Roman Catholic church were under arrest to-day, charged with anti-government activities. The arrests were made in a suburb of Coyoacan when police raided the house.

FEWER PERMITS TAKEN IN MARCH

Total For First Three Months of Year Higher, However, Than in 1927.

NO NEW DWELLINGS.

Building permits for the month of March showed a decided falling off in this city in comparison to the same month last year, but the total for the first three months of this year is ahead of that for the same period in 1927.

Last months there were eleven permits issued by the City Engineer and these were valued at $3,245.During March, 1927, there were fifteen permits issued, valued at $9310. Permits issued for the first three months of this year are valued at $28,620, while those in 1927 amounted to $26,845.

Although 1927 was the banner year since the war for building in Peterborough this year is expected to show larger results, for there are many buildings and alterations being contemplated.

During the month no permits were taken out for dwellings and only one for a garage, the other 10 were made up principally of repair and alteration work.

YOUNG MAN FACES CHARGES OF ARSON

Arthur Bedard Accused of Starting Fatal Fires in Quebec Schools.

QUEBEC, April 2 (Canadian Press). — More than three months after one of the worst fire catastrophes in the history of Quebec, Arthur A. Bedard, 21, of this city, was arraigned before Judge Choquette in the Court of Sessions to-day and charged with arson in connection with the fires at the Hospice of St. Charles and St. Berchman's Academy on December 15 and 16, 1927. Bedard pleaded not guilty to-day and was remanded without bail until April 5. Thirty-eight lies were lost in the St. Charles fire.

MARTIN DEFEATED.

MONTREAL, April 3 (Canadian Press).—Camillion Houde, former M.L.A. for St. Mary's, was yesterday elected Mayor of Montreal over Hon. Mederic Martin, who was running for re-election. With but 56 polls to hear from the vote was: Houde, 56,556; Martin, 38,385.

The voters also decided to adopt daylight saving by a substantial majority.

ONTARIO HOUSE IS PROROGUED THIS AFTERNOON

Quietest Session in Recent Years Closed By Lieutenant-Governor.

LEGISLATION REVIEWED.

Prevention of Securities Frauds and Research Foundation Among Principal Acts.

TORONTO, April 3. — Canadian Press. — After one of the quietest sessions in recent years, lasting about seven weeks, the Ontario Legislature was prorogued this afternoon by His Honor Lieutenant-Governor W. D. Ross, with fitting ceremony.

One hundred and eighteen bills were presented for royal assent, compared with 162 last year.

The outstanding legislation was referred to by the Lieutenant Governor, the important enactments of the session being measures for the prevention of securities frauds, dealing with apprentice conditions, for the establishment of a research foundation and amendments to the school law and statutes.

In his speech from the throne His Honor referred with appreciation to the provision for the study of empire marketing problems, to the efforts of the dairy branch of the Agricultural Department, which gave impetus to a flourishing dairy industry; to the financial provision for various educational services and provision for necessary growth of the Hydro-Electric Commission's operations.

Still greater production in the provincial mining industry is confidently predicted he remarked, even though the output had reached the highest point in history.

After expressing regret at the loss of life in the recent Hollinger disaster he said: "I trust that the investigation into the causes and circumstances of the affair will result in the adoption of safeguards that will prevent such catastrophes in the future."

In conclusion His Honor said there was ample reason for confidence in the future, with the provincial finances on a more favorable basis.

EYE WITNESSES TELL OF 'QUAKE

MANY HOUSES DAMAGED.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 3. — (Canadian Press.) — Refugees from the stricken city of Smyrna, where at least forty persons lost their lives in a devastating earthquake on Saturday, have begun to arrive here, bringing harrowing tales of panic and suffering. The first boat to quit the shattered city arrived at Constantinople to-day with several hundred refugees. Mustapha Bey, captain of the steamer, was an eyewitness of the earthquake.

"On the night of the 31st all the people of Smyrna were calmly sleeping when suddenly a thunderous roar, filled the city, followed by a terrific quake," he said. "The whole population rushed from the swaying, brittle, wooden houses into the graying dawn of the streets, their night gowns and bare feet making a ghostly effect. Many of these poor souls wandered on the outskirts of the city, sleepless, foodless and unclad.

"On Sunday, when I left, the city was regaining its calm despite continuing slight quakes and people were returning to their homes to try to repair the chaos. Ninety per cent. of the buildings must have been damaged."

LOCAL BOWLERS IN 32ND PLACE

Standings in C. B. A. Tournament Are Given Out To-day.

That Peterborough bowlers can give any of them a run is evidenced from the standing which they attained while in attendance at the C.B.A. in Toronto. This morning, published results showed them to be in 32nd place among 174 teams entered from all parts of the province. The Peterborough team comprised A. Miller, V. Anthony, U. Brioux, D. A'Hearn, and George Gimblett.

There is also a special meeting to be held at the call of the Mayor after he has got into communication with F. S. Lazier, paving engineer for the town. At the meeting last night there were two members absent, Councillors Cole and Wilkinson.

Directly following the reading of the minutes, there was a series of delegations to bring matters before the council, mostly with reference to the recent flood in the district bordering on Trout Creek. The matter of back taxes was also brought to the attention of the council by Tax Collector J. D. Cumming. He did not wish to be overbearing in the matter of collections, but took the attitude of the council to indicate that he must be so.

Several communications were read including applications for the position of engineer, which persons interested had believed to be open. Just before the meeting adjourned, the report of the Road and Bridge committee caused considerable argument, which resulted in an individual vote being taken. The matter under discussion was the erection of a gasoline pump on Tice Street. Deputy Reeve Davidson demanded that the yeas and the nays be taken, and the vote resulted in the gas pump being permitted with only two councillors objecting.

A. H. McKeel was the first citizen to address the council. He claimed that the bridges over Trout Creek on Palliser and Simpson Streets were not sufficiently large to carry off the water in the Spring and that there was a flood every year. As a property owner, he and his tenants suffered considerable loss. He thought it would not be a difficult matter to widen the waterway under the bridges to accommodate the flow. In bringing his appeal, Mr. McKeel quoted figures which he claimed to be the dimensions of the bridges and the different water levels at various times. He also claimed that he could produce pictures to prove his statements that there was a similar occurrence each Spring. He admitted that the condition this year was much more serious than for many years past. Some of his tenants, he claimed, were un

Hawthorne, from his run that day and the little that ran other days, made about half a can of syrup. He has 800 trees tapped. Those who have not tapped, and intend to, are ready to get at it just as soon as the weather moderates.

CANADIAN PLAYS SKILFULLY DONE

But There is Paucity of Original Address, Says Judge in Contest.

MONTREAL, Que., April 2. —(Canadian Press).—Paucity of original ideas, rather than lack of technical skill, is revealed as the chief barrier to the development of a results of the one-act play competition conducted by the four plays which carried off the awards were more notable for skilful construction than for freshness of thought, according to Sir Andrew Macphail, chairman of the committee of judges.

As the competition was open to entries from all over Canada, the residence in the Dominion, its revelations may with justice be accepted as indicative of the failings and virtues of Canadian play-wrights as a class, he said. Studied in this light they are dampening to the hopes of any early evolution of a national drama. Faulty technique can eventually be cured by carefully directed training, but intellectual sluggishness is a more stubborn evil.

The critic must, however, take into consideration the possibility that the lack of native vigor in the compositions submitted is chargeable to artistic, rather than intellectual timouressness. A few at least of the 93 authors who forwarded one-act plays to Sir Andrew and his committee are doubtless capable of viewing life from new angles and interpreting their glimpses in a fresh manner, but are ill at ease with what is generally regarded as an artificial and restricted medium of expression

If this be the case, there is still sound reason to hope for the Canadian drama. It has not been still-born, but stands in need of sturdy nourishment and encouragement that it may learn to use its limbs and faculties.

The young playwrights who are afraid to give free range to their thought and seek intellectual adventure in unexplored regions lest they commit stylistic gaucheries may easily become imbued with the pioneer spirit as they gain familiarity with their chosen medium. It must be remembered that playwriting has received less attention in Canada than other branches of artistic expression and is still looked upon as an experiment fraught with danger. The author is as subject to stage fright as the player.

Another avenue of thought was opened up by the competition. Sir Andrew Macphail reiterated the belief of a small body of enthusiasts that the hope of the Canadian drama in his varied interests, feels strongly that before the Little Theatre can establish itself as a medium of cultural education, it must temporarily lower its standards and meet the public on its own plane. He believes that the amateur theatre should first "give the pubile what it wants" however galling that may be to the artisitcally elect, then lead them by easy stages upward into a more rarefield atmosphere. Perhaps in this manner both authors and audience might learn to think.

WOKE UP TO FIND HEAD COLD GONE!

Method Hospital Approves for Public to Use at Home Quickly Ends Colds

Urging the importance of quick action in ending head colds before they spread down into the chest, hospital physicians have certified for home use a unique treatment which has brought speedy relief to numbers of Peterborough people—often in a few hours.

Is Pleasant to Use

Miss Mildred Burns, for example, contracted a cold which she kept neglecting until it had spread down into her bronchial tubes. The day following she coughed hard and had a high fever. Then, on the advice of her doctor, she started taking double strength doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a concentrated mixture of wild cherry, terpin hydrate and other ingredients certified for home use by hospital physicians.

With the first pleasant swallow she felt its comforting, healing warmth — from her nose passages deep down into her chest. Inside of a few hours congestion in her nose passages and chest began to clear up. By morning her excessive fever was gone, she was able to be out—and the day following, her doctor reports, the cold was gone entirely.

Note: See other cases reported daily—all certified to this paper by the attending physician.

Doctors recommend Cherry Pectoral because it not only stops coughing spells but penetrates and heals inflamed linings of the breathing passages. Absorbed by the system the medication quickly removes phlegm, helps reduce the "feverish", grippy feeling and drives out the cold from nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a spoonful of Cherry Pectoral today and you will feel like a different person tomorrow.

SAYS 8,000,000 MEN WORKLESS

U. S. Senator Shipstead Denies Statements Made By Secretary of Labor.

BASIS INCORRECT.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The claim that there are now approximately 8,000,000 persons out of work in the United States, instead of 1,874,050, as stated by Secretary of Lavor Davis in his recent report to the Senate, was made in that body yesterday by Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite, of Minnesota. On March 24 Secretary Davis stated that Ethelbert Stewart, Commissioner of Labor Statistics, "by the most careful computation methods available, finds that the actual number out of work is 1,874,050."

Senator Shipstead argued that Mr. Stewart had really said nothing of the kind, but had merely declared that the shrinkage, on a basis of those employed in 1925, was 7.43 per cent., and had added that "applying this percentage to the total number of employees as of 1925 gives a shrinkage between the average of 1925 and January, 1928, of 1,874,050 persons."

Report Questioned.

This figure, Mr. Shipstead said, had been accepted by the Senate and the press as representing the present total number of unemployed, but as a matter of fact it referred only to those who had lost employment since 1925. In this connection he quoted Mr. Stewart as saying in the report transmitted by Mr. Davis:

'In making 1925 the base of 100, it is understood that whatever there may have been of unemployment in that year is ignored, and it is assumed that those who were let out of industry between 1923 and 1924 had by 1925 readjusted themselves."

To secure a real base on which to estimate unemployment it was necessary to go back to the first half of 1920, the peak of employment, Mr. Shipstead declared.

Then, using the Stewart figures of 7.43 per cent. shrinkage between 1925 and 1928, Mr. Shipstead estimated that between 1923 and 1925 there was a shrinkage of 8.8 per cent., or 2,219,690 unemployed, and between 1920 and 1923 a shrinkage of 16.8 per cent., or 4,237,420 persons unemployed.

Labor Review Quoted.

Addition of the figures covering 1920-28 made, he said, a shrinkage percentage of 32.6 and a total unemployment of 8,331,170.

"You will note in the March monthly labor review," he said, "that using the monthly average of 1923 as 100, the peak of employment in the first half of 1920 stood at 117.

"In 1921 it dropped to 84.9 and in 1922 to 87.1. For 1923 it rose to 101.9, and dropped to 87.9 in 1924, and to 90.9 in 1925. We find the employment index for January, 1928, given as 84.2, showing a gradual progressive decline with the exception of the year 1923. From the high employment peak of 117.9 in May, 1920, to 84.2 in January, 1928, there was a total decline of 33.7 in employment."

SPRING IMPURITIES DUE TO POOR BLOOD

A Tonic Medicine a Necessity at This Season.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an all-year-round tonic for the blood and nerves. But they are especially valuable in the Spring when the system is loaded with impurities as a result of the indoor life of the winter months. There is no other season when the blood is so much in need of purifying and enriching and every dose of these pills helps to enrich the blood. In the spring one feels weak and tired—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give strength. In the Spring the appetite is often poor—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills develop the appetite, tone the stomach and aid weak digestion. It is in Spring that poisons in the blood find an outlet in disfiguring pimples, eruptions and boils—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills clear the skin because they go to the root of the trouble in the blood. In the Spring, anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia and many other troubles are most persistent because of poor, weak blood, and it is at this time when all nature takes on new life that the blood most seriously needs attention. Some people dose themselves with purgatives at this season, but these only further weaken themselves. A purgative merely gallops through the system, emptying the bowels, but does not help the blood. On the other hand, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood which reaches every nerve and every organ in the body, bringing new strength and vigor to weak, easily tired men, women and children. Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills this Spring—they will not disappoint you.

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FARMER KILLS DOG KILLING HIS SHEEP

One of Marauders On Farm Near Guelph Makes His Escape.

GUELPH, April 3.— Sheep-killing by dogs in Guelph Township and the surrounding district has reached the stage where farmers are thoroughly alarmed and are asking for some definite action by township authorities to put an end to the slaughter.

Word of the latest depredations comes from near Arkell, where two valuable sheep were killed and the remainder of the flock of seven badly mauled. The sheep were owned by J. R. Gordon, who caught the marauders in the midst of their foray. He killed one of the dogs, a large Airedale, with a blow from a hammer, the other making its escape.

TWO MORE MILES OF PAVING PLANNED

tion of the council to pass a by-law closing the south eight feet of Lansdowne street and leasing it to the Exhibition Board.

The only legal way to take care of paving the street railway strip on Water street north of Smith street is to pay for it out of the general rates. Debentures cannot be issued for this work until the present debentures are retired, a matter of several years. Ald. Cotton brought up this matter, stating that the people up there were willing to pay for the paving.

Suggestions of an appeal to the Railway Board were made by several aldermen, but City Solicitor Wearing feared that the board would be unable to act unless special legislation could be obtained. He will look up the act and report at the next meeting.

$26,000 In Taxes Unpaid.

There is still $26,000, or 3.34 per cent. of 1927 taxes outstanding, against $32,000 not collected at this time last year.

A motion was passed that the collector be given the roll for 1928. Some of the taxes outstanding, Ald. Phelan explained, answering Ald. McIntyre's query, and will have to be charged against the property. The collector was instructed to return the roll forthwith.

A letter was read from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission enclosing tabulated information about the gas plant, but as all the data asked by the council was not inclosed, a further request will be made.

Siding Authorized.

Permission was granted Richard Dawson to have a siding run from the C.N.R. track across Reid Street to the lot at the corner of Reid and London Streets, where he is building a large service station. The siding is for placing tank cars for unloading into large underground tanks. There are already other crossings at the place, and the aldermen believed that the station would be an improvement over the old buildings which have occupied the corner.

Arthur Blade, local agent for the Imperial Oil Company, appeared in support of the request.

J. H. Sedgwick and Herb. Martin were a committee from the Lawn Bowling Club to ask permission to move the present club house closer to Aylmer Street and make small additions to it in order that the club may install closets. The petition was granted.

Aldermen Invited to Service.

George W. Mulligan was granted permission to hold Sunday evening services in Confederation Square this year as usual. He invited the aldermen to attend the opening service.

W. H. Peel was granted a renewal of his eating-house license.

A motion was passed authorizing the Mayor, Ald. Phelan, and City Treasurer Adams to have City Solicitor Wearing take action against all persons owing taxes to the city.

Ald. Stocker and the city engineer were given authority to pass on the application of the E. L. Ruddy Company for permission to put up certain billboards and additions to others. The Mayor stressed the need of keeping the view at corners uninterrupted. Ald. Stocker explained where all the boards are to be put up, pointing out that most of them are a good distance back from the roads.

That City Clerk Armstrong's value to the City Council would be enhanced by having a stenographer to do the routine work of writing down motions and other matters.

Ald. Stocker supported the suggestion, stating that he had noticed this done at many meetings and it had seemed a good plan.

Mr. Armstrong, asked for his opinion, said that the only way to find out the value of the scheme was to try it out, and was authorized to do so.

A letter will be sent to the tenants in the stores backing on the Market asking them to keep the back doorways clean.

At Ald. Lowe's suggestion the C.P.R. and C.N.R. Companies will be asked to pave their station yards to obviate the dust nuisance.

Ald. Phelan reported that there are prospects of getting the lot at George and Sherbrooke Streets from the Government for parking space at a rental of $10.00 a year.

The City Trust has undertaken the renovation of the Council chamber, and city offices, and the old Ashburnham Town Hall.

Chatham City Council will give further study to a resolution from the Peterborough Council asking for legislation to enable municipalities to tax public utilities. The letter said that the resolution opens up many problems

Support from Kingston.

KINGSTON, April 3. — The city council last night pasesd the following resolution: That this corporation approved of the petition of the City of Peterborough to the Legislature to amend the assessment act so that publicly owned utilities shall be taxed.

The council also approved of the petition of the city of Oshawa to construct a lake shore highway.

MORE COMMUNITY SPIRIT.

Community spirit in Peterborough, as demonstrated by the local manufacturers in co-operating in bringing a new industry here, and by the retail clothing men in their assistance in installing a competitor in his new place of business, has been in evidence also in the series of concerts given in aid of the Peterborough Humane Society.

Seven of these concerts have been held with gratifying results, so far as the funds of the society are concerned, and the willingness with which singers and musicians contributed their services and co-operated in making the concerts an artistic as well as a financial success deserves honorable mention.

The Humane Society is doing a work of mercy in this city that should be supported, and the officers of the organization must feel heartened in their efforts as a result of the rally of Peterborough artists in aid of the movement and of the fine patronage accorded by the public.

Congratulations are due to those who organized the concerts, and to the people who so willingly and generously took part in the various programs.

THE AUTOMOBILE CLUB.

The attendance at the annual meeting and banquet of the Peterborough Automobile Club to-night promises to be large and enthusiastic.

There are many reasons why all motor car owners should be banded together in an organization designed to fight for their interests and to help to solve problems that are of mutual importance.

To the Motor League, with which the Peterborough club is affiliated automobilists owe much: better roads, universal road signs, improvement in traffic regulations, and many other improvements that have added to the comfort and convenience of the motoring fraternity.

And the general public has also reason to thank the organization for what it has done and is doing to bring about safer driving conditions and promote a sane and sensible use of automobiles.

Along this line the Peterborough club should not rest on its oars.

It should continue to hammer home to its members and to all operators of motor vehicles that it is essential that every person who sits at the wheel of a motor car owes it to the public to drive carefully and sanely, following the Golden Rule in his relations to other drivers and to the public generally.

Automobiles killed many thousands of people and injured many thousands more last year, and the reduction of this appalling casualty list, while everybody's business, would seem to be peculiarly the duty of such organizations as automobile associations and motor leagues.

TRAINING APPRENTICES.

The unanimity with which the Legislature passed the bill providing for the establishment of apprenticeships in the building trades indicates that, while the measure may not be as vital as Mr. Ferguson's enthusiastic description—"one of the most important pieces of legislation ever brought before the House"—would suggest, it is considered by all parties in the Legislature as useful legislation.

It has long been recognized that in the matter of adequate training of apprentices for the various trades, especially for the building industry, Ontario has been deficient, and the scheme inaugurated by Premier Ferguson, which will protect the apprentice, giving him nine months' employment each year and see to it that he improves himself during the off-season, is expected to show good results.

If the experiment succeeds in connection with the building trades, there is little doubt of an enlargement of the plan and its extension to other trades.

The additional facilities for technical education that will be available here when the new Collegiate Institute building is ready will enable Peterborough to co-operate efficiently in this scheme for training young citizens for useful and necessary trades.

The bill was endorsed by all parties in the Legislature, and its working out will be followed with much interest.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS DAY.

The local campaign in the interest of the League of Nations Day, which is to take place on April 17th, should bring worth-while interest and support.

It is desirable that public opinion in all parts of Canada should be thoroughly behind the work of the League of Nations, and this condition cannot, of course, be brought about except through an organization that will take upon itself the task of furnishing the people of this country with full and accurate information about the league, and of bringing home to Canadians a realization of the vital part that Canada has now to play in international affairs.

The objects of the League of Nations Society are such as to command the support of every Canadian:

(1) To promote international peace.

(2) To furnish information about the League of Nations, its principles, its organization and its work.

(3) To study international problems and Canada's relation thereto as a member of the British Commonwealth and of the League of Nations.

(4) To foster mutual understanding, good-will and the habits of co-operation between the people of Canada and of other countries, in accordance with the spirit of the League of Nations.

(5) To promote the establishment of provincial and local associations, clubs or other bodies having like objects, and to co-operate with any existing organizations for such purposes.

Peterborough's representation in the League of Nations Society should be large enough to show that this city is in full sympathy with the movement.

Constantinople has engaged two women traffic policemen, but there's nothing new in that. Peterborough girls have been known to stop traffic.

"WORK HARD AND STAY IN CANADA."

People who talk about conditions in Canada and lament that this country is not as prosperous as the United States, should read employment figures given out in the American Senate this week. A report by Secretary of Labor Davis says that the number of unemployed persons in the United States on January 1, 1928, was 1,870,000. The present slump, while not so extensive or grave as the estimates which have been generally circulated, Mr. Davis says, is nevertheless serious. Senator Wagner, of New York, who discussed the matter recently, said he had been informed that four million workers were without jobs.

It may be that this situation will result in the return home of many Canadians who have gone across the line during the last few years. If it does, Canada will not complain, for the development of this country requires the services of many more citizens than we have to-day. Many of those who have gone to the States in recent years are the sons of Canadian farmers, tired of life in the country and lured by stories of big wages paid in American industrial plants. If conditions across the line result in a large number of these fine young men returning to Canada, the gain will be this country's. We need them here to till the Dominion's vast acres, to help swell the total of Canadian production and Canadian wealth. Canada, in common with most nations, has suffered from the trend of recent years away from the farms and to the cities. We have too many people in our cities and towns and not enough, by far, in our rural districts. The result is a top-heavy situation that can only be righted by something in the nature of a wholesale return to the land.

One must confess that there are excellent reasons why so many farmers' sons should have desired to get away from the country in the past. Chief among them is the fact that, in so many cases, the farmer did not receive an adequate reward for his services. The young man in the country saw his city cousin doing less work than himself and getting more money for doing it. Quite naturally he decided, in many cases, to give up the farm and go to the city where the rewards seemed to be greater. This situation, however, is changing. Farm life is no longer the drudgery of other years, particularly in Ontario, where a wonderful system of concrete roads, telephone service, Hydro power, natural gas and other improvements have done much to take the lonesomeness and isolation out of life in the country. More important still, however, is the fact that the farmers have commenced working together to ensure themselves a decent price for their products, an adequate return from their work and investment. The grain pool, the cattle pool and, now, the Ontario Tobacco Pool, are indications of the strides that modern agriculture is making. In Western Canada we see the wheat pools working to the same splendid end—putting agriculture on a sound basis and getting for the farmer the proper reward of the money he has invested and the labor he performs.

It is not too much to say that the wheat pools have changed the whole atmosphere of Western Canada. Despair has given way to optimism. Chaos has been displaced by orderly, business methods. Farming is no longer haphazard. Instead, it is a well-organized business, still gambling with the weather, of course—as many businesses must do—but with as much certainty, in regard to marketing and eventual profits, as any other properly-conducted enterprise enjoys. The wheat pools have done the trick for Western Canada, and not only have they been a marvelous thing for the farmers, but for the whole business structure of that part of the country and Canada in general. The latter, of course, for the reason that all business suffers when such a large and important part of it as the growing of wheat—Canada's greatest staple—is not on a satisfactory basis.

The pool principle of marketing should play—indeed, is now playing—an important part in making farm life more attractive and, therefore, in securing for Canada a great influx of agriculturists from the United States, and keeping on the farm thousands of farmers' sons who might otherwise depart for the already overcrowded cities.

Mr. Herbert D. Burns, a visitor in Windsor this week, is one of many Canadian business leaders who are advising the young men of Canada that their best opportunity lies at home. "Work hard and stay in Canada," is Mr. Burns' tip, and it is a good one. As assistant general manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, he is in close touch with business conditions throughout the country. He believes that the Dominion is on the verge of a great forward movement. "Because of the prosperity which is beckoning to you here, and to other communities in a similar way all over the Dominion," the banker said, "I am certain there is no country in the world that offers more promise for young men than Canada. I believe it is a mistake for young men to leave this country in the hope of gaining greater opportunities. Greater opportunities do not exist anywhere."

Everything Mr. Burns has said is true. No country under the sun presents finer opportunities than ours. Capable observers from every part of the world agree with this. Our American friends are the first to recognize it. This is thoroughly proven by the investments they have made and are making here.

"Work hard and stay in Canada" is a good motto for young Canadians to keep before them.—Border Cities Star.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Live hogs, thick, smooth, $9.00 cwt.; select graded, $9.50; dressed hogs, head on, $14.50; head off, $15.50 cwt.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, April 3.—Last week's slump in cattle prices at the Union Stock Yards made for a much lighter delivery this week, and receipts yesterday were 1,937 cattle, 417 calves, 930 hogs, 58 sheep and lambs. About 200 cattle were in the yards from last week. Although the cattle offering was quite small there was no improvement, and the best that could be said was that prices were steady. One load of steers between 1,100 and 1,200 lbs. each sold at $10 a cwt. with 3 out at $9 a cwt. These would have brought $11 a cwt. two weeks ago.

Good handyweight steers and heifers sold from $9 to $9.25 a cwt. The demand for Kosher cows made these sell high, and one brought $10 and another $11 a cwt. Ordinary good butchers cows averaged $8 a cwt. Light butchers bull were steady to firmer at $7.50 and $7.75 a cwt. Two heavy bulls sold at $6.25 a cwt. A load of western stocker heifers sold well at $7.50 a cwt. Five nice light feeders brought $8.60 a cwt. Yesterday's supply of butchers cattle will likely be sold, but buyers will not advance prices.

The Easter demand for calves made a steady to firm market, and good vealers were 14c to 15c a lb., and medium 12c to 13c a lb.

Sheep and lambs were steady to firmer. Choice sheep made 8½c to 9½c a lb. Choice lambs were 15c to 15½c a lb., and cull lambs 11c a lb. Spring lambs sold from $12.50 to $15 each.

The week-end hog bid was lowered to $9 a cwt., selects f.o.b., but sellers do not expect to get less than $9.25 a cwt.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, April 3 (Canadian Press). — The only export business of any importance done on the Montreal grain market yesterday was the sale of two loads of Manitoba No. 4 wheat at 4¾c per bushel under the Winnipeg May option, c.i.f. Montreal for shipment in May.

The trade in coarse grains on spot was quiet, but the tone of the market was steady and prices were unchanged.

There was some demand from foreign buyers for spring wheat flour and a moderate amount of business was done, but the local trade was dull. Prices were firm. The demand for winter wheat flour was inactive, but the undertone was steady.

A fair amount of business was done in all lines of millfeed and prices were unchanged. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and values ruled firm.

An active trade was transacted in all grades of fresh eggs and the undertone to the market was strong. The receipts were $2,758 cases.

Owing to the somewhat disappointing demand for potatoes and the rather liberal supplies available on the track here the undertone to the market was easier and prices for Quebec varieties scored a decline of five cents per bag. Other grades were unchanged.

A firm feeling prevailed in the market for imported beans under a steady demand. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked beans were made at $3.65 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities at $3.75 per bushel, ex-store.

The demand for butter showed some improvement and values were firmly maintained. The receipts were 935 cases.

The cheese market was without any new feature to note, business being chiefly of a jobbing character. The receipts were 44 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 3 (Canadian Press). Official wheat crop estimates yesterday construed at first as bullish, presented other aspects when examined closer and price bulges failed to hold. An outstanding feature was that although reports indicated 20 per cent. abandonment of United States seeded winter wheat acreage, this season, and extraordinary big share, the amount left would still be somewhat larger than was harvested last year.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as Saturday's finish to ½c decline, with corn 1¾c to 1¼c down, oats ¼c off to ¼c up, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to an equal advance.

Notwithstanding that throughout most of the day wheat values showed a pronounced upward trend, the finish was at virtually the day's bottom level. Heavy selling to realize profits for holders had much to do with the reactions from price bulges. On the other hand, purchasers especially in the earlier dealings were influenced by the fact that monthly private crop reports yesterday showed an average of 73.9 as the present condition of wheat compared with 86 last December. The reports also suggested a total probable yield 44,000,000 bushels less than at this time last year.

Selling which subsequently broadened out in the wheat market was in the face of reports of high winds south-west and of lack of rain there, no improvement of crop news yesterday from the central west was in evidence, and it was pointed out that in the last fifty years there have been but two seasons in which the April condition of wheat was as low as now reported. Leading experts, however, said it is still too early to permit a final determination of the actual acreage less.

Corn prices became heavy owing in the main to free selling of a local character. Buying power proved to be insufficient to absorb the offerings. Nothing was heard of export busi-

THE COURT HOUSE FLAG.

Peterborough, Ontario,
April 3, 1928.

Editor, The Examiner.
Dear Sir:

Having had occasion to walk down Water street yesterday I was constrained to pause for a moment and regard Victoria Park. Here is a park area which would do credit to any city and it is surely a thing of beauty in the city of Peterborough. Surmounting the rising ground at the rear of the park are the fine county buildings which in their quiet and lofty situation have an air of dignity well befitting their importance as the centre of administration for the affairs of the county.

As I stood and contemplated this picture, my admiration received a rude set back. Atop the flagstaff where ordinarily one might expect to see the Union Jack floating on the breeze indicative of a court in session, a sorry rag was draped. Doubtless it had once been a proud flag. Its identity was was not completely lost to one familiar with a whole flag but this torn and shattered fragment might cause the stranger to wonder what it was all about.

Surely a county as important and as wealthy as the County of Peterborough could set aside a sufficient appropriation to purchase a respectable flag with which to adorn the building in question. It is the hope of the writer that some action will be taken soon else there will be little left on the flagpole safe the halyards.

J. S. McGIFFIN.

BRUCE BARTON'S ARTICLE.

Columbus Hall,
216 Simcoe Street,
Peterborough, 2nd April, 1928.

The Editor,
'Peterborough Examiner.'
Sir:

In an article by Bruce Barton in The Examiner, he refers to the Massacre of St. Bartholomew's Day, in the following words:—"By special order of the Pope, Gregory XIII, a Te Deum is being sung. What inspiring event calls forth this historic hymn of praise? Nothing less than the murder of twenty thousand Christians by brutal butchery?"

He then asks Catholics to forbear from sending harsh words of protest against the story, as bigotry and cruelty have not been a monopoly of any sect, and he proceeds to select one of the Protestant instances of cruelty, by giving an account of the burning of Servetus by Calvin. The article calls for two comments.

First. A crime is always a crime, and it does not lessen the guilt of one crime to say that someone else has committed a similar one. In those days, and for long afterwards, cruelty was lightly regarded, even in judicial procedure, and innumerable instances could be quoted on all sides. That, however, is little extenuation, two blacks do not make one white, and Catholics and Protestants alike can only contemplate with horror such abominable murders committed in the name of religion.

Second. If we are to have history, at least let us have a fair account of it; and, as regards Pope Gregory XIII, the statement given in the extract quoted is not accurate. It is not true to suggest, as the article does, that the full account of what occurred "was carried to Rome and, by special order of Gregory XIII, caused the Te Deum to ascend to Heaven." The account which was sent to the Pope was that Admiral Coligny and the Huguenots had conspired to kill the King, the Queen Mother, and the Royal Family, and that the conspirators had been taken and slain. It was for the escape of the rulers of France from a great danger to them that the Pope ordered a service of thanksgiving, and had a medal struck. Newspapers did not then exist, and news travelled only in private letters. When, a few weeks later, the real truth reached Rome, the feeling of Gregory is sufficiently shown by the fact that he refused to receive the man who had shot Coligny, saying, "No, he is an assassin."

Yours,
(Signed) J. F. MacKENZIE.

(Editor's Note: This letter has been referred to Bruce Barton, author of the articles, for reply).

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

To the Editor of The Examiner,
Peterborough:

Sir: Your editorial of this date, "Let the Public Know," would I fear be a transgression of the rule laid down by Premier Ferguson, who, as soon as the new L.C.A. passed the Legislature, said: "Now that we have a new liquor law let us get behind it and help to enforce it, and quit threshing old straw," but, as you point out, the people, who the government represent, are entitled to all information as to the business transacted by a government through their agents managing the liquor stores. Why should there be any secrets? After ten months trial everyone knows that as a temperance measure the L.C.A. is a joke, and the most futile of any legislation ever enacted in this province to promote the cause of temperance. The policy of the government is keep quiet regarding the L.C.A., that "Where ignorance is bliss it is folly to be wise," but from a speech in parliament by the Attorney-General, we know that liquor sales of about $6,000,000 per month are recorded, not for use of the public, but to be consumed in the homes of the province, and it would appear that about the only enforcement necessary is to make sure that this liquor is for home consumption. Peterborough people must be kept in ignorance of the business in Peterborough for fear I presume that other lines of business would find that they were not getting a fair share. It is just this lack of information that has enabled the liquor interests to fleece the country of millions of dollars of revenue.

Yours, etc.

O Thou Who art Life, and the Giver of Life, we thank Thee that Thou art also Love, and the Author of all our joys and blessing.

We bless Thee for Thy Word, for Thy Holy Day, for the church and for the wondrous sacrifice of our Lord in redemption. We rejoice for the privilege of prayer, for its fellowship with the Divine, and for the assurance that Thou dost hear and answer it.

We thank Thee for the promise of the Holy Spirit to strengthen our poor infirm spirits, to give us an internal witness that we are Thy children, and to enable us to overcome in all our temptations.

Help us to "stand fast in the faith", and to bear witness of it to others. Enable us to do good to our fellowmen, and to serve Thee by advancing Thy Holy Kingdom over all the earth.

Bless our home; may we here rear an altar of worship to Thee, and wilt Thou send down Thy Holy Angels to guard our fireside. May peace attend all our steps through life, and may we at last depart in faith and hope of the life everlasting. Amen.

JACK MINER AND THE BIRDS

AND SOME THINGS ABOUT NATURE

A Republication of the Book by Permission of the Author, Jack Miner of Kingsville, Ont.

Market Hunting.

As quail and grouse were so very plentiful and good warm clothes were scarce, the second fall we were here my brother and I started to hunt for the market. This caused us to study the nature of game. I soon found myself practising the call of Bob White. I would call early in the morning, when the country was silent, and listen to the echo come back from the woods, until I could call Bob right up to me from as far as he could hear the faintest sound of my imitative note. Yes, many a time during the nesting season have I called five or six male birds up near where I was sitting, then see them have a scrap. I tell you they are gamey little fellows. And what fun it was to be back in the field, hid in a bunch of goldenrod, with my old slouch hat tucked in my pants pocket, allowing my long hair and freckles to blend with the surroundings, and watch these plump little beauties come together in battle, sometimes striking each other so hard they would go fully six feet in the air and come down facing each other. I have had them so close I could almost feel the breath of their wings; and possibly three or four rods away was another one, picking the earth sidewise, apparently challenging the fourth who was sitting on a stump as if he were refereeing.

I tell you, life in the country was so sweet to me I would have agreed to stay here longer than it would take a raft of detectives to find my great-grandmother's pewter spoon.

But the grouse was a hard fellow to call. This, however, did not prevent our success; for as soon as we got one we would examine its crop and find out just what it was feeding on; if it contained buds, then what kind they were, etc. And you could rest assured that ninety per cent. of the grouse in that country were feeding on this same variety of food. Then as we would walk through the woods with the dogs at our heels and our faces as nearly on the tops of our heads as possible, the grouse became very easy. I have shot five out of the tiptop of a cotton-wood tree where nine out of ten men would never think of looking. But if the crop contained seeds from the ground, the dogs were put to work where these seeds grew. As practice makes perfect, we soon became expert shots and the result was we left a bloody trail behind us.

We would walk miles away in the morning and start in so as to be near home at night with our heavy loads. Once or twice a week we would box our game up, and when the road was fit we would wheel it on a wheel-barrow up to the old stage line.

For at least five miles around, these birds appeared to fear us, and fly and scream as though Satan himself was after them. Brother and I often remarked: "Why did they just fly over the fence from the farmer, and ten minutes later, when we arrived, fly a mile or more from us?"

During the summer months these same birds seemed quite tame; in fact, they did not seem to be a bit more frightened of us than they were of the other residents of the country.

However, we soon found that every grain of sport had vanished, and we were in a financial business. So, speaking from actual experience, I know that market-hunting is not sport; that it is murder in the first degree, and no principled sportsman will practise it. For one successful market-hunter will deprive twenty-five real sportsmen of their enjoyable recreation and outing.

I am pleased to say that we two boys soon outgrew this murderous practice, and hunted for pleasure only. And as we kept two well-trained dogs, many pleasant hours' recreation have we enjoyed with some of the best gentlemen this earth can produce, returning home with an appetite for anything and stomachs that would almost digest railroad iron; then about nine p.m. we would roll in and sleep a hole right down through the bed.

Next morning, when you awake after such an experience, you will usually find your eyes are open, and more in focus.

CHAPTER IV.

Our Faithful Dogs.

While I would not advise any person to keep a dog unless he needs one, yet one of the most faithful animal friends man can have is an educated dog. Our two bird-dogs were full brothers, and though my brother and I were always together, yet the dogs knew us apart. If I went to the barn alone, my dog would follow me; yet if we boys walked to the road together, both dogs would follow us and would not come farther unless they were invited. If we threw our coats down, each dog would lie on or near his master's coat.

I never knew Set ("Set" was my dog's name) to disobey orders but once; that was when he was about eighteen months old. Brother and I had started from home before daylight to walk about eight miles, to hunt deer. When daylight came we were about five miles on our way, and I looked around and here was Set following. I at once gave him a right down good scolding, and told him to start for home, but he hesitated. That minute, a snarl of "just dogs" came yleping out from a settler's buildings, and Set took leg bail for home with this bunch pow-wowing in pursuit. Just then brother looked at his watch and it was fifteen minutes past seven. When we arrived home at night my first question was "What time did Set get home?" Mother looked over her glasses and said, "He got here just seven o'clock." Now I knew he was going some, by his actions, but just where he gained the fifteen minutes still remains a mystery.

On one occasion three sportsmen came and wanted a hunt, but I could not go; so I introduced Set to them, and as they had guns he eventually consented to go along. In about an hour he pointed a large bevy of quail in a weed field. The three sportsmen lined up and pressed forward, and as the birds buzzed up in front of them, bangety-bang! went six shots, right out in the open. And not a bird was touched. Dear old Set looked around in disgust, turned, and came straight home.

Well, it wasn't long before our faithful dogs were getting a year older every twelve months, but still they clung to us, though life had become a burden. Dear mother, unbeknown to us, got a man to chloroform them. When he started to dig their graves we caught on, and both of us, men, stopped work and made a box and laid our faithful friends—friends who had never deceived us—side by side in one coffin and buried them under a shade tree on the old homestead. As we pushed the earth on the box I felt ashamed to look up at brother, but when I did I found there were tears in his eyes, too.

RADIUM FOUND IN HALIBURTON

Toronto Engineer Forecasts Activity in Connection With Deposits.

TALKS ON RESOURCES.

TORONTO, April 3.—Activity in connection with the radium deposits in Haliburton County was foreshadowed in a statement by Brig.-Gen. C. H. Mitchell, Dean of the University of Toronto Applied Science and Engineering faculty, in an address before the Canadian Progress Club, recently. Radium is found in pitchblodne, the chief source of which has been the Belgian Conugo. The ore found in Haliburton compares favorably with that of the Belgian Congo, and from all indications, working of the area may be expected soon, according to the speaker.

Brig.-Gen. Mitchell referred to the radium, in connection with platinum, also found in Haliburton, and other minerals of the pre-Cambrian sheild. His address, "Development of our Natural Resources", reviewed the needs in regard to these developments. He noted that the ore-bearing "shield" extends only a short distance beyond the international line. One problem that must be solved is that of bringing the coal excavator from the coal areas of the dominion, to aid in the smelting processes of the ores found in the central belt. The tar sands of Northern Alberta form the nucleus for extensive road-building operations, the speaker noted, referring to the Jasper National Park highways, where domestic material has been used to build roads which will be as lasting as those on which imported asphalt is used. Another essential of complete development was a system of long distance power transmission that will bear any weather conditions.

NO GENTILE SALE OF PASSOVER WINE

Special Staff of Jewish Clerks Handles Business in Liquor Stores.

TORONTO, April 3 (Canadian Press).—"Passover Wines and Liquors Over On This Side Only." This direction, in bold letters, is placarded at conspicuous points in Government Liquor Store No. 2. This store will be the headquarters at which Jews may purchase, at regulation prices, any of the seven brands of sacramental wines and liquors to be used during the week's observance of the Feast of the Passover, beginning April 4. Gentiles are not allowed to touch any of the food or drink used on this occasion. The wine used must be made for this special purpose. No Gentile or Christian may handle even the bottle that contains the wine.

Special provision has been made by the Liquor Control Board of Ontario. In Toronto and other larger centres a portion of some one store has been partitioned off in which a special staff of Jewish employes are placed for the Passover period. The wines are prepared under the supervision of a rabbi in Palestine.

Two thousand extra cases of these wines and liquors have been placed on the shelves, making over 50,000 bottles available.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

A LADY SHIFTS GEARS

Today the earth trembled, today the world shook.
I rushed from my office, half fearful to look.
I guessed by the tumult, I thought from the din,
The sun had blown up, or the sky fallen in.
But still in the heavens the sun was a-shine,
The hills were intact, and the buildings in line.
And then I beheld what had tortured my ears:
I saw that a lady had just shifted gears.

How tender is woman, how gentle, how fair,
How lovely her manner, how dainty her air.
Her voice is like velvet, each word a caress:
How gentle is woman—that is, more or less.
Her speech is like music, and when we have heard
The song of a woman we look for a bird.
The earth all around us like heaven appears—
Then all of a sudden the lady shifts gears.

The women, I know, are no worse than the men;
They ought to be better, I say it again.
And, when you've the lever held tight in your palm,
Oh, then for a moment, dear lady, be calm.
Your engine must idle a second or two;
A twist of the wrist and the business is through.
For, if there's a time to be gentle, my dears,
It's certainly then—when a lady shifts gears.

34 BOYS ADMIT 70 ROBBERIES

Juvenile Crime Wave Uncovered in Midland Police Court.

TWO MEN SENTENCED.

MIDLAND, April 5.—Thirty boys yesterday pleaded guilty to 79 charges of theft, after the biggest juvenile crime wave this town has ever experienced. They will be sentenced on April 16.

Abraham Alper, junk dealer, and T. Beauchamp, storekeeper, admitted receiving the stolen goods, knowing them to be stolen. Alper was fined $124, and sentenced to served 14 days. Beauchamp got off with a fine of $34 and seven days.

The longest list of thefts ever recorded in this county was read in court. No evidence was taken. The lads admitted stealing grain, flour, oranges, bananas, candy, tobacco, cigars, copper wire, and junk. Several of them pleaded guilty to rifling summer cottages. All had been involved in stealing from one junk dealer's junk pile, and selling to another dealer.

Seals of railway cars were broken, and grain, flour and fruit stolen. Under the station platform, police discovered a bag of flour taken in this way but too heavy for the young marauders to carry away.

Bags of Grain Stolen

Bags of grain were taken from farmers' rigs as the farmers drove along unconscious of the theft, police said. The grain was later sold to Beauchamp. Candy and fruit were devoured by the juvenile depredators. All the lads except two are under 16 years of age. The youngest is nine.

The thefts were committed over a period of three months. The lads did not have a central organization, police say, though they knew that all the others were involved. There was no robbers' club and no name for the outfit. The thefts were the work of small gangs—sometimes five or six, sometimes two or three, police stated.

For three weeks Chief McDonald, with the co-operation of Provincial Officers John Kelly and Harry Wright, have been busy on the general clean-up announced in the Police Court yesterday. There was no attempt to link the 30 juveniles with the recent vandalism in Summer homes, which so shocked the town. The general feeling is that the vandalism was the work of men.

Representatives of the Children's Aid Society were in court yesterday, and it is likely that before the lads come up for sentence, arrangements will be made to have various organizations undertake to look after them. A special Big Brother movement, it is believed, will be formed.

AGED MAN KILLED.

Wilson Money, 79, Is Knocked Down By Motor Car in Toronto Street.

TORONTO, April 3.—Three hours after he had been struck by a motor car on North Yonge Street, Wilson Money, aged 79 years, of 82 Berkeley Street, died in the General Hospital last night from a fractured skull.

L. Stark of 75 South Drive, who was reported to have driven the car which struck the aged man, rushed him to the hospital, where every effort was made to save his life, but death ensued at 6.15 o'clock.

The accident happened when Mr. Money, who was very active, despite his advanced age, was walking near the Mausoleum. Mr. Stark made a report of the affair. Mr. Money was a widower, with nine children living, and was very well known in and around Toronto. Coroner Dr. Clendenan was notified and expressed the belief that an inquest would be necessary.

INEXPENSIVE BEEF

Many housewives who are forced to prepare food for large families, but whose incomes are limited, often leave meat out of the diet two or three days in the week and substitute some starchy food in its place. Potatoes, beans, or macaroni and cheese should not be considered meat substitutes, and if used at all should be taken at some meal in the day which will not interfere with the meat or protein meal. Here are some suggestions for those who wish to use meat once a day and still keep the cost to the minimum.

Brisket and rump are the cheapest cuts of beef meat, and may be prepared in a wholesome manner by boiling. The meat should be tied up to preserve its shape, put into boiling water, plenty of vegetables added, and allowed to simmer gently until done. The present price of brisket or rump is twenty to twenty-five cents a pound.

Round steak may be prepared in the same manner by boiling, or may be broiled or pan-broiled if properly hammered to break up the connective tissue. For pan-broiling the fat should be removed and the steak cooked in a dry pan, the meat being turned every second or two so that it is singed each time but not overly burned. Round steak may also be prepared into what is called a Salisbury steak. All fat and gristle are removed from the meat and it is run through the meat grinder. This ground beef is then formed into patties one-half to an inch in thickness, placed in a dry pan, and baked in a hot oven for about five minutes. I believe this is the most nutritious and healthful way to prepare any kind of beef meat, no matter what price you pay for it.

Please observe that round steak, next to rump and brisket, is the cheapest beef meat in the market, most of the time selling around thirty cents a pound. When round steak sells at this price, sirloin steak is about fifteen cents more per pound, and with more waste, both in bone and fat.

Sirloin steak should be cooked by either broiling under the fire, or by pan-broiling. A porterhouse steak is something like the sirloin, but costs ten cents more per pound. This is just a "choice" cut because there are less of them to the carcass. When the porterhouse or sirloin steak has had the bone removed it sells for eighty cents a pound, while the filet part is still more expensive, bringing ninety cents a pound. These expensive steaks are all right for those who can afford to pay the price, or for those who wish to entertain and make an impression, but the ninety cent filet is in no way superior in food value to the thirty cent round steak.

Many of my patients who can well afford to pay for the more expensive cuts of beef have now learned to use round steak purely because they enjoy its flavor.

One must not confuse the ground round steak with the ordinary hamburger sold in the shops. Although hamburger meat may be perfectly wholesome when made entirely from good pieces of meat, it nevertheless usually contains a large amount of fat and is not as easily digested as the ground round steak from which all fat and gristle have been removed. One pound of round steak usually makes enough Salisbury steak for three people, as there is about a quarter of a pound of fat, gristle and bone to be removed. This leaves a quarter of a pound apiece for each, which is usually enough meat for the day. The cost, therefore, is about ten cents a person, and a few cents more apiece will supply all the salad and cooked non-starchy vegetables needed to make a well combined and nutritious meal.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Stan writes: "I have heard of your wonderful cures and I would like you to tell me a remedy for pimples. Also, why do they come on my face?"

Answer: Pimples usually come from constipation and the use of too many carbohydrates and hydrocarbons which mean starch, sugar, and fats or oils. Take a course of enema treatments for several weeks and cut down on all of your heavy foods, using more salads and greens.

Question: M. L. L. asks: "Is peanut butter with green apples a good combination? I thought any nut butter had too much starch."

Answer: Peanut butter made from roasted peanuts has completely lost all of its starch, so it can be combined with any other kind of food. The nut butters made of nuts that have not been dextrinized have a very high percentage of starch.

Question: A. L. writes: "Please advise me in a case of paralysis, whole left side. Hemorrhage of the brain caused a clot to form which hasn't dissolved so far after ten weeks. Patient is 73 years of age. What causes pyorrhea?"

Answer: The best way to dissolve a blood clot on the brain is to take a fruit fast for several days or several weeks if necessary. The sooner this is done after an attack of paralysis the more hope you can have for a quick recovery. It is true that one of the causes of pyorrhea is a form of acidosis which comes from a lowered alkalinity of the blood. This can be corrected through eliminating the acid-forming foods and using more of the green vegetables and fruits. A pyorrhea specialist should also be consulted and treatments taken to remove any tartar on the teeth and infection around the gums. The teeth should be brushed two or three times daily, using some alkaline dentifrice, each brushing to extend over a period of at least five minutes.

TUG ALTAWANDRON FREED FROM FLOES

Two Tugs and Car Ferry Help —Little Damage Done To Vessel.

PORT DOVER, April 3. — Safely in port after a night and a day of gruelling work by two tugs and a large car ferry, the tug Altawandron is expected to sail out of the harbor to-day to carry on her prosaic occupation of pulling in fish nets. Robert Kobe, one of the owners of the tug, said last night that an effort will be made to put the boat into service immediately, although it will go to drydock next week.

It is not damaged as badly, however, as was at first believed. The engines were not in commission when the tug was brought in ,but this condition can be corrected by the charging of the battery, which has been run down. There is little damage to the hull.

After bringing the last of the marooned men to shore on Sunday, the tug Vermont took 33 tons of coal aboard ,and set out to find the Altawandron, jammed in the ice floes. The Vermont went as far as the edge of the ice field on Sunday evening, but was forced to lie to during the night.

At dawn yesterday, it set out on its search for the Altawandron, but was hampered by a haze which hung over the lake. At about ten o'clock in the morning ,however, the missing tug was located, and the Vermont reached her at two o'clock in the afternoon.

The Altawandron was found sitting on a huge cake of ice about 10 feet thick. The Vermont had trouble in releasing her, but was aided by a large car ferry, which came past at the time. This big ship helped to break up the ice, and the stranded vessel was finally released.

The Vermont took the Altawandron in tow, and hailed it to Long Point. There the tug was left in safety, and the Vermont proceeded on its way to its home port of Ashtabula, Ohio.

It was only a short time later that the tug Demijohn, under the command of Captain McDonald, came by from the south shore of the point, and sighted the Altawandron lying in close to the point. A line was attached, and the Demijohn brought the disabled ship into harbor shortly before eight o'clock last night.

In characteristic business-like fashion, the fishermen started their work of repairs to the engine immediately, and Mr. Kobe was quite confident that the tug would be in condition to take up its work yesterday, where it left off last Wednesday, caught tight in the ice jam.

Figures bearing on the status of the telephone in Canada are often commented upon by visitors and correspondents from European countries. Such sources of information as the annual report of the Bell Telephone Company are quoted in comparisons between the Canadian service and that of older countries.

Doubtless it would prove of even greater interest to those across the ocean to learn that in Ontario and Quebec alone the average daily use of long distance in 1927 was 58,801 messages. This figure indicates to a degree astounding on the other side of the Atlantic the Canadian demand for rapid communication regardless of distance. 1d-80-952

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE WHITE HOUSE.

Uncle Wiggily, with Baby Bunty and Vallie, stood on the icy shore of the Arctic sea and looked at the long, round, twisted white thing that was sticking up out of the cold water and moving around in it. Eski, the Eskimo rabbit boy, had brought Mr. Longears and the little rabbit girls down to the edge of the water to give them a ride in a kayak. He hadn't told them what a kayak was, and at first Bunty thought this slender, white object was one.

The kyack bobbed about on the waves.

"No, that is the narwhal!" Eski had said, and right after that he said "Oh, dear!" as if something would happen.

"Are you afraid of this narwhal, whatever it is, Eski?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who was finding out in his travels that there were as many dangers in far off places as there were near his hollow stump bungalow at home, where he was so often chased by the Fox, the Wolf or the Bob Cat.

"I'm not exactly afraid of the narwhal," said Eski, watching the long white, twisted thing swirl around in the water. "He can't come out on land to tickle me with that big tooth of his, but he might stick one of my seal friends."

"Oh, then the narwhal is an animal, and not a kyack?" asked Mr. Longears.

"A kyack is a little canoe boat, made of sealskin and it is good to ride in," explained Eski. "And, as you have guessed, a narwhal is an animal—a big fish, sometimes thirty feet long and, growing out of his mouth is a ten-foot long tooth of solid ivory, sharp and twisted like a spiral. The narwhal sticks other animals and fish with his tusk and sometimes he pokes holes in the kyack boats."

"Oh, so that is the narwhal's tusk; is it?" asked Baby Bunty, pointing at the white object which was moving around in the water. "I thought it was an icicle floating there."

"It does look like an icicle, but it is much stronger," said Eski. "But we don't need to fear the narwhal. He can't hurt us."

As the rabbits watched, all of a sudden, there was a scurry and a flurry in the water and a big brown seal leaped out of the waves up on a shelf of ice near where Uncle Wiggily and the others stood, watching. At the same time, closely following the seal, came that ivory snout of the narwhal who partly leaped out of the water after the swiftly swimming seal.

"Wuff! Wuff!" barked the seal, flopping safely about on the ledge of ice. "You didn't stick me that time, Ha! Ha!"

"No, I missed you! But I'll get you next time," said the narwhal, shaking his ivory spear at the seal. "Hello, Eski!" he called to the Eskimo rabbit. "Why don't you take your friends for a ride in the kyack?"

"I'm afraid you might give me a puncture with that ivory toothpick of yours!" chuckled the Eskimo rabbit. "I'll wait until you go away. You're too frisky."

"That's what he is," grunted the seal who was basking himself in what little warmth came from the arctic North Pole sun. "He wanted to play tag with me, but his ivory horn tickles too much when he jabs with it. Narry doesn't mean to do it, but he plays rough," said the seal. "Who are your friends?" he asked Eski.

Eski explained who Uncle Wiggily, Bunty and Vallie were and then, the narwhal having swum away with his long ivory snout, the Eskimo rabbit got out his kyack, or canoe made of sealskins, and took the visiting bunnies for a ride. The kyack bobbed about on the waves like a cork, and Eski cleverly steered it in and out among the cakes of ice. After a while they went back on shore.

"And now, since you will stay here a few days, I will help you build a white house," said the Eskimo rabbit to Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, I know what you mean—a white house out of blocks of white snow and ice," said Bunty, and Eski said that was right. With the help of the visiting rabbits, the Eskimo bunny boy soon made an igloo, or white snow house, for his friends. It was like the igloo he had made when he was on a visit, around Christmas time, to Woodland where Uncle Wiggily had his hollow stump bungalow.

Crawling into their white, snowhous through the low doorway, Uncle Wiggily and the rabbit girls found it cozy, snug and warm, especially since they had on such warm, fur clothes.

"But what are we going to eat?" asked Bunty who was hungry for some Italian lettuce. Before Uncle Wiggily could answer, all of a sudden there was a scratching sound at the back of the igloo, outside and a voice cried:

"Let me in! Let me in!"

Dry Weather In South Causes Rise In Wheat

CHICAGO, April 3 (Canadian Press).—High winds and dry weather southwest led to an early upturn in wheat values to-day. Meanwhile, bullish crop reports from states east of the Mississippi continued. Opening at ¾ cent decline to ¼ cent advance wheat later showed gains all around. Corn, oats, and provisions averaged lower, corn starting unchanged to ⅛ cent off, and then rallying, but subsequently undergoing a general setback.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May 142⅜, July 141¾. Corn, May 99½, July, 102⅜. Oats, May 57⅜, July 51½.

Downward Movement On Standard Exchange

TORONTO, April 3. — Canadian Press. — The tendency was distinctly downward on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, though occasional gains appeared in the list. One of these was recorded by Sudbury Basin, which climbed past $10 for a gain of about 45c. Noranda at 17.00 and Bidgood around 96½ were among the weak leaders, with Newbec easing to 35 and Amulet selling down 15 to 3.33. Barry Hollinger at 130 was easier along with Pend Oreille at 21.60, Central Manitoba at 142 Wright Hargreaves at 465, Kirkland Lake at 1.98 and Hollinger at 16.20. The larger Porcupine issues, however were generally firm as well as Teck Hughes which sold up to 8.95.

Steel and Massey Harris Lead in Active Session

TORONTO, April 3 (Canadian Press). — Steel of Canada and Massey-Harris were dominant stocks in this morning's active session of the Toronto Stock Exchange, Massey being the leader in activity and Steel the upward leader. Steel climbed fourteen points to 214. Massey firmed ¾ at 45. Elsewhere stocks for the most part were unchanged. Fishing eased a little at 16¼, but Nickel, another leader, gained one at 93, and Dominion Stores improved to 119. Mackay Common firmed to 123⅛.

Trading was well scattered in the unlisted section, where changes were mostly fractional, with British American Oil at 37 and International Petroleum at 38⅛ eacier. Service Station, Seagrams, and Northern Bakeries also eased, but Walker's stiffened at 62.

Airplane Shares Go Up Followed By Railways

NEW YORK, April 3 (Canadian Press).—Speculators for the advance regained control of the price movement to-day after an early period of irregularity. Early gains of the recent industrial favorites ran from two to twenty points with a thirty point jump in Wright Aeronautical as the big feature. The raising of the annual dividend on Atchison from $7 to $10 stimulated activity in the railroad group, which joined the upward procession in the early afternoon. Trading, which had slowed up during the morning, picked up on the afternoon recovery.

While there was a tendency on the part of some traders to take profits in anticipation of the three-day holiday, pools had little difficulty in attracting a public following. Walter Chrysler's optimistic statement on business conditions and the outlook for the automobile industry and the increase in the Julius Kayzer dividend had a bullish effect on sentiment.

The sensational advance in Wright was attributed in some quarters to the urgent retreat of a trapped short interest and in others to open market buying for control. Curtiss Airplane rallied in sympathy, climbing more than twenty-five points to a new top at 92.

Some people seem to have such respect for the truth that they hate to make use of it.

German Plane Bremen Given Trial Flight

DUBLIN, April 3 (Associated Press). — The German plane Bremen made a trial flight at Baldonnel Airdrome yesterday afternoon with Colonel James Fitzmaurice, head of the Irish Free State Air Force, as assistant pilot.

While Colonel Fitzmaurice and the Baldonnel authorities deny that he will replace Arthur Spindler as co-pilot with Captain Hermann Koehl on the Bremen's trans-Atlantic flight, the nature of yesterday's trial, coupled with the departure of Spindler from Dublin, strengthened a belief that there has been a hitch in the plans of Baron von Huenefeld, sponsor of the project.

Baron von Huenefeld was a passenger yesterday in the monoplane, while Capt. Koehl and Col. Fitzmaurice handled the machine's dual controls.

The expedition continues to await favorable weather.

BLIND MUSICIANS TO GIVE CONCERT

Musical Revue Will Be Presented in Opera House Next Monday.

A concert by blind people is an event rarely presented in any community. Peterborough is going to have an entertainment of this type on Monday evening next, when blind musicians all of whom are graduates of the Ontario School for the Blind in Brantford, will give a concert at the Grand Opera House.

The affair, which takes the form of a Musical Revue, is a venture which has been tried out this season in Toronto and in other smaller places. Press comments from the Windsor Border City Star follow, all of them referring to the blind artists who will take part in the local concert next Monday.

"Miss Katheryn Sells is a pianiste of very considerable talent, and excells in the capacity of accompanist. Her solo work at the keyboard was noticeable by its delicate clarity."

"Miss Gladys Bickerton is gifted with a very good soprano voice. Her tone is consistent and her pronunciation so distinct and clear that one could hear every word. We do not know of a greater tribute than this."

"An elocutionist of great dramatic attainments is Robert Richardson who delivered two dramatic poems in excellent style. His gestures and delivery made one absolutely forget his infirmity and it would have been difficult for any sighted person to equal his performance."

"Kenneth Young, whose talent tends toward the lighter vein, gave two character sketches in great style and was awarded hearty and well deserved applause."

"Stanley McBeth's youthful attainments came as a surprise. Mr. McBeth not only plays the piano but also the piano accordian, and pleased his audience with his numbers on this instrument."

"It was a very excellent entertainment, and great credit is due to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, in bringing out these artists."

CAST IN CHOSEN FOR KIWANIS SHOW

Sixty Girls and Forty Men Will Take Part in Revue.

The cast has now been chosen for the big musical revue which the Kiwanis Club will put on in the Opera House, April 19 and 20. There are sixty girls and forty men, 100 in all, who will start rehearsing the latter part of the week, under the direction of a representative of the Harford Production Company, Inc., of Chicago. For six consecutive years this company has put on a play for the Parkdale Canoe Club of Toronto, staged each time for one entire week at the Royal Alexandra Theatre.

The director is coming here from London, where he has put on the same revue for the Kiwanis Club of that city. Announcements of the first rehearsal will be given in The Examiner shortly.

SMOKER IS HELD BY B COMPANY

CONTESTS AMUSING.

There was an excellent attendance of old and new members of B. Company of the Peterborough Rangers last night at a smoker held at the Paragon Tea Rooms. Bowling competitions were indulged in at the Armouries previous to the smoker, and prizes were given for the highest team and individual scores. Songs and community singing were the features of the smoker, songs being rendered by C.S.M. Gaskell, Sergt. Kelsey, C. Coleman, and J. Hodgson. R.S.M Calladine and Mr. Hodgson officiated at the piano. Lieut. J. Dunkerley led the community singing in his usual efficient manner. The pronunciation competition of the following, "The Leith police dismisseth us" and "What noise annoys an oyster? A noisy noise annoys an oyster," created considerable amusement. The judges had to divide the prize between Ptes. K. Lee and J. Dunkerley, Jr.

C.S.M.Burrows also contributed to the entertainment. Capt. G. Monkman acted as chairman and spoke with regard to spring training in the absence of Lt.-Col. W. G. Hall, who was unable to be present.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR WORK IN APRIL

Queen Alexandra Home and School Association Will Hold Sale.

The regular meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association was held last evening, the president, Mrs. R. Parnall, in the chair. There was a very good attendance and routine business was carried out. Arrangements were made to co-operate with the King Edward Home and School Association in sending a delegate to the annual convention of the Home and School Confederation, to be held in Toronto during Easter week, also for a paper collection, a rummage sale and for entertainments during April.

Mrs. C. H. Edwards gave a splendid talk on Maternal Mortality. A vocal solo, the "Kerry Dances," was given by Mrs. T. E. Curvin ,and Mrs. S. L. Purdy contributed an instrumental selection, both being much appreciated by the audience.

Four new members were added to the roll. The attendance picture was again won this month by Senior Fourth, M. H. Park's room.

LADIES DISCUSS MARITIME RIGHTS

Conservative Association Holds Regular Meeting—Good Paper Given.

The Ladies' Liberal-Conservative Association held a very enthusiastic meeting in Hooper's Palm Rooms yesterday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Howard Fallis, occupied the chair, and after the routine business was concluded called on Mrs. G. S. Cameron to give a talk on "The Duncan Report." Mrs. Cameron is a native of the Maritime Provinces and feels very deeply on the question of Maritime rights. While the people of these provinces are very loyal in their sentiments, being mostly of United Empire Loyalist stock, they feel that they have not been justly treated according to the terms of the British North America Act, she said. The Government had ordered a commission, headed by Sir Andrew Duncan, to investigate the Maritime rights. The result of this report is most favorable, for the subsidies are to be increased, freight rates reduced, and the harbors of St. John and Halifax are to be nationalized. It would also appear in time, coal and steel will be brought from the Maritime Provinces instead of from the United States, and the fishing industry protected by a higher tariff, and fast refrigerator cars used to convey the fish in good condition from the coast to the interior. All these things will tend to make the Maritime Provinces a happier and more prosperous place in which to live, and in conceding these rights to the provinces Canada is fulfilling the promises of Confederation.

Mrs. Fallis, in thanking Mrs. Cameron, urged the members, if they were thinking of taking a trip to see Canada first, and particularly recommended a visit to the Maritime Provinces. Mrs. Fallis referred to the irony of fate in the case of Hon. Arthur Meighen's policy. So many of his ideas have been taken up and utilized by the Liberal Government, she said. Mr. Meighen in 1919 advocated the policy for the Maritime Provinces which the Liberal Government is now acting upon. The same holds true in regard to the wheat board of the Prairie Provinces. It was Mr. Meighen who first introduced this policy.

A short discussion followed on current events. Mrs. A. Stinson talked about Regulation 17, and stressed the ability of Premier Ferguson to take a stand on any matter and to stand or fall according to his convictions.

Miss Peck spoke briefly on the woollen industry, and Mrs. Mills on pensions for returned men. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Mrs. Fallis' home early in June.

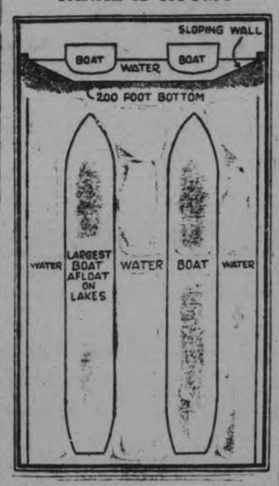
CANAL IS ROOMY



Drawn accurately to scale, this diagram shows how two grain vessels, of the largest type now afloat on the lakes, would appear if they met in the exceedingly roomy new Welland canal. The canal will be 200 feet wide on the bottom, with 27 feet of water. The boats illustrated are each 70 feet wide. As a matter of fact, there are no such two boats on the lakes. The Le Moyne, with a beam of 70 feet, is the only one of the size yet built, and she was specially designed for low-water conditions. The width of from 58 to 64 feet.

CALEDONIAN CHOIR VISITS OLD PEOPLE

Gives Good Program of Old Familiar Songs at Protestant Home.

The Caledonian choir entertained the inmates and staff of the Protestant Home last evening with a really fine concert, singing many old favorite part songs. Solos were rendered by Mesdames R. French, G. Jackson, B. Hemphill, G. Nimmons and Miss Jennie Clark, and Messrs. W. Greaves, A. Cooper, J. Smith and R. Hendry.

Mrs. Clark gave a reading, "Cuddle Doon," which was much appreciated. Some one started to play "Maggie Murphy's Home" and soon the old sonorous strains filled the building, proving it a still popular song with the old people.

At the conclusion of the program Miss Lancaster, matron, thanked the choir for their fine entertainment, saying she hoped they would soon return and give them another concert.

Some men are so sensitive that they have to shut their eyes when they see a woman standing in a street-car.

TURNER'S CROSS STREET.

The Peterborough Lock Company has taken over the building that is occupied by W. R. Turner on Simcoe street, and the Turner firm has purchased the garage of Cooney and Jopling across the street. The garage is being fitted up into a modern heating and plumbing establishment and will be occupied in several weeks by the W. R. Turner firm. Windows to give more light are being put in and partitions are being built. The old Turner building will be completely overhauled and fitted up for the Lock Company offices.

Around the City

After two days without a single call on their records, the firemen made two runs on Monday night and another to-day. At 7.45 p.m. they went to 583 Downie street and at 10.52 p.m. to 500 Sherbrooke street. Both were chimney fires as was that which necessitated the trip to 314 London street at 11.49 this morning. Chemicals were used in the last of the three.

ASIA OBJECTIVE OF LINDBERGH'S GOOD WILL HOP

Japanese Officials Particularly Interested in Flying Ambassador's Plans.

GERMANY ON ITINERARY.

Four Jap Fliers Plan Trans-Pacific Attempts This Summer.

WASHINGTON, April 3. — Worldwide interest created in Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's forthcoming "goodwill" air journey over the Atlantic and through Europe and Asia was reflected yesterday in the numerous queries concerning his plans which embassies and legations here have made to the State Department.

The first calls were received immediately after the United Press' exclusive announcement last Friday that the Colonel intended again to span the Atlantic by air and to pay courtesy calls in foreign countries. Since then the numbers of requests for information, which the foreign diplomatic representatives are seeking so their governments may know when to expect Lindbergh and to make preparations accordingly, has been increasing daily.

Japanese officials were particularly interested in Lindbergh's plan to include their country in his itinerary and they were anxious to learn the details concerning his contemplated flight across the Pacific. Four Japanese airmen plan trans-Pacific flight attempts this summer.

Germans Anxious.

Prominent among other diplomats in quest of Lindbergh information were the Germans and Scandinavians, who were pleased by the statement that the airman would probably select a northern European country for his first stop on the continent. Lindbergh was unable to include Germany or Sweden after his trans-Atlantic flight last May. The Swedish Government at that time extended him an official invitation, which it is assumed they will renew.

The State Department has informed all callers that it is not in a position to divulge any information as to Lindbergh's itinerary until the Colonel himself is ready to announce it. Inquiries were referred directly to Lindbergh for additional information.

Measures to ensure the utmost safety for Lindbergh on his trans-Atlantic trip were being expedited yesterday by various government departments, while it was not expected he would make known his plans in full until he was ready to leave, persons here interested in his newest venture wished to have complete information and data prepared for him in anticipation of an early departure.

The safety factor will play a large part in the route to be selected for the trans-Atlantic flight. The grand circle course followed by Lindbergh on his 1927 hop may be chosen, but if another, cutting the element of risk to a minimum, can be found, it will be selected instead.

BIBLE DICTIONARY IS 300 YEARS OLD

Volume Printed in Three Languages Owned By Ottawa Man.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 3.—A biblical dictionary printed in three languages and bearing the date of 1607 is now in the posession of an Ottawa man and is considered one of the oldest printed books to be found in Canada. Experts have valued the book at several hundred dollars.

It is owned by N. F. McKee, of this city, and has been in possession of the McKee family for three generations although only recently discovered among a number of old papers and books by the present owner. It came into the possession of Mr. McKee's grandfather from a family of ministers named Fraser.

To the modern student of the art of printing the book is a great curiosity and has been viewed with great interest by numerous students of the art in this city.

The book, although apparently 321 years old, is in a remarkably good state of preservation.

Boy Sleeps In Bush After Skating Trip

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., April 3. — Nathan Green, 15-year-old Hilton Beach boy, is safe in his home in that village after an experience which compelled him to remain in the bush all night after being lost on the ice at St. Joe Island.

Young Green went skaitng, and around 7 o'clock became twisted in his directions and could not find his way home. Finally reaching shore near Cedar Island, 14 miles away, he went into the bush, took off his shoes and skates, wrapped what clothes he had around him, and went to sleep, first constructing a shelter of balsam. Here he remained through the cold night, and at sunrise got his bearings and started for home.

In the meantime his father, alarmed, was joined by ten neighbors, and they spent the night searching for the boy. The village church bell was run at five o'clock in the morning to guide the boy home. At 9.30 o'clock the father saw the lad skating toward Hilton Beach on the ice, and met him three miles from shore.

OBITUARY

JAMES HENRY MAHOOD.

LAKEFIELD, April 3.—The funeral of James Henry Mahood took place on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence on William street. There was a large number in attendance, Mr. Mahood being well known in the community and having a wide circle of friends. The service was in charge of the Rev. W. J. Creighton, M.A., who after reading the burial service, spoke briefly, touching on the suddenness of death which came so suddenly to Mr. Mahood after five years of poor health, he said that it was not sudden death we fear but unpreparedness. "Heaven", said the speaker, "is the fulfilment of all that is best in us." Our ideas of heaven differ but we know it is God's land where no night is, and where pain, sin and death have no place.

The pall bearers were Messrs. John Blakeley, W. H. Casement, A. Davis, H. G. Fitzgerald, Thomas Watson and James Watson.

Mr. Mahood's death removes an old resident of the village and one of the "Old Guard" of St. John's Church; one who had worshipped there as a boy and man, and who had seen the village grow from a scattered hamlet to the thriving town it is at present. Although ill health had made a very active life impossible for the past few years, Mr. Mahood was able to get about, and his sudden passing was a shock to scores of friends, for he had a great capacity for making and holding friends.

WAS VERY WEAK NERVOUS AND MELANCHOLY

Mrs. Geo. McKenzie, Campbellford, Ont., writes:—"A short time ago I was troubled very bady with my heart and nerves, the cause of it, I think, was my going through the change of life.

"I was very weak and melancholy, and so nervous I could hardly bear to hear a clock ticking, and I did not sleep well.

"I was advised to try MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS so I sent at once for a box; took them and got another, and before they were all gone I felt good, my nerves are fine, I do not mind any noise, and I can sleep well. I cannot recommend them too highly to those suffering as I did."

Price 50c. a box at all druggists and dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BRITISH DOCTORS WILL TOUR CANADA

Medical Association Plans To Hold Meeting in Winnipeg.

TORONTO, Ont., April 2.—(Canadian Press).—In connection with the proposed meeting of the British Medical Association in Winnipeg, Man., in 1930, a programme is ready being arranged whereby the visiting medical men will be enabled to see as much of the Dominion as possible before they return to Great Britian. Dr. T. C. Routley, Toronto, secretary of the Canadian Medical Association, is sailing at the end of this month for the Old Country to arrange details of the 1930 meeting of the British Medical Association in Winnipeg, which is expected to be the greatest gathering of doctors ever held in the Empire.

This will be the third meeting of the British Medical Association outside of the British Isles, both of the previous meetings being held in Canada, in Montreal in 1897 and in Toronto in 1906.

The proposed programme for the British visitors includes five days in Quebec and Ontario. One route will take the visitors through the mining districts and the great north country of the two provinces. A second route will be by way of the Great Lakes, giving a view of these vast inland waters and the grain traffic. A third route will take in Niagara Falls and other scenic points. After a week in Winnipeg, the British doctors will be taken through the Rockies to the Pacific coast, and back again by another line. Thus they will see the prairies, the mountains and the wealth of British Columbia. They then will be taken through the Maritime Provinces.

More Than Fish Seen In Rice Lake

Much has been written during the past couple of months relative to winter fishing on Rice Lake but of all the stories in connection with that body of water, perhaps the following contribution from a correspondent of The Examiner is most interesting. It is a clipping from the Cobourg Sentinel of over an half century ago and boasted the heading "Another Sea Serpent Story." It reads:—

(Correspondence of the Cobourg Sentinel)

HARWOOD, Aug. 10, 1877.—The most intense excitement has been created here by the appearance of a monster in the waters of our lake which, according to the description given of it by those who have seen it, rivals any of the specimens of the great sea serpent. Two American gentlemen who are enjoying the lovely scenery of our lake, and the good sport which it affords, and when off White's Island they noticed an unusual commotion of the water, looking towards the north shore. Their surmises and doubts were soon set at rest on discovering the undulating portions of the body of a monster which was making its way up the lake towards Harwood. They at once gave chase, and were rapidly gaining on the creature, when their courage was tested by the monster turning around and making directly for them. The view they had of it at this juncture was the best they obtained of it, and it is described by them as having a head almost like that of a horse, but twice as long, eyes fierce and glaring, the colour of the skin dark grey, the gullet pink, and having large, but apparently soft fins or long hair along its back, so far as seen. They could not see more than about twelve feet of the animal's body but think it must be over sixty feet long. They succeeded in reaching Idyl Wild, the monster having disappeared before they got to the shore. This was about 11 o'clock in the morning. At 1 o'clock two ladies and two gentlemen standing on the plazza of the "Lakeview House" saw the monster pass the north side of Tick Island. With a good opera glass they were enabled to notice more accurately the movements of the monster serpent, for such now it appeared to be and in a short time it had passed behind Spoeke Island and made directly for the mouth of the Otonabee, but disappeared suddenly when in that part of the lake which is considered the river channel, and has not since been seen from here. Captain Brady got his yacht, the Stug, under weigh at once, and cruised around the islands for some time, but could discover nothing of the alarming visitor. I will let you hear if any thing further is seen or heard of his snakeship.

Later.—A gentleman just arrived from Gore's Landing says the monster was seen disporting himself between Sheep Island and the shore. A party is being organized to attempt its capture. Two sportsmen fired at it, when it at once disappeared.

I am told that the ladies and gentlemen who saw the monster are about making affidavit of the fact before a magistrate. In the meantime every effort is to be put forward to effect its capture. I will not fail to let you know any further particulars that I may learn about this wonderful visitant of our lake. I understand the Indians are so alarmed that some of them intend removing from the borders of the lake for a short time at least, or until they are better satisfied of their security from the horrid monster now in their vicinity.

DOCTORS COMMENCE WORK IN LABRADOR

Often Move To Other Fields of Missionary Endeavor—Give Good Service.

Harrington hospital is located on one of a group of islands by that name, on the North shore of the Gulf near Cape Whittle. Established over twenty years ago, the hospital was for ten years in charge of Doctor H. Mather Hare, from Halifax. Since resigning his post at Harrington Dr. Hare has gone to the other extreme and resides in Nassau, The Bahamas.

Since his departure several doctors have been in charge, men often serving with the Grenfell Mission prior to going to their life-work in the foreign field. Dr. Hinson West, of Moncton, now in India; Dr. Theo. Yates, from the Southern States, now in China, and Dr. George W. Harley, now in Africa, among them.

Dr. Donald G. Hodd, who has been in charge for the past two years, is from Hamilton, Ont., and is a graduate of Varsity, Toronto. His wife is also from Hamilton, but baby Jean is a real Labradorian. The Head Nurse is Miss Isobel Fleming, from Winnipeg, and her assistant, Nurse Purdy, from Peterborough, Ont. It is rather gratifying to know that the entire North shore staff, at the present time, including Harrington, Mutton Bay, Forteau and Battle Hr., is Canadian or British.

Harrington hospital is a three storey wooden structure, and being located on a rocky, barren hill-side, makes a great wind-break. It has two wards and a sun-porch for T.B.'s and accommodates 16 patients. Dr. Hodd's parish extends from Natassquan, 125 miles to the west, as far as Forteau, on the east, with small villages and scattered families all along the way. The large launch "Northern Messenger" has carried the doctor and staff on rounds of mercy, brought in patients and carried them home again, for many years now. At present, a smaller launch, with shallower draught, is being built on the coast to serve Harrington, one that can enter any Labrador harbour with safety. With two other smaller launches, for local use, this hospital will be well equipped for travel by water.

In winter, by dog-team, Dr. Hodd makes his rounds both east and west as frequently as weather conditions will permit, or patients in hospital can spare him. Dr. Hodd is highly spoken of along the Shore and has evidently won the confidence and esteem of his scattered constituency.

Recognizing the value of the hospital the Provincial Government of Quebec has recently made a grant of $5,000, annually, toward its support, including the work accomplished all along the Quebec Labrador, some 300 miles of coast.

The summer staff at Harrington is more than double that during the rest of the year because while navigation is open is the period when patients can most conveniently be brought to hospital for treatment or operation. During the summer a voluntary addition of another doctor, a dentist, an additional nurse and two or three student-workers (called "Wops") make possible a heavy volume of work. The "wops" run the motor launches, unload freight and make themselves generally useful about the place. Sir Wilfred likes to call them his "blessed be drudgery brigade."

Few people can vizualize Labrador as it was, thirty-five years ago, and Labrador, as it is, today. It is not location, climate or industries that have changed, but the living conditions, spirit and morale of its people. Where no doctors, nurses, hospitals or adequate schools existed thirty-five years ago, have sprung up, as if by magic (the magic of one man's vision of what ought to be) a chain of national defence, not military, but humanitarian, to provide for that lone land the safeguards and advantages we so much enjoy. Are you sufficiently convinced of its value to help?

District Churches

MARMORA, April 3.—Two texts, "He Steadfastly Set His Face Towards Jerusalem" and "When He Was Come Into Jerusalem All the City Was Moved," were chosen by the rector at St. Paul's on Sunday morning in delivering his discourse on "The Rubicon of Life." Palm Sunday, the preacher reminded his congregation, inaugurates the final stage in our Saviour's sacrificial journey. Here we see the greatest public display ever accorded Jesus. The picture of Palm Sunday should be taken as the type of that spirit in which every true soul should meet its appointed task. Two qualities in the character of Jesus Christ are expressed in the texts, namely, His courage and constancy. First of all there is His courage of decision. Decision is the gateway into Christianity. After recalling the story of the rubicon of Roman history, Rev. Caldwell continued: Every life has its rubicon, the narrow stream of opportunity cutting across its experiences and separating with fixed lines what goes before and what comes after. The second feature of Chist's message is seen in that it was a courage of conviction. Scorn never finds an easier mark than that of conviction. But the man or woman who to-day stands bravely for conviction in society, in defence of principle and duty and Christian conduct, is serving the Lord in the hottest battle and where victory counts for the most. Thoughts on the triumphant Saviour and His final triumph concluded a very appropriate sermon

Misses Kathleen Litt and Merrill Bedore rendered as a duet, "Lord When Thy Kingdom Comes, Remember Me."

FLOOD IN CREEK BRINGS COUNCIL MANY VISITORS

able to leave their houses in the morning to go to their work. He, himself, had been obliged to wade in water to his hips to carry water to the stranded families.

Various opinions were expressed by the councillors; among them being that it would only be a little time till a cement wall was required all along the section of the creek in question. On motion of Reeve Bygott and Councillor Wiggins, the matter was left over for the town engineer, Mr. Scott, to bring in estimates as to the best method to be followed in remedying the condition.

Want Catch Basin

James Benor, speaking for the citizens on Inkerman street, asked that a catch basin be installed at the corner of Canrobert and Inkerman streets in order to relieve the frequent flooded condition there. In presenting his petition, Mr. Benor referred to a remark made through the press concerning the possibility of government spawn being introduced into the pool. He desired, he said, to build a house on the corner lot, and could not do so while the water settled as it did. Councillor O'Sullivan stated that he had seen the condition, and believed that it should be attended to.

Mr. Hawthorne followed Mr. Benor, and spoke to the Council regarding his application for the position of town engineer. He was told by the Mayor that his application would be considered along with the others. It would not, said the Mayor, in all likelihood, be done last night.

J. D. Cumming, tax collector, submitted the roll for 1926. The taxes in arrears, he said, were $977.34, while the abatements amounted to $945.85. For 1927 there were still arrears amounting to approximately $4,000. In his opinion, the times in the town had not been any too prosperous, and he had not resorted to any drastic measures as yet. He wished to be relieved of the 1926 tax roll or be given some assurance that he need not be too harsh in his methods of collection. Of the total roll of $70,562.18, he had turned over to the treasurer, $67,747.55. The discounts for the year were $891.42. These were the figures to date. The matter caused considerable argument in the Council Chamber, and the opinion of the Council was expressed as being that it was Mr. Cumming's duty to collect the taxes, and therefore they would not accept the 1926 roll.

Will Call in Bailiff.

Mr. Cumming seemed rather loath to resort to the last method of collection, and again suggested that the Council take the roll off his hands, but without success. "Very well, gentlemen," he said finally, "if I have to get out at it by law, there is not going to be flesh made of one and fish of another. All will be in the same boat. If I have to do it from one, I will do it from them all. If necessary, I will put the bailiff in and collect. I understand from your attitude that I am to collect."

Without further comment, the Council passed on to the next item of business, which was correspondence. The first letter was from Cleveland acknowledging receipt of advertisement for Ackerman's sportsman's guide. The second communication was from the Crown Attorney, Cobourg, re Hunter Rowe. The matter was discussed at some length and left with a committee of three consisting of the Mayor, the Chief of Police, and the Reeve.

W. M. Covert was present when his letter regarding rebate on business tax was read. It also asked for a lower assessment on his skating rink. His claim was that the town had allowed his business to be injured by permitting Davidson's arena to be built so close to his property. Mr. Covert was told by the Mayor that the business tax was a matter of adjustment between himself, the purchaser of the ice business, and the tax collector. Regarding the assessment of his arena, that would be dealt with in the usual way through the usual channels. The letter was received and filed. There were also two letters regarding oiling of the streets, etc., which was received and placed on the file.

A letter from the Trent Waterways Development Association regarding an exhibit to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, during the month of May was considered favorably, and fifty dollars voted as Campbellford's portion of the cost of advertising. In passing the amount, it was mentioned that the majority of the tourists to this section come from the State of Ohio, and of these the greater number are citizens of the city of Cleveland. An account from Dr. Johnston was laid over for discussion later in the evening. The communication from F. S. Lazier, paving engineer for the town, explaining that he had been unable to be in town recently owing to the complicated conditions of a contract in the city of Boston, and recommending Mr. Maryatt, Hastings, as his assistant to carry on the work, was received and filed. There was also an application from Mr. Maryatt for the position here which is still held by Mr. Lazier.

The communication from the engineering firm of Wynn, Roberts, MacLean & Son, asking that consideration be given the firm when the town found it advisable to retain the services of an engineer for the paving program led to considerable discussion as to just how and where the municipality stood with regard to engineers. A prominent engineer present gave some very valuable information from time to time as to when and how and why a reliable engineer was a good investment and money saving acquirement.

Finally the Mayor was asked to communicate with Mr. Lazier and advise the council at a special meeting as to the result of his conversation. The final communication to be read, was from J. P. Archer, notifying the council that certain insurance was requiring attention and on motion of Reeve Bygott and Councillor Wiggins, the policy was renewed.

Having finished the communications, the Mayor advised the council that the proprietors of the Joyland shows had asked for two banners for their equipment which would advertise Campellford as the show headquarters and which they would display free of charge all during the seasons tour. The matter was left over itll the next meeting.

Deputy Reeve Davidson reminded the council that the police required new uniforms. He thought that they should be allowed to purcahse them wherever in town they wished. Chief Light, being present, asked that they be given a new suit with two pairs of trousers and a new hat each. The matter was left with the Police committee.

Reeve Bygott asked and was given permission for the local branch of the Canadian Legion to use the Market square for the week of May 5th to 12th for their carnival week to be put on in connection with the Joyland shows.

Deputy Reeve Davidson informed the council that Earl Williams and other residents of the district had asked to have the old steam roller removed from the property in front of their residences. The roller is the property of Quinlan and Robertson and the clerk was instructed to write the company requesting that the machine be removed.

Pump Causes Furore.

Councillor Abernethy, Road and Bridge committee, reported that the committee had agreed that Robert Fraser should be permitted to install a gasoline pump in front of his property on Tice street. Permission had already been granted Mr. Fraser, but a petition from another party or parties had caused the matter to be investigated by the Road and Bridge committee, with the result that permission was granted Mr. Fraser to install the pump. After the report had been brought in verbally, there was some disagreement in the council and a vote was taken to a motion that the report of the committee be accepted. The motion carried and Deputy Reeve Davidson, who was opposed to the pump being put on the street, where it would be liable to obstruct traffic, by cars stopping for gas, demanded that the yeas and nays be taken. This was done with the following result: Bygott, yea; O'Sullivan, nay; Abernethy, yea; Davidson, nay; Kingston, yea; Wigins, yea; Stone yea. Councillors Wilkinson and Cole were not present to vote.

There being no further business the motion to adjourn was put at 11.10 p.m. by Deputy Reeve Davidson. This will be till Tuesday, April 10th at eight o'clock in the Clerk's office. This meeting will be of a private nature and the tenders for street paving will be opened. There will also be a special meeting called during the next few days for the purpose of appointing an engineer to take charge of the paving work in the interests of the town. The date of this meeting depends on the Mayor's conversation with Mr. Lazier.

MANY QUESTIONS BEFORE COMMISSION

Canadian Members of I.J.W.C. Gather For Semi-Annual Meeting.

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 3.—(Canadian Press.)—Canadian members of the International Joint Waterways Commission arrived here last night for the regular semi-annual meeting of the body.

The Canadian section is headed by C. A. Magrath of Toronto. Other Canadian members are Sir William Hearst, of Toronto, and Henry Powell of Saint John.

After the semi-annual meeting, the commission will hear the application of the St. Lawrence River Power Company for leave to raise the crest of its weir in the south channel of the St. Lawrence river between Cornwall, Ont., and Massena, N.Y.

The commission may also discuss an application of a Nelson, B.C., company, for leave to drain 8,000 acres of land intended for agricultural purposes between the Kootenay River and Kootenay Lake, just north of the international boundary. The commission heard this application in Nelson last fall and continued hearings until the United States' section could obtain evidence to show what effect the reclamation scheme on the Canadian side would have on the levels of the Kootenay River in Idaho.

It is unlikely that the commission will proceed very far with the Nelson case at this hearing.

Roseau River Dispute.

The dispute between the Canadian and United States residents on the Roseau river in Manitoba and Minnesota has not yet been referred to the International commission, and will not come up now. It is understood that the United States government favors reference of the Roseau controversy to the commission, and if the Canadian government concurs, it may ask that the whole question of Red River flood control be dealt with by the commission at the same time.

MILLBROOK MAN FRACTURES LEG

H. McLeod Injured When a Heavy Log Rolls Over Limb.

MILLBROOK, April 3. — An accident by which H. McLeod had his right leg fractured below the knee, occurred at Robert Lunn's farm, south of the village, on Monday morning. Mr. McLeod was measuring timber for Mr. Holden, when in some unexplained manner a heavy log rolled loose and over his limb, with the result mentioned.

The injured man was brought to Dr. H. A. Turner's office where an X-ray was taken, and the bone set. He is now at his home, King street east.

Y.M.C.A. BOYS SEE TELEPHONE FILMS

Hobby Show Orchestra Enlivens Saturday Evening Picture Show.

A lobby movie show in the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday evening gave over a hundred boys the opportunity to witness the Bell Telephone pictures which were shown in various places around the city during last week. Mr. Beamer, the genial manager of the local plant was on hand to supervise the arrangements, while the projector was operated by Mr. Holland of the local staff. While the showing was put on primarily for the boys a goodly number of older people congregated at the back of the rotunda and with the younger element learned about the Bell system.

During the evening the boy's hobby show orchestra played several snappy numbers—the audience singing lustily the popular choruses. This same orchestra will render a program each evening during the hobby show, which is scheduled for April 12, 13, and 14.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4, 1928.

Astrologers read this as a threatening day in planetary government for malefic aspects appear to dominate.

The planetary government tends toward pessimism and discouragement and for this reason it is wise to keep too busy for depressing thoughts.

Under this sway the judgment may be erratic and untrustworthy. Important decisions should be postponed.

The seers foretell a continued increase of nervous diseases and mental maladies, due to the strain of modern life.

Erotic plays and books will be accused of their right share of the blame for decadent conditions.

One of the new reforms will stress in a novel manner the effect of the spoken and written word, it is foretold.

Many quarrels and dissensions will mark organizations at this time when cohesion in politics or religion will be more than usually difficult.

Women are to be a troublesome factor in the coming national political campaign, if the stars are rightly read, for they will be interested in reform movements.

Domestic quarrels may be easily precipitated today and there is a prophesy of continued prevalence of divorce.

Nations as well as families will be susceptible to the planetary rule which encourages misunderstandings and—brings about trouble.

Danger of labor difficulties again are indicated for the spring when building trades may be affected.

Theatres are to flourish during the summer when novel and original features will be introduced.

Persons whose birthdate it is should beware of accidents in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will be restless and very ambitious. The subjects of this sign like to travel

DRESS

More work for the oculists, anyway—possibly more headaches and jagged nerves. When women wore veils before it was the usual comment from doctors, oculists and women who were too sensible to wear them that veils were injurious. Men used to wonder how in the world women stood them—especially veils with spots and scrolls. Still most men admired the effect of a trimly placed veil, and the passing of the veil fashion deprived women of an effective means of heightening their charms.

Veils, like long skirts and long hair and tight waists and a number of other things, were mentioned a few years ago as something that could never come back into fashion again. NEVER, NEVER.z With higher education and the vote and wider professional and industrial opportunities women could never go back to such relics of the dark ages. Never is a long word, and one best left out when speaking of fashions.

Veils are back again, and the only reason why a good many women haven't begun to wear them again is not because they have any prejudice against them, but because they haven't quite summoned up their courage as yet.

The fashion began apparently with the little nose veil, adorned with a single dot, placed somewhere under the right eye—or was it the left eye? Then it went from bad to worse—or perhaps from good to better. Longer veils came into fashion and veils ornamented in a number of ways. My correspondent in Paris says that already the short eye veil is a trifle passee and that other veils have come forward to take its place.

The other day I saw a veil that struck me as offering a most convenient way of trimming a small untrimmed hat—possibly a last season's hat. There were lace flowers to match the veil placed at one side—so that no trimming was needed.

Baby Roams Street In Thin Night Gown

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., April 3.—To wander away from home while the rest of the city slept, with only a little nightie to protect her from the severe cold, was the experience of three-year-old Margaret Kelly, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Michael Kelly, 22 Manilla Terrace, between four and five o'clock yesterday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly had moved Thursday night from their home at 28 Manilla Terrace to the residence of Mrs. Elizabeth Cole, 22 Manilla Terrace. In their former home Margaret had slept in the same room with her parents, but at Coyle's her crib was upstairs and her parents slept downstairs

Unable to find her mother and father, Margaret walked out of the strange house in her bare feet and thin nightgown. Where she went no one knows. She said afterwards that she walked to Gore street, around the gasoline filling station and back along Cathcart street.

At five o'clock in the morning Mrs. Margaret Miller 37 Cathcart street, was awakened by a child's cries. The sound came from the path between her home and the house next door, at 35 Cathcart street.

Mrs. Miller found the child outside her home, brought her in and cared for and informed the police, and the officer who answered the call recognized the tot. When he took the child to her home the parents were still asleep and did not know that Margaret had left the house.

The woman who takes the conceit out of a man often adds a little to her own.

Fired . . . because he was always tired

IN EVERY walk of life you'll meet the "Drowsy Bills" . . . men and women who are losing out because they are forever tired. Young people they often are, in age—but old in energy. They try hard enough—but they are serving constipation too. The dread disease that can rob the strongest body of strength. That kills initiative. Wrecks health. That often handicaps with lasting disease.

And isn't it a pity when a simple, healthful cereal could bring relief all the while? Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation promptly and safely. More — to prevent it from the start.

Nothing less than "ALL-BRAN" is 100% effective

Bulk or roughage relieves constipation naturally. ALL-BRAN furnishes healthful bulk in generous quantity because it is 100% bran. This bulk absorbs moisture and distributes it through the digestive system. Gently distending the intestines — exercising them — sweeping out wastes and poisons. In a part-bran product the quantity of bulk is seldom sufficient to completely perform this work. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because it is 100% bran and accomplishes 100% results.

Different from unnatural pills

ALL-BRAN works as nature works. How much better than habit-forming drugs and laxatives whose dose must be constantly increased to remain effective—and which sometimes injure the system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is an inviting, healthful cereal to eat with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Sprinkle it into soups too. Use it in cooking—recipes on package. Mix it with other cereals. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal.

For health's sake, be sure you get genuine Kellogg's — the original ALL-BRAN. Don't take chances with part-bran substitutes. At best, they can be but partially effective. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, cafeterias. On diners. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Guaranteed! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

LAUNDERING CURTAINS.

When laundering curtains for the first time, soak them overnight in warm salt water to free them from dressing. Soak other curtains in cold water.

PLEASING GARNISH.

Sprays of watercress make an appetizing garnish for cheese crackers. Top round crackers with cream cheese, put a bit if pimento on each and surround with watercress.

FISH SANDWICHES

Delicious for lunch are open toasted sandwiches that have for filling crabmeat, oysters, lobster or any other left-over fish creamed and highly seasoned.

DETERMINE FINALISTS FOR PRO HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP

Expected Last Game of Semi-Finals Will Be Terrific Struggle.

REGULAR LINE-UPS

Stanley Cup Series Will Start at Montreal Forum on Thursday.

NEW YORK, April 3. Canadian Press. — Finalists for the world's professional hockey championship will be determined at Montreal and Boston to-morrow night, when the second game of the two-game final series for the Canadian and American group championships of the National Hockey League will be fought to a finish.

Montreal Canadiens and Montreal Maroons battled to a 2-2 tie in the first game at Montreal on Saturday evening, and the Boston Bruins and the New York Rangers engaged in a 1-1 drawn struggle at New York. If the teams are still tied at the end of the regular sixty minutes play to-night overtime will be played until a team has scored the deciding goal.

The Rangers will leave for Boston at noon to-day. None of the four contending teams sustained casualties during the first games, which were roughly contested, and the regular lineups are expected to take the ice for the second game.

The Boston Bruins used their substitutes very sparingly Sunday night, Gainor Clapper and Connor being injected into the forward line, but Eddie Shore and Lionel Hutchman received no relief on the defence.Harrington and Gordon were not used. Callighen was the only member of the Ranger squad of twelve men who did not get into action.

The Stanley Cup series between the group champions will start at the Montreal Forum Thursday night. After a game on Saturday the teams will return to Boston, if the Bruins win the group title to finish the series, which will be decided on a three-out-of-five basis. If the Rangers win the American group title all the games will be played in Montreal, a circus having evicted the Rangers from their Madison Square home.

GOLF.

NEW YORK, April 3.—(Canadian Press).—The plan of Francis Ouimet and millionaire golfers to establish a golf course in Vermont with the "nineteenth" hole in Canada, the clubhouse being built just over the Canadian border, is puzzling state officials. Ouimet says work will be started on the course soon.

GETTING WELL

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Fears that another great veteran baseball pitcher had fallen victim to tuberculosis have been put at rest here by doctors in discussing the illness of Walter Johnson.

In a formal statement issued by Dr. H. M. Kaufman, personal physician to the former Washington speed king, now manager of the Newark Internationals, said: "All physical examinations, X-rays and laboratory tests have failed to reveal the slightest indication of anything of this nature. Without any intervening complications Walter Johnson should be himself again within a reasonably short while."

SOCCER CHAMPS RECEIVE GIFTS

Prince of Wales' Team To Get Eversharp Pencils—Expect Six Team League.

As a souvenir of their prowess on the soccer field, the Prince of Wales eleven will receive Eversharp pencils from the local football executive at a meeting of the Home and School Association in the near future. They won the public school championship last Fall, when they defeated the Central team. The president, V. Stewart; Vice-President R. Gilmour, Secretary J. Hudgson, and press representative were instructed to attend the presentation to the successful boys.

May Have Six Team League

According to information available there may be a six-team soccer league this season. Last year there was only three teams in operation. This season three clubs have officially presented credential, intimating their intention of participating in the schedule; also have received the full assurance from the De Laval that they will be represented.

No official notification was received from the league champions—the Masseys—but the executive were notified that definite word would be forthcoming at the next meeting.

The secretary was instructed to write, also interview, Gordon Matthews, manager of the Canadian Packing Company plant, relative to the formation of a soccer team; also requesting his assistance to foster the game. A few years ago the C.P.C. team won many of the trophies.

Referees Accepted

The association registered the names of Alex. McKinley, J. C. Russell and Frank McKinley as official referees.

Clubs and Colors

Quaker Oats colors will be black and white stripe; C.G.E. team will wear red sweaters and black pants; Thistle will use dark blue, also black and white stripe; De Laval relying on their black and yellow upright stripe with white pants; Masseys using green and red upright sweaters.

Extend Entrance Time

Clubs were given until Monday evening, April 9th, to register as a team under the jurisdiction of the local board; also not being required to pay fees until the first game is played. Registration forms were given out last evening.

Breeder Tells How Grand National Winner Named "Tipperary Tim

NEW YORK, April 3 (Canadian Press).—John J. Ryan, the proud breeder of Tipperary Tim, the ten-year-old Grand National winner in the famous steeplechase at Aintree last Friday, arrived here yesterday on the White Star liner Cedric, and told how the horse was named.

"There was a man named Tim Crow," Ryan began, "and he was a runner and won a cross country championship. That was at Baldoyle. I was watching as was James McKenna to whom I sold Tipperary Tim. When Tim Crow won, Jim turned and says to me: 'I've got the name for that yearling, Jack. I'll call him Tipperary Tim after Tim Crow; for there isn't a better runner than Tim Crow.' And that's how he got his name."

Ryan said that he sold Tipperary Tim to McKenna when the horse was a year old. Later, McKenna sold the horse to H. S. Kenyon, the present owner. He did not recall the purchase price of Tipperary Tim at the time, but said it was a "neat sum."

Describing the steeplechase winner, Ryan said: "He's a roan and as a yearling was a beauty; with stout legs; the legs that come from Limestone. He was out of Last Lot by Cipango. I still have Last Lot. She is now 18 years old."

Ryan, who is from Boyton Rath Cashel, County Tipperary, was accompanied by three children here on a pleasure trip, in addition to receiving the £200 or $1,000 which is his right as the breeder of the winner in the Grand National when he returns to Ireland, Ryan will also realize on £5 he had wagered on the victor which at 100 to 1 will net him $2,500.

LEAST DANGEROUS FOR GENE TUNNEY

Odds Are Heavy Against Heeney Winning Heavyweight Championship.

NEW YORK, April 3—What chance has Tom Heeney of winning the heavyweight championship from Gene Tunney?

With the tentative date—July 26 at Yankee Stadium—almost four months away, the odds against Heeney defeating the champion are about 10 to 1. Maybe higher, certainly not lower.

Strange as it may seem Heeney apparently is the least dangerous of all the heavyweight contenders.

Any one of the several of the other contenders might extend Tunney to the limit or possibly defeat him in view of the fact that the champion has boxed only ten rounds since he won the title from Jack Dempsey September 23, 1926.

Made for Tunney.

This, perhaps, is the precise reason why the champion selected Heeney as the challenger. No one doubts the fact that Tunney made the choice himself otherwise Tex Rickard would have had his way and staged a final elimination bout between Heeney and Risko.

It is pretty hard to say just what any fighter will do who has been idle as long as Tunney, but it's a pretty safe statement to say that Tunney has a far better chance to retain his title against Heeney than he would against Jack Sharkey, Johnny Risko, Paulino Uzcudun or Jack Delaney.

The champion prefers to box big, slow men. Heeney, for all his indomitable courage and fighting heart, is made to order for Tunney. The challenger is just a big, strong, willing fighter who doesn't know the meaning of the word "quit."

A fighter rather than a boxer, Heeney lacks the knockout punch to make him a real menace to Tunney. Despite his long period of ring inactivity, the champion's superb ring craft and boxing skill ought to carry him safely past the challenger from "down under."

Heeney ranks among the leading heavyweights, yet he has no single outstanding triumph to his credit. His American reputation was made largely on three victories, none of them particularly noteworthy performances, two of them just about draws.

Heeney does his best fighting in close because of his short, club-like arms. For all his strength, he does not pack a wallop. He is more of a mauler.

FIGHT IN AMERICA.

PARIS, April 3.—Tom Heeney will fight Gene Tunney for the heavyweight champion in the United States, not in England, Bernard Mortimer, the New Zealander's British manager, said yesterday. "America is the real land of golden opportunity. It would be honest to say there's about one chance in ten of the fight being held in London", said Mortimer.

Friends of Georges Carpentier have proposed that the former French champion join the New Zealander's camp as chief adviser, but Mortimer vetoed the idea, declaring that Georges is finished as a boxer.

MAILED TO COMMISSION.

NEW YORK, April 3 (Canadian Press). — The United States mail will deposit with the New York State Athletic Commission to-day Gene Tunney's formal acceptance of Tom Heeney as challenger for the heavyweight title, Tex Rickard told his associates at Madison Square Garden yesterday over the long-distance telephone from Miami, Fla.

The match, which already has the personal sanction of James A. Farley, chairman of the commission, was announced by the promoter on Saturday. The probable date was set for July, "either in London or somewhere in the United States."

At the last meeting of the commission, the boxing fathers notified Tunney that his original answer to their "request" that he name a specific challenger for a bout this summer was inadequate. The champion was given until to-day to name his man on pain of indefinite suspension.

Joe Jacobs, manager of Jack Delaney, declared yesterday he would not sign for a match with Jack Sharkey here on April 30 until assurance was given both fighters that the winner would meet Tunney in September. There appears little chance of the bout being staged.

DARRAGH WAS CLEANEST PLAYER

Pittsburgh Player Had Only Five Minor Penalties in 1927-28 Season.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Harold Darragh, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has been awarded the Roosevelt Hotel "Clean Play" trophy for the 1927-28 season of the National Hockey League, it was announced here yesterday.

The trophy was donated for annual award to the player spending the least number of minutes in the penalty box.

Darragh, who is a native of Ottawa, Ont., spent 1,620 minutes on the ice, and received only five minor penalties. The Pirate ringleader's average was slightly better than that of Frank Boucher, New York Ranger centre, who won the Lady Byng trophy for the player combining clean play with effectiveness. Boucher was on the ice 1,674 minues and spent 14 minutes in the penalty box. Players who were in the games more than 1,000 minutes were taken into consideration in awarding the trophy.

Cooper Smeaton, referee-in-chief of the league, stated to the Canadian Press yesterday that after referring to his private records he found that Darragh had been sent to the timer's box only ten times in the 1925-26 and 1926-27 seasons. His penalties for three consecutive seasons therefore total only twenty minutes, equal to one playing period.

Boucher will receive the Belvedere Hotel trophy for the high scorer of the local teams, and Vivian "Ching" Johnson, Ranger defence player, will be presented with the Paramount Theatre trophy awarded to the most valuable player of the two local sextettes. Boucher was beaten out by George Hay, of Detroit, by one point for American group scoring honors, scoring 23 goals and assisting in 11.

IN TRAINING CAMP

TID-BITS FROM MAJOR CAMPS IN SOUTH

JACKSON, Miss., April 3 (Canadian Press). George T. Stallings gets his men even if he does have to go where no scout's shoes trod before. Among his souvenirs at the spring training camp of the Montreal Royals are a couple of lads from the House of David—without their beards, and a husky outfielder he saw playing at a county fair.

• • •

Some scouts stop when the chase leads beyond a regular league baseball park. But Stallings isn't a scout. He's a manager, and only goes forth scouting when he had a hot tip and must personally see a player before signing him.

• • •

Stallings heard about a second baseman ,Leroy Vick, with the House of David. He took the trail immediately and watched that club perform behind those funny beards. He saw through it all, despite the funny faces, and signed three men instead of the one he pursued. Besides Vick, who Stallings says looks like a Lajoie now that he's shaved, he signed Newell, an outfielder, and Chavis, a pitcher.

• • •

He wasn't looking for a ball player at the county fair. He was there to see how the other Georgians fared in raising fruits, vegetables, and fine cattle. For Stallings raises these things himself. The exhibit drew yawns, as all exhibits do, and he followed a small crowd towards the race track and found two yokel teams were playing baseball.

• • •

Before the kill-the-umpire scene, he had discovered a future star. Right then and there he signed Jack Griffen, a husky outfielder.

Three Generations Have One Birthday

TILSONBURG, April 3. — Mr. and Mrs. George D. Tillson have been showered with telegrams and letters of congratulation over the birth of a son, George Edwin Tillson, which is surrounded by circumstances of great interest to the pan-dried town and its past history. The baby was born on the 103rd anniversary of the founding of the town, which date was also the birthday of E. D. Tillson, founder of the town. But, stranger still, the birth was announced at the birthday party of E. V. Tillson, who is a son of the late E. D. Tillson.

Don't Be a Jay Rider

10 Commandments for Cyclists

1 Keep to the right and near the curb.
2 Meeting traffic pass on right, overtaking traffic pass on left.
4 Raise one arm when stopping, and slowing up and to indicate direction when turning.
5 Ride straight. Don't wobble.
6 Watch for STOP signs and traffic officers' signals.
7 Give traffic coming from right the right of way at intersections.
8 Do not hang on to moving vehicles.
9 Don't "cut in" in front of a moving car.
10 Keep your feet on the pedals—your hands on the handlebars.

"THE BICYCLE is one of the safest vehicles of locomotion," says Mr. J. F. H. Wyse, General Manager of the Ontario Safety League.

Let's make it safer.

Last year out of over five thousand traffic accidents, in Ontario, involving automobiles, trucks, busses, bicycles and pedestrians, there were only five fatally serious bicycle accidents involving children under 16.

But even these may be lessened. They can be reduced to zero. Let motorists show every care for cyclists. Let bicycle riders this year ride still more carefully. Obey the traffic rules and signals. Safety First! Watch out for the traffic. Take no chances. Don't be a jay rider.

The C.C.M. Bicycle is a strong, sturdy, reliable piece of conscientious workmanship in its every part. You can depend on the Hercules Coaster Brake in any traffic emergency. Cold drawn seamless steel tubing, reinforced joints, give you a frame of great strength.

IN POLICE COURT

Angus Lindsay pleaded guilty of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated and was given 15 days in the common jail. Yesterday afternoon at 4.45 Constable Wheeler, while on patrol duty on George St. saw Lindsay operating his car in a very dangerous manner. The officer secured the police car and along with County Constable R. C. Smith followed Lindsay out Charlotte street, where they arrested him. The prisoner on receiving the sentence asked for a fine, but His Worship replied: "There is no fine."

A local man pleaded guilty of causing wilful damage in one of the restaurants in the city, and was fined $20 and 4.25 costs, or 30 days in the common jail, with hard labor. He also agreed to pay $12 for the damage he caused.

A young farmer from the Township of Cavan pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place early last evening, and was fined $20 and $5.50 costs or 30 days in the common jail.

A local man pleaded guilty to being intoxicated on Hunter street late last night and was fined $15 and $4.50 costs or 30 days in jail.

POOL MEMBERS GET LARGE SUM

Ontario Wheat Growers Receive First Interim Payment.

RETURNS HIGHER.

Cheques were mailed by the Ontario Grain Pool recently to all members who have delivered wheat since last August. This is the first interim payment on wheat, and added to the initial or cash payment of $1.01 (less the local loading cost) made as the wheat was delivered, makes the allowance to date $1.16. To this must be added also the carrying allowance of one cent a busel per month for November and December, bringing the Pool price to $1.18 less local handling charges. Members still con look forward to the final payment which will be made as promptly as possible after the close of the Pool year in June.

While the grain trade and opponents of the Pool system will try hard to impress on the growers the fact that their cash price is above that paid by the Pool, those who compare conditions this year with those of other years admit that payments already made by the pool are higher than Ontario farmers would have got had there been no pool.

This distribution in Ontario is part of a general payment of 15 cents a bushel recommended by the Central Selling Agency of Winnipeg which sells all grain for the Ontario Grain Pool as well as for the pools of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The total disbursement made under date of March 10th., Sent as second payment on wheat amounted to about $28,000,000.00. President McPhail of the Central Selling Agency, speaking at a Canadian Club luncheon in Toronto on March 12th., stated that his organization now has a turnover of about one million dollars a day.

Mr. McPhail expresses satisfaction with the progress made by the Ontario Grain Pool during its first year, and says that the main thing is an increase in membership by extending the organization to counties not already covered. The membership is now over 9600 and a campaign is under way in six counties not covered by the 1927 canvass. Pool grain has been handled at about 150 shipping points since August last through existing elevators and mills in co-operation with the pools.

CENTRAL LEAGUE ARRANGES OPENING

First Game Here Called For Saturday, May 26, With Belleville.

At a meeting held in the Queen's Hotel, Port Hope, Saturday afternoon, the executive of the Central Ontario Senior Baseball League and representatives of the various clubs with the exception of Peterborough, decided to open the schedule on May 24 with a double header Peterborough playing at Oshawa and Kingston playing in Belleville. On May 25 Oshawa will play in Kingston and on Saturday, 26, Belleville will play in the Lift Lock City. The remainder of the schedule is to be drawn up tentatively by the secretary of the league, a copy of which will be submitted to each team for their approval. Among those present were: H. T. McFadden, League President, Peterborough; J. C. Ponsfort, S. C. Hall, J. Daly and W. L. Kennedy, Kingston. Walter Gerow and Stan Hagerman, Belleville, and Harold O. Luke and F. G. Chester of Oshawa. Peterborough did not have a representative present but Mr. McFadded assured the meeting that he was quite sure that Peterborough would enter.

President McFadden and F. G. Chester, Oshawa, were appointed delegates to the meeting of the O. B.A.A. in Toronto and were instructed to favour a residence rule requiring players to be resident of the place in which they play on March 1 instead of January 1 as the constiution now reads.

A lengthy discussion on what type of schedule should be used took up some time and finally ended in a resolution to leave the matter to another meeting, which will be held at an early date. Some of the members favoured a double schedule with the winners of each section to play off while others stuck out for a single schedule with the first and second teams to play off.

It was intimated in a more or less indefinite way that the umpires who officiated in last year's games were going to ask for an increased stipend and rumour has it that they will not act unless the increase is granted. The entire meeting felt that the umpires were being well paid for their services and pointed out that it was the officials and not the umpires who would run the league. From the feeling at the meeting it is quite evident that the arbiters of the game will have to take what they got last year and be satisfied or new men will be acquired.

The next meeting is to be held in Belleville on April 14 at 3 p.m., at which meeting it is hoped to have every item of business cleared up, a schedule approved and everything in readiness to open the league.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

BOY SOPRANOS FEATURE OF WESTMINSTER GLEE SINGERS SHORTLY TO BE HEARD HERE AT THE GRAND

Charm, daintiness and tunefulness to extraordinary degree mark the old folk-songs and national melodies of the Old Country, and they hold for the music-lover of today a peculiar attraction that cannot be made to give way to any other form of music. When the Westminster Glee Singers come here, they will present an opportunity to hear these fine old melodies as they should be rendered. They will be heard Good Friday and Saturday at The Grand with a Saturday matinee.

With a a repertoire of more than 150 selections, the Glee Singers will also present in their local program some of the choicest of the Old Cathedral School, interspersed with modern anthems and carols, to say nothing of magnificent sacred solos.

Of notable interest to a majority of people will be the singing of the boy sopranos. There are six of them with the Westminster Singers, and they have been selected from some of England's celebrated cathedral choirs. One of the crowning glories of British singing is that its boy sopranos have for centuries been unequalled. They are pre-eminent at the present time, and with the widespread growth of the love of music in recent years, their work has attracted enormous attention.

It is probably not so much that other countries cannot produce boy sopranos, but that the centuries of training which the old English Cathedral choirs have carried on has resulted in establishing a noteworthy tradition, and in setting a high standard for the ordinary church.

AT THE CAPITOL.

'TILLIE'S PUNCTURED ROMANCE'

This is a picture which owes much of the giggling which punctuates it at steady intervals, to the character of its sub-titles. Someone with a whimsical type of mind evidently manufactured the bits of screen conversation that trickle steadily through the extravaganza depicting Tillie and her adventures.

"Tillie's Punctured Romance" is burlesque, so much so that it has a somewhat puzzling atmosphere at moments. The action leaps wildly about, taking the onlookers to the triple rings of Frisbee's Circus, after Tillie has decided dramatically that "the smell of sawdust is in my blood." Thence it transfers its patrons to France, where the circus wanders about looking for the war and eventually finds too much of it. An unregarded episode that was not mentioned in despatches at the time, but has a large place in the story of Tillie and her pals, was the evacuation by wandering circus lions of a whole line of German trenches.

Another item in this extravaganza is the inclusion of the two major characters, the ones who are about to be shot, in their own shooting party. Tillie and her father, Horatio Frisbee, have inadvertently joined the ranks of the German forces. They have been discovered by Tillie's stepapa, who is now General Schmaltze, and are ordered to be shot at sunrise. By a series of fortuitous circumstances, they make their escape in time to be included in the group of soldiers who are to do the shooting. Only the lucky arrival of the troupe of cricus lions prevents the enraged General from carrying out his ideas with regard to the extermination of Tillie and Frisbee.

The story, which has one of those sudden endings that give the impression of a harassed director-brain, unable to achieve anything else in the way of a finale to a series of ridiculous episodes, abounds in little giggly incidents, and for this reason alone, is entertaining.—Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT.

LON CHANEY IN 'THE UNKNOWN'

That overworked word "interesting," is possibly the best descriptive adjective to apply to Lon Chaney. It makes little difference what role he essays, whether it be the cripple in "The Miracle," the Hunchback in "Notre Dame," the preacher-crook in "The Blackbird," the terrible hero of "The Penalty," the dive-keeper in "The Road to Mandalay," the detective in "London after Midnight," or the clown in "He who Gets Slapped," the result is always the same. Lon Chaney holds the centre of the stage and the attention of his audiences at all times.

In "The Unknown" he has one of the strange and sinister roles in which he appears to delight. He is Alonzo, the one-armed freak of a Spanish circus, with his little "familiar," the dwarfish Cojo. He maintains the appearance of armlessness throughout the opening episodes although, strangely enough, such is his art that there is a suggestion of hidden arms in the scenes in which he really does possess these useful appendages, for the idea is merely a trick to elude the officers of the law who seek for a criminal. Returning from one of his feats of banditry, he meets Zanzi, the gyspy owner of the circus, and, in a fight, strangles him. The story is complicated by the strange obsession of Nanon, the heroine a part splendidly portrayed by Joan Crawford. Manon has a hatred of men's arms and Alonzo plays on this hatred to win her love. Malabar, the strong man of the circus (Norman Kerry) also loves Nanon but she shrinks from him when he tries to take her in his arms.

The circus breaks up after Zanzi's death, and Alonzo reminded by Cojo that he cannot hope to win Nanon, when she discovers his deception and remembers that her father has been strangled by a man with two thumbs on the left hand, a peculiarity possessed by the hidden arm of Alonzo, decides to have his arms removed. He goes to a surgeon and undergoes the operation only to return and find that Nanon has overcome her repugnance to arms, and has decided to marry Malabar.

Chaney's face, so capable of strong and revolting emotion, takes on the aspect of a devil in this scene, but he controls his passion, and meditates on revenge. Malabar is doing a dangerous stunt at a theatrical performance, in which he holds the reins on two powerful horses racing over a treadmill. By tampering with the machinery, Alonzo almost compasses his rival's death, and then when Nanon, in a vain effort to save her lover is about to be trampled to death, sacrifices himself instead. It is a logical ending to a story of unholy desire and hateful passions, as exemplified in the figure of Alonzo. The art of Lon Chaney makes it a memorable addition to his previous screen triumphs. In ugly, brutal vital roles he is supreme and his pictures stand out powerfully against those of lighter calibre. They are always thrilling dramatic and unusual.

To-Day's Drawings.

This is something like a bunch isn't it? It just happened that the printers were able to make room for a big lot to-day, and we are hoping that there may be room for more before the end of the week.

That teddy bear of Helen Kelleher's looks happy, in spite of the fact that Jack Shank's speeder is so close. Maybe the car isn't wound up. Norma Fee's chicken looks as if it might be going to give the car a push with it's head. Don't you like the fancy hat Harold Elcombe's man is wearing? Helen Rowland's kitten is not really as nice as it should be, but Helen drew fur all over it, and you know we can't print shaded drawings. We hope kitty doesn't catch cold without her fur! George Sullivan drew a very business-like telephone, and wee Dorothy Rose evidently had a woman's work in mind when she drew the iron. That's not the size you drew your glass, is it, Kathleen Thackery? Your drawing just wouldn't fit in the paper though. It look bigger than the piano drawn by Isabelle Jackson, and would nearly hold the wheelbarrow that Ruth Driscoll drew.

Here we have a bunch of real wild-west drawings. The pretty Indian girl is by Alma Thomson. We had to make her hair black, Alma, because you shaded it, and you know what we told you on Monday! Next is an Indian encampment drawn by Edna Lee, with the lazy Indian kicking his heels while he makes the squaw cook supper. Underneath that is a ranch, with a pretty little house and trees and birds and all. The gate looks as if it might be falling down, but that is the printer's fault—Edna drew it alright. Then we have a real bad cowboy, drawn by Arthur Stinson, holding up a poor man drawn by Alan Goodley. I think Alan's man is wise to put up his hands, with that gun pointing straight at him, don't you? Don't you like that picture of the little girl feeding the bird, drawn by Isobel Gilmour, who is only six? I think it's real good. Down below that there's the dog, "PAL", drawn by Ruth Deyell. It must be a nice dog, with it's black ear and black spot. Jean Clark's kitten looks cute, and the little man drawn by Horace Guppy has a broad smile that shows he's real happy. Doesn't that silhouette of a cowboy on his horse, drawn by Dorothy Deline give you a thrill? Josephine Ronco came in on Saturday to tell us the name of the funny chap in her picture is "Pie Face." What do you think of that? Marcella Pearson's deer looks as if it might run away at any minute, and I guess it will, too, if that cowboy ever fires his gun.

EIGHT CHILDREN HURT IN TORONTO

Automobiles Injure Seven of One Night's Toll of Little Ones.

TORONTO, April 3.— Eight children were hurt in accidents last night, all but one being struck by motor cars. Only one of the motor car victims was badly hurt, while another lad who fell off a roof was in a very critical condition early this morning.

The series of accidents, happening within a few hours, kept police ambulances busy, and occupied the attention of surgeons and nurses in the Hospital for Sick Children, where most of the small sufferers were removed.

No arrests were made in connection with any of the motor accidents, four of which were investigated by Detectives Hutchinson and Seaton, and by other officers in whose divisions they occurred.

LOCAL PLAYERS LOSE AT PORT HOPE

Peterborough Badminton Players Defeated, 19 to 11 on Saturday.

PORT HOPE, April 3.—Matches between the Port Hope and Peterboro badminton clubs are becoming increasingly popular and the third game played by the two clubs this season took place on Saturday in Port Hope when the final score was 19-11 in favor of the home club.

All the ladies' events and a few of the mixed doubles were played off in the afternoon, the remainder of the mixed and all the men's doubles being left until the evening as many of the men were late in arriving. The games were all close and exciting ones and interest was added by the fact that Miss Madeline Pulkinghorn, a member of the Peterboro team, was last year's winner of the ladies' singles championship of Saskatchewan. Miss Pulkinghorn's splendid playing was a feature of the match.

The games, players and events were as follows: Ladies' doubles, Mrs. D. H. Chisholm and Miss E. White, Port Hope, were defeated by Miss Pulkinghorn and Mrs. Langley; Mrs. C. S. Mann and Mrs. H. E. Ryan, Port Hope, defeated Mrs. Hewitt and Mr. Wood; Mrs. M. S. Hawkins and J. R. Bunting, Port Hope, were defeated by Miss Reinhardt and Mr. Lyons.

Tea was served in the club-room to teams and visitors from 4 to 5. Miss H. Burnham was in charge of this. Both teams had a jolly dinner at the Queen's Hotel at 7 o'clock when short speeches were made by Mrs. W. J. Helm and Mr. H. M. Ryan, president and captain of the Port Hope club and by Colonel Bradburn and Colonel Lawrie, honorary president and president of the Peterboro club. Each club was heartily cheered by the other before the teams went back to the drill shed to finish their games.

Before the visitors left for home all had supper at Mr. and Mrs. W. F. McMahon's residence on King Street. Mrs. W. J. Nesbitt assisted Mrs. McMahon in taking charge of this.

What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

XIV—Priestly Usurpation

But about the sixth century B. C. things began to shape themselves for a change. Thales of Miletus, who lived from 640 to 546 B. C., went down to Egypt and brought back the rudiments of astronomy and mathematics. He found them in the Egyptian temples, comfortably established as part of the religion; but as Greece was already well supplied with religions he left the Egyptian faith behind and took only the Egyptian sciences. It was the first rift.

A little later, in Ionia, and apparently as a result of his influence, it began to be taught that the universe was governed by fixed laws. That was a new and revolutionary thought—the idea that men might find out important facts through observation, and not merely through the cultivation of the gods. From that time forward the story began to be a sad one. The priests felt their precincts encroached upon. Proudly and angrily they maintained their claim to intellectual monopoly.

Inevitably Men Learned

Their stubborn resistance delayed the process of enlightenment but could not prevent it. Slowly, bit by bit, men learned, and inevitably some of the things they learned contradicted directly the things which the priests had divined. The long battle was on.

A very able and very righteous man was in large measure responsible for crystallizing the conflict. He lived a thousand years afterward, and the church still holds him in high respect under the title of St. Augustine.

Much that he wrote was fine and tolerant and inspiring, and his life was a sincere attempt to conform to the teachings of Jesus, as he interpreted them. Yet in one single sentence he probably did as much damage as any man has ever done with a stroke of the pen.

"Nothing is to be accepted," he wrote, "save on the authority of Holy Scripture, since greater is that authority than all the powers of human understanding."

"Dark Ages"

That dictum is the charter of priestly usurpation. It made the centuries in which the Christian Church controlled the civilized world the "dark ages."

It burned Bruno at the stake; it put the church in the mortifying position of being compelled to accept, in each new generation, the truths for which it had persecuted devoted men in the preceding generation. It still is dominant in the minds of large numbers and, only a short time ago in Dayton, Tennessee, it produced the trial of a young teacher named Scopes.

Without burdening our rapid survey by too much detail, let us glance for a moment at the unhappy consequences of the idea that God had revealed Himself only in times past, as against the much more inspiring faith that His revelation is continuous.

The Bible is authority for the scientific information that four angels will descend from Heaven and stand upon the four corners of the earth; that Joshua made the sun to stand still; that the waters are let down upon the earth by God and His angels through the "windows of Heaven," and that "It is He that sitteth upon the circle of the earth . . . that stretcheth out the heavens like a curtain, and spreadeth them out like a tent to dwell in."

Proceeding upon this information, the Egyptian monk, Cosmas Indicopleustes, in the sixth century worked out a definite plan of the universe, describing it as a vast box divided into two compartments, the one above the other. In the lower compartment were men; above were God and His angels whose business it was to arrange the stars, and push the sun and moon back and forth across the heavens. A huge mountain at one end concealed the sun during the night.

"Angels and Prophets Agreed"

"We say therefore with Isaiah that the heaven embracing the universe is a vault," Cosmas concluded, "with Job, that it is joined to the earth, and with Moses that the length of the earth is greater than its breadth." He adds that angels and prophets agreed in this definition, and that God, at the last judgment, would send to hell all who questioned it.

This plain and simple system of astronomy was elaborated upon by the devout of succeeding centuries, but not changed in any important detail. All attacks upon it were denounced as atheistic.

The constantly recurring suggestion that the earth might be round instead of flat was determinedly resented. St. Gregory Nazianzen showed conclusively that men could never sail beyond Gibraltar, and the pious Lactantius demanded: "Is there any one so senseless as to believe that there are men whose footsteps are higher than their heads? . . . that the crops and trees grow downward . . . that the rains and snow and hail fall upward toward the earth? . . . I am at a loss what to say of those who, when they have once erred, steadily persevere in their folly and defend one vain thing by another."

"No Antipodes"

To which the great Augustine added his powerful authority, pointing out that there can not be men on the other side of the globe, since "Scripture speaks of no such descendants of Adam"; since the Psalms, echoed by St. Paul, say of the preachers of the Gospel that "their line is gone out through all the earth, and their words to the end of the world," and since we know that these preachers did not go to the other antipodes it is certain, said the Saint, that there can be no antipodes.

They who question this statement of geographical fact "give the lie direct to King David and to St. Paul and therefore to the Holy Ghost."

FATHER MAHER RECEIVES GIFT

People of Young's Point Church Make Presentation on Departure.

TEMPORARY CHARGE.

YOUNG'S POINT, April 3.— Rev. Father G. Maher, who has been attending the parishes of Young's Point and Lakefield for the past four months, during the absence of Father Garvey in Florida, was presented with an address and purse by the congregation of St. Mary's church, Young's Point, on Sunday morning last. The address was read by Frank Carroll and the presentation made by L. Fanning, president of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's church. Father Maher in a suitable reply thanked the congregation of Young's Point for their kindness, commended their gratitude to him and said he was sorry to sever connections with the people of Lakefield and Young's Point. Rev. J. J. Garvey, the pastor, returns to his charge on Sunday next.

The address was as follows:

Dear Rev. Father,—We the congregation of St. Mary's church, take the opportunity of expressing to you our sincere appreciation of your attending our parish during the absence of our dear pastor, Father Garvey.

You have made great efforts and shown untiring zeal in braving the elements of this severe winter, to give us all the spiritual benefits of our Holy Religion.

Although we have been privileged to have you with us only on Sundays, yet by your inspiring sermons, your kindly patience and your amiable demeanor you have endeared yourself to each and everyone of us.

To show our sincere gratitude we ask you to accept this small purse and with it our prayer that God will continue to shower his choicest blessings upon you.

WEDDING BELLS

GRAY—GOODSON.

A pretty wedding was solemnized by the rector, Rev. J. D. Paterson, at All Saints' Church at half-past twelve o'clock to-day, when Margaret Victoria, only daughter of Mrs. M. Goodson, Patterson Street, and the late John Goodson, became the bride of Frank C. Gray, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Gray, Aylmer Street.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. George East, wore a lovely gown of sapphire blue velvet, with black lace hat, silver slippers and hose. She carried a bouquet of yellow Pernet roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Connie Downes, was in sunrise celanese, with small rose hat, black slippers and hose, and bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Mr. James Northcott, of Dearborn, Michigan, acted as best man. Ushers were Messrs. Charles Evans and Stanley Jones.

The wedding music was played by Miss Dorothy Worby and Miss Freda McCall sang "O Promise Me" very sweetly, during the signing of the register.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding luncheon in buffet style was served to the members of the immediate families, at the home of the bride's mother. Mr. and Mrs. Gray left later by motor for a honeymoon trip to Detroit and Flint, after which they will reside in the city. The bride travelled in a smart ensemble suit of brown and blonde, with a little brown satin hat and red fox fur neckpiece, the gift of the bridegroom.

Both bride and bridegroom are well and favorably known in the city. The former, a member of the office staff of the Chevrolet Sales and Service, has also been a faithful member of All Saints' Church for many years, where she was baptized, confirmed, and married by the present rector, Rev. Mr. Paterson. The bridegroom is a popular member of the mechanical staff of The Examiner Printing Company.

NEWSPAPER LIFE TOLD TO Y.P.S.

Examiner Editor Seeks Co-operation of People to Make Community Newspaper.

"What is a newspaper?" was the subject of an address at a pleasant meeting of St. Paul's Young People's Society last night, when John R. Heron, of the Examiner staff, was the speaker. Plans were made for the conference to be held in St. Paul's Church next Tuesday, when young people from all of this Presbytery will be present. The sessions open at 2.30 in the afternoon, and there will be a banquet in the evening.

Defining a newspaper as a business venture, a public service, an interpreter of world events, a purveyor of news, a marketing medium, and a magic carpet that is ready to transport the reader to any part of the world where interesting things are happening, Mr. Heron declared the big purpose of The Examiner is to give community service. Examiner reporters are not key-hole peepers, but endeavour to carry out their business as gentlemen. For this season The Examiner must depend upon the goodwill of its readers to furnish news, and they must remember that if they like to read news about other people they should not be backward about giving news about themselves and their affairs. As a community newspaper, The Examiner is glad to receive accounts of meetings of Church organizations such as the Y. P. S., but the staff is not large enough to permit of covering every meeting. The speaker suggested that press secretaries might be appointed to write short accounts to be published in the newspaper on the day following these meetings, remarking that this would help create interest in the organizations as well as being an assistance to the newspaper.

History in the making is reported every day in the newspaper, Mr. Heron said, and this is of vital importance to everyone. "The assassination of an archduke in Bosnia, reported in a few lines in The Examiner of June 29, 1914, reached out across the seas into every home circle in Peterborough. Such fragments of the pictured history of the world may seem to the reader impermanent as the air, but if you take up old newspaper files and look at section after section of this tapestry of history, where its edges are torn and its tints mellowed, you will see one scene leading into another, as if by the hand of some designer the shuttles were guided to pattern, as happens with a loom.

Thus away back in 1870, a dispatch printed in The Examiner told of events that were building into the pattern of which that Sarajevo assassination was but another thread. The despatch read: "By special telegram this morning we learn that Paris has surrendered."

"Clicking over the wires comes the word of an attempt on Mussolini's life, of Queen Marie's junketings, of sailors trapped in a sunken submarine of new developments in the strange Malta naval case, things quaint and cataclysmic. Reporters come in from their beats with stories of city council scraps and merchants' kindly deeds; of births, marriages and deaths; of a creek in flood, or of a dog killed. Telephones ring to bring intelligence of social happenings. The piles of manuscript mount swiftly on the editor's desk, gathered by hundreds of press reporters throughout the world; by fifty Examiner correspondents; by Examiner staff reporters, and by stenographers at the telephones. Then the copy melts away into the machines, and from this welter of unrelated copy, seeming as if swept together by random gusts from every quarter of the globe, there emerges the finished newspaper. Tomorrow the newspaper will be what you make it, because it is made to please its readers."

IN MEMORIAM.

CURTIS. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who died on April 3, 1927:

Mourn not for him whom God hath blest
And taken to His eternal rest.
Free from all sorrow, grief and pain,
Our loss is his eternal gain.

Our lips cannot speak how we miss him,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say;
God only knows how we miss him
In a home that is lonesome to-day.
